Truman's Truth And Humility Eulogized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign statesmen, government dignitaries, family members and old friends heard Harry S. Truman eulogized today as a leader who wore the mantle of his countrymen's trust "with truth and bore his solitary power with humility."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew represented President Nixon at the memorial services for the former President in the towering gothic Washington Cathedral. Nixon and his wife flew to Independence, Mo., on Dec. 27, the day after Truman died, to pay their last respects.

Eighty-seven-year-old Bess Truman, frail and ailing, was unable to attend. The Trumans' only child, Margaret Daniel, and her husband, Clifton Daniel, Washington Bureau chief of the New York Times, represented the family.

Sitting with the Daniels and the Agnews in a front pew was Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, widow of Truman's successor in the White House.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his sister, Eunice Shriver, were on hand to represent the family of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Some 1,900 persons gathered in the Cathedral to hear the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the Cathedral, describe Truman as a man who was "ready" when the "mantle of destiny" was thrust upon him.

He said that Truman was "earthy, plain" and "there were no wrinkles in his honesty."

"When the time came, he stepped to the anvil, humble but not afraid, relying always in his independent way upon the goodness of the Lord, in whose hand is the hammer of our fate."

Interspersing his eulogy with prayers, Sayre, grandson of Woodrow Wilson, said: "Many of us remember still the dark days that Harry Truman faced —the loneliness of his responsibility and the generous impulse he ever brought to it."

Sayre also asked for prayers to "renew the strength of the people whom Mr. Truman served: giving them singleness of heart, and grace to lay aside the things that divide them; and the vision of peace and a fresh resolve to achieve it."

Also taking part in the service was the Rev. John E. Howell, pastor of the First Baptist Church which Truman attended during the years he was in the White House, and the Right Rev. William F. Creighton, Bishop of Washington.

Sayre described Truman in a prayer as "a fearless son of simple soil ... whom Providence had raised to be our leader in time of peril and of peace."

"He wore the mantle of our trust with truth; and bore his solitary power with humility..."

World leaders representing more than 35 foreign countries came to pay homage to Truman. Among the ranking guests was President Zalman Shazar of Israel, in gratitude for Truman's diplomatic recognition of the new state of Israel. Also on hand was South Korean Prime Minister Kim Chong Pil in tribute to Truman's decision to send troops to fight in the Korean War, under United Nations auspices.

Other foreign dignitaries were Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch; Philippines Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo; and Lord Chancellor Lord Hailsham of the United Kingdom.

LAST RESPECTS — Paying their final respects to former President Harry S. Truman at memorial services held this morning in the Washington Cathedral were (from left) Mamie Eisenhower, Clifton Daniel, son-in-law, Margaret Truman Daniel, daughter, Mrs. Judy Agnew and Vice President Spiro T. Plan For Heerdt Marsh Rejected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A controversial proposal to develop virtually all of the Heerdt Marsh in Corte Madera was rejected unanimously yesterday by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. (See another BCDC story, page 5.)

Attorneys for the development told the Independent-Journal they will challenge the commission's verdict in court on the ground that it deprived property rights.

It was the sixth time since 1966 that a development proposal for the marsh has failed to clear the commission.

The latest version by San Rafael developer Frank M. Burke for the first time failed to earmark any of the marsh for preservation. It also was the first time one of his proposals was opposed by the Corte Madera Town Council.

The commission's staff also opposed the project, saying it would "cause substantial harm to the bay." The commission's 18-0 vote against the project was expected since it never has approved an application opposed by a local government and since it virtually always follows staff recommendations.

Burke's $5.5 million proposal called for dredging 21.3 acres for a 335-berth marina and filling 47 acres for commercial recreation and marine industrial uses. "Smog and weather would be improved," he said, because he would increase the amount of open water. "We're trying to open it up for everybody's use, so it would not be restricted to just one type of person," he said of the marsh.

Burke previously told the commission that he and the owner of the marsh, William J. Heerdt, no longer could wait for proposed public purchase of the marsh.

One of their attorneys, Joseph L. Bortin of San Francisco, told the I-J that he "very probably" will take the legal challenge to federal court because "violating the right to property is a federal question."

The project drew unanimous condemnation from citizen-groups last month when the commission held its public hearing. No one testified for the project other than Burke.

In a separate but related action, the commission recommended state purchase of properties such as the Heerdt Marsh. Such "high-value marshlands" should get first priority in purchases under the Bagley Conservation Fund, the commission said.

The fund, created by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, provided $40 million last year for land acquisition and limited development of beaches, parks and wildlife areas.

U.S. Planes Pound Panhandle Area

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command announced today a near-record number of B52 bombers and jet fighters struck the southern Panhandle of North Vietnam while military spokesmen said government soldiers drove off Communist troops who had seized a hamlet near Saigon.

The intensified air strikes south of the 20th Parallel bombing boundary in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today included 116 fighter-bombers and 15 formations of B52s, the command said. The 15 B52 strikes, averaging three planes each, were one short of the record 16 flown against the Panhandle area last year although many more missions were flown during last month's heavy raids in the Hanoi-Haiphong area farther north.

Command spokesmen said the aerial campaign, now limited to the Panhandle area since Saturday on President Nixon's orders, was aimed at hindering Communist military traffic heading for South Vietnam.

U.S. Navy, Marine and Air Force jets concentrated mostly on bombing North Vietnamese supply trucks, an official communique indicated. The command said "numerous" vehicles were destroyed.

Ten miles north of the Panhandle's major port city of Vinh, 164 miles south of Hanoi, Navy jets bombarded a Communist truck park and pilots reported 15 trucks destroyed, a spokesman for the 7th Fleet said.

Even closer to the mined port at Vinh, pilots saw "numerous secondary explosions" when they dumped their bombs on the Duc Hau vehicle repair facility, officials said.

Command spokesmen said six of the 15 B52 raids were within six miles of the 20th Parallel, where they hit a "supply area, road and waterway complex" five miles east of Bai Thuong Airbase. Results of the raids were unknown.

Farther south, another nine B52 missions aimed at supply storage areas and a road network about 90 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams, spokesmen said.

The Saigon command said about 100 Communist troops walked into Phuoc Long 2 hamlet, 20 miles east of Saigon, at noon Thursday. Government soldiers drove them out and the Communists lost three men killed but just half a mile away, spokesmen said, heavy fighting left 12 South Vietnamese militiamen killed and 10 others wounded. There were no known Communist casualties.

Spokesmen reported 97 "enemy-initiated" attacks in South Vietnam between dawn Thursday and sunup today, well below the 116 reported Wednesday but still twice as many as the daily average during the past several weeks. The Saigon command said the stepped-up attacks marked "a high point of military activity," but refused to label it a new offensive.

Nixon Expresses No Optimism On New Round Of Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told congressional leaders today he is not optimistic about the new round of peace talks in Paris, but is going into them with some hope.

In Paris U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys today ignored the latest controversy between Hanoi and Saigon over Vietnam's future and held their fourth consecutive day of technical talks on provisions for a cease-fire.

U.S. peace delegation spokesman David Lambertson said the diplomatic experts were going about their task in a buinesslike way. "They are not reading protests and walking out," Lambertson said.

His statement was an apparent reference to two technical sessions last month in which the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese showed up just long enough to protest U.S. bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland — which has since been suspended — then stalked from the meetings. The Communists boycotted one such technical session altogether in retaliation for the aerial blitz.

Nixon did not mention the just-ended massive bombing of North Vietnam during the closed breakfast meeting at the White House, according to some of those present.

The meeting had been billed as a session on wage and price controls, but Nixon brought up the subject of Vietnam and the peace talks at the end of the meeting, and talked for more than 10 minutes. He then closed the meeting, and gave no chance for questions.

Sources at the meeting quoted Nixon as saying he was "not optimistic, but neither am I going to be pessimistic."

The President said the new talks were risky, but that there was a chance for success.

The President did not, however, go into any specific details of the peace talks, those present said.

Nixon also did not mention resolutions passed by Democrats in the House and the Senate calling for an end to the war or a cutoff of funds for war activities.

Those in the meeting said the emphasis was on cooperation between the White House and Congress. Nixon promised to hold more meetings with leadership from the House and Senate.

State Law May Halt Buying Of Open Space Land

New Regional Park District Faces A Setback From Property Tax Law

The newly-created Marin County Regional Park District, approved overwhelmingly by voters in November to purchase open space lands, may be blocked from raising so much as a penny by provisions of the state's new property tax limitation law.

SB 90, a controversial tax shift measure approved in the waning hour of 1972 Legislature, sets ceilings on property tax rates based on last year's level.

Sinc the park district is new and no tax rate has been set, the county may be forced to seek voter approval for a tax rate, according to County Administrator John F. Barrows. Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, disagreed with Barrows, however.

(Under a state bill authorizing the Marin park district, a maximum tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation is permitted. That bill was passed before SB 90, however.)

"At this writing," Barrows wrote to supervisors today, "It appears that SB 90 . . . prohibits the new regional park district from levying any property taxes until the voters specifically approve a maximum rate."

He said the county's legal staff "cannot find a legal basis for an alternative decision at this point."

Barrows added that a detailed legal opinion on the effects of SB 90 had been requested from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney but it remains unclear whether that opinion will be ready by Tuesday, when the board of supervisors discusses the new tax law.

Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, said if the matter is to go to voters again a decision must be reached by Jan. 26 in order to get it on an April ballot.

Such an election could be consolidated with school elections already slated for April, he said.

The need for a special election to set a tax rate was brushed aside as unnecessary by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Special legislation could be whipped through both houses and signed into law in only a few days if needed, he said.

First, however, a "very quick" attorney general's opinion will be sought to see if a loophole can be found for the Marin problem, Bagley said.

If no loophole can be found, then the problem will be taken care of either through a special bill or through an omnibus bill cleaning up a host of similar problems created throughout the state by SB 90, he said.

A spokesman for Bagley added that the problem will not be a crisis until the end of the fiscal year in June, when the new tax rate for the district will have to be set. "We'll get it cleared up one way or the other," he said.

The release of Barrows's letter to county supervisors came on orders from chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. after the county administrator, citing county "policy," attempted to withhold the information until after it had been placed in the supervisors' agenda package for Tuesday.

The state's open records act says, however, such documents are public and must be released.

Nation's Work Force Is Now Largest Ever

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment remained unchanged in December at a 28-month low of 5.2 per cent of the work force, the government said today, but the number of persons with jobs rose to an alltime high of 82.8 million.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said joblessness averaged 5.6 per cent in 1972, down from the 5.9 per cent rate in 1971 but still higher than the average rate of 4.9 per cent in 1970 and 3.5 per cent in 1969, President Nixon's first year in office.

After hovering at about 6 per cent for 19 consecutive months, the unemployment rate fell in June to 5.5 per cent and remained at that level for five months before falling in November to 5.2 per cent, the lowest since August of 1970. The administration failed to reach its original target of reducing unemployment to 4.5 per cent by the middle of 1972, but White House economists last month claimed that the 5.2 per cent rate fell within the administration's revised goal of lowering joblessness to "the neighborhood" of 5 per cent by the end of 1972.

The BLS said that although the reduction of unemployment was "modest," the number of persons with jobs continued to expand sharply in 1972. Employment rose by 2.3 million workers last year, far exceeding the increases of 490,000 in 1971 and 730,000 in 1970.

"The 1972 job pick-up represented the largest annual expansion in the post-World War II period," the BLS said, adding that the gains were most pronounced among workers aged 25 and over.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers said in a statement on the

Below-freezing temperatures were recorded again last night in many sections of Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, but the weatherman said tomorrow should be cloudy and slightly windy with highs in the 50s.

Tonight's lows will be in the 30s, he said.

Last night's low temperatures included 24 degrees in Novato and Woodacre and 26 degrees in Petaluma. Temperatures in Southern Marin ranged from 28 degrees in Mill Valley to 34 degrees in Sausalito.

Bright frost greeted early risers today, but by noon clouds covered the skies.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A Warm Winter

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Moscow region is having its warmest winter in 23 years and Western agricultural sources said it could spell more woe for some Soviet farmers still suffering from 1972's bad harvest.

The Tass news agency said yesterday the unusually warm weather was due to the unusual position of polar cyclones bunched close to Greenland.

"Although no substantial change in weather is expected in Moscow in the next five days, specialists think that winter is simply late and will still make up for lost time," Tass said.

New Soviet Jet

LONDON (UPI) — European military sources said today that the Soviet Union apparently has developed a new supersonic fighter plane, an improved version of its MIG21 and 23 fighters.

The new fighter, called the MIG25, reportedly has a longer range than the MIG21 or 23 and carries more powerful armament.

The sources said no precise details of the new fighter were known. Nor, they said, has it gone into full production yet.

The sources said official secrecy surrounds the project.

The MIG21 itself has been improved and its more modern versions were supplied to Egypt and other countries.

Diplomatic Talk

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.S. and East German officials met for the first time at any official level yesterday and a U.S. spokesman said they discussed the possibility of establishing diplomatic relations.

A U.S. spokesman said American officials are prepared to meet East German envoys to discuss establishing diplomatic relations, but they did not set a time for such talks.

The subject came up during a 45-minute meeting between Horst Grunert, the East German observer at the United Nations, and the outgoing U.S. ambassador, George Bush.

Another Death

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen shot and killed a Protestant militia officer early today, raising the toll in Northern Ireland violence to 680. Militant Protestants said they will take revenge unless authorities stop a wave of religious murders.

A British army spokesman said James Hood, 48, died instantly when assassins fired the shotgun at him at pointblank range when he opened the door of his home in Straidarran, 55 miles northwest of Belfast.

Unification Next?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic said Thursday unification of his nation with Northern Ireland was "inevitable" but that objective should be attained by peaceful methods.

Lynch, here to recommend Ireland as a desirable site for American industry, called the Irish Republican Army (IRA) an" enemy" of Ireland, because, he said, it opposes the republic's political and economic aims.

"This unification is not only right, we think it is inevitable, but we want to achieve this by peaceful means," he said.

Graham On Peace

DALLAS (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham says that while he hoped and prayed for an early end to the war in Vietnam, he never spoke his thoughts on the issue to a U.S. president and does not plan to do so.

Graham, in a statement written for the Dallas Morning News, said he had touched on the subject with former President John F. Kennedy and President Nixon.

Graham said he would not divulge any conversations he had had with the five presidents he was associated with. However, in a general way he said he has "attempted to avoid issues that are strictly political, but at the same time I have spoken and continue to speak on issues on which I feel a definite moral issue is involved."

Guilty Verdict

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Airman Cleveland Mallory, the second of 19 black sailors to be tried for rioting aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk, was found guilty yesterday of assault and rioting.

The verdict against the 21-year-old Pittsburgh sailor was returned without deliberation by Judge Bobby D. Bryant, presiding over the special court-martial.

Husband Of Actress Seeking Dissolution

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Glynis Johns was sued for divorce Thursday by her husband of eight years, writer Elliott Arnold.

Arnold's petition, filed in Superior Court, said the couple married Oct. 1, 1964 and separated in 1969. Arnold, 60, who lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., and Miss Johns, of London, each had three previous marriages.

MORE SNOW ON THE WAY

A large limb, broken by the weight of accumulated ice, partially blocked this street in Kansas City, Mo., following a storm which hit the Midwest Wednesday. Little relief was in sight for the battered area as a new storm was lumbering out of the Southwest today, headed for the midlands and carrying more snow and freezing drizzle.

Albert Pays Tribute To Hale Boggs

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert Thursday recalled former House Majority Leader Hale Boggs as a tireless worker who rose to influential positions in congressional leadership but always had compassion for the less fortunate.

Albert's eulogy for Boggs followed a ceremonial Mass of Resurrection for the missing Louisiana Democrat, who disappeared Oct. 16 on a flight from Anchorage to Juneau, Alaska.

Mrs. Richard Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former President Lyndon B. Johnson led the list of dignitaries at the memorial service in historic St. Louis Cathedral. Boggs' brother, the Rev. Robert L. Boggs, was a concelebrant of the mass.

"Drawing his strength from the daily trials and vigors of congressional life, he was a master strategist, a billiant debater and a great compromiser—in the best sense of that word," Albert said of Boggs.

"His gregarious nature, his charm and ready wit complemented his intelligence and persuasive use of power.

"Hale Boggs' compassionate spirit was deeply rooted in his desire to help people. He crusaded to upgrade the lives of the poor, the sick, the downtrodden and the elderly to insure equality for all Americans."

Boggs won re-election Nov. 7 but his seat was declared vacant by the House of Representatives. A special election will be called to choose his successor and there is widespread support for Lindy Boggs, the congressman's widow, to be a candidate.

$4.3 Million For Steam Car Experiment In State Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state has launched a $4.3 million project to produce two experimental steam cars in an attempt to find a way to reduce urban smog.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who proposed the project, unveiled specifics of the plan Thursday and said the cars will be built in about 18 months.

The Van Nuys Democrat also said the vehicles, which will be compacts capable of speeds up to 70 miles per hour, will operate with far less pollution than permitted under the strict 1975 federal emission standards.

The project was approved quietly by the Assembly Rules Committee at a Nov. 14 meeting which drew scant public attention. Contracts have been signed with Aerojet Liquid Rocket Co. of Sacramento and Steam Power Systems (SPS) of San Diego.

The state will shell out $3 million in taxpayers' money for the project. The appropriation will be tucked into the 1973 state budget under the Assembly's contingency fund. The remaining $1.3 million will be paid by individual manufacturers.

Jim Lane, director of the Assembly Office of Research, said Moretti avoided the usual legislative process for establishing the project because it would have been "much more arduous" than simply getting the Rules Committee approval.

Lane also said the Reagan administration "was not really very enthusiastic" about the steam car plan and that the governor might have vetoed it if proposed in a bill.

The project was an outgrowth of a recently completed $16 million steam bus program sponsored by the Assembly and financed by the federal government.

Three buses were built and tested with mixed results. They proved excellent in reducing pollution but poor on fuel consumption and reliability.

The steam cars will go from zero to 60 mph in 30 seconds, a much slower rate of acceleration than many internal combustion engines.

After they are built, the steam cars will be tested for three months by the state Air Resources Board, the California Highway Patrol and technical consultants to the Assembly.

"California enacted its first pollution control law nearly 25 nears ago and for the past decade we've led the nation in research and in imposing controls to clean up the air we breath," Moretti said in a news release detailing the project.

"But despite all the advances, the fact remains that during 1970 Los Angeles County did not meet state air quality standards on nearly two-thirds of the days," he said.

"Motor vehicles are the worst offenders and so one of the surest ways to halt this health hazard is to give vehicles a new source of propulsion," Moretti said. "That's what we intend to show possible and feasible through this steam car project."

Ten companies from across the nation bid for the project, including Lear Motors Co., of Reno, Nev. Lane said the Lear proposal "was not up to the standards of the others."

Big DMV Blaze Ruled Accidental

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Fire marshal Albert E. Hole has all but ruled out the possibility of arson in a fire that extensively damaged the headquarters of the state Department of Motor Vehicles, saying the blaze "probably was accidental in nature."

Hole's finding was contained in a preliminary report Thursday on his investigation of the Dec. 26 fire that destroyed the state national guard's headquarters on the fifth floor of the $10 million DMV building in Sacramento and caused extensive damage to the sixth floor.

Hole said evidence indicates "a very strong probability" that a battery charger serving 30 small, portable, two-way ratios caused the fire, which started in the guard's offices on the fifth floor.

He said investigation of the blaze should be completed within 10 days to two weeks.

Furniture and other combustibles such as maps and documents in the Military Department were responsible for the intensity of the fire and severity of the damage, Hole said.

He said "considerable damage" occurred to the DMV director's office on the sixth floor "as a result of penetration of the fire through the vacuum tube system of the building."

The six-story building was closed for one week after the fire but now the first three floors have been re-occupied. Temporary offices for displaced DMV and Military Department employes have been set up in other buildings.

A DMV spokesman said the fourth floor of the building should be re-opened by May 1. But because of major renovation work required on the fifth and sixth floors, he said, those floors won't be re-opened until April 1, 1974.

MARRIAGE GROWS IN POPULARITY

Marin County issued the largest number of marriage licenses last year, 1,516, representing nearly a 50 per cent increase over 1971, County Clerk George Gnoss said.

A total of 1,095 licenses were issued in 1971, Gnoss said.

The number of licenses issued has been increasing gradually over the years, but nothing reaching the increase last year, Gnoss said.

Air Freight No Longer Is Exotic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If a skunk isn't descented, it can't fly.

If your dog is the kind that bites, try a tranquilizer to calm him down before putting him on a plane.

It is okay to ship strawberries by the ton, and fresh flowers are always welcome.

Monkeys and snakes should be packaged with extreme care. A snake loose in the cargo compartment makes the pilot nervous, and monkeys can be very unsociable if they manage a mass escape.

And no matter how domesticated he is, a parrot cannot ride in a plane on his master's shoulder. He's got to stay in the cargo hold with the rest of the animals.

Such matters are routine in the air cargo business, a one-time stepchild of the airline industry that is coming into its own economically due mainly to the arrival of widebodied jetliners.

Since the Wright Brothers made their first flight, aviation enthusiasts have been touting the possibilities of air cargo. But for decades, the enthusiasm was not matched by profits.

Much of the public still thinks of air cargo as small or exotic items such as animals or radioactive isotopes. That no longer holds true.

Machinery — including automobiles — is now a major item of air freight. Wearing apparel is one of the most common items. Air freighters land and take off jammed with tools and hardware, fruits, drugs, computers, chemicals — even baked goods.

The U.S. airlines also move 4.5 million pieces of mail every day — which makes the U.S. Postal Service the airline industry's biggest single customer.

The Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade organization representing the mejor airlines, says the argument for air cargo is not based usually on money saved, but time saved by the shipper who then converts this into a profit.

In 1966, air cargo produced $681,572,000 in revenue for the scheduled airlines. By 1971, the total had jumped to $1,104,459,000, according to James F. McCarthy, a spokesman for the ATA.

Profits have varied. All-cargo jet freights turn a profit on international flights because of the length of the haul. On domestic flights jet freighters frequently operate at a loss. But the cargo moving in the underbelly of a jetliner crowded with passengers is profitable.

Experts are predicting that the wide-body jetliner, and the use of containerization innovations, will put profits on the rise.

"Each time an airline buys a widebodied jetliner it is like buying two-thirds of a new jet freighter," an airline cargo expert said. This official said the scheduled airlines already have taken delivery on 121 widebodied jetliners and have about 170 more on order. "The net effect will be a more than doubling of the scheduled cargo airlift capability," he said.

Letters Will Be Included

LONDON (UPI) — Winston S. Churchill wrote a letter "to be sent in the event of my death" to his wife while he served in the trenches during World War I.

"Do not grieve for me too much," the letter said. "I am a spirit confident of my rights. Death is only an incident and not the most important which happens to us in this state of being."

The letter is one of several to his wife, Lady Spencer Churchill, to be published in the third volume of the biography "Winston S. Churchill" by Martin Gilbert later this month.

The letters were written by Churchill while he commanded the 6th Royal Scots Fusiliers in France after being ousted from the admiralty because of the Gallipoli campaign.

Jobs Sought For Youths In Novato

The Youth Employment Service of the Marin Young Men's Christian Association is seeking part-time jobs in the Novato area for high school students.

With expansion of the service into the Novato area, about 70 students from San Marin, Novato and North Marin high schools have been listed as available for work according to John L. Wash, service director.

The program, which started in April 1971, also has nearly 400 students listed for jobs in the area from Marinwood to Sausalito and west to Woodacre, Wash said.

Along with seeking employers, the service is seeking freshmen and sophomores to sign up for work and volunteers to help carry out the program. Interested persons can notify Wash at the YMCA office, 241 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Planners Approve Beverage Permit

A conditional use permit to allow Frank Bisceglia to open a restaurant serving alcoholic beverages at 2009 Bridgeway in Sausalito has been approved by the city's planning commission.

The planners, at their Wednesday meeting, also granted a variance to Gretchen Merklein and Nancy W. Terk to convert the bottom story of a single-family home at 325 Pine Street to a bakery.

Grumman Gets New Navy Loan

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — The financially-strapped Grumman Aircraft Corp.—which had announced it would not fulfill one contract to provide the Navy with swing-wing F14 fighters — says it had accepted an $18 million short-term loan from the Navy.

Company spokesman, J.B. Kettaliata, said Grumman had accepted a total of five loans from the Navy since last September for completing contracts for the firm's entire range of Navy contracts.

The firm intends to honor contracts for 86 F14 planes to be delivered before 1974. But, the firm said it will not produce the additional 48 aircraft that were to be delivered after that date.

MARRIAGE GROWS IN POPULARITY

Marin County issued the largest number of marriage licenses last year, 1,516, representing nearly a 50 per cent increase over 1971, County Clerk George Gnoss said.

A total of 1,095 licenses were issued in 1971, Gnoss said.

The number of licenses issued has been increasing gradually over the years, but nothing reaching the increase last year, Gnoss said.

Air Freight No Longer Is Exotic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If a skunk isn't descented, it can't fly.

If your dog is the kind that bites, try a tranquilizer to calm him down before putting him on a plane.

It is okay to ship strawberries by the ton, and fresh flowers are always welcome.

Monkeys and snakes should be packaged with extreme care. A snake loose in the cargo compartment makes the pilot nervous, and monkeys can be very unsociable if they manage a mass escape.

And no matter how domesticated he is, a parrot cannot ride in a plane on his master's shoulder. He's got to stay in the cargo hold with the rest of the animals.

Such matters are routine in the air cargo business, a one-time stepchild of the airline industry that is coming into its own economically due mainly to the arrival of widebodied jetliners.

Since the Wright Brothers made their first flight, aviation enthusiasts have been touting the possibilities of air cargo. But for decades, the enthusiasm was not matched by profits.

Much of the public still thinks of air cargo as small or exotic items such as animals or radioactive isotopes. That no longer holds true.

Machinery — including automobiles — is now a major item of air freight. Wearing apparel is one of the most common items. Air freighters land and take off jammed with tools and hardware, fruits, drugs, computers, chemicals — even baked goods.

The U.S. airlines also move 4.5 million pieces of mail every day — which makes the U.S. Postal Service the airline industry's biggest single customer.

The Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade organization representing the mejor airlines, says the argument for air cargo is not based usually on money saved, but time saved by the shipper who then converts this into a profit.

In 1966, air cargo produced $681,572,000 in revenue for the scheduled airlines. By 1971, the total had jumped to $1,104,459,000, according to James F. McCarthy, a spokesman for the ATA.

Profits have varied. All-cargo jet freights turn a profit on international flights because of the length of the haul. On domestic flights jet freighters frequently operate at a loss. But the cargo moving in the underbelly of a jetliner crowded with passengers is profitable.

Experts are predicting that the wide-body jetliner, and the use of containerization innovations, will put profits on the rise.

"Each time an airline buys a widebodied jetliner it is like buying two-thirds of a new jet freighter," an airline cargo expert said. This official said the scheduled airlines already have taken delivery on 121 widebodied jetliners and have about 170 more on order. "The net effect will be a more than doubling of the scheduled cargo airlift capability," he said.

Letters Will Be Included

LONDON (UPI) — Winston S. Churchill wrote a letter "to be sent in the event of my death" to his wife while he served in the trenches during World War I.

"Do not grieve for me too much," the letter said. "I am a spirit confident of my rights. Death is only an incident and not the most important which happens to us in this state of being."

The letter is one of several to his wife, Lady Spencer Churchill, to be published in the third volume of the biography "Winston S. Churchill" by Martin Gilbert later this month.

The letters were written by Churchill while he commanded the 6th Royal Scots Fusiliers in France after being ousted from the admiralty because of the Gallipoli campaign.

Jobs Sought For Youths In Novato

The Youth Employment Service of the Marin Young Men's Christian Association is seeking part-time jobs in the Novato area for high school students.

With expansion of the service into the Novato area, about 70 students from San Marin, Novato and North Marin high schools have been listed as available for work according to John L. Wash, service director.

The program, which started in April 1971, also has nearly 400 students listed for jobs in the area from Marinwood to Sausalito and west to Woodacre, Wash said.

Along with seeking employers, the service is seeking freshmen and sophomores to sign up for work and volunteers to help carry out the program. Interested persons can notify Wash at the YMCA office, 241 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Planners Approve Beverage Permit

A conditional use permit to allow Frank Bisceglia to open a restaurant serving alcoholic beverages at 2009 Bridgeway in Sausalito has been approved by the city's planning commission.

The planners, at their Wednesday meeting, also granted a variance to Gretchen Merklein and Nancy W. Terk to convert the bottom story of a single-family home at 325 Pine Street to a bakery.

Grumman Gets New Navy Loan

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — The financially-strapped Grumman Aircraft Corp.—which had announced it would not fulfill one contract to provide the Navy with swing-wing F14 fighters — says it had accepted an $18 million short-term loan from the Navy.

Company spokesman, J.B. Kettaliata, said Grumman had accepted a total of five loans from the Navy since last September for completing contracts for the firm's entire range of Navy contracts.

The firm intends to honor contracts for 86 F14 planes to be delivered before 1974. But, the firm said it will not produce the additional 48 aircraft that were to be delivered after that date.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, Jan. 5, the fifth day of 1973 with 360 days to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Zebulon Pike, discoverer of Pike's Peak in Colorado, was born Jan. 5, 1779.

On this day in history:

In 1925, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming was sworn in as the first woman governor in U.S. history.

In 1964, Pope Paul VII and Greek orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras met in Jerusalem to discuss Christian unity.

In 1968, Antonin Novotny was ousted as chairman of the Czechoslovakian Communist party and replaced by Alexander Dubcek who subsequently was deposed for leading a reform movement against Moscow control.

In 1972, President Nixon ordered American development of a space shuttle.

A thought for the day: British author William Somerset Maugham said, "There are two good things in life, freedom of thought and freedom of action."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Variance Approved For Belvedere Home

The Belvedere City Council last night approved a variance and a conditional use permit to allow K. O. Collins to construct a two-story house at 260 Bayview Avenue.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the variance was necessary because the lot is substandard size. All new construction and extensive remodeling currently requires a use permit under the city's building moratorium, according to Cavalli.

New Cotati Mayor Is Geoffrey Dunham

Geoffrey Dunham was elected mayor of Cotati last night as Annette Lombardi officially tepped down.

Miss Lombardi announced earlier she would resign as mayor because the politics and socializing required by the job had interfered with her private life.

Dunham, 29, was elected mayor without comment and Herbert Winter, one of the older holdover councilmen, was named to replace Dunham as vice mayor. Miss Lombardi will retain her council seat.

Dunham, a graduate of College of Marin and Sonoma State College, was elected last April, along with Miss Lombardi and Stephen Laughlin, in the upset of three incumbents.

The council, meanwhile, voted after a closed session to dismiss Joseph Perry, who had been city public works superintendent and building inspector less than a year.

No reason for Perry's ouster was given and no replacement was named.

The Cotati City Council also:

MORATORIUM — Decided against calling a three-month building moratorium, but asked that a running account be given on sewer capacity.

ATTORNEY — Adopted a policy that any councilman can seek legal advice from the city attorney and ask him to prepare resolutions and ordinances. Winter and Councilman Frank P. Dolinsek dissented, saying the entire council should be consulted before documents are prepared.

VIETNAM — Took no action on the suggestion of two residents that the city contribute money toward rebuilding of North Vietnam.

PLANNERS — Reappointed Archie Stewart, Allan C. Stansbury and Sharalyn McClendon to two-year terms on the planning commission.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting on Jan. 18.

Area For Sewer Line Suggested

Two Tamalpais Valley organizations have asked that preservation of the marsh east of Shoreline Highway be a primary consideration in any route chosen for a proposed major sewage trunkline through Southern Marin.

At a joint meeting last night, the Tamalpais Improvement Club and the Tamalpais Task Force also recommended that construction of the pipeline be coordinated with undergrounding of utilities along the route and with development of bicycle paths and hiking trails.

The pipeline in question is part of a $28-million consolidated waste disposal system for southeast Marin being proposed by Improvement District A of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The two major trunkline paths now being considered by District A include one which follows the railroad bed in the marsh and another which follows Shoreline Highway between Tam Junction and Highway 101.

The two valley groups met last night with Steven Herrera, a biologist for the Sacramento firm of Jones and Stokes Associates which is preparing an environmental impact statement on the giant waste disposal project, and agreed to send a letter incorporating their views to the firm.

JOBS

latest employment report:

"We had expected a substantial reduction (in unemployment) during 1972 as the economy expanded and the administration forecast at the beginning of the year that the rate would fall to the neighborhood of 5 per cent by year-end. We believe that target has been reached. And we are confident that further progress will be achieved in 1973."

Stein also said the growth in employment during 1972 was "one of the best on record," and that "all indications point to continuing strong economic expansion in 1973 which will mean that we can expect employment to be substantially higher a year from today."

There were more than 4.5 million unemployed workers last month, which was 600,000 less than a year earlier.

The BLS said unemployment rates showed little or no change for most groups of workers in December, but most were down from the previous year.

However, the BLS said the unemployment rate for Negro workers remained close to the 10 per cent mark during all of 1972, virtually the same as in 1971, while the rate for white workers declined from 5.4 per cent in 1971 to an average of 5 per cent last year.

The unemployment rate for Vietnam War-era veterans, aged 20 to 29, for the first time dropped below the rate for the same age group of non-veterans in the work force. The 5.5 per cent jobless rate for these veterans in December —the first time in nearly three years it was below 6 per cent —was a full percentage point below the non-veteran rate of 6.5 per cent.

Background Of Jailed Man Eyed

A 28-year-old former Marin man, arrested on suspicion of auto theft, having an illegal club and drug paraphernalia, was being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail today while sheriff's investigators looked into more serious allegations.

Arrested yesterday at a gas station at the Lucas Valley interchange of Highway 101 was George Wallace Goss, who gave a Guerneville address when jailed at 1 p.m.

Sheriff's Lt. Guido Battaglia said the sheriff's office received a tip that the car he was driving was stolen and a check showed it was stolen Wednesday from the Russian River area.

Sheriff's investigators today were checking for ties between Goss and armed robberies in Butte County and Oregon in the past month, according to Battaglia.

In the Oregon case, an elderly couple was beaten with a club and robbed, he said. The lieutenant had no further details of the incidents, but said Goss and the car matched descriptions given by the victims.

Goss already is wanted in Portland on a $15,000 warrant charging him with fraudulent use of a credit card stolen in Santa Rosa.

Battaglia said records show Goss lived in San Rafael a year ago.

Man Arrested On Drug Charge

Dann Lester Sill, 20, of Klamath Falls, Ore., was arrested by Novato Police yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Officers said Sill, who had been hitchhiking, was arrested near 1425 Grant Avenue at 7:14 a.m. on an outstanding traffic warrant.

After he was taken to police headquarters, officers said they discovered a plastic bag of what appeared to be marijuana in the patrol car where Sill had been sitting.

Sill, booked at Marin County Jail, was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

North Marin Federation Elects Officers

Alfred A. Rivasplata, principal of Pacheco School, Novato, has been elected 1973 president of the North Marin Federation, an affiliation of homeowner and improvement associations.

Rivasplata, a past president of the Black point Improvement Club, is a charter member of the roup that activated the federation. He lives at 302 Olive Avenue.

Evelyn Johnson, former president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association, was elected vice president at the annual federation election Wednesday night. She served as treasurer in 1972.

Marlo Van Der Zweip was elected treasurer.

Officers will be installed at the federation's annual dinner-dance Jan. 27.

Disaster Course For Nurses

A course for registered nurses and nursing students on providing service in disasters will be offered free by the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Jan. 16 at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The course will cover Red Cross and government responsibilities in times of disaster, Red Cross disaster policies and disaster preparedness.

More information is available from the Red Cross office in San Rafael.

OBITUARIES

Edward D. Mahood Dies At 91

Edward Dell Mahood, one of Marin County's early residents, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness at the age of 91.

Born in Virginia City, Nev., he spent his childhood there shortly after the great Comstock silver discovery. He learned telegraph operation and moved to San Francisco to work for the Western Union.

Mahood came to Corte Madera in 1901 as a telegrapher for what later became the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He later became paymaster and station agent.

In his years in Corte Madera, he later became postmaster, telephone manager and town treasurer. His brother, Foster, established Mahood Brothers Grocers, running the store until they sold it 23 years ago.

Known to friends as "Dell," Mahood was interested in civic improvements for the infant town of Corte Madera, and was one of the promoters of the first sewer system in 1905.

Mahood reared his family in a home on Tamalpais Drive built by his father-in-law, James Stevens, in 1897. Stevens had been on the town's first council.

In recent years, Mahood had made his home with one of his sons, Edward James Mahood of San Anselmo.

He is survived by his two sons, Edward and Albert Dell Mahood of San Rafael; a daughter, Margaret Rempe of Novato; a brother, Robert Mahood of San Francisco; a sister, Anne Bernardasci of San Jose, and 10 grandchildren.

Today is Friday, Jan. 5, the fifth day of 1973 with 360 days to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Zebulon Pike, discoverer of Pike's Peak in Colorado, was born Jan. 5, 1779.

On this day in history:

In 1925, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming was sworn in as the first woman governor in U.S. history.

In 1964, Pope Paul VII and Greek orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras met in Jerusalem to discuss Christian unity.

In 1968, Antonin Novotny was ousted as chairman of the Czechoslovakian Communist party and replaced by Alexander Dubcek who subsequently was deposed for leading a reform movement against Moscow control.

In 1972, President Nixon ordered American development of a space shuttle.

A thought for the day: British author William Somerset Maugham said, "There are two good things in life, freedom of thought and freedom of action."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Variance Approved For Belvedere Home

The Belvedere City Council last night approved a variance and a conditional use permit to allow K. O. Collins to construct a two-story house at 260 Bayview Avenue.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the variance was necessary because the lot is substandard size. All new construction and extensive remodeling currently requires a use permit under the city's building moratorium, according to Cavalli.

New Cotati Mayor Is Geoffrey Dunham

Geoffrey Dunham was elected mayor of Cotati last night as Annette Lombardi officially tepped down.

Miss Lombardi announced earlier she would resign as mayor because the politics and socializing required by the job had interfered with her private life.

Dunham, 29, was elected mayor without comment and Herbert Winter, one of the older holdover councilmen, was named to replace Dunham as vice mayor. Miss Lombardi will retain her council seat.

Dunham, a graduate of College of Marin and Sonoma State College, was elected last April, along with Miss Lombardi and Stephen Laughlin, in the upset of three incumbents.

The council, meanwhile, voted after a closed session to dismiss Joseph Perry, who had been city public works superintendent and building inspector less than a year.

No reason for Perry's ouster was given and no replacement was named.

The Cotati City Council also:

MORATORIUM — Decided against calling a three-month building moratorium, but asked that a running account be given on sewer capacity.

ATTORNEY — Adopted a policy that any councilman can seek legal advice from the city attorney and ask him to prepare resolutions and ordinances. Winter and Councilman Frank P. Dolinsek dissented, saying the entire council should be consulted before documents are prepared.

VIETNAM — Took no action on the suggestion of two residents that the city contribute money toward rebuilding of North Vietnam.

PLANNERS — Reappointed Archie Stewart, Allan C. Stansbury and Sharalyn McClendon to two-year terms on the planning commission.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting on Jan. 18.

Area For Sewer Line Suggested

Two Tamalpais Valley organizations have asked that preservation of the marsh east of Shoreline Highway be a primary consideration in any route chosen for a proposed major sewage trunkline through Southern Marin.

At a joint meeting last night, the Tamalpais Improvement Club and the Tamalpais Task Force also recommended that construction of the pipeline be coordinated with undergrounding of utilities along the route and with development of bicycle paths and hiking trails.

The pipeline in question is part of a $28-million consolidated waste disposal system for southeast Marin being proposed by Improvement District A of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The two major trunkline paths now being considered by District A include one which follows the railroad bed in the marsh and another which follows Shoreline Highway between Tam Junction and Highway 101.

The two valley groups met last night with Steven Herrera, a biologist for the Sacramento firm of Jones and Stokes Associates which is preparing an environmental impact statement on the giant waste disposal project, and agreed to send a letter incorporating their views to the firm.

JOBS

latest employment report:

"We had expected a substantial reduction (in unemployment) during 1972 as the economy expanded and the administration forecast at the beginning of the year that the rate would fall to the neighborhood of 5 per cent by year-end. We believe that target has been reached. And we are confident that further progress will be achieved in 1973."

Stein also said the growth in employment during 1972 was "one of the best on record," and that "all indications point to continuing strong economic expansion in 1973 which will mean that we can expect employment to be substantially higher a year from today."

There were more than 4.5 million unemployed workers last month, which was 600,000 less than a year earlier.

The BLS said unemployment rates showed little or no change for most groups of workers in December, but most were down from the previous year.

However, the BLS said the unemployment rate for Negro workers remained close to the 10 per cent mark during all of 1972, virtually the same as in 1971, while the rate for white workers declined from 5.4 per cent in 1971 to an average of 5 per cent last year.

The unemployment rate for Vietnam War-era veterans, aged 20 to 29, for the first time dropped below the rate for the same age group of non-veterans in the work force. The 5.5 per cent jobless rate for these veterans in December —the first time in nearly three years it was below 6 per cent —was a full percentage point below the non-veteran rate of 6.5 per cent.

North Marin Federation Elects Officers

Alfred A. Rivasplata, principal of Pacheco School, Novato, has been elected 1973 president of the North Marin Federation, an affiliation of homeowner and improvement associations.

Rivasplata, a past president of the Black point Improvement Club, is a charter member of the roup that activated the federation. He lives at 302 Olive Avenue.

Evelyn Johnson, former president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association, was elected vice president at the annual federation election Wednesday night. She served as treasurer in 1972.

Marlo Van Der Zweip was elected treasurer.

Officers will be installed at the federation's annual dinner-dance Jan. 27.

Background Of Jailed Man Eyed

A 28-year-old former Marin man, arrested on suspicion of auto theft, having an illegal club and drug paraphernalia, was being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail today while sheriff's investigators looked into more serious allegations.

Arrested yesterday at a gas station at the Lucas Valley interchange of Highway 101 was George Wallace Goss, who gave a Guerneville address when jailed at 1 p.m.

Sheriff's Lt. Guido Battaglia said the sheriff's office received a tip that the car he was driving was stolen and a check showed it was stolen Wednesday from the Russian River area.

Sheriff's investigators today were checking for ties between Goss and armed robberies in Butte County and Oregon in the past month, according to Battaglia.

In the Oregon case, an elderly couple was beaten with a club and robbed, he said. The lieutenant had no further details of the incidents, but said Goss and the car matched descriptions given by the victims.

Goss already is wanted in Portland on a $15,000 warrant charging him with fraudulent use of a credit card stolen in Santa Rosa.

Battaglia said records show Goss lived in San Rafael a year ago.

Man Arrested On Drug Charge

Dann Lester Sill, 20, of Klamath Falls, Ore., was arrested by Novato Police yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Officers said Sill, who had been hitchhiking, was arrested near 1425 Grant Avenue at 7:14 a.m. on an outstanding traffic warrant.

After he was taken to police headquarters, officers said they discovered a plastic bag of what appeared to be marijuana in the patrol car where Sill had been sitting.

Sill, booked at Marin County Jail, was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Disaster Course For Nurses

A course for registered nurses and nursing students on providing service in disasters will be offered free by the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Jan. 16 at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The course will cover Red Cross and government responsibilities in times of disaster, Red Cross disaster policies and disaster preparedness.

More information is available from the Red Cross office in San Rafael.

OBITUARIES

Edward D. Mahood Dies At 91

Edward Dell Mahood, one of Marin County's early residents, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness at the age of 91.

Born in Virginia City, Nev., he spent his childhood there shortly after the great Comstock silver discovery. He learned telegraph operation and moved to San Francisco to work for the Western Union.

Mahood came to Corte Madera in 1901 as a telegrapher for what later became the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He later became paymaster and station agent.

In his years in Corte Madera, he later became postmaster, telephone manager and town treasurer. His brother, Foster, established Mahood Brothers Grocers, running the store until they sold it 23 years ago.

Known to friends as "Dell," Mahood was interested in civic improvements for the infant town of Corte Madera, and was one of the promoters of the first sewer system in 1905.

Mahood reared his family in a home on Tamalpais Drive built by his father-in-law, James Stevens, in 1897. Stevens had been on the town's first council.

In recent years, Mahood had made his home with one of his sons, Edward James Mahood of San Anselmo.

He is survived by his two sons, Edward and Albert Dell Mahood of San Rafael; a daughter, Margaret Rempe of Novato; a brother, Robert Mahood of San Francisco; a sister, Anne Bernardasci of San Jose, and 10 grandchildren.

He was a member of the Mira Monte Lodge, Woodmen of the World.

Mass of the Resurrection will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

HELP FOR NICARAGUANS

Al J. Herdman, assistant manager of the Casa Marin furniture store in San Rafael, is overwhelmed by a pile of clothing and other goods dropped off at the Second Street store since last Friday by concerned citizens in behalf of Nicaraguan quake victims. Store manager Milton Schwartz had placed a sign outside the establishment, calling for donations. The items were to be trucked to the Nicaraguan consulate in San Francisco today.

Decomposed Body Is Found Off Ft. Baker

The badly decomposed body of an unidentified man was found yesterday floating in San Francisco Bay off Yellow Bluff at Fort Baker.

The man, who had been in the water between three and four weeks, was discovered by two hikers, George Peck of Tiburon and John Venes of Sausalito.

The men tied the body to a rock, then notified the Marin County Coroner's office. But by the time coroner's officials arrived at the scene the tide had risen, making it impossible to reach the corpse from land.

The Coast Guard was called in to retrieve the body. It was taken to Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley, where an autopsy is planned.

The dead man is described as between 6 and 6 feet, 2 inches tall, 170 to 180 pounds. When found, he was wearing brown dungarees and brown shoes.

The United States uses 534 pounds of paper per capita each year.

Special Development Plans Eyed For Bay

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Long-stalled plans to improve the nautical mess around Richardson Bay got a boost yesterday from the new chairman of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

The complex pattern of private ownerships of tidelands around the shallow bay has frustrated commission efforts for years to coordinate plans for the area. The usual result has been to stymie developers' plans to upgrade the area, as well as to develop it.

The answer to the problem, said chairman William D. Evers, will be for the commission and local jurisdictions to draw "special area plans" for such problem areas. He also cited the need for one on the San Francisco waterfront.

The detailed plans will require more staff, Evers cautioned, but "will give more predictability to developers so they will know where they stand and where we stand." The special plans are necessary "if we are to fulfill our satutory mandate," he told the commission.

The 45-year-old San Francisco attorney, asking the commission's pardon for mixing metaphors, said the special area plans would "break some of the logjams by untying some of the gordian knots."

Evers was appointed this week to replace Melvin B. Lane, who resigned and was appointed to the new coastal commission.

Lane led a parade of six other departing veterans leaving the commission with a total of 39 years of service. The 27-member commission was formed in 1965.

Others leaving the commission for various reasons were Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, Melville Owen of Kentfield, Santa Clara County Supervisor Victor Calvo, San Francisco Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn, F. J. Horting, executive officer of the State Lands Commission, and Alameda County Supervisor Emanuel P. Razeto.

Topless Poster Ban Is Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police Thursday received the ammunition to shoot down the nude posters outside North Beach topless-bottomless clubs.

Superior Court Judge Ira Brown Jr. refused to issue an injunction against a city police code section banning such posters.

"If an arrest is made under the challenged ordinance, there will be ample opportunity to raise the constitutional issues in the criminal proceedings," Brown said.

The ordinance bans photos or signs showing nude bodies at places of entertainment.

The nightclubs had sought the injunction on grounds the ordinance violated constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech.

Flu Season Spurs Talk Of Viruses

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are there brand-new kinds of kooky viruses running around laying people low?

Many people could well think so, from getting ailments and miseries they never had before. Like a virus that likes to play around just in your chest. Or one specializing in intestinal agonies, or mostly making muscles hurt, or seeing what degree of headache it can produce. And, of course, there's the super all-body influenza virus. Are they new?

Some are or may be, in the sense of being new strains or "cousins" of already known kinds of viruses. Thus the London flue virus is a new strain related to the Hong Kong flu virus. The new strain was first isolated in England in January 1972, hence the name London.

But there's some debate among experts whether an entirely new virus has or will come along that our ancestors had never experienced somewhere along the line.

If a truly new virus did appear, it could escape notice for a long time if it caused only very mild illness. There could be little inclination to run tests to get the identification or license number of a virus involved in very brief hit-run attacks.

A truly new virus might very well kill thousands of people, perhaps millions, because humans had no immunity to it. The situation is analogous to primitive peoples being decimated by viruses, like smallpox, introduced by visitors or hunters who did have immunity.

But there's no question the virus-cold and flu season is here. Flu may have influenced the outcome of last Sunday's pro football championship games by having hit and weakened some players.

The new London flu is one concern. It's an A-type of influenza like Hong Kong flu, which was blamed for killing 27,900 Americans in 1968-69 and making hundreds of thousands memorably sick.

It cannot yet be predicted how widespread London flu will be this year, says a spokesman for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga. Possibly, he adds, a major part of the population already has some immunity from prior flu viruses. The currently available flu vaccine should offer some protection against the new strain, he thinks.

The flu virus presents many mysteries, including puzzlement over exactly how new strains appear. When a very different one comes along, previous vaccines usually don't work against it.

Some new Chinese-American cooperation is exploring some of the problems. Dr. Robert Webster of St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., visited China last fall, and returned with samples of virus that caused flu outbreaks in 1957 and 1971. He now is growing those viruses in his laboratory.

There are two theories as to how a new strain or mutant appears, Webster explains. One is that it is simply a change in an existing form of the virus. The other is that it results from a recombination or genetic interchange between a human type of virus and one that affects animals or birds.

A new strain can be lethal. A worldwide flu epidemic in 1918 is estimated to have killed some 21 million people, including 500,000 Americans. Asian flu in 1957 was wicked and deadly. So was Hong Kong flu some 10 years later.

Both the Asian and Hong Kong strains are known to have originated in China, Webster said in an interview. But neither was entirely new; each had been around in the world before, he adds.

Understanding how the new strains originate might increase the chances of preparing vaccines, in advance, for defense when a deadly new strain did appear. The viruses he obtained from China will be useful in this study, Webster said. He gave Chinese scientists serums that make it possible to type or identify strains of flu virus more accurately than with older methods.

Fire Protection Survey In Works For San Rafael

San Rafael is currently undergoing its first full-scale fire protection survey by outside insurance consultants since 1948, the city's fire commission learned Tuesday night.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said that the Insurance Service Office, a San Francisco firm, is studying all aspects of the city's fire protection service.

Marcucci hopes the study will lead to lower fire insurance ratings.

"We're now at a four rating and are hoping for a three," Marcucci said, adding that "the lower the rating is, the better it is" on a ten-point scale. The rating is reflected in fire insurance payments.

The fire probe will take about three weeks, with the firm issuing a report in about six months, Marcucci said.

The commission next meets at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6.

Xerox Is Sued On Tree Offer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A class action suit was filed in Superior Court Wednesday seeking $1 million damages from the Xerox Corp. for its alleged failure to deliver about 100,000 orange trees to customers.

The suit, filed by the law firm of Gill and Baldwin, said a sales promotion brochure was sent out by Xerox last fall offering a free orange tree for ordering a carton of Xerox chemicals worth about $58. The suit said the firm delivered the products but not the trees.

Two Connected To Knife Robbery

I-J Special Report

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Two of four men arrested here yesterday after a grocery store holdup are believed by authorities to be the man and "woman" who took a car at knifepoint from a Santa Rosa man Wednesday night in Marin.

They are also believed to be the persons who yesterday invaded Napa State Hospital and freed a convicted murderer.

The pair, Daniel Taylor, 32, and Sandy Wilson, 24, were stopped by police along with the Napa escapee, John Burnside, 27, and a fourth man, Kenneth Nilson, 18.

Officers said they were in a new orange Super Beetle Volkswagen, taken from Dan Austin, 24-year-old car salesman, by two hitchhikers who also robbed him at knifepoint near Sausalito.

The complicated story apparently started Wednesday night when Austin left his job at a San Francisco Volkswagen agency, where he had just been named salesman of the month. He was driving a shiny new 1973 demonstrator, which he had just purchased. The auto still bore dealer plates.

Driving home in cheerful spirits, Austin paused at Van Ness Avenue and California Street, and picked up a man and a blonde that appeared to be a female. They said they were bound for San Rafael, and Austin offered to drop them off on his way to Santa Rosa.

On the other side of the Golden Gate Bridge, however, the "woman," who police believe was actually transvestite Wilson, grabbed Austin by the neck and pulled a knife.

The pair ordered him onto the Rodeo Avenue offramp, took about $15 from his wallet and left him by the side of the road. Austin finally flagged down help, who drove him to Marin City, where he told sheriff's deputies his story.

About an hour and a half later, at 10:30 p.m., a woman technician at Napa State Hospital was accosted in a parking lot by two men bearing knives, one of them dressed in a miniskirt and pantyhose.

The technician was forced by the pair to unlock a security ward, where Burnside, convicted of murder in San Francisco in 1969, was waiting with a packed bag.

While gawking patients looked on, the pair locked the technician and four ward attendants in a room after taking their money and valuables.

The final act occurred yesterday when a Carson City grocery clerk was robbed of $40, then called police and described the bandits' car. The four were arrested in the orange Volkswagen a few blocks from the grocery.

Police did not know 18-year-old Wilson's connection with the trio.

The four were held in Nevada in lieu of $25,000 bail, and Napa authorities also planned to press charges against Wilson and Taylor, a former patient at Napa State.

Hospital Board Picks Officers

Dr. Frederick A. Groverman has been reelected president of the Petaluma Hospital District board at a reorganizational meeting during which two reelected incumbents and a newcomer were sworn in.

Taking a seat on the board for the first time was Brand T. Johnson, elected along with Dr. Hamza I. Munib and Dr. Francis M. Crinella in the November election.

Dr. Munib was named vice president of the board and Dr. Crinella secretary. E. William Schneider was named treasurer.

Cluster Plan Approved In Tiburon

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night approved a request to permit cluster housing on 19 acres on Paradise Drive between Trestle Glen Boulevard and Paradise Cay.

Richard G. Arjo, director of community development, said the commission agreed to rezone the land from single-family to a single-family cluster designation.

David Matthews, who plans to build 19 single-family homes on the site, had asked for the change in order to permit more open space in the development.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

HILARITA — Set a special meeting to consider final plans for the Hilarita housing project for 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall. Preliminary plans for the development were approved by the planners and city council about a year ago, but the new plans will include some revisions, Arjo said.

SIGNS — Approved and recommended to the city council changes in the city's sign code which would limit the number of freestanding signs on a piece of property to one and also would make provisions for signs for second floor businesses and business with two frontages.

BOARDS — Agreed to expand the city's boards of design review and adjustment from three to five members and allow persons other than members of the planning commission to serve on both panels. The suggestion will be forwarded to the city council.

PLAN — Referred to the city's subdivision committee a plan by Marco Radomile to build eight clustered single-family homes on property on Roundhill Road. Arjo said the commission indicated it would like to see more of the heavily wooded area preserved than shown in the subdivision map.

Redwood City's Workers Strike

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Non-uniformed city employes went on strike in a labor contract dispute Thursday but essential services have not been effected.

Policemen and firemen are not involved in the walkout called by the AFL-CIO Service Employes International Union to back demands for $64-a-month pay increases, better health and dental plans and the use of outside arbitration for employe grievances.

James Smith, assistant city manager, said that 123 persons under the union's jurisdiction failed to show up for work but added that some of those might have been sick.

Sign Barring Bused Students Triggers Civil Rights Probe

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Each morning before school opens a bus filled with students unloads in front of Dwight Bullock's grocery.

The children trample his clerks "into the dirt" in search of snacks, Bullock claimed, and on occasion merchandise has been stolen and his clerks have been cursed.

So Bullock has erected a sign which says: "No bused Children between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m." He said the sign will stay up until he is ordered to take it down.

The only students bused in the white neighborhood where Bullock's store is located are black, brought to the neighborhood schools from black communities in the city's desegregation plan.

James Mitchell, an Oklahoma Human Rights Commission spokesman, said the sign is "blatantly racial" since it applies only to black children.

Mitchell said he stopped at the store when told about the sign, bought something and asked a female clerk, "How do you tell that they're bused?"

"By their skin," he quoted the clerk as saying.

"Those were her exact words," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said he got into a problem with the clerk who accused him of "smarting off" and "hassling her." He said she asked him to leave "because he was creating a disturbance."

Mitchell said he had identified himself as a member of the Human Rights Commission and informed the clerk that the sign in the window was "a violation of state and federal law." He said he found out all he needed to know at the store and left.

Bullock said the busloads of children "will walk over you and grind you in the dirt. This is one way to fight back. You have to or they'll run over you."

He said school officials, police, school transportation officials and Board of Education President Foster Estes plead they cannot help.

"It's out of our hands,' they tell you," Bullock said. "One morning they called back and blamed it on a new driver and said it wouldn't happen again. Well, another bus load pulled up the next morning.

"I called police about it and told them they'd better do something, and strapped on y .38 (caliber pistol) and went down there. Apparently they (the students) got the word because they didn't come back."

Study Slated On Teaching Techniques

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, launched a study last night that could bring drastic changes in teaching techniques on the primary level.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan told the board that individual study groups involving parents, community, teachers and professional staff would be formed at each school.

"The study could bring drastic changes in procedures in teaching the primary grades, kindergarten through third grade," Magowan said. He said the study was geared toward total revamping of the primary system.

Magowan said general class techniques will be challenged and study given to implementing total individualized instruction.

Magowan said individual recommendations from schools will be submitted in February for a joint meeting to be held sometime in March to formulate a district master plan on the teaching system. The plan must be approved by the state before funding can be assured.

"This is a new and exciting look at the possibilities of changes in the instructional system," Magowan said.

In other business, the board, after a closed session, agreed to release Phyllis Newman from her contract as a second-grade teacher at Bernard Eldredge School. Magowan said Mrs. Newman does outside counseling work and has had less time to prepare for her teaching duties.

Fire Protection Survey In Works For San Rafael

San Rafael is currently undergoing its first full-scale fire protection survey by outside insurance consultants since 1948, the city's fire commission learned Tuesday night.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said that the Insurance Service Office, a San Francisco firm, is studying all aspects of the city's fire protection service.

Marcucci hopes the study will lead to lower fire insurance ratings.

"We're now at a four rating and are hoping for a three," Marcucci said, adding that "the lower the rating is, the better it is" on a ten-point scale. The rating is reflected in fire insurance payments.

The fire probe will take about three weeks, with the firm issuing a report in about six months, Marcucci said.

The commission next meets at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6.

Xerox Is Sued On Tree Offer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A class action suit was filed in Superior Court Wednesday seeking $1 million damages from the Xerox Corp. for its alleged failure to deliver about 100,000 orange trees to customers.

The suit, filed by the law firm of Gill and Baldwin, said a sales promotion brochure was sent out by Xerox last fall offering a free orange tree for ordering a carton of Xerox chemicals worth about $58. The suit said the firm delivered the products but not the trees.

Two Connected To Knife Robbery

I-J Special Report

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Two of four men arrested here yesterday after a grocery store holdup are believed by authorities to be the man and "woman" who took a car at knifepoint from a Santa Rosa man Wednesday night in Marin.

They are also believed to be the persons who yesterday invaded Napa State Hospital and freed a convicted murderer.

The pair, Daniel Taylor, 32, and Sandy Wilson, 24, were stopped by police along with the Napa escapee, John Burnside, 27, and a fourth man, Kenneth Nilson, 18.

Officers said they were in a new orange Super Beetle Volkswagen, taken from Dan Austin, 24-year-old car salesman, by two hitchhikers who also robbed him at knifepoint near Sausalito.

The complicated story apparently started Wednesday night when Austin left his job at a San Francisco Volkswagen agency, where he had just been named salesman of the month. He was driving a shiny new 1973 demonstrator, which he had just purchased. The auto still bore dealer plates.

Driving home in cheerful spirits, Austin paused at Van Ness Avenue and California Street, and picked up a man and a blonde that appeared to be a female. They said they were bound for San Rafael, and Austin offered to drop them off on his way to Santa Rosa.

On the other side of the Golden Gate Bridge, however, the "woman," who police believe was actually transvestite Wilson, grabbed Austin by the neck and pulled a knife.

The pair ordered him onto the Rodeo Avenue offramp, took about $15 from his wallet and left him by the side of the road. Austin finally flagged down help, who drove him to Marin City, where he told sheriff's deputies his story.

About an hour and a half later, at 10:30 p.m., a woman technician at Napa State Hospital was accosted in a parking lot by two men bearing knives, one of them dressed in a miniskirt and pantyhose.

The technician was forced by the pair to unlock a security ward, where Burnside, convicted of murder in San Francisco in 1969, was waiting with a packed bag.

While gawking patients looked on, the pair locked the technician and four ward attendants in a room after taking their money and valuables.

The final act occurred yesterday when a Carson City grocery clerk was robbed of $40, then called police and described the bandits' car. The four were arrested in the orange Volkswagen a few blocks from the grocery.

Police did not know 18-year-old Wilson's connection with the trio.

The four were held in Nevada in lieu of $25,000 bail, and Napa authorities also planned to press charges against Wilson and Taylor, a former patient at Napa State.

Hospital Board Picks Officers

Dr. Frederick A. Groverman has been reelected president of the Petaluma Hospital District board at a reorganizational meeting during which two reelected incumbents and a newcomer were sworn in.

Taking a seat on the board for the first time was Brand T. Johnson, elected along with Dr. Hamza I. Munib and Dr. Francis M. Crinella in the November election.

Dr. Munib was named vice president of the board and Dr. Crinella secretary. E. William Schneider was named treasurer.

Cluster Plan Approved In Tiburon

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night approved a request to permit cluster housing on 19 acres on Paradise Drive between Trestle Glen Boulevard and Paradise Cay.

Richard G. Arjo, director of community development, said the commission agreed to rezone the land from single-family to a single-family cluster designation.

David Matthews, who plans to build 19 single-family homes on the site, had asked for the change in order to permit more open space in the development.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

HILARITA — Set a special meeting to consider final plans for the Hilarita housing project for 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall. Preliminary plans for the development were approved by the planners and city council about a year ago, but the new plans will include some revisions, Arjo said.

SIGNS — Approved and recommended to the city council changes in the city's sign code which would limit the number of freestanding signs on a piece of property to one and also would make provisions for signs for second floor businesses and business with two frontages.

BOARDS — Agreed to expand the city's boards of design review and adjustment from three to five members and allow persons other than members of the planning commission to serve on both panels. The suggestion will be forwarded to the city council.

PLAN — Referred to the city's subdivision committee a plan by Marco Radomile to build eight clustered single-family homes on property on Roundhill Road. Arjo said the commission indicated it would like to see more of the heavily wooded area preserved than shown in the subdivision map.

Sign Barring Bused Students Triggers Civil Rights Probe

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Each morning before school opens a bus filled with students unloads in front of Dwight Bullock's grocery.

The children trample his clerks "into the dirt" in search of snacks, Bullock claimed, and on occasion merchandise has been stolen and his clerks have been cursed.

So Bullock has erected a sign which says: "No bused Children between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m." He said the sign will stay up until he is ordered to take it down.

The only students bused in the white neighborhood where Bullock's store is located are black, brought to the neighborhood schools from black communities in the city's desegregation plan.

James Mitchell, an Oklahoma Human Rights Commission spokesman, said the sign is "blatantly racial" since it applies only to black children.

Mitchell said he stopped at the store when told about the sign, bought something and asked a female clerk, "How do you tell that they're bused?"

"By their skin," he quoted the clerk as saying.

"Those were her exact words," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said he got into a problem with the clerk who accused him of "smarting off" and "hassling her." He said she asked him to leave "because he was creating a disturbance."

Mitchell said he had identified himself as a member of the Human Rights Commission and informed the clerk that the sign in the window was "a violation of state and federal law." He said he found out all he needed to know at the store and left.

Bullock said the busloads of children "will walk over you and grind you in the dirt. This is one way to fight back. You have to or they'll run over you."

He said school officials, police, school transportation officials and Board of Education President Foster Estes plead they cannot help.

"It's out of our hands,' they tell you," Bullock said. "One morning they called back and blamed it on a new driver and said it wouldn't happen again. Well, another bus load pulled up the next morning.

"I called police about it and told them they'd better do something, and strapped on y .38 (caliber pistol) and went down there. Apparently they (the students) got the word because they didn't come back."

Redwood City's Workers Strike

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Non-uniformed city employes went on strike in a labor contract dispute Thursday but essential services have not been effected.

Policemen and firemen are not involved in the walkout called by the AFL-CIO Service Employes International Union to back demands for $64-a-month pay increases, better health and dental plans and the use of outside arbitration for employe grievances.

James Smith, assistant city manager, said that 123 persons under the union's jurisdiction failed to show up for work but added that some of those might have been sick.

Study Slated On Teaching Techniques

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, launched a study last night that could bring drastic changes in teaching techniques on the primary level.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan told the board that individual study groups involving parents, community, teachers and professional staff would be formed at each school.

"The study could bring drastic changes in procedures in teaching the primary grades, kindergarten through third grade," Magowan said. He said the study was geared toward total revamping of the primary system.

Magowan said general class techniques will be challenged and study given to implementing total individualized instruction.

Magowan said individual recommendations from schools will be submitted in February for a joint meeting to be held sometime in March to formulate a district master plan on the teaching system. The plan must be approved by the state before funding can be assured.

"This is a new and exciting look at the possibilities of changes in the instructional system," Magowan said.

In other business, the board, after a closed session, agreed to release Phyllis Newman from her contract as a second-grade teacher at Bernard Eldredge School. Magowan said Mrs. Newman does outside counseling work and has had less time to prepare for her teaching duties.

EXPLOSION KILLS GIRL

Fire hoses lay idle after firemen fled the scene in Harrod, Ohio, yesterday when flames gushed out of derailed cars, filled with pentane, on the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, threatening to explode tanks of anhydrous ammonia at chemical plant in background. Metal from the exploding cars was blamed for the death of 15-year-old Betty Sherard, who was standing with her father in front of their home three blocks away. Her father suffered a fractured leg and was listed in fair condition at a Harrod hospital.

Bail Reduction Won By Robbery Suspects

Three women and one man, charged with the holdup at the Co-op market in Corte Madera, pleaded innocent yesterday and won reduction of their bail in hearings before Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Stephanie Kline, 26, of San Francisco; John Turner, 27, of Marin City and Berkeley; Claudia Grayson, 20, of Oakland, and Candice Yockey, 26, of Berkeley, will stand trial Feb. 13 on the robbery indictment returned Wednesday by the Marin County Grand Jury.

All four originally were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

Judge Gardiner agreed with defense attorneys that the bail was higher than normal in robbery cases. He reduced bail to $20,000 for Mrs. Kline and Miss Grayson and to $30,000 for Turner and Miss Yockey after a lengthy hearing.

Defense attorneys later said they did not know if the four families and friends could raise even the lowered amounts of bail.

Lansky Contempt Trial Delayed

MIAMI (UPI) — U. S. District Judge James Lawrence King has delayed the contempt of court trial set for next Monday for reputed gangland figure Myer Lansky because of Lansky's health.

King said, however, he would try to bring Lansky to trail within two weeks.

Lansky has been charged with failing to respond to a subpoena issued here by a federal grand jury investigating organized crime in 1971.

Christmas Sharing Program Review Set

Novato Human Needs Center directors will review the Christmas sharing program, which brought food to more than 100 families, at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Casa Nova, senior citizen housing, at 35 Carmel Drive, Novato.

Chairman Robert Stockwell said the session is open to the public and directors. Ideas for the center's operation also will be discussed.

Doctor Disputes Coffee Theory Of Heart Attacks

LONDON (UPI) — A doctor suggested today that milk might have been partly responsible for the finding by a research group that heavy coffee drinkers appeared to be more susceptible to heart attacks.

The Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program said recently that there were significantly more people drinking five or more cups of coffee a day among the heart patients it studied.

In this week's medical journal Lancet, Dr. Jeffrey Segall wrote:

"I find that some patients who develop ischemic heart disease admit to an unusually high daily milk intake and I think that the latter may prove to be a more important dietary factor than a particular beverage or the amount of sucrose consumed."

Time Plus A Tongue-Lashing

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — A veteran policeman convicted of burglarizing stores was sentenced to six years in prison and given a tongue-lashing Thursday.

"That badge you wore is a badge of honor and you insulted it," Supreme Court Justice George Beisheim Jr., told former patrolman David A. Birdsall, 45.

Birdsall was convicted last month on three counts of second degree burglary for thefts from stores. He was the first to be sentenced of 16 Newburgh policemen accused of wrong doing in the city.

Three Will Face Trial On Narcotics Charges

Three of five men arrested last July in a Forest Knolls drug raid have been bound over to Marin Superior Court after a prelminary hearing in which Municipal Judge David R. Baty dismissed charges against the other two.

Jesse Arthur Stefas, 26, of no known address, and Dennis Arthur Hecht, 27, of Forest Knolls, were held to answer Jan. 15, on charges of cultivating and possessing marijuana, and Robert Bertram Taylor, 24, of no known address, was bound over on charges of cultivating marijuana and possessing it for sale.

Baty dismissed charges against Greg Dennis Collin, 26, of Corte Madera, and Keith Durwood Perry, 27, of Fairfax, arrested after they allegedly delivered cocaine to Berkeley narcotics agents who arranged a purchase at the Forest Knolls home.

Baty ruled that a search that allegedly uncovered cocaine in their auto was illegal and there was no admissible evidence to hold the two, according to Katherine Mitchell, deputy district attorney.

Break Eyed For Credit Card Users

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under present law, when a person buys something with a credit card he must pay the credit card company for it regardless of any complaints he has with what he bought or with the store that sold it to him.

But under a new Federal Trade Commission (FTC) rule that could become effective later this year the buyer might not have to pay anyone until his complaints are satisfied.

The FTC proposal, unveiled Thursday, would prevent the credit card companies—such as Master Charge and Bankamericard-from making buyers sign away their rights to satisfaction as a requirement for obtaining the credit card. The FTC said most credit card operations, except for oil companies, now require such waivers from the people who use their cards.

"They're being used in the purchase of everything from fountain pens to automobiles," said William Dixon of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, referring to credit cards. But, he added, a buyer often has no recourse when he winds up with a bill in one hand and a faulty product in the other.

The credit card buyer protection idea represents an expansion of a sweeping consumer proposal on which the FGC has been working for two years. The basic proposal would make any third party involved in a credit transaction—such as a bank or loan company to which a buyer's loan has been turned over—just as responsible for the consumer's satisfaction as the original seller was.

Thus, when a customer signs a note borrowing money to buy something he would be given a written notice advising him that even if his note is sold to someone else he still has the right to refuse payment, to sue for payments already paid, and to tell his story in court if sued for non-payment if the product is defective.

"It places the responsibility for the actions of the seller on the financer, rather than the consumer, who (the financer) is much better able to handle himself in these cases," Dixon said.

The FTC invited public comment on its proposal and said hearings would be held in March. It could become effective later this year if the FTC finally adopts it.

Jury Tampering Appeal Rejected

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jimmy Hoffa's fifth attempt to have his jury tampering sentence set aside was rejected Wednesday by the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 decision.

The former Teamsters Union boss, who was convicted March 4, 1964, at Chattanooga, Tenn., served four years in prison before he was paroled in 1971.

Hoffa's latest appeal charged the judge who heard the case, U.S. District Judge Frank W. Wilson, was prejudiced against him, and that one government witness, Edward Partin, should not have been allowed to testify.

Rowboater Picked Up By Coast Guard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Coast Guard today picked up from the Pacific Ocean a man who left here Oct. 8 in an attempt to row a 22-foot dory to Hawaii.

Both Patrick Queenel, 23, of Duvall, Wash., and his boat were reported in good shape when they were taken aboard the Cutter Wachusett 1,080 miles southwest of San Francisco.

BUY NOW FOR USE WHEN TIME IS UP

WHITEFISH, Mont. (UPI) — Rockey Mountain Casket Co. is trying to do something about the high cost of dying.

The Whitefish firm announced that it is now producing old fashioned pine boxes for $125 apiece — and suggests purchase in advance.

"The casket can be used as a wine rack or a linen closet until the buyer's time has come," said a company spokesman.

Four Left Dead In Shooting Spree; The Motive Is Unknown

WESTMINSTER, Calif. (UPI) — Authorities said a man clad in a bullet-proof vest shot two persons to death at a shopping center Thursday, then fled to his home where he opened fire on three sheriff's deputies with a submachine gun at point blank range, killing two of them.

The suspect, Carl Eckstrom, 23, was critically wounded by a shotgun blast fired by an Orange County deputy who was standing in front of the house as a backup man.

Sheriff's officials said the chain of shootings began shortly after noon in the parking lot of Los Cerritos Shopping Center in southeastern Los Angeles County when a man opened fire on two sisters.

Rosemary Vasquez, 20, Bell Gardens, was shot twice in the abdomen and later died at a hospital. Her sister, Cecilia Vasquez, 17, was shot three times and was reported in critical condition.

Michael Jeffries, 27, Downey, rushed to their aid was shot twice in the back. He died at a hospital.

Witnesses told deputies they saw the suspect jump into his car and drive away, but not before the license number was taken and given to authorities.

The two deputies, Carl E. Wilson, 40 and Don W. Schneider, 40, both working for Los Angeles County, tracked the suspect to his house in Midway City, an unincorporated area near this Orange County community seven miles from Cerritos.

Authorities said Wilson and Schneider arrived at the house and the suspect flung open the door and fired point blank at them with a .45-caliber submachine gun. Orange County deputy Andrew Romero, who accompanied as backup, returned fire with a shotgun with two blasts hitting Eckstrom in the back.

Eckstrom was taken to Orange County Medical Center in critiel condition.

No motive was established for the slayings.

A Truman Stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A memorial postage stamp honoring former President Harry S. Truman will be issued May 8, the 89th anniversary of Truman's birth. Postmaster General E. T. Klassen said Thursday the stamp probably will be sold first in Independence, Mo., Truman's hometown.

Development Nod For Petaluma Land

The Petaluma Planning Commission has rezoned a parcel at East Washington Street and Ely Boulevard to planned unit development and set 9.5 units per acre as the maximum density of a development planned on the 18.5-acre site.

Commissioners also said the Sunco Development Corp.'s Sun Terrace Park development, for which 149 units have been allotted this year, will have no substantial impact on the environment, city planning staff reported yesterday.

The action, taken at the commission's Wednesday meeting, must now be reviewed by the city council.

The corporation had proposed that 200 units eventually be constructed on the site, and that density be set at 11.4 units per acre, planning staff said.

Planning Commission chairman Lester Popp opposed setting a density of 9.5-units-per-acre, but gave no explanation for his opposition, staff said.

One resident in the audience opposed the project as proposed, saying it should include a playground for intermediate youngsters. The proposal now includes a tiny tots playground.

Though the site actually stretches over 26 acres, only 18.5 are deemed buildable due to the nearby airport, according to the planning department.

The Petaluma Planning Commission Also:

IMPACT — Declared trivial the environmental impact of a proposal by Architecture Inc. for a 92-unit apartment complex at 150 Magnolia Avenue.

BOULEVARD BOWL — Declared trivial the environmental impact of a proposal by Boulevard Bowl to expand a bowling alley and add shops and offices at 1100 Petaluma Boulevard. Also approved was a variance request reducing the maximum requirement of 226 parking spaces to 221 spaces in connection with the expansion.

MOTEL — Approved site design for a 62-unit motel proposed off Highway 101 north of Sonoma Joe's.

THE WINERY — Put over to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 consideration of a rezoning request by Walter Kiekhefer in connection with a proposed shopping complex called "The Winery" at Washington Street and Lakeville Highway.

ANNEXATION — Put over to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 consideration of a prezoning request for the Casa Grande Annexation I, a parcel bounded by Ely and Casa Grande roads, South McDowell Boulevard and the northern city limits.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16.

Apartment Plan Is Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's Planning Commission refused a developer permission Thursday to construct a 23-story luxury apartment building atop Nob Hill.

Resident of the Comstock Apartments near the site complained the structure would block their views and further crowd the hill.

Developer Marshall Cornblum can now turn to the Board of Permit Appeals.

Three Novato Projects Win Design Awards

The Novato Plan Review Committee has selected three projects and two signs as winners of outstanding design awards for 1972.

The names of the winners were kept secret, but senior planner Gary L. Holloway said they would be announced Jan. 16 in advance of the city birthday party Jan. 20. The awards will be presented at that time.

Nine projects were nominated in cluster single-family, multiple-family, public, commercial and administrative-professional categories.

The committee made its selections Wednesday night, when it also elected Frank Salvisberg as chairman and Donald A. Greenhalgh as vice chairman.

EXPLOSION KILLS GIRL

Fire hoses lay idle after firemen fled the scene in Harrod, Ohio, yesterday when flames gushed out of derailed cars, filled with pentane, on the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, threatening to explode tanks of anhydrous ammonia at chemical plant in background. Metal from the exploding cars was blamed for the death of 15-year-old Betty Sherard, who was standing with her father in front of their home three blocks away. Her father suffered a fractured leg and was listed in fair condition at a Harrod hospital.

Bail Reduction Won By Robbery Suspects

Three women and one man, charged with the holdup at the Co-op market in Corte Madera, pleaded innocent yesterday and won reduction of their bail in hearings before Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Stephanie Kline, 26, of San Francisco; John Turner, 27, of Marin City and Berkeley; Claudia Grayson, 20, of Oakland, and Candice Yockey, 26, of Berkeley, will stand trial Feb. 13 on the robbery indictment returned Wednesday by the Marin County Grand Jury.

All four originally were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

Judge Gardiner agreed with defense attorneys that the bail was higher than normal in robbery cases. He reduced bail to $20,000 for Mrs. Kline and Miss Grayson and to $30,000 for Turner and Miss Yockey after a lengthy hearing.

Defense attorneys later said they did not know if the four families and friends could raise even the lowered amounts of bail.

Lansky Contempt Trial Delayed

MIAMI (UPI) — U. S. District Judge James Lawrence King has delayed the contempt of court trial set for next Monday for reputed gangland figure Myer Lansky because of Lansky's health.

King said, however, he would try to bring Lansky to trail within two weeks.

Lansky has been charged with failing to respond to a subpoena issued here by a federal grand jury investigating organized crime in 1971.

Christmas Sharing Program Review Set

Novato Human Needs Center directors will review the Christmas sharing program, which brought food to more than 100 families, at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Casa Nova, senior citizen housing, at 35 Carmel Drive, Novato.

Chairman Robert Stockwell said the session is open to the public and directors. Ideas for the center's operation also will be discussed.

Doctor Disputes Coffee Theory Of Heart Attacks

LONDON (UPI) — A doctor suggested today that milk might have been partly responsible for the finding by a research group that heavy coffee drinkers appeared to be more susceptible to heart attacks.

The Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program said recently that there were significantly more people drinking five or more cups of coffee a day among the heart patients it studied.

In this week's medical journal Lancet, Dr. Jeffrey Segall wrote:

"I find that some patients who develop ischemic heart disease admit to an unusually high daily milk intake and I think that the latter may prove to be a more important dietary factor than a particular beverage or the amount of sucrose consumed."

Time Plus A Tongue-Lashing

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — A veteran policeman convicted of burglarizing stores was sentenced to six years in prison and given a tongue-lashing Thursday.

"That badge you wore is a badge of honor and you insulted it," Supreme Court Justice George Beisheim Jr., told former patrolman David A. Birdsall, 45.

Birdsall was convicted last month on three counts of second degree burglary for thefts from stores. He was the first to be sentenced of 16 Newburgh policemen accused of wrong doing in the city.

Three Will Face Trial On Narcotics Charges

Three of five men arrested last July in a Forest Knolls drug raid have been bound over to Marin Superior Court after a prelminary hearing in which Municipal Judge David R. Baty dismissed charges against the other two.

Jesse Arthur Stefas, 26, of no known address, and Dennis Arthur Hecht, 27, of Forest Knolls, were held to answer Jan. 15, on charges of cultivating and possessing marijuana, and Robert Bertram Taylor, 24, of no known address, was bound over on charges of cultivating marijuana and possessing it for sale.

Baty dismissed charges against Greg Dennis Collin, 26, of Corte Madera, and Keith Durwood Perry, 27, of Fairfax, arrested after they allegedly delivered cocaine to Berkeley narcotics agents who arranged a purchase at the Forest Knolls home.

Baty ruled that a search that allegedly uncovered cocaine in their auto was illegal and there was no admissible evidence to hold the two, according to Katherine Mitchell, deputy district attorney.

Break Eyed For Credit Card Users

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under present law, when a person buys something with a credit card he must pay the credit card company for it regardless of any complaints he has with what he bought or with the store that sold it to him.

But under a new Federal Trade Commission (FTC) rule that could become effective later this year the buyer might not have to pay anyone until his complaints are satisfied.

The FTC proposal, unveiled Thursday, would prevent the credit card companies—such as Master Charge and Bankamericard-from making buyers sign away their rights to satisfaction as a requirement for obtaining the credit card. The FTC said most credit card operations, except for oil companies, now require such waivers from the people who use their cards.

"They're being used in the purchase of everything from fountain pens to automobiles," said William Dixon of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, referring to credit cards. But, he added, a buyer often has no recourse when he winds up with a bill in one hand and a faulty product in the other.

The credit card buyer protection idea represents an expansion of a sweeping consumer proposal on which the FGC has been working for two years. The basic proposal would make any third party involved in a credit transaction—such as a bank or loan company to which a buyer's loan has been turned over—just as responsible for the consumer's satisfaction as the original seller was.

Thus, when a customer signs a note borrowing money to buy something he would be given a written notice advising him that even if his note is sold to someone else he still has the right to refuse payment, to sue for payments already paid, and to tell his story in court if sued for non-payment if the product is defective.

"It places the responsibility for the actions of the seller on the financer, rather than the consumer, who (the financer) is much better able to handle himself in these cases," Dixon said.

The FTC invited public comment on its proposal and said hearings would be held in March. It could become effective later this year if the FTC finally adopts it.

Jury Tampering Appeal Rejected

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jimmy Hoffa's fifth attempt to have his jury tampering sentence set aside was rejected Wednesday by the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 decision.

The former Teamsters Union boss, who was convicted March 4, 1964, at Chattanooga, Tenn., served four years in prison before he was paroled in 1971.

Hoffa's latest appeal charged the judge who heard the case, U.S. District Judge Frank W. Wilson, was prejudiced against him, and that one government witness, Edward Partin, should not have been allowed to testify.

Rowboater Picked Up By Coast Guard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Coast Guard today picked up from the Pacific Ocean a man who left here Oct. 8 in an attempt to row a 22-foot dory to Hawaii.

Both Patrick Queenel, 23, of Duvall, Wash., and his boat were reported in good shape when they were taken aboard the Cutter Wachusett 1,080 miles southwest of San Francisco.

BUY NOW FOR USE WHEN TIME IS UP

WHITEFISH, Mont. (UPI) — Rockey Mountain Casket Co. is trying to do something about the high cost of dying.

The Whitefish firm announced that it is now producing old fashioned pine boxes for $125 apiece — and suggests purchase in advance.

"The casket can be used as a wine rack or a linen closet until the buyer's time has come," said a company spokesman.

Development Nod For Petaluma Land

The Petaluma Planning Commission has rezoned a parcel at East Washington Street and Ely Boulevard to planned unit development and set 9.5 units per acre as the maximum density of a development planned on the 18.5-acre site.

Commissioners also said the Sunco Development Corp.'s Sun Terrace Park development, for which 149 units have been allotted this year, will have no substantial impact on the environment, city planning staff reported yesterday.

The action, taken at the commission's Wednesday meeting, must now be reviewed by the city council.

The corporation had proposed that 200 units eventually be constructed on the site, and that density be set at 11.4 units per acre, planning staff said.

Planning Commission chairman Lester Popp opposed setting a density of 9.5-units-per-acre, but gave no explanation for his opposition, staff said.

One resident in the audience opposed the project as proposed, saying it should include a playground for intermediate youngsters. The proposal now includes a tiny tots playground.

Though the site actually stretches over 26 acres, only 18.5 are deemed buildable due to the nearby airport, according to the planning department.

The Petaluma Planning Commission Also:

IMPACT — Declared trivial the environmental impact of a proposal by Architecture Inc. for a 92-unit apartment complex at 150 Magnolia Avenue.

BOULEVARD BOWL — Declared trivial the environmental impact of a proposal by Boulevard Bowl to expand a bowling alley and add shops and offices at 1100 Petaluma Boulevard. Also approved was a variance request reducing the maximum requirement of 226 parking spaces to 221 spaces in connection with the expansion.

MOTEL — Approved site design for a 62-unit motel proposed off Highway 101 north of Sonoma Joe's.

THE WINERY — Put over to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 consideration of a rezoning request by Walter Kiekhefer in connection with a proposed shopping complex called "The Winery" at Washington Street and Lakeville Highway.

ANNEXATION — Put over to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 consideration of a prezoning request for the Casa Grande Annexation I, a parcel bounded by Ely and Casa Grande roads, South McDowell Boulevard and the northern city limits.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16.

Three Novato Projects Win Design Awards

The Novato Plan Review Committee has selected three projects and two signs as winners of outstanding design awards for 1972.

The names of the winners were kept secret, but senior planner Gary L. Holloway said they would be announced Jan. 16 in advance of the city birthday party Jan. 20. The awards will be presented at that time.

Nine projects were nominated in cluster single-family, multiple-family, public, commercial and administrative-professional categories.

The committee made its selections Wednesday night, when it also elected Frank Salvisberg as chairman and Donald A. Greenhalgh as vice chairman.

Apartment Plan Is Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's Planning Commission refused a developer permission Thursday to construct a 23-story luxury apartment building atop Nob Hill.

Resident of the Comstock Apartments near the site complained the structure would block their views and further crowd the hill.

Developer Marshall Cornblum can now turn to the Board of Permit Appeals.

Four Left Dead In Shooting Spree; The Motive Is Unknown

WESTMINSTER, Calif. (UPI) — Authorities said a man clad in a bullet-proof vest shot two persons to death at a shopping center Thursday, then fled to his home where he opened fire on three sheriff's deputies with a submachine gun at point blank range, killing two of them.

The suspect, Carl Eckstrom, 23, was critically wounded by a shotgun blast fired by an Orange County deputy who was standing in front of the house as a backup man.

Sheriff's officials said the chain of shootings began shortly after noon in the parking lot of Los Cerritos Shopping Center in southeastern Los Angeles County when a man opened fire on two sisters.

Rosemary Vasquez, 20, Bell Gardens, was shot twice in the abdomen and later died at a hospital. Her sister, Cecilia Vasquez, 17, was shot three times and was reported in critical condition.

Michael Jeffries, 27, Downey, rushed to their aid was shot twice in the back. He died at a hospital.

Witnesses told deputies they saw the suspect jump into his car and drive away, but not before the license number was taken and given to authorities.

The two deputies, Carl E. Wilson, 40 and Don W. Schneider, 40, both working for Los Angeles County, tracked the suspect to his house in Midway City, an unincorporated area near this Orange County community seven miles from Cerritos.

Authorities said Wilson and Schneider arrived at the house and the suspect flung open the door and fired point blank at them with a .45-caliber submachine gun. Orange County deputy Andrew Romero, who accompanied as backup, returned fire with a shotgun with two blasts hitting Eckstrom in the back.

Eckstrom was taken to Orange County Medical Center in critiel condition.

No motive was established for the slayings.

A Truman Stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A memorial postage stamp honoring former President Harry S. Truman will be issued May 8, the 89th anniversary of Truman's birth. Postmaster General E. T. Klassen said Thursday the stamp probably will be sold first in Independence, Mo., Truman's hometown.

13 YEARS A TEACHER

Former Nun Finds A New Career In Commercial Art

By PAT BALMES

Pat Sullivan, who was a teaching nun for 13 years, left the convent to become a commercial artist on her own time schedule.

The soft-spoken San Rafael woman said her decision was not a personality change but more a philosophical change. She had been dissatisfied with the educational situation and sympathized with bored students at the Los Angeles high school where she taught.

"It's becoming accepted in our society to change profession or life style. Most people do it to get away from an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule," said the 31-year-old artist who ow does commercial art on her own schedule.

IN THE EYES of the church it's permissible to leave a religious community. You do have to get permission from Rome; you do not just say, "Sister, I'm leaving," said Miss Sullivan.

So the individual will not make a rash judgment, the church requires sufficient time to make a well thought out decision. Miss Sullivan took a leave of absence two years ago to think over hers, she said.

"It speaks well of the religious community that I have been able to come to this decision. Nuns are individuals who exercise their own free wills, not people who just act like robots," she said.

Wearing fashionable sportswear while we talked at her apartment, Miss Sullivan spoke with reserve about her convent days and smoked.

"I feel that I gave 13 years of service and received much; so it was equally beneficial. I am still a good Christian woman with no argument with the church. It's a shame that people with antipathy have become the spokesmen for the convent," she said.

THE STRICTNESS of convent life did not cause her to leave. Nuns were respected as individuals. Vatican Council II changes were "very fine." Habits were modernized and finally any clothes were permitted, said the former nun who keeps in touch with convent friends.

"My life was full, I loved teaching. All the time I was doing it it was fine until one year September came and it was time to go back to the classroom and I said, No."

Dissatisfied with her own education, Miss Sullivan was sympathetic when some students expressed their dissatisfaction. She wanted to make changes in their education.

"The students knew they were unhappy, but they did not know why," their teacher related. "All children do not profit from a structured classroom. Some seem to be saying, 'Until I am aware that I want to know that, I am not going to learn it'," she said.

Compulsory education is not necessarily for everybody. She wished bored children could study something they were interested in, perhaps go to trade schools, work in a real plant and earn money, she said.

"WE DO NOT have jobs for everybody, so we keep bored children in school longer," said the teacher whose students could not find work over Christmas holidays.

"Education is just not going to stay as it is today," she predicted.

When the nun's ideas for change were rejected by the high school principal she faced the fact that she was in an educational system that she could not control, she said.

"I realized that if I could not be content with the situation at the high school I really did not belong in religious life. The way I was now thinking was no longer in complete agreement with what was being done. I did not want to teach any more," she said.

Other religious teachers at the high school made similar decisions at the same time. Most of them remained in the community at other jobs.

"The work of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet is teaching and nursing; I could not be a boarder. If they found something for me, I would not have been serving the community in the way in which I originally said I would," she said.

When Miss Sullivan decided to join the convent to become a teacher she was 18 and just graduated from Star of the Sea High School in San Francisco where Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet teach.

"I wanted to live my life in a religious community. It appealed to me," she said.

AS A NUN she attended Mount Saint Mary's College in Los Angeles with the regular students and earned her elementary and teaching credentials. She did graduate work in art at University of California at Los Angeles and California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland.

Then she taught elementary school for seven years and high school art, English and religion for the next three years.

She taught religion only one period a day, but believes that her presence on campus gave a Christian message.

"I was not doing it for a salary," she said.

"I do want to continue to be of service to people and not receive remuneration," said Miss Sullivan who volunteers at Marin Suicide Prevention Center one day a week to receive calls from Marin people who are depressed or in crisis.

Miss Sullivan now lives with her mother, Mrs. Virginia Sullivan, who was principal of an elementary school in San Francisco until her recent retirement. Mrs. Sullivan had prepared to open a Montessori preschool but is enjoying retirement too much, said her daughter.

Twice a week Miss Sullivan teaches little children, whom she finds refreshing, at the San Rafael Montessori school. Since she now teaches only part-time, she has more time to devote to art.

The artist finds it exciting to be called for jobs and go out and do them, she said.

DURING HER convent years she had done an educational packet for Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Corporation and received a film grant for an animated teaching film.

In her new career in commercial art she wants to do a variety of art styles and not be categorized for one type of work.

"Somebody might be afraid to ask me to do another style or think that it might look like my last work, but I would find a medium that best suited their needs," she said, surprised that requests for her work have moved nicely.

Drawing in her studio-bedroom, she has produced a telecartridge (a three-minute film for video cassettes), a design for a shoe manufacturer's advertisements and architectural drawings for a greenhouse in one of Jack Kramer's garden books.

Miss Sullivan exercises her flair for interior decoration each month by changing the felt wall decorations at a San Rafael health foods store.

Currently she is researching and producing many drawings of flowers, trees and shrubs for another garden book by Jack Kramer. It has taken longer to find photographs of out-of-season plants than to do the drawings, the artist said. She is eager for more free lance work.

The former nun said two things she would especially like to do are illustrate a children's book and design a United States commemorative stamp.

A TEACHING nun for 13 years, Pat Sullivan left the convent to change her profession. The 31-year-old San Rafael woman now does varied commercial art jobs on her own schedule. To continue to be of service to others, Miss Sullivan volunteers at Marin Suicide Prevention Center.

ON THE AGENDA

Junior League, ACT To Sponsor 'Doll's House" Lecture On Monday

Junior League of San Francisco and the American Conservatory Theater are presenting a free, public preview of the new English version of the Henrik Ibsen play, "A Doll's House." The program will be held Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the Geary Theater in San Francisco.

Ibsen's play, considered controversial when it was first produced in 1879, is a pioneer plea for women's rights. Speakers will be Allen Fletcher, director and translator of the play, and Marsha Mason, who will play the leading role of Nora, a character who shocked 19th Century Western World concepts by rebelling against her husband.

MRS. EDGAR Garland will present the program at the meeting of the antique appreciation section of the Novato Newcomers Club at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the lecture room of the Novato Library.

Mrs. Garland will give a demonstration on gold leafing to restore antiques.

A POST-HOLIDAY tea for the members of the Petaluma Woman's Club will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Ed Hennessy, singer and television performer, will present the program, "Singing America." Tea chairman is Mrs. Sam Smoot.

XI KAPPA PSI chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority members will hostess a preferential tea for three new pledges from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Bill Bayles in Novato.

Mrs. Joe Resor, president, will conduct the pledge ritual for Mmes. Sam Wein, Nathan Noah and Bruce Kates. A member who recently transferred to the chapter, Mrs. Augusto Aguilera, of Puerto Rico, will also be given the ritual of welcome.

A SPAGHETTI dinner for single persons and their children is being sponsored by the singles group, UNISIG (Marin Fellowship of Unitarians Singles Group) tonight at 7 p.m. at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael.

Singing and dancing will follow dinner.

Today's Clothes Buyer Is A Sharp Customer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's clothes buyer is alert, aware, alive and aggressive.

"She's looking for her dollar's worth, her fashion's worth, for things that will fit her way of life in this age of speedy transportation," says Vincent MonteSano, president of the New York Couture Business Council and former clothing manufacturer.

"She's not taken in by flimflam. She's looking for straight talk about price, fabric and the rest."

Monte Sano's description of the modern customer came during an interview as the council began its series of spring fashion shows for visiting reporters.

The council spokesman said dress production alone in 1972 stood at 296 million units. He said the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) estimates production in '73 at about the same volume.

Prices are expected to change little except as new contracts are negotiated with the various unions.

One thing, however, keeps pulling at the seams; the gain in imports, from three million units 10 years ago to 30 million today.

THESE WERE among fashion changes Monte-Sano foresaw:

—Adjustment to the eyes so that we expect the unexpected.

"I could go to a cocktail party dessed as Dracula or Superman and nobody would blink," he said. "Five years ago something like that, and I would have been sent to the booby hatch."

—Continued technological advances in fabrics and their qualities, such as the now accepted permanent press, antistatics, knits that go right into the washing machine.

—Climate control meaning no more season for clothes.

—No more "uniforms" for events (say cocktail dress for cocktail party) but complete freedom of choice.

—Fashion t swing faster because we live in an age of speed. More fads will be produced, some to stay, some to be discarded.

—Women and young girls shopping in boys' departments because of style and price. "My 25 year old daughter shops the boys' department," said MonteSano. "In shops around college campuses the girls are as numerous as the boys in the boys' shops. The boys' sweaters are sturdier, baggier, and more preferred."

—Revivals? "Nuts to that," he said. "We're going ahead, not back."

Pearl Making Strong Comeback

With the return of dresses to the fashion scene, pearls are again popular. They are teamed with turtle necks, jewel necks, scoop necks, plunging necklines, and inside and outside of open shirt collars.

Pearls are being shown with pants, suits, cocktail dresses, ball gowns and sportswear.

Pearls are also being used with restraint. The exaggerated lengths of pearl ropes used several seasons ago are out. Classic lengths including choker and matinee lengths are in style.

Eleanor Gnecco Wins Artist Of Year Honors

Artist Eleanore Gnecco of San Anselmo has been selected artist of the year by the North Bay Art Association.

She was the association's artist of the month in February, selected on the basis of an oil painting entered in the monthly competition. Artist of year is chosen from one of the 12 monthly winners at the association's annual meeting in December.

Lou Berger of Point Reyes Station received the second place award, and third place winner was Lita Aceves of San Anselmo.

Eleanore Gnecco will have a show at Marin General Hospital next month, and her oil paintings are currently hanging at the San Anselmo Library and the Crocker Bank in the Northgate Shopping Center.

Women's Center Leaders Setting Up Program Plans

The Women's Center Committee has obtained use of a room in the new YWCA office at 1618 Mission Street, San Rafael, and is setting up program plans for its women's center.

Charlotte Krause of the committee said that, while a concrete program is still in the planning stage, the committee plans to offer legal, vocational and psychological counseling to women.

Volunteers are invited to join the committee and those interested may call the Women's Liberation of Marin switchboard. She also said that donations of furniture and rugs as well as children's books and toys for a children's center are needed.

Plans are for the Marin Women's Newsletter to be headquartered in the new center and the committee is beginning to use the full YWCA facilities for its orientation to women's liberation and other meetings.

Novato Nurse Commissioned

Denise A. Truett of Novato has been commissioned an ensign in the Navy Nurse Corps and when she completes her senior year at the University of San Francisco, she will attend a five week summer orientation course at Officer Candidate School in Newport, R.I.

Denise, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Truett II of Novato, will serve on active duty for two years after she completes school and training.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Couple To Observe 75th Anniversary

By MOLLY MARIN

Seventy-five years of marriage will be celebrated Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Dominique Marquis, residents of the Nazareth House in San Rafael.

Following a mass of celebration Monday morning, the couple will be honored at a noon dinner at Nazareth House, followed by champagne and cake.

Married Jan. 8, 1898, in San Francisco, both Anna and Dominique are natives of France. Marquis celebrated his 100th birthday last May.

The Marquis's, who lived most of their married life in Oakland before moving to San Rafael 10 years ago, are the parents of Mrs. Marquerite Lazzeroni of Saratoga, Marcel J. Marquis of Alameda and George Marquis of Redwood City.

MR. AND MRS. Kenneth Hubbell are living in San Francisco following their marriage Nov. 11 in Sidney, Australia.

Parents of the bridegroom, who attended the wedding, are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hubbell of San Anselmo. The bride is the former Bronwyn Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hardy of Dolls Point, Australia.

Kenneth is the grandson of Mrs. Frank Schrader of San Anselmo.

ATTENDING THE Merola Opera Program's benefit Thursday aboard the luxury cruiser, Spirit of London, will be Messrs. and Mmes. Russell Baldocchi of San Rafael and Dewey Donnell of Sonoma.

Cocktails were preceded by a six-course banquet, followed by dancing.

MRS. J. R. BANES of Mill Valley has returned from a trip to Springfield, Mass., where she visited her son, Robert Banes, his wife and family.

Banes, a sportswriter with the Springfield News, often travels with the Boston Patriots. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School.

Dee Dee Foppe To Wed John D. Omundsen Jr.

The engagement of Dee Dee Foppe and John Dale Omundsen Jr. has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Foppe of San Rafael. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Omundsen of Point Reyes Station.

The future bride is the sister of David K. Foppe of Washington, D.C., Michael J. Foppe of Germany and Daniel Foppe of San Rafael. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School.

John is a graduate of Tomales High School. Both are students at Trinity Western College in British Columbia.

A summer wedding is planned.

Groom's Mother

The name of the bridegroom's mother was omitted from the wedding story of Theresa McLean and Frederick T. Dietrich Jr. in the Independent-Journal Wednesday. Frederick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Dietrich of Mill Valley.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Asks Why Men Can Bare Chest On Beach, Not Women

DEAR HELEN:

If men and women are now equal, then why can't I wear a topless swim suit on a public beach as men do? By summer the Equal Rights Amendment will surely be law, and then it will be my constitutional right to go as bare as males. But what do you bet I get arrested as I did last year? — BARE BEACH BUNNY

DEAR BBB:

That depends on where you swim: South Carolina? Probably. Big Sur, California? Probably not.

(My husband adds, "So far, the Constitution only gives you the right to bare arms — it isn't clear about the rest of the anatomy.") — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I may be the youngest grandmother in the country, but I'm not proud of it. Not ashamed anymore, either.

I had my first baby when I was not quite 13. The father was 17 and he ran away. Karen was raised by my mother. When I got married, at 19, to a wonderful guy, we let Karen decide who she wanted to live with and she chose my parents. She knows I'm her mother, but we're more like close sisters.

Well, history repeats itself. Karen isn't wild, but she thought she was madly in love. She ran away, both she and the boy lied about their ages, and they got married when she was 13, he 15. The folks had the marriage annulled, but my grandson was born before Karen was 14, which makes me a grandmother at age 25.

Like me, Karen got over her "love." She wants to finish school — and my husband and I want the baby, as we haven't been able to have one of our own.

But I want him as our son, not my grandson (who could be taken away from us). Karen says she'd rather have it this way too, but she might change her mind later on, and we couldn't bear giving him up.

Can I legally adopt my own grandson? — 25-YEAR-OLD GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER:

Your husband can legally adopt your grandson as his son, which would insure his remaining with you. Since you won't want to close the real mother (your sister-daughter) out of your lives, I think there will be fewer problems if the boy understands his true status. Don't you? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The issue is common courtesy!

I'm a housewife and very often in supermarkets. I wonder why people (usually the middle-aged who should know better) so often leave their "consideration for others" at home, when they go shopping.

When your checker closes, for example, why do so many women push ahead of you to an open stand, even if they were behind you in the first line?

And how about leaving empty carts behind your parked car, or in the middle of a parking space so you have to either get out and move them or drive farther on?

I'm not too fond of people who block the aisles with their carts, and glower when you ask to get through.

Between the lines of this letter is a feeling of nostalgia for the days when drivers "yielded" at "yield" signs, stopped to let a waiting motorist on to the highway. . .helped a young child who was lost. There's a television commercial that capitalizes on the fact that no one would offer help if you had a flat tire ("So buy our tires and be safe.") Have we become a nation of non-carers? — J.D.

DEAR J.:

Not really. But the non-carers seem abundantly present to us —because they make us mad. Next time you're at the supermarket, count the people who wait their turn, stay out of your way, etc. You might be surprised. — H.

Expert In Quilting To Give Demonstrations

Quilting expert Sally Krakow will give informal demonstrations in quilting Jan. 9 and 10 from noon to 4 p.m. at Bell Savings and Loan's San Rafael office.

She will answer questions and offer suggestions on techniques, materials, patterns, costs and other aspects of quilting and will be working at an oval standing frame on which she will be sewing a new quilt design.

New Singles Group Sets Feed Tonight

Ray Piatt of San Rafael is acting president of the newly formed singles group UNISIG (Marin Fellowship of Unitarians Singles Group.)

The group meets every Wednesday at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael. Purpose of the meetings is to plan activities for single, divorced, separated or widowed adults. Many activities are family oriented such as a spaghetti dinner to be held tonight and a folk concert on Jan. 13. The group also holds discussion and encounter groups and has guest speakers.

Piatt, a salesman, is a native of Flint, Mich. He has lived in Marin for two years. He is the father of Victor, 6; Christina, 11; William, 13; Linda, 16, and Katherine, 17. His hobbies are aviation history, cooking, physical fitness and acting.

Long-Haired Fur Gains Popularity

Long-haired furs are popular now for fur jackets. Fox, sable and lynx are in demand, but raccoon is the best seller of all, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Raccoon is adaptable, looking sporty by day, but fluffy enough to be dressed up for night.

Fashion Mood

For the boys and young men, fashion's quiet mood now taking hold will grow stronger by spring. That is the report from the Boys' and Young Men's Apparel Manufacturers Association.

Susan Louise Bell's Betrothal Revealed

Susan Louise Bell's engagement to Robert William Thomas of Ross has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Juneau G. Bell of San Anselmo.

The sister of Anita Bell, Susan is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the College of Marin secretarial program. She is employed with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael.

Susan is the granddaughter of Mrs. S. B. Koehn of Halstead, Kan., and Capt. W. E. Bell of Syndney, Australia.

Robert, who is the son of Mrs. Mary Thomas of Ross, is the brother of James, Diane and Nancy Thomas.

He is a graduate of Pomona High School, attended the College of Marin and is employed by Soule Steel Co. in San Francisco.

The pair plan to be married May 19.

How To Improve Worker Productivity

Retailers can improve worker productivity with the help of accurate monitoring on a per person basis and employee incentive programs, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Closer supervision and time budgeting plus public acknowledgement of exceptional performances by workers and cash bonuses proved successful. Experiments by a firm in Washington, D.C., and another in St. Louis, Mo., were reported at a Retail Operations Seminar in Washington, D.C.

Clean First

Clean each piece of clothing and, if necessary, repair it before storing. Some items can be folded and stored in trunk or box. Others should be hung on suitable hangers to retain their shape. Heavy items will hold their shape better if hung on wooden hangers.

ON BEING BLACK

Strawberry Is Fine, But Never White Ice Cream

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

"You gotta be kidding," laughed a well-known black politician when asked his ice cream preference at a recent luncheon. "Chocolate, of course. You don't expect me to order vanilla — in this group? Strawberry, just maybe, but I'm not about to alienate myblack constituency. Chocolate, please."

Racial attitudes have been and are so much a part of our lives, sadly, that the black/white "thing" has gained unbelievable height and depth. It has seeped into some rather unexpected and seemingly unimportant areas of our lives.

DURING TODAY'S black blitz, loyalty to the black effort by many cognizant blacks appears humorous, if not almost fanatical. Chocolate ice cream is just one example. (There is, by the way, black ice cream on the market — for those who feel chocolate has too much of an integrated quality.)

The black "thing" goes on. Says one sister, "Under no circumstances will I purchase white shoes or white clothes. I could say it's a personal preference, but the truth of the matter is, it is definitely a racially based and biased preference. It's a small, nonviolent way of supporting what the black revolution is all about."

"A cameo ring?" gasps ar other sister. "Forget it! I'm not about to walk around wearing a picture of a white woman on my finger. You can forget white pearls, too. I prefer colored stones."

Time was when black folks were trading in their black telephones just like everyone else for a white princess telephone. "No more," states a young black poet, "I dig antiquity — and black phones."

FROM A BLACK seamstress: "Material printed with white faces is out. And, so far, I've not seen any material printed with black faces. So we go with designs and floral prints and the like —even animals. It's just a quiet way of negating the 'white is right and good and beautiful' bull that's been institutionalized in this country."

Lou Rawls used to sing about white cars —the preference of the brothers was "white on white, with white in white." Today, a good way to be booed is to drive to a black gathering in a white car.

Greeting cards with white folks depicted are also out. This is one area that flips me out. Black kids have birthdays, too. Admittedly, there are some black cards on the market, but not enough of a selection. So, when in doubt, send a nature scene or an animal depiction to represent the black sender.

Black bread is definitely in — supposedly for its health food value and appeal. But just check out some of the peripheral reasons some blacks have gone back to black bread.

Brown and/or raw sugar is also in. White sugar is out. Admittedly they're both just as sweet.

The "blackisms" go on. Sounds silly? Perhaps, but many will agree it takes extreme measures to eradicate or change extreme conditions. And, unfortunately, the conditions —though under treatment —remain extreme.

Signups Are Open At YWCA

The Marin YWCA is taking registration for winter activities at its new headquarters, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Women and Their Chances, a series of conversations with skilled and professional women, begins Jan. 25. The six Thursday evening meetings will cover women's self perceptions as mothers, women, in the law, politics, art and the feminist movement.

International cooking and cake decorating classes, belly dancing, contemporary dance styles, yoga and trimnastics are also offered for women.

Classes in creative dance, tumbling and gymnastics are being taught for pre-school children. For school children there will be creative drama, design and craft and horseback riding lessons.

All classes begin the week of Jan. 15.

Designer Plugs Lined For Spring

A collection of bright linen knits has been prepared by designer Howard Lawrence. Lawrence says, "Linen is a natural for spring. It tailors well and has a crisp, clean look."

The designer has used the fabric in twin sweater sets, shirts, skirts, pants and dresses.

Saying Thanks

As soon as possible the bride should send a thank you note for each gift received. It is the only way the person who sent it can know that the gift was received.

13 YEARS A TEACHER

Former Nun Finds A New Career In Commercial Art

By PAT BALMES

Pat Sullivan, who was a teaching nun for 13 years, left the convent to become a commercial artist on her own time schedule.

The soft-spoken San Rafael woman said her decision was not a personality change but more a philosophical change. She had been dissatisfied with the educational situation and sympathized with bored students at the Los Angeles high school where she taught.

"It's becoming accepted in our society to change profession or life style. Most people do it to get away from an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule," said the 31-year-old artist who ow does commercial art on her own schedule.

IN THE EYES of the church it's permissible to leave a religious community. You do have to get permission from Rome; you do not just say, "Sister, I'm leaving," said Miss Sullivan.

So the individual will not make a rash judgment, the church requires sufficient time to make a well thought out decision. Miss Sullivan took a leave of absence two years ago to think over hers, she said.

"It speaks well of the religious community that I have been able to come to this decision. Nuns are individuals who exercise their own free wills, not people who just act like robots," she said.

Wearing fashionable sportswear while we talked at her apartment, Miss Sullivan spoke with reserve about her convent days and smoked.

"I feel that I gave 13 years of service and received much; so it was equally beneficial. I am still a good Christian woman with no argument with the church. It's a shame that people with antipathy have become the spokesmen for the convent," she said.

THE STRICTNESS of convent life did not cause her to leave. Nuns were respected as individuals. Vatican Council II changes were "very fine." Habits were modernized and finally any clothes were permitted, said the former nun who keeps in touch with convent friends.

"My life was full, I loved teaching. All the time I was doing it it was fine until one year September came and it was time to go back to the classroom and I said, No."

Dissatisfied with her own education, Miss Sullivan was sympathetic when some students expressed their dissatisfaction. She wanted to make changes in their education.

"The students knew they were unhappy, but they did not know why," their teacher related. "All children do not profit from a structured classroom. Some seem to be saying, 'Until I am aware that I want to know that, I am not going to learn it'," she said.

Compulsory education is not necessarily for everybody. She wished bored children could study something they were interested in, perhaps go to trade schools, work in a real plant and earn money, she said.

"WE DO NOT have jobs for everybody, so we keep bored children in school longer," said the teacher whose students could not find work over Christmas holidays.

"Education is just not going to stay as it is today," she predicted.

When the nun's ideas for change were rejected by the high school principal she faced the fact that she was in an educational system that she could not control, she said.

"I realized that if I could not be content with the situation at the high school I really did not belong in religious life. The way I was now thinking was no longer in complete agreement with what was being done. I did not want to teach any more," she said.

Other religious teachers at the high school made similar decisions at the same time. Most of them remained in the community at other jobs.

"The work of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet is teaching and nursing; I could not be a boarder. If they found something for me, I would not have been serving the community in the way in which I originally said I would," she said.

When Miss Sullivan decided to join the convent to become a teacher she was 18 and just graduated from Star of the Sea High School in San Francisco where Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet teach.

"I wanted to live my life in a religious community. It appealed to me," she said.

AS A NUN she attended Mount Saint Mary's College in Los Angeles with the regular students and earned her elementary and teaching credentials. She did graduate work in art at University of California at Los Angeles and California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland.

Then she taught elementary school for seven years and high school art, English and religion for the next three years.

She taught religion only one period a day, but believes that her presence on campus gave a Christian message.

"I was not doing it for a salary," she said.

"I do want to continue to be of service to people and not receive remuneration," said Miss Sullivan who volunteers at Marin Suicide Prevention Center one day a week to receive calls from Marin people who are depressed or in crisis.

Miss Sullivan now lives with her mother, Mrs. Virginia Sullivan, who was principal of an elementary school in San Francisco until her recent retirement. Mrs. Sullivan had prepared to open a Montessori preschool but is enjoying retirement too much, said her daughter.

Twice a week Miss Sullivan teaches little children, whom she finds refreshing, at the San Rafael Montessori school. Since she now teaches only part-time, she has more time to devote to art.

The artist finds it exciting to be called for jobs and go out and do them, she said.

DURING HER convent years she had done an educational packet for Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Corporation and received a film grant for an animated teaching film.

In her new career in commercial art she wants to do a variety of art styles and not be categorized for one type of work.

"Somebody might be afraid to ask me to do another style or think that it might look like my last work, but I would find a medium that best suited their needs," she said, surprised that requests for her work have moved nicely.

Drawing in her studio-bedroom, she has produced a telecartridge (a three-minute film for video cassettes), a design for a shoe manufacturer's advertisements and architectural drawings for a greenhouse in one of Jack Kramer's garden books.

Miss Sullivan exercises her flair for interior decoration each month by changing the felt wall decorations at a San Rafael health foods store.

Currently she is researching and producing many drawings of flowers, trees and shrubs for another garden book by Jack Kramer. It has taken longer to find photographs of out-of-season plants than to do the drawings, the artist said. She is eager for more free lance work.

The former nun said two things she would especially like to do are illustrate a children's book and design a United States commemorative stamp.

A TEACHING nun for 13 years, Pat Sullivan left the convent to change her profession. The 31-year-old San Rafael woman now does varied commercial art jobs on her own schedule. To continue to be of service to others, Miss Sullivan volunteers at Marin Suicide Prevention Center.

ON THE AGENDA

Junior League, ACT To Sponsor 'Doll's House" Lecture On Monday

Junior League of San Francisco and the American Conservatory Theater are presenting a free, public preview of the new English version of the Henrik Ibsen play, "A Doll's House." The program will be held Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the Geary Theater in San Francisco.

Ibsen's play, considered controversial when it was first produced in 1879, is a pioneer plea for women's rights. Speakers will be Allen Fletcher, director and translator of the play, and Marsha Mason, who will play the leading role of Nora, a character who shocked 19th Century Western World concepts by rebelling against her husband.

MRS. EDGAR Garland will present the program at the meeting of the antique appreciation section of the Novato Newcomers Club at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the lecture room of the Novato Library.

Mrs. Garland will give a demonstration on gold leafing to restore antiques.

A POST-HOLIDAY tea for the members of the Petaluma Woman's Club will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Ed Hennessy, singer and television performer, will present the program, "Singing America." Tea chairman is Mrs. Sam Smoot.

XI KAPPA PSI chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority members will hostess a preferential tea for three new pledges from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Bill Bayles in Novato.

Mrs. Joe Resor, president, will conduct the pledge ritual for Mmes. Sam Wein, Nathan Noah and Bruce Kates. A member who recently transferred to the chapter, Mrs. Augusto Aguilera, of Puerto Rico, will also be given the ritual of welcome.

A SPAGHETTI dinner for single persons and their children is being sponsored by the singles group, UNISIG (Marin Fellowship of Unitarians Singles Group) tonight at 7 p.m. at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael.

Singing and dancing will follow dinner.

Today's Clothes Buyer Is A Sharp Customer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's clothes buyer is alert, aware, alive and aggressive.

"She's looking for her dollar's worth, her fashion's worth, for things that will fit her way of life in this age of speedy transportation," says Vincent Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Business Council and former clothing manufacturer.

"She's not taken in by flim-flam. She's looking for straight talk about price, fabric and the rest."

Monte Sano's description of the modern customer came during an interview as the council began its series of spring fashion shows for visiting reporters.

The council spokesman said dress production alone in 1972 stood at 296 million units. He said the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) estimates production in '73 at about the same volume.

Prices are expected to change little except as new contracts are negotiated with the various unions.

One thing, however, keeps pulling at the seams; the gain in imports, from three million units 10 years ago to 30 million today.

THESE WERE among fashion changes Monte-Sano foresaw:

—Adjustment to the eyes so that we expect the unexpected.

"I could go to a cocktail party dessed as Dracula or Superman and nobody would blink," he said. "Five years ago something like that, and I would have been sent to the booby hatch."

—Continued technological advances in fabrics and their qualities, such as the now accepted permanent press, antistatics, knits that go right into the washing machine.

—Climate control meaning no more season for clothes.

—No more "uniforms" for events (say cocktail dress for cocktail party) but complete freedom of choice.

—Fashion t swing faster because we live in an age of speed. More fads will be produced, some to stay, some to be discarded.

—Women and young girls shopping in boys' departments because of style and price. "My 25 year old daughter shops the boys' department," said MonteSano. "In shops around college campuses the girls are as numerous as the boys in the boys' shops. The boys' sweaters are sturdier, baggier, and more preferred."

—Revivals? "Nuts to that," he said. "We're going ahead, not back."

Pearl Making Strong Comeback

With the return of dresses to the fashion scene, pearls are again popular. They are teamed with turtle necks, jewel necks, scoop necks, plunging necklines, and inside and outside of open shirt collars.

Pearls are being shown with pants, suits, cocktail dresses, ball gowns and sportswear.

Pearls are also being used with restraint. The exaggerated lengths of pearl ropes used several seasons ago are out. Classic lengths including choker and matinee lengths are in style.

Eleanor Gnecco Wins Artist Of Year Honors

Artist Eleanore Gnecco of San Anselmo has been selected artist of the year by the North Bay Art Association.

She was the association's artist of the month in February, selected on the basis of an oil painting entered in the monthly competition. Artist of year is chosen from one of the 12 monthly winners at the association's annual meeting in December.

Lou Berger of Point Reyes Station received the second place award, and third place winner was Lita Aceves of San Anselmo.

Eleanore Gnecco will have a show at Marin General Hospital next month, and her oil paintings are currently hanging at the San Anselmo Library and the Crocker Bank in the Northgate Shopping Center.

Women's Center Leaders Setting Up Program Plans

The Women's Center Committee has obtained use of a room in the new YWCA office at 1618 Mission Street, San Rafael, and is setting up program plans for its women's center.

Charlotte Krause of the committee said that, while a concrete program is still in the planning stage, the committee plans to offer legal, vocational and psychological counseling to women.

Volunteers are invited to join the committee and those interested may call the Women's Liberation of Marin switchboard. She also said that donations of furniture and rugs as well as children's books and toys for a children's center are needed.

Plans are for the Marin Women's Newsletter to be headquartered in the new center and the committee is beginning to use the full YWCA facilities for its orientation to women's liberation and other meetings.

Novato Nurse Commissioned

Denise A. Truett of Novato has been commissioned an ensign in the Navy Nurse Corps and when she completes her senior year at the University of San Francisco, she will attend a five week summer orientation course at Officer Candidate School in Newport, R.I.

Denise, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Truett II of Novato, will serve on active duty for two years after she completes school and training.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Couple To Observe 75th Anniversary

By MOLLY MARIN

Seventy-five years of marriage will be celebrated Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Dominique Marquis, residents of the Nazareth House in San Rafael.

Following a mass of celebration Monday morning, the couple will be honored at a noon dinner at Nazareth House, followed by champagne and cake.

Married Jan. 8, 1898, in San Francisco, both Anna and Dominique are natives of France. Marquis celebrated his 100th birthday last May.

The Marquis's, who lived most of their married life in Oakland before moving to San Rafael 10 years ago, are the parents of Mrs. Marquerite Lazzeroni of Saratoga, Marcel J. Marquis of Alameda and George Marquis of Redwood City.

MR. AND MRS. Kenneth Hubbell are living in San Francisco following their marriage Nov. 11 in Sidney, Australia.

Parents of the bridegroom, who attended the wedding, are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hubbell of San Anselmo. The bride is the former Bronwyn Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hardy of Dolls Point, Australia.

Kenneth is the grandson of Mrs. Frank Schrader of San Anselmo.

ATTENDING THE Merola Opera Program's benefit Thursday aboard the luxury cruiser, Spirit of London, will be Messrs. and Mmes. Russell Baldocchi of San Rafael and Dewey Donnell of Sonoma.

Cocktails were preceded by a six-course banquet, followed by dancing.

MRS. J. R. BANES of Mill Valley has returned from a trip to Springfield, Mass., where she visited her son, Robert Banes, his wife and family.

Banes, a sportswriter with the Springfield News, often travels with the Boston Patriots. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School.

Dee Dee Foppe To Wed John D. Omundsen Jr.

The engagement of Dee Dee Foppe and John Dale Omundsen Jr. has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Foppe of San Rafael. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Omundsen of Point Reyes Station.

The future bride is the sister of David K. Foppe of Washington, D.C., Michael J. Foppe of Germany and Daniel Foppe of San Rafael. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School.

John is a graduate of Tomales High School. Both are students at Trinity Western College in British Columbia.

A summer wedding is planned.

Groom's Mother

The name of the bridegroom's mother was omitted from the wedding story of Theresa McLean and Frederick T. Dietrich Jr. in the Independent-Journal Wednesday. Frederick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Dietrich of Mill Valley.

THE DOWNHILL RACERS

A pack of sled-carrying youngsters makes the long walk up their sledding hill after a joyful ride down on six inches of new snow in Omaha, Neb., left Wednesday from a blizzard. These sledders, as most others, find the walk back up the hill much more difficult than sledding down.

Nader Attacks New Thrust For Energy Via Nuclear Power Plants

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — In the rush to meet the nation's energy crisis, the United States is overlooking substantial present dangers in nuclear power plants as a solution.

So warns consumer advocate Ralph Nader. In cooperation with the Union of Concerned Scientists, he terms the Atomic Energy Commission's forward thrust in building large nuclear plants in metropolitan areas "impetuous" and cites comments of many of the AEC's own safety experts as backup evidence.

Currently there are close to 30 nuclear power plants in operation. If plans proceed on the present schedule, there are likely to be 900 going by 1990.

Nader argues that the safety and reliability of reactor safety systems and the entire fuel cycle have not been tested to the point where such a rush can be justified.

Particularly controversial are AEC standards for emergency core cooling systems, designed to cool the zirconium alloy surrounding the reactor core to keep the core from melting in the event of a mishap. The AEC has been holding public hearings on the adequacy of present standards and performances in nearby Bethesda, Md., for the past year.

It is the coolant issue, Nader stresses, which has prompted the AEC Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards, the Rand Corporation and the Reactor Safety Committee that advises the West German Government to recommend a slowdown if not a complete halt in nuclear power plant construction pending further reearch on the subject. Some estimates have it that damages from the failure of such cooling systems to operate properly could well extend up to 100 miles from the reactor.

Nader, who has now involved himself in virtually every conceivable consumer issue, cited as partial expert evidence for his reservations6an internal memo written by Milton Shaw, head of the AEC's Civilian Nuclear Power Program, which declares flatly that no assurance is yet available that emergency coolants can be delivered at the rate and time necessary to ward off a reactor meltdown.

The consumer advocate further cited testimony of the head of the AEC's Oak Ridge National Laboratory as evidence that safety researchers often have expressed their doubts as to the adequacy of present safety measures regarding nuclear plant construction.

Sex Education Offered To French Students

PARIS (UPI) — The education ministry announced Thursday that public school students can attend newly-organized courses on sex "information" beginning next school year.

It said schools would offer courses on "questions of procreation" for those students wishing to attend.

The courses will not be mandatory, the ministry said, because parents must determine how their children learn about reproduction.

Insurance Against Death Is Very Low

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Less than 4 per cent Singaporeans and Malaysians have generally insured themselves against death.

The life Insurance Association in a seminar by 40 underwriters and 17 local insurance companies said only 70,000 life insurance policies were sold in both countries in 1971.

Classes At University Halted Again

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Twelve students in the Southern University system Thursday interrupted the resumption of classes at the school's Baton Rouge campus with minor harassment of teachers and administrators.

The school had reopened Wednesday, seven weeks after two students were killed by a single shotgun blast in a confrontation with police at the administration building. The dead students were among a group who had occupied the building.

James L. Hunt, director of administrative services, said the students involved in Thursday's disruption attended Southern's New Orleans campus, located 65 miles southeast of Baton Rouge, the state capital.

The black students entered the administration building asking to talk with university President G. Leon Netterville about grievances which they said caused the earlier demonstrations on campus and had not been answered.

"I asked them to leave and they kept jostling and they said they were going to follow me around wherever I went," Hunt said. "I asked the campus security chief to call the security people we had (available)."

The campus officers arrested two students, including SUNO student body president Earl Picard. Both were freed when all of the students agreed to leave the campus.

Hunt said the students adjourned to the student union building, where the group was expanded by several other persons, presumabl from the Baton Rouge campus. They broke into two classrooms, but stayed only briefly and then left the campus.

Farm Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Agriculture Director C.B. Christensen has reported gross income of California farmers rose 6 per cent in 1972 to reach a record $5.25 billion.

McGovern's Words Have The Same Familiar Ring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate floor was almost deserted and the public galleries were only half filled. It was 1 p.m.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate and the titular head of his party, rose from his seat in the back row of the chamber and began to speak.

The crowds and the clamor of the fall campaign seemed far away. But McGovern's words had a familiar ring.

"In the 12 days from Dec. 18 to Dec. 30, Mr. Nixon undertook the cruelest and most insane act of a long and foolish war. He carried it out without a trace of constitutional authority, and without so much as a glance toward Capitol Hill."

As McGovern began to speak —more rapidly and stoically than during the campaign, it seemed—the only colleague on the floor was Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan.

McGovern went on to explain his "Vietnam Withdrawal Act of 1973," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., wandered in one at a time. And wandered out.

By the time Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., who was presiding, interrupted McGovern about 1:20 p.m. to inform him his time had expred, the South Dakota son of a fundamentalist minister was alone again.

One Senate observer remarked: "It was as if nothing had changed—McGovern was speaking to an empty chamber about the war."

Purple Heart 18 Years Late

CROOKSVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — The U.S. Army told Eldon Riffle Thursday he can expect his Purple Heart soon after waiting for it 18 years.

Riffle was told in 1954 he would be given the medal for wounds suffered two years earlier in the Korean War. He was discharged in 1953.

Riffle, now a custodian at the local post office, said he has received a certificate in the mail saying the medal is on its way.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Asks Why Men Can Bare Chest On Beach, Not Women

DEAR HELEN:

If men and women are now equal, then why can't I wear a topless swim suit on a public beach as men do? By summer the Equal Rights Amendment will surely be law, and then it will be my constitutional right to go as bare as males. But what do you bet I get arrested as I did last year? — BARE BEACH BUNNY

DEAR BBB:

That depends on where you swim: South Carolina? Probably. Big Sur, California? Probably not.

(My husband adds, "So far, the Constitution only gives you the right to bare arms — it isn't clear about the rest of the anatomy.") — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I may be the youngest grandmother in the country, but I'm not proud of it. Not ashamed anymore, either.

I had my first baby when I was not quite 13. The father was 17 and he ran away. Karen was raised by my mother. When I got married, at 19, to a wonderful guy, we let Karen decide who she wanted to live with and she chose my parents. She knows I'm her mother, but we're more like close sisters.

Well, history repeats itself. Karen isn't wild, but she thought she was madly in love. She ran away, both she and the boy lied about their ages, and they got married when she was 13, he 15. The folks had the marriage annulled, but my grandson was born before Karen was 14, which makes me a grandmother at age 25.

Like me, Karen got over her "love." She wants to finish school — and my husband and I want the baby, as we haven't been able to have one of our own.

But I want him as our son, not my grandson (who could be taken away from us). Karen says she'd rather have it this way too, but she might change her mind later on, and we couldn't bear giving him up.

Can I legally adopt my own grandson? — 25-YEAR-OLD GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER:

Your husband can legally adopt your grandson as his son, which would insure his remaining with you. Since you won't want to close the real mother (your sister-daughter) out of your lives, I think there will be fewer problems if the boy understands his true status. Don't you? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The issue is common courtesy!

I'm a housewife and very often in supermarkets. I wonder why people (usually the middle-aged who should know better) so often leave their "consideration for others" at home, when they go shopping.

When your checker closes, for example, why do so many women push ahead of you to an open stand, even if they were behind you in the first line?

And how about leaving empty carts behind your parked car, or in the middle of a parking space so you have to either get out and move them or drive farther on?

I'm not too fond of people who block the aisles with their carts, and glower when you ask to get through.

Between the lines of this letter is a feeling of nostalgia for the days when drivers "yielded" at "yield" signs, stopped to let a waiting motorist on to the highway. . .helped a young child who was lost. There's a television commercial that capitalizes on the fact that no one would offer help if you had a flat tire ("So buy our tires and be safe.") Have we become a nation of non-carers? — J.D.

DEAR J.:

Not really. But the non-carers seem abundantly present to us —because they make us mad. Next time you're at the supermarket, count the people who wait their turn, stay out of your way, etc. You might be surprised. — H.

New Singles Group Sets Feed Tonight

Ray Piatt of San Rafael is acting president of the newly formed singles group UNISIG (Marin Fellowship of Unitarians Singles Group.)

The group meets every Wednesday at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael. Purpose of the meetings is to plan activities for single, divorced, separated or widowed adults. Many activities are family oriented such as a spaghetti dinner to be held tonight and a folk concert on Jan. 13. The group also holds discussion and encounter groups and has guest speakers.

Piatt, a salesman, is a native of Flint, Mich. He has lived in Marin for two years. He is the father of Victor, 6; Christina, 11; William, 13; Linda, 16, and Katherine, 17. His hobbies are aviation history, cooking, physical fitness and acting.

Long-Haired Fur Gains Popularity

Long-haired furs are popular now for fur jackets. Fox, sable and lynx are in demand, but raccoon is the best seller of all, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Raccoon is adaptable, looking sporty by day, but fluffy enough to be dressed up for night.

Fashion Mood

For the boys and young men, fashion's quiet mood now taking hold will grow stronger by spring. That is the report from the Boys' and Young Men's Apparel Manufacturers Association.

How To Improve Worker Productivity

Retailers can improve worker productivity with the help of accurate monitoring on a per person basis and employee incentive programs, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Closer supervision and time budgeting plus public acknowledgement of exceptional performances by workers and cash bonuses proved successful. Experiments by a firm in Washington, D.C., and another in St. Louis, Mo., were reported at a Retail Operations Seminar in Washington, D.C.

Clean First

Clean each piece of clothing and, if necessary, repair it before storing. Some items can be folded and stored in trunk or box. Others should be hung on suitable hangers to retain their shape. Heavy items will hold their shape better if hung on wooden hangers.

ON BEING BLACK

Strawberry Is Fine, But Never White Ice Cream

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

"You gotta be kidding," laughed a well-known black politician when asked his ice cream preference at a recent luncheon. "Chocolate, of course. You don't expect me to order vanilla — in this group? Strawberry, just maybe, but I'm not about to alienate myblack constituency. Chocolate, please."

Racial attitudes have been and are so much a part of our lives, sadly, that the black/white "thing" has gained unbelievable height and depth. It has seeped into some rather unexpected and seemingly unimportant areas of our lives.

DURING TODAY'S black blitz, loyalty to the black effort by many cognizant blacks appears humorous, if not almost fanatical. Chocolate ice cream is just one example. (There is, by the way, black ice cream on the market — for those who feel chocolate has too much of an integrated quality.)

The black "thing" goes on. Says one sister, "Under no circumstances will I purchase white shoes or white clothes. I could say it's a personal preference, but the truth of the matter is, it is definitely a racially based and biased preference. It's a small, nonviolent way of supporting what the black revolution is all about."

"A cameo ring?" gasps ar other sister. "Forget it! I'm not about to walk around wearing a picture of a white woman on my finger. You can forget white pearls, too. I prefer colored stones."

Time was when black folks were trading in their black telephones just like everyone else for a white princess telephone. "No more," states a young black poet, "I dig antiquity — and black phones."

FROM A BLACK seamstress: "Material printed with white faces is out. And, so far, I've not seen any material printed with black faces. So we go with designs and floral prints and the like —even animals. It's just a quiet way of negating the 'white is right and good and beautiful' bull that's been institutionalized in this country."

Lou Rawls used to sing about white cars —the preference of the brothers was "white on white, with white in white." Today, a good way to be booed is to drive to a black gathering in a white car.

Greeting cards with white folks depicted are also out. This is one area that flips me out. Black kids have birthdays, too. Admittedly, there are some black cards on the market, but not enough of a selection. So, when in doubt, send a nature scene or an animal depiction to represent the black sender.

Black bread is definitely in — supposedly for its health food value and appeal. But just check out some of the peripheral reasons some blacks have gone back to black bread.

Brown and/or raw sugar is also in. White sugar is out. Admittedly they're both just as sweet.

The "blackisms" go on. Sounds silly? Perhaps, but many will agree it takes extreme measures to eradicate or change extreme conditions. And, unfortunately, the conditions —though under treatment —remain extreme.

Signups Are Open At YWCA

The Marin YWCA is taking registration for winter activities at its new headquarters, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Women and Their Chances, a series of conversations with skilled and professional w)men, begins Jan. 25. The six Thursday evening meetings will cover women's self perceptions as mothers, women, in the law, politics, art and the feminist movement.

International cooking and cake decorating classes, belly dancing, contemporary dance styles, yoga and trimnastics are also offered for women.

Classes in creative dance, tumbling and gymnastics are being taught for pre-school children. For school children there will be creative drama, design and craft and horseback riding lessons.

All classes begin the week of Jan. 15.

Designer Plugs Lined For Spring

A collection of bright linen knits has been prepared by designer Howard Lawrence. Lawrence says, "Linen is a natural for spring. It tailors well and has a crisp, clean look."

The designer has used the fabric in twin sweater sets, shirts, skirts, pants and dresses.

Saying Thanks

As soon as possible the bride should send a thank you note for each gift received. It is the only way the person who sent it can know that the gift was received.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

What famous persons were born today? We have mixed up the right names with some wrong. Match the correct name in each paragraph to find out who's who:

1. LUDWIG ERHARD or KONRAD ADENAUER became West Germany's first postwar Chancellor. During World War II, Adolph Hitler sent this Cologne mayor to one of his concentration camps, where he barely survived. But after the Allies defeated the Nazi forces, freeing Europe, the German people elected him and his Christian Democrats to head their democratic government. He died in 1967 at the age of 90.

2. BUDDY YOUNG or O. J. SIMPSON was the remarkable American college football player who broke so many records. Small for a back (5-feet, 4-inches; 164 pounds) he could run wild on the field. He tied Red Grange's record at the University of Illinois by making 13 touchdowns in one season and he led his team to a Rose Bowl victory.

3. STEPHEN DECATUR or DAVID FARRAGUT was that Aemrican naval hero who once said, "Our country, right or wrong." From midshipman to commodore, this Maryland youth was the bravest of fighters, winning praise even from his enemy, England's Lord Nelson, who admired his seamanship and courage. He lived to 41.

4. ROBERT MORRISON or DAVID LIVINGSTONE was that dedicated English missionary who took the Christian gospel to the unbelievers of Asia. In 1807 he was sent to China by the London Missionary Society. There his work among the Cantonese equipped him to translate and publish a Chinese dictionary, grammar, and New Testament. He lived 52 years.

ANSWERS: 1 - Adenauer; 2 - Young; 3 - Decatur; 4 - Morrison.

Brad O'Brien

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Singletons Can Be Expected When All Players Make Bid

Usually, you need about 26 points to make game. Still, you should not expect to find 52 high-card points in the deck if both sides bid game. Instead, it should be clear that at least one side is relying on short suits instead of high cards.

North dealer

	NORTH ♠ K 7 2 ♡ J 7 3 ◇ A K Q J 8 ♣ K 6
WEST ♠ 6 ♡ A K 9 8 5 ◇ 10 6 3 ♣ 8 7 3 2		EAST ♠ A Q 4 ♡ 10 6 4 ◇ 9 5 4 2 ♣ 10 9 5
	SOUTH ♠ J 10 9 8 5 3 ♡ Q 2 ◇ 7 ♣ A Q J 4

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead — ♡ K

VERY HARD

Very few players managed to make five hearts with this hand when it was presented by Terence Reese in 1939 as part of a contest.

South usually led out the ace and king of trumps after ruffing the second spade. Now it was impossible to make five hearts. The same people usually played the clubs the same way, and then had to lose a club trick as well.

This method of playing the long suits would be reasonable if the opponents had passed throughout. Since the opponents actually bid up to four spades, South had to expect singletons or voids.

LEAD TRUMPS FIRST

Since there is only one way to play the trumps, South should ruff the second spade and lead a trump to dummy's ace. On returning a trump and finding that East follows suit, South should reflect that only West can have a singleton in trumps. Since singletons are expected, South should finesse with the jack of hearts.

The finesse works, and South draws East's last trump. Now it is time to tackle the clubs. Since West has a singleton in hearts, it is reasonable to expect East to have the singleton in clubs. South cashes the king of clubs and leads a club to try a finesse with dummy's jack.

BEST ACTION

Both finesses work, and South makes five hearts. Careful attention to the bidding indicates the best line of play.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - K J 9 6 4 2
♥ - Q 10 6
♦ - A 9 4
♣ - 7.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is very nearly, but not quite, worth an opening bid of one spade. You have 10 points in high cards and two points for the singleton. Change the jack of spades to the queen or change the queen of hearts to the king and you would open the bidding.

First Editions Go To Library

A collection of first editions has been donated to the Sonoma State College Library by Audley R. Bell of Petaluma.

THE DOWNHILL RACERS

A pack of sled-carrying youngsters makes the long walk up their sledding hill after a joyful ride down on six inches of new snow in Omaha, Neb., left Wednesday from a blizzard. These sledders, as most others, find the walk back up the hill much more difficult than sledding down.

Nader Attacks New Thrust For Energy Via Nuclear Power Plants

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — In the rush to meet the nation's energy crisis, the United States is overlooking substantial present dangers in nuclear power plants as a solution.

So warns consumer advocate Ralph Nader. In cooperation with the Union of Concerned Scientists, he terms the Atomic Energy Commission's forward thrust in building large nuclear plants in metropolitan areas "impetuous" and cites comments of many of the AEC's own safety experts as backup evidence.

Currently there are close to 30 nuclear power plants in operation. If plans proceed on the present schedule, there are likely to be 900 going by 1990.

Nader argues that the safety and reliability of reactor safety systems and the entire fuel cycle have not been tested to the point where such a rush can be justified.

Particularly controversial are AEC standards for emergency core cooling systems, designed to cool the zirconium alloy surrounding the reactor core to keep the core from melting in the event of a mishap. The AEC has been holding public hearings on the adequacy of present standards and performances in nearby Bethesda, Md., for the past year.

It is the coolant issue, Nader stresses, which has prompted the AEC Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards, the Rand Corporation and the Reactor Safety Committee that advises the West German Government to recommend a slowdown if not a complete halt in nuclear power plant construction pending further reearch on the subject. Some estimates have it that damages from the failure of such cooling systems to operate properly could well extend up to 100 miles from the reactor.

Nader, who has now involved himself in virtually every conceivable consumer issue, cited as partial expert evidence for his reservations6an internal memo written by Milton Shaw, head of the AEC's Civilian Nuclear Power Program, which declares flatly that no assurance is yet available that emergency coolants can be delivered at the rate and time necessary to ward off a reactor meltdown.

The consumer advocate further cited testimony of the head of the AEC's Oak Ridge National Laboratory as evidence that safety researchers often have expressed their doubts as to the adequacy of present safety measures regarding nuclear plant construction.

Sex Education Offered To French Students

PARIS (UPI) — The education ministry announced Thursday that public school students can attend newly-organized courses on sex "information" beginning next school year.

It said schools would offer courses on "questions of procreation" for those students wishing to attend.

The courses will not be mandatory, the ministry said, because parents must determine how their children learn about reproduction.

Insurance Against Death Is Very Low

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Less than 4 per cent Singaporeans and Malaysians have generally insured themselves against death.

The life Insurance Association in a seminar by 40 underwriters and 17 local insurance companies said only 70,000 life insurance policies were sold in both countries in 1971.

Classes At University Halted Again

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Twelve students in the Southern University system Thursday interrupted the resumption of classes at the school's Baton Rouge campus with minor harassment of teachers and administrators.

The school had reopened Wednesday, seven weeks after two students were killed by a single shotgun blast in a confrontation with police at the administration building. The dead students were among a group who had occupied the building.

James L. Hunt, director of administrative services, said the students involved in Thursday's disruption attended Southern's New Orleans campus, located 65 miles southeast of Baton Rouge, the state capital.

The black students entered the administration building asking to talk with university President G. Leon Netterville about grievances which they said caused the earlier demonstrations on campus and had not been answered.

"I asked them to leave and they kept jostling and they said they were going to follow me around wherever I went," Hunt said. "I asked the campus security chief to call the security people we had (available)."

The campus officers arrested two students, including SUNO student body president Earl Picard. Both were freed when all of the students agreed to leave the campus.

Hunt said the students adjourned to the student union building, where the group was expanded by several other persons, presumabl from the Baton Rouge campus. They broke into two classrooms, but stayed only briefly and then left the campus.

Farm Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Agriculture Director C.B. Christensen has reported gross income of California farmers rose 6 per cent in 1972 to reach a record $5.25 billion.

McGovern's Words Have The Same Familiar Ring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate floor was almost deserted and the public galleries were only half filled. It was 1 p.m.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate and the titular head of his party, rose from his seat in the back row of the chamber and began to speak.

The crowds and the clamor of the fall campaign seemed far away. But McGovern's words had a familiar ring.

"In the 12 days from Dec. 18 to Dec. 30, Mr. Nixon undertook the cruelest and most insane act of a long and foolish war. He carried it out without a trace of constitutional authority, and without so much as a glance toward Capitol Hill."

As McGovern began to speak —more rapidly and stoically than during the campaign, it seemed—the only colleague on the floor was Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan.

McGovern went on to explain his "Vietnam Withdrawal Act of 1973," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., wandered in one at a time. And wandered out.

By the time Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., who was presiding, interrupted McGovern about 1:20 p.m. to inform him his time had expred, the South Dakota son of a fundamentalist minister was alone again.

One Senate observer remarked: "It was as if nothing had changed—McGovern was speaking to an empty chamber about the war."

Purple Heart 18 Years Late

CROOKSVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — The U.S. Army told Eldon Riffle Thursday he can expect his Purple Heart soon after waiting for it 18 years.

Riffle was told in 1954 he would be given the medal for wounds suffered two years earlier in the Korean War. He was discharged in 1953.

Riffle, now a custodian at the local post office, said he has received a certificate in the mail saying the medal is on its way.

CLAIRELLEN WALDECK
College recital

Mill Valley Soprano To Give Recital

Clairellen Waldeck of Mill Valley, a music major at the College of Marin, will give a recital Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the choral hall of the college's Fine Arts Building.

A soprano, Miss Waldeck played Mrs. Corney in the college's recent production of "Oliver!"

Miss Waldeck graduated from Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley and has completed the college's two-year music program.

The free recital will include selections from "Rigoletto" by Verdi; "Le Nozze di Figaro" by Mozart; "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti; and coloratura arias from "Carmen," "Lakme" and "Tannhauser."

She will be accompanied by college music students David Iacop, piano, and Robin Willat, flute, in "Shepherd on the Rock" by Schubert.

Carolyn Witt, music instructor, will be the main accompanist.

Rock Concerts To Be Aired

The first in a series of rock concerts taped at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo will be aired on radio station KTIM at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The two-hour concert features Jerry Garcia, Tom Fogerty, Merle Saunders and Bill Vitt.

Rebroadcast concerts will include the best performances of groups and artists who play at the nightspot, according to Clint Weyrauch, program director.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Dumbo" — Classic cartoon feature about the baby circus elephant with gigantic ears who overcomes all obstacles and becomes the hero of the circus.

"Fiddler On The Roof" — A musical set in a small village in Tsarist Russia. The story of a Jewish man and his relationship with his family, the village and his very special relationship with his God and his efforts to hold onto the traditions of his faith.

"Funny Girl" — Barbra Streisand recreates her stage role of Fanny Brice, the Jewish comedian from New York's lower East side who becomes the rage of the Ziegfeld Follies.

"Legend Of Lobo" — Here a wolf tells his story, he is the hero and man the villain. There is adventure, suspense, humor and majestic scenery and education about wild life.

"On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Story of a silly college student who possesses mystical powers and can reveal her past lives is interwoven with lavish sets and excellent music.

"1776" — In a literal translation of the recent stage hit this film brings to ife with a gentle wit, the differences and diversities among the men of the Continental Congress.

"Snowball Express" — A family inherits a dilapidated hotel in the Colorado mountains. They decide to renovate the building and start a ski resort. The fun begins when the local banker tries to stop them out of greed.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Getaway" — Swift moving tale of a bank robbery in Texas netting a half million dollars, then the thieves fall out and double-crosses ensue. Venality and greed are rampant, bloody violence aplenty. Ironic ending proves crime indeed does pay. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Kotch" — A grandfather living with his son's family rather than enter a retirement home takes on the task of looking after the babysitter who is pregnant and abandoned. Realistic birth scene.

"Pete 'n Tillie" — Serio-comic conjugal drama imbued with a pungent blend of perception that looks at the marital ups and downs of an outrageously mismatched couple. Occasional vulgarisms. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Poseidon Adventure" — A luxury line cruiser is struck by a great tidal wave and capsized. A group of survivors make their way through the upturned vessel seeking safety. All star cast adds depth to characterizations. (Motion Picture Daily)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Hell's Angels '69" — Two brothers plan to rob Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas just for kicks, using Hell's Angels as a cover. The gang gets its revenge. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Lady Sings The Blues" — A fictionalized biography of the late blues singer, Billy Holiday. Her early life and later as a prostitute, success as a singer and her addiction to heroin is laced with music throughout the action. Strong language.

"Troubleman" — A black private detective operates out of a pool hall attracts underworld gangs, black and white, who try to use him as a fall guy. Excessive cursing and liberal amounts of murder.

ADULTS ONLY

"Deliverance" — Four middle-aged men go for a canoe cruise along a mountain river in Georgia. They encounter two sadistic hillbillies who rape one of them and murders ensue. Gripping suspense very extreme. Cursing.

"Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex" — A satire, seven vignettes, taken from Dr. Reuben's best seller, are answers to sexual questions. Will appeal to Woody Allen fans of offbeat and frequently bizarre humor.

"King of Marvin Gardens" — Two brothers grow up and live out their fantasies in completely different worlds. One a late night radio personality, the other a front man for a black syndicate who lives with two women. Much symbolism used.

"Prime Cut" — A Chicago syndicate big shot is sent to Kansas City to make a sadistic local operator of a prostitution ring toe the line. Excessive violence, nudity and cursing.

"What Do You Say To A Naked Lady" — Allen Funt, of Candid Camera, records the reaction of unsuspecting passersby to naked woman. Some humorous moments, but mostly boring trash.

Nearly Perfect Bogus Money Seized In Raid

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Squads of federal, state and local agents raided two lake front cottages early today and seized between $7and $10-million in bogus, but nearly perfect, $20 bills.

Five persons were arrested in the raid, which also netted a complete printing press, the engraving plates for the "almost perfect" bills, a supply of paper similar to that on which real money is printed, and two automobiles.

Those taken into custody were identified as Donald Bouton, 49, and his wife Barbara, 37; Paul Joseph Fath, 34, and his wife, Laurel, 26, of Cocoa Beach, Fla., and Lee Edward Prevett, 38, of Kannapolis, N.C.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

What famous persons were born today? We have mixed up the right names with some wrong. Match the correct name in each paragraph to find out who's who:

1. LUDWIG ERHARD or KONRAD ADENAUER became West Germany's first postwar Chancellor. During World War II, Adolph Hitler sent this Cologne mayor to one of his concentration camps, where he barely survived. But after the Allies defeated the Nazi forces, freeing Europe, the German people elected him and his Christian Democrats to head their democratic government. He died in 1967 at the age of 90.

2. BUDDY YOUNG or O. J. SIMPSON was the remarkable American college football player who broke so many records. Small for a back (5-feet, 4-inches; 164 pounds) he could run wild on the field. He tied Red Grange's record at the University of Illinois by making 13 touchdowns in one season and he led his team to a Rose Bowl victory.

3. STEPHEN DECATUR or DAVID FARRAGUT was that Aemrican naval hero who once said, "Our country, right or wrong." From midshipman to commodore, this Maryland youth was the bravest of fighters, winning praise even from his enemy, England's Lord Nelson, who admired his seamanship and courage. He lived to 41.

4. ROBERT MORRISON or DAVID LIVINGSTONE was that dedicated English missionary who took the Christian gospel to the unbelievers of Asia. In 1807 he was sent to China by the London Missionary Society. There his work among the Cantonese equipped him to translate and publish a Chinese dictionary, grammar, and New Testament. He lived 52 years.

ANSWERS: 1 - Adenauer; 2 - Young; 3 - Decatur; 4 - Morrison.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Singletons Can Be Expected When All Players Make Bid

Usually, you need about 26 points to make game. Still, you should not expect to find 52 high-card points in the deck if both sides bid game. Instead, it should be clear that at least one side is relying on short suits instead of high cards.

North dealer

	NORTH ♠ K 7 2 ♡ J 7 3 ◇ A K Q J 8 ♣ K 6
WEST ♠ 6 ♡ A K 9 8 5 ◇ 10 6 3 ♣ 8 7 3 2		EAST ♠ A Q 4 ♡ 10 6 4 ◇ 9 5 4 2 ♣ 10 9 5
	SOUTH ♠ J 10 9 8 5 3 ♡ Q 2 ◇ – ♣ A Q J 4

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead – ♡ K

VERY HARD

Very few players managed to make five hearts with this hand when it was presented by Terence Reese in 1939 as part of a contest.

South usually led out the ace and king of trumps after ruffing the second spade. Now it was impossible to make five hearts. The same people usually played the clubs the same way, and then had to lose a club trick as well.

This method of playing the long suits would be reasonable if the opponents had passed throughout. Since the opponents actually bid up to four spades, South had to expect singletons or voids.

LEAD TRUMPS FIRST

Since there is only one way to play the trumps, South should ruff the second spade and lead a trump to dummy's ace. On returning a trump and finding that East follows suit, South should reflect that only West can have a singleton in trumps. Since singletons are expected, South should finesse with the jack of hearts.

The finesse works, and South draws East's last trump. Now it is time to tackle the clubs. Since West has a singleton in hearts, it is reasonable to expect East to have the singleton in clubs. South cashes the king of clubs and leads a club to try a finesse with dummy's jack.

BEST ACTION

Both finesses work, and South makes five hearts. Careful attention to the bidding indicates the best line of play.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - K J 9 6 4 2
♥ - Q 10 6
♦ - A 9 4
♣ - 7.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is very nearly, but not quite, worth an opening bid of one spade. You have 10 points in high cards and two points for the singleton. Change the jack of spades to the queen or change the queen of hearts to the king and you would open the bidding.

First Editions Go To Library

A collection of first editions has been donated to the Sonoma State College Library by Audley R. Bell of Petaluma.

The collection includes the first edition of "The Innocents" by Sinclair Lewis, the three-volume illustrated catalogue of the U.S. International Exhibition of 1876 and an early volume of poetry by Sarah Orne Jewett.

The collection also includes titles by Marie Corelli, Peter B. Kyne, Donald Grant Mitchell and John Fox Jr.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Ethel Barrie Is Guilding Light At Northgate's Lin Fa Gardens

Chinese food has always been popular with Americans, and for that matter, with other nationalities around the world.

ETHEL BARRIE
Northgate pioneer

Some food experts rate it side by side with French cuisine as the greatest there is to appease the palate. Chinese dishes, like the French, are prepared from traditional recipes, but many of these predate the French by several centuries and it is believed that they gave inspiration to western cooking practices.

When you come to think of it, you seldom get a "bad" Chinese meal anywhere. Almost any established Chinese restaurant has its loyal patrons, some more than others. In Marin County, one of those with a strong following is Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate. It was the first restaurant to open in that complex and has survived several others with more recent origins. A less determined person than Lin Fa owner Ethel Barrie might have been willing to throw in her fortune cookies after the first few years, for Northgate in the early days had its ups and downs, with plenty of the latter.

As is customary with Chinese menus, Lin Fa offers combination dinners for those who don't trust their own judgment sufficiently to compose their own. But after a little experimenting you can surprise yourself and friends with your talents for variety.

Although many diners-out ordinarily order wines with an American or European meal, to many it does not occur to do so with Chinese dishes — and they go well together. Until recently there has been no attempt that I know of to create a (grape) wine especially for Chinese food. Rice wine — yes, but some westerners consider this to heady for their taste.

Now a French wine firm, Sichel et Fils Freres, has done so. Its blend of white wines, called Wan Fu, is light and most agreeable to the tongue. It's not yet a big seller on the local market — in fact, you may have difficulty in finding it. But Ethel tells me she plans on stocking it for her customers soon. Watch for it. Meanwhile she does have other light wines that go well with her dishes.

IT IS OFTEN RECORDED that "behind every successful man there is a woman."

At San Rafael Joe's there are two of them. That's natural enough, considering that there are two principals in this operation — Hector Rubini and his brother-in-law Guido Farina. In a manner of speaking, their wives Nancy and Teresa are behind them in everything they do. Except at Joe's it may seem to be the other way around. The ladies are up front hosting the customers, while most of the time both Hector and Guido are back in the kitchen.

It is a gracious arrangement, but a practical one. The job of preparing food at this popular restaurant is a man's job — a test of endurance to keep up the pace for long lines of hungry people. It may be that Nancy and Teresa are good cooks, too, but it's right that the kitchen be left in the hands of their husbands — and often in those of Hector's nephew Cesar Bornia, who has been taking on increased responsibilities during the past two years. Both Hector and Guido agree that he is a "natural" in every way.

Joe's is a strong family operation and you'll find other members of the younger generation also well represented in the chores of the day there.

This brings to mind the fact there seem to be more and more younger diners at Joe's these days — a good sign, for it assures an uninterrupted flow of business during the coming years. Many of them first came here with their parents and so it is the most natural thing in the world to continue calling with their friends.

Joe's has now been on Fourth Street, San Rafael, for 26 years, which is a fine record in any business. I don't doubt for a minute that it someday will reach the half-century mark. The Rubinis and Farinas like their place and are dedicated to working there.

It makes a difference.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN hanging on to a yellowing, dog-eared Dining and Wining Guide for Marin and Sonoma Counties of last February's vintage, you'll be able to discard it soon for our new 1973 edition, which will be published Feb. 22.

Many changes on the local food front have taken place over the past year. Some restaurants have been sold and reopened under new names. Others have closed without successors. And we are including in this issue several entirely new establishments, along with others which we believe qualify for listings.

Altogether more than 200 restaurants will be listed. This represents an increase of about 10 per cent over a year ago. Look for at least two dozen new names to check off on your new dining itinerary.

McGILLICUDDY CONSTRUCTION CO. is expected to break ground for Stan and Ursula Valan's new Grotto seafood restaurant on the west service road facing Highway 101 in the Northgate area the first of next week.

With any luck in the weather this should be completed by early May. Until then the Valans will continue their present seafood dinery at 909 Lincoln Avenue in downtown San Rafael.

THE HOWARD JOHNSON MOTOR HOTEL AND RESTAURANT at 152 Shoreline Highway in Mill Valley is scheduling a series of luncheon fashion shows twice a month for the early 1973 season.

The first of these, sponsored by a few of the shops in Strawberry Town and Country Village, will be held next Thursday, Jan. 11 at 12:15 p.m. They are being arranged by Laura Moner of San Anselmo, who plans to set up similar shows at other Marin restaurants.

THE LION'S SHARE in San Anselmo is featuring the Herbie Hancock Septet in concert tonight and tomorrow night, playing their vant guarde compositions, several of them from their own recording releases.

Natural Act is scheduled for Sunday.

Besides scheduling established big name groups of the day, the Lion's Share often gives opportunities to many young musical groups just getting started.

The latter may find that they can get additional help here. The club is making arrangements with Lens, a San Francisco communications and media production company, for the use of its Miracle Mile location as a daytime recording studio at nominal rates. Young newcomers may find this a good place to get their demonstration tapes.

Strike Leaders Begin Jail Time

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Two leaders of the nation's longest public housing rent strike began the first full day of 45-day public housing rent strike are serving 45-day jail terms after pleading guilty to contempt of court charges.

Roman Catholic priest, and 26-year old Toby Henry, president of the Stella Wright Tenants Association, began serving the terms Wednesday. Henry and Comerford, the only white resident of the Stella Wright Homes, had pleaded guilty Dec. 18 to contempt charges.

The charges were leveled after the two handed back $94,000 in an escrow fund back to tenants instead of giving it to the Newark Housing Authority (NHA).

Sewer Repairs Halt Cable Cars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cable car service will be halted on the downtown section of Powell Street lines for three weeks while a sewer cave-in is repaired, officials say.

Motor coach service has been added from the carbarn at Washington and Mason Streets to Powell and Ellis Streets to replace the cable cars, the Municipal Railway announced Wednesday.

The cave-in occurred between Pine and California on New Year's Eve.

General Plans Agencies To Meet

The housing and open space subcommittees of the San Anselmo general plan committee will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the Robson House, Robson-Harrington Park, 237 Crescent Road, according to committee secretary Carol Enge.

The entire general plan committee will meet in the Robson House at 8 p.m. Wednesday, she said.

CLAIRELLEN WALDECK
College recital

Mill Valley Soprano To Give Recital

Clairellen Waldeck of Mill Valley, a music major at the College of Marin, will give a recital Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the choral hall of the college's Fine Arts Building.

A soprano, Miss Waldeck played Mrs. Corney in the college's recent production of "Oliver!"

Miss Waldeck graduated from Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley and has completed the college's two-year music program.

The free recital will include selections from "Rigoletto" by Verdi; "Le Nozze di Figaro" by Mozart; "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti; and coloratura arias from "Carmen," "Lakme" and "Tannhauser."

She will be accompanied by college music students David Iacop, piano, and Robin Willat, flute, in "Shepherd on the Rock" by Schubert.

Carolyn Witt, music instructor, will be the main accompanist.

Rock Concerts To Be Aired

The first in a series of rock concerts taped at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo will be aired on radio station KTIM at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The two-hour concert features Jerry Garcia, Tom Fogerty, Merle Saunders and Bill Vitt.

Rebroadcast concerts will include the best performances of groups and artists who play at the nightspot, according to Clint Weyrauch, program director.

FAMILY

"Dumbo" — Classic cartoon feature about the baby circus elephant with gigantic ears who overcomes all obstacles and becomes the hero of the circus.

"Fiddler On The Roof" — A musical set in a small village in Tsarist Russia. The story of a Jewish man and his relationship with his family, the village and his very special relationship with his God and his efforts to hold onto the traditions of his faith.

"Funny Girl" — Barbra Streisand recreates her stage role of Fanny Brice, the Jewish comedian from New York's lower East side who becomes the rage of the Ziegfeld Follies.

"Legend Of Lobo" — Here a wolf tells his story, he is the hero and man the villain. There is adventure, suspense, humor and majestic scenery and education about wild life.

"On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Story of a silly college student who possesses mystical powers and can reveal her past lives is interwoven with lavish sets and excellent music.

"1776" — In a literal translation of the recent stage hit this film brings to ife with a gentle wit, the differences and diversities among the men of the Continental Congress.

"Snowball Express" — A family inherits a dilapidated hotel in the Colorado mountains. They decide to renovate the building and start a ski resort. The fun begins when the local banker tries to stop them out of greed.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Getaway" — Swift moving tale of a bank robbery in Texas netting a half million dollars, then the thieves fall out and double-crosses ensue. Venality and greed are rampant, bloody violence aplenty. Ironic ending proves crime indeed does pay. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Kotch" — A grandfather living with his son's family rather than enter a retirement home takes on the task of looking after the babysitter who is pregnant and abandoned. Realistic birth scene.

"Pete 'n Tillie" — Serio-comic conjugal drama imbued with a pungent blend of perception that looks at the marital ups and downs of an outrageously mismatched couple. Occasional vulgarisms. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Poseidon Adventure" — A luxury line cruiser is struck by a great tidal wave and capsized. A group of survivors make their way through the upturned vessel seeking safety. All star cast adds depth to characterizations. (Motion Picture Daily)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Hell's Angels '69" — Two brothers plan to rob Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas just for kicks, using Hell's Angels as a cover. The gang gets its revenge. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Lady Sings The Blues" — A fictionalized biography of the late blues singer, Billy Holiday. Her early life and later as a prostitute, success as a singer and her addiction to heroin is laced with music throughout the action. Strong language.

"Troubleman" — A black private detective operates out of a pool hall attracts underworld gangs, black and white, who try to use him as a fall guy. Excessive cursing and liberal amounts of murder.

ADULTS ONLY

"Deliverance" — Four middle-aged men go for a canoe cruise along a mountain river in Georgia. They encounter two sadistic hillbillies who rape one of them and murders ensue. Gripping suspense very extreme. Cursing.

"Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex" — A satire, seven vignettes, taken from Dr. Reuben's best seller, are answers to sexual questions. Will appeal to Woody Allen fans of offbeat and frequently bizarre humor.

"King of Marvin Gardens" — Two brothers grow up and live out their fantasies in completely different worlds. One a late night radio personality, the other a front man for a black syndicate who lives with two women. Much symbolism used.

"Prime Cut" — A Chicago syndicate big shot is sent to Kansas City to make a sadistic local operator of a prostitution ring toe the line. Excessive violence, nudity and cursing.

"What Do You Say To A Naked Lady" — Allen Funt, of Candid Camera, records the reaction of unsuspecting passersby to naked woman. Some humorous moments, but mostly boring trash.

Nearly Perfect Bogus Money Seized In Raid

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Squads of federal, state and local agents raided two lake front cottages early today and seized between $7and $10-million in bogus, but nearly perfect, $20 bills.

Five persons were arrested in the raid, which also netted a complete printing press, the engraving plates for the "almost perfect" bills, a supply of paper similar to that on which real money is printed, and two automobiles.

Those taken into custody were identified as Donald Bouton, 49, and his wife Barbara, 37; Paul Joseph Fath, 34, and his wife, Laurel, 26, of Cocoa Beach, Fla., and Lee Edward Prevett, 38, of Kannapolis, N.C.

Punctuation May Cancel Pay Raise

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's lawmakers may lose a 10 per cent raise in their retirement plans because of two missing commas in a bill that was whisked through the legislature in the final hours of the 1972 session.

The retirement increase was written into a pay raise bill for the state's 120 lawmakers and was intended to give anyone who leaves the legislature in 1973 or 1974 a 10 per cent increase.

In some cases, that would amount to more than a $1,000 a month —or a $100 a month raise —in the lawmakers' retirement plans.

But the Public Employes Retirement System (PERS) ruled the measure, as written, calls for only about a 50-cent a month increase.

The bill, which did not go through committee hearings, says allowances payable "with respect to service during the years 1973 and 1974 shall be computed on the basis of 5.5 per cent (in 1973) and 3.3 per cent (on the combined total for 1974)."

To get the 10 per cent increase, commas should have been placed after the words "service" and "1974." Since this was not done, the measure makes the increase payable only on those two years of service —not the legislators' total time spent at the Capitol.

"We're not sure it was intended that way, but it appears to us the increase is only for service rendered for those two years," PERS executive officer William E. Payne said Thursday.

"I think since there seems to be some doubt, we need to have the Attorney General review it for us," he said.

Several legislators have appealed the PERS ruling, saying they intended to up the retirement pay by 10 per cent.

Assemblyman John Burton, D -San Francisco, was asked whether hearings on the bill might have helped catch the error but replied: "I don't think so. Hearings are only to determine policy. Not to find commas."

DEER HUNTER CAN SMILE ONCE AGAIN

DUNKIRK, Ind. — This is a story with teeth in it.

Donald Gray went hunting in Montana and lost his dentures. He and his companions searched the area but could not find the partial plate.

A year later, Gray returned from another hunt with two deer — and his slightly weathered dentures.

"We were in the same area and I jokingly said to my brother-in-law, 'Don't step on my teeth.' He went along with the joke and reached down, pretending to hunt for my plate. 'You mean this?' he said. Darned if he didn't find it.

"I washed off the mud, put it back in and it is just as good as new." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

15 Nations Support U.S. Plan For Prosecution Of Hijackers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 15 nations so far support a U.S. proposal for an international accord to impose sanctions on countries which fail to extradite or prosecute airplane hijackers, State Department officials said today.

The announcement came at the same time the United States was making other moves to thwart airplane hijackings. They included:

—Today is the opening day at U.S. airports for the first phase of a new government antihijacking inspection program, including examination of women's handbags and all other carry-on luggage.

—Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said Thursday that the administration will ask Congress for legislation making the death sentence mandatory for cold-blooded, premeditated" crimes including air piracy and assassination.

—The State Department said Cuba as sent the United States further proposals for a U.S.-Cuban accord to foil American hijackers.

The international accord proposed by the United States would cut off air service and navigation rights to countries which fail to extradite or prosecute hijackers.

It will be discussed by the legal subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) at a meeting beginning Monday in Montrael expected to be attended by about 60 nations.

The State Department hopes that a convention along the lines of the U.S. proposal will be drafted in Montreal and will then be discussed by the 123-member ICAO Aug. 21.

The Soviet Union has so far opposed sanctions to terminate air service and navigation rights unless this is decided within the U.N. Security Council. Egypt and Chile have also criticized the U.S. proposal.

France and West Germany have put forward alternate proposals, which U.S. officials consider not strong enough.

The antihijacking inspection program in the United States was ordered last month by the Department of Transportation. By Feb. 5, when the program is to be fully in effect, armed guards will be stationed at each boarding gate in 531 airports around the country, and passengers will be physically searched if necessary.

Passengers were urged to arrive for flights early, to keep carry-on luggage to a minimum, to unzip carry-on luggage as they approach inspectors and to maintain good humor.

Kleindienst's proposal follows a Supreme Court ruling June 29 which barred capital punishment in general under present laws. The court left Congress and state legislatures free to enact new death penalty laws.

Kleindienst said the death penalty does little to deter crimes of passion but can help deter some premeditated crimes such as air piracy, assassination, kidnaping and bombing a public building.

Barometer Found For TV Profits

MADISON, N.J. (UPI) — A political scientist's study of television news concludes that a station or network's profits are directly linked to the amount of public interest material it broadcasts.

The wealthier the station or network, the more likely it is to broadcast more public affairs programming, said Frank Wolf, an assistant professor of political science at Drew University.

His newly published study is called "Television Programming for News and Public Affairs: A Quantitative Analysis of New Work and Stations."

His study, partly financed by a National Association of Broadcasters grant, also said the Federal Communication Commission's efforts to force stations to increase such programming "has been largely ineffectual from the beginning."

Airlines Posted Profits In 1972

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. airlines lost money in 1971 but broke into the black last year, a report of the Air Transport Association showed today.

The ATA, which represents the major airlines, said earnings for the 12-month period ended last Sept. 30 were $196 million. During the corresponding period the previous year, $147 million in losses were recorded.

Africa '73' Events To Raise Funds

"Africa '73," a series of fund-raising events to send Sonoma State College students to Africa next summer and to aid needy Africans, will be launched Feb. 10 in Rohnert Park.

The African American Cultural Exchange Committee, an organization of students, professors and community residents, will sponsor a soul food dinner and dance at the Rohnert Park Community Center.

The program also will include African music and a side presentation by students who visited Ghana, Togo, Dahomey and Nigeria last summer.

The fund-raising committee also plans talent shows, dances and dinners.

Twenty Sonoma State students spent six weeks last summer visiting primitive African villages, as well as studying at the University of Ghana at Legon.

Roy Mitchell, committee coordinator, said the first $250 of donations will be earmarked for a water well at the primitive village of Oduro, Nigeria.

Students on the trip last year found that most children in the village of 200 persons die before their sixth birthdays because the small stream dries up in the summer, leaving residents totally without water.

Hijack Incidents Led To Jet For Governor

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — When a man armed with two guns and a grenade hijacked a United Airlines jet and collected a $500,000 ransom in San Francisco, Gov. Ronald Reagan's top aide decided it was time his boss stopped taking commercial flights.

He became convinced of it when another jet, a Pacific Southwest Airlines, was hijacked just two days later in Oakland.

The next day, Monday, April 10, 1972, Reagan "agreed reluctantly not to fly in commercial airplanes anymore," executive assistant Edwin Meese III told newsmen Thursday.

And he hasn't. The governor since then has rented airplanes.

"We felt it was foolhardy for the State of California to take a chance on the governor being on a plane that was hijacked," Meese said. "He could be a contributing factor to the danger of other passengers on board.

"The hijacker looks at the governor in the seat and immediately the ransom goes up. He says to himself, 'Whoopie, look what I have here.'"

Last week, the state announced acquisition of its own jet to fly Reagan, other state officers and legislators. It is a twin-engine, six-passenger Cessna Citation leased for two years at a cost of $398,906. The plane is valued at $700,000.

Meese said Reagan and his wife Nancy both will be riding in the jet, abandoning a policy against traveling together on the same plane.

Meese said the couple followed the "fly separately," practice when their children were small because a fatal crash would leave the youngsters parentless. Recently, he said, the Reagans have begun flying together occasionally.

The Reagans' daughter, Patti, is 20, and their son, Skipper, is 14.

Bayh Wants To Lower Minimum Legislative Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., wants to lower the minimum age for U.S. senators from 30 to 27 and for House members from 25 to 22.

Bayh introduced legislation for the change Thursday. He also proposed an amendment that would provide for direct election of the President, abandoning the electoral college system.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., will introduce companion bills in the House next week.

Tremors Rattle Ecuadorian City

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Two earth tremors shook parts of Quito seven minutes apart late Thursday with the second causing some fright among persons living on upper floors of tall buildings.

There were no reports of casualties or serious damage.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Ethel Barrie Is Guilding Light At Northgate's Lin Fa Gardens

ETHEL BARRIE
Northgate pioneer

Chinese food has always been popular with Americans, and for that matter, with other nationalities around the world.

Some food experts rate it side by side with French cuisine as the greatest there is to appease the palate. Chinese dishes, like the French, are prepared from traditional recipes, but many of these predate the French by several centuries and it is believed that they gave inspiration to western cooking practices.

When you come to think of it, you seldom get a "bad" Chinese meal anywhere. Almost any established Chinese restaurant has its loyal patrons, some more than others. In Marin County, one of those with a strong following is Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate. It was the first restaurant to open in that complex and has survived several others with more recent origins. A less determined person than Lin Fa owner Ethel Barrie might have been willing to throw in her fortune cookies after the first few years, for Northgate in the early days had its ups and downs, with plenty of the latter.

As is customary with Chinese menus, Lin Fa offers combination dinners for those who don't trust their own judgment sufficiently to compose their own. But after a little experimenting you can surprise yourself and friends with your talents for variety.

Although many diners-out ordinarily order wines with an American or European meal, to many it does not occur to do so with Chinese dishes — and they go well together. Until recently there has been no attempt that I know of to create a (grape) wine especially for Chinese food. Rice wine — yes, but some westerners consider this to heady for their taste.

Now a French wine firm, Sichel et Fils Freres, has done so. Its blend of white wines, called Wan Fu, is light and most agreeable to the tongue. It's not yet a big seller on the local market — in fact, you may have difficulty in finding it. But Ethel tells me she plans on stocking it for her customers soon. Watch for it. Meanwhile she does have other light wines that go well with her dishes.

IT IS OFTEN RECORDED that "behind every successful man there is a woman."

At San Rafael Joe's there are two of them. That's natural enough, considering that there are two principals in this operation — Hector Rubini and his brother-in-law Guido Farina. In a manner of speaking, their wives Nancy and Teresa are behind them in everything they do. Except at Joe's it may seem to be the other way around. The ladies are up front hosting the customers, while most of the time both Hector and Guido are back in the kitchen.

It is a gracious arrangement, but a practical one. The job of preparing food at this popular restaurant is a man's job — a test of endurance to keep up the pace for long lines of hungry people. It may be that Nancy and Teresa are good cooks, too, but it's right that the kitchen be left in the hands of their husbands — and often in those of Hector's nephew Cesar Bornia, who has been taking on increased responsibilities during the past two years. Both Hector and Guido agree that he is a "natural" in every way.

Joe's is a strong family operation and you'll find other members of the younger generation also well represented in the chores of the day there.

This brings to mind the fact there seem to be more and more younger diners at Joe's these days — a good sign, for it assures an uninterrupted flow of business during the coming years. Many of them first came here with their parents and so it is the most natural thing in the world to continue calling with their friends.

TERESA FARINA

Joe's has now been on Fourth Street, San Rafael, for 26 years, which is a fine record in any business. I don't doubt for a minute that it someday will reach the half-century mark. The Rubinis and Farinas like their place and are dedicated to working there.

It makes a difference.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN hanging on to a yellowing, dog-eared Dining and Wining Guide for Marin and Sonoma Counties of last February's vintage, you'll be able to discard it soon for our new 1973 edition, which will be published Feb. 22.

Many changes on the local food front have taken place over the past year. Some restaurants have been sold and reopened under new names. Others have closed without successors. And we are including in this issue several entirely new establishments, along with others which we believe qualify for listings.

Altogether more than 200 restaurants will be listed. This represents an increase of about 10 per cent over a year ago. Look for at least two dozen new names to check off on your new dining itinerary.

McGILLICUDDY CONSTRUCTION CO. is expected to break ground for Stan and Ursula Valan's new Grotto seafood restaurant on the west service road facing Highway 101 in the Northgate area the first of next week.

With any luck in the weather this should be completed by early May. Until then the Valans will continue their present seafood dinery at 909 Lincoln Avenue in downtown San Rafael.

THE HOWARD JOHNSON MOTOR HOTEL AND RESTAURANT at 152 Shoreline Highway in Mill Valley is scheduling a series of luncheon fashion shows twice a month for the early 1973 season.

The first of these, sponsored by a few of the shops in Strawberry Town and Country Village, will be held next Thursday, Jan. 11 at 12:15 p.m. They are being arranged by Laura Moner of San Anselmo, who plans to set up similar shows at other Marin restaurants.

THE LION'S SHARE in San Anselmo is featuring the Herbie Hancock Septet in concert tonight and tomorrow night, playing their vant guarde compositions, several of them from their own recording releases.

Natural Act is scheduled for Sunday.

Besides scheduling established big name groups of the day, the Lion's Share often gives opportunities to many young musical groups just getting started.

The latter may find that they can get additional help here. The club is making arrangements with Lens, a San Francisco communications and media production company, for the use of its Miracle Mile location as a daytime recording studio at nominal rates. Young newcomers may find this a good place to get their demonstration tapes.

Strike Leaders Begin Jail Time

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Two leaders of the nation's longest public housing rent strike began the first full day of 45-day public housing rent strike are serving 45-day jail terms after pleading guilty to contempt of court charges.

Roman Catholic priest, and 26-year old Toby Henry, president of the Stella Wright Tenants Association, began serving the terms Wednesday. Henry and Comerford, the only white resident of the Stella Wright Homes, had pleaded guilty Dec. 18 to contempt charges.

The charges were leveled after the two handed back $94,000 in an escrow fund back to tenants instead of giving it to the Newark Housing Authority (NHA).

Sewer Repairs Halt Cable Cars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cable car service will be halted on the downtown section of Powell Street lines for three weeks while a sewer cave-in is repaired, officials say.

Motor coach service has been added from the carbarn at Washington and Mason Streets to Powell and Ellis Streets to replace the cable cars, the Municipal Railway announced Wednesday.

The cave-in occurred between Pine and California on New Year's Eve.

General Plans Agencies To Meet

The housing and open space subcommittees of the San Anselmo general plan committee will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the Robson House, Robson-Harrington Park, 237 Crescent Road, according to committee secretary Carol Enge.

The entire general plan committee will meet in the Robson House at 8 p.m. Wednesday, she said.

Punctuation May Cancel Pay Raise

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's lawmakers may lose a 10 per cent raise in their retirement plans because of two missing commas in a bill that was whisked through the legislature in the final hours of the 1972 session.

The retirement increase was written into a pay raise bill for the state's 120 lawmakers and was intended to give anyone who leaves the legislature in 1973 or 1974 a 10 per cent increase.

In some cases, that would amount to more than a $1,000 a month —or a $100 a month raise —in the lawmakers' retirement plans.

But the Public Employes Retirement System (PERS) ruled the measure, as written, calls for only about a 50-cent a month increase.

The bill, which did not go through committee hearings, says allowances payable "with respect to service during the years 1973 and 1974 shall be computed on the basis of 5.5 per cent (in 1973) and 3.3 per cent (on the combined total for 1974)."

To get the 10 per cent increase, commas should have been placed after the words "service" and "1974." Since this was not done, the measure makes the increase payable only on those two years of service —not the legislators' total time spent at the Capitol.

"We're not sure it was intended that way, but it appears to us the increase is only for service rendered for those two years," PERS executive officer William E. Payne said Thursday.

"I think since there seems to be some doubt, we need to have the Attorney General review it for us," he said.

Several legislators have appealed the PERS ruling, saying they intended to up the retirement pay by 10 per cent.

Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was asked whether hearings on the bill might have helped catch the error but replied: "I don't think so. Hearings are only to determine policy. Not to find commas."

DEER HUNTER CAN SMILE ONCE AGAIN

DUNKIRK, Ind. — This is a story with teeth in it.

Donald Gray went hunting in Montana and lost his dentures. He and his companions searched the area but could not find the partial plate.

A year later, Gray returned from another hunt with two deer — and his slightly weathered dentures.

"We were in the same area and I jokingly said to my brother-in-law, 'Don't step on my teeth.' He went along with the joke and reached down, pretending to hunt for my plate. 'You mean this?' he said. Darned if he didn't find it.

"I washed off the mud, put it back in and it is just as good as new." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

15 Nations Support U.S. Plan For Prosecution Of Hijackers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 15 nations so far support a U.S. proposal for an international accord to impose sanctions on countries which fail to extradite or prosecute airplane hijackers, State Department officials said today.

The announcement came at the same time the United States was making other moves to thwart airplane hijackings. They included:

—Today is the opening day at U.S. airports for the first phase of a new government antihijacking inspection program, including examination of women's handbags and all other carry-on luggage.

—Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said Thursday that the administration will ask Congress for legislation making the death sentence mandatory for cold-blooded, premeditated" crimes including air piracy and assassination.

—The State Department said Cuba as sent the United States further proposals for a U.S.-Cuban accord to foil American hijackers.

The international accord proposed by the United States would cut off air service and navigation rights to countries which fail to extradite or prosecute hijackers.

It will be discussed by the legal subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) at a meeting beginning Monday in Montrael expected to be attended by about 60 nations.

The State Department hopes that a convention along the lines of the U.S. proposal will be drafted in Montreal and will then be discussed by the 123-member ICAO Aug. 21.

The Soviet Union has so far opposed sanctions to terminate air service and navigation rights unless this is decided within the U.N. Security Council. Egypt and Chile have also criticized the U.S. proposal.

France and West Germany have put forward alternate proposals, which U.S. officials consider not strong enough.

The antihijacking inspection program in the United States was ordered last month by the Department of Transportation. By Feb. 5, when the program is to be fully in effect, armed guards will be stationed at each boarding gate in 531 airports around the country, and passengers will be physically searched if necessary.

Passengers were urged to arrive for flights early, to keep carry-on luggage to a minimum, to unzip carry-on luggage as they approach inspectors and to maintain good humor.

Kleindienst's proposal follows a Supreme Court ruling June 29 which barred capital punishment in general under present laws. The court left Congress and state legislatures free to enact new death penalty laws.

Kleindienst said the death penalty does little to deter crimes of passion but can help deter some premeditated crimes such as air piracy, assassination, kidnaping and bombing a public building.

Barometer Found For TV Profits

MADISON, N.J. (UPI) — A political scientist's study of television news concludes that a station or network's profits are directly linked to the amount of public interest material it broadcasts.

The wealthier the station or network, the more likely it is to broadcast more public affairs programming, said Frank Wolf, an assistant professor of political science at Drew University.

His newly published study is called "Television Programming for News and Public Affairs: A Quantitative Analysis of New Work and Stations."

His study, partly financed by a National Association of Broadcasters grant, also said the Federal Communication Commission's efforts to force stations to increase such programming "has been largely ineffectual from the beginning."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. airlines lost money in 1971 but broke into the black last year, a report of the Air Transport Association showed today.

The ATA, which represents the major airlines, said earnings for the 12-month period ended last Sept. 30 were $196 million. During the corresponding period the previous year, $147 million in losses were recorded.

Africa '73' Events To Raise Funds

"Africa '73," a series of fund-raising events to send Sonoma State College students to Africa next summer and to aid needy Africans, will be launched Feb. 10 in Rohnert Park.

The African American Cultural Exchange Committee, an organization of students, professors and community residents, will sponsor a soul food dinner and dance at the Rohnert Park Community Center.

The program also will include African music and a side presentation by students who visited Ghana, Togo, Dahomey and Nigeria last summer.

The fund-raising committee also plans talent shows, dances and dinners.

Twenty Sonoma State students spent six weeks last summer visiting primitive African villages, as well as studying at the University of Ghana at Legon.

Roy Mitchell, committee coordinator, said the first $250 of donations will be earmarked for a water well at the primitive village of Oduro, Nigeria.

Students on the trip last year found that most children in the village of 200 persons die before their sixth birthdays because the small stream dries up in the summer, leaving residents totally without water.

Hijack Incidents Led To Jet For Governor

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — When a man armed with two guns and a grenade hijacked a United Airlines jet and collected a $500,000 ransom in San Francisco, Gov. Ronald Reagan's top aide decided it was time his boss stopped taking commercial flights.

He became convinced of it when another jet, a Pacific Southwest Airlines, was hijacked just two days later in Oakland.

The next day, Monday, April 10, 1972, Reagan "agreed reluctantly not to fly in commercial airplanes anymore," executive assistant Edwin Meese III told newsmen Thursday.

And he hasn't. The governor since then has rented airplanes.

"We felt it was foolhardy for the State of California to take a chance on the governor being on a plane that was hijacked," Meese said. "He could be a contributing factor to the danger of other passengers on board.

"The hijacker looks at the governor in the seat and immediately the ransom goes up. He says to himself, 'Whoopie, look what I have here.'"

Last week, the state announced acquisition of its own jet to fly Reagan, other state officers and legislators. It is a twin-engine, six-passenger Cessna Citation leased for two years at a cost of $398,906. The plane is valued at $700,000.

Meese said Reagan and his wife Nancy both will be riding in the jet, abandoning a policy against traveling together on the same plane.

Meese said the couple followed the "fly separately," practice when their children were small because a fatal crash would leave the youngsters parentless. Recently, he said, the Reagans have begun flying together occasionally.

The Reagans' daughter, Patti, is 20, and their son, Skipper, is 14.

Bayh Wants To Lower Minimum Legislative Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., wants to lower the minimum age for U.S. senators from 30 to 27 and for House members from 25 to 22.

Bayh introduced legislation for the change Thursday. He also proposed an amendment that would provide for direct election of the President, abandoning the electoral college system.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., will introduce companion bills in the House next week.

Tremors Rattle Ecuadorian City

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Two earth tremors shook parts of Quito seven minutes apart late Thursday with the second causing some fright among persons living on upper floors of tall buildings.

There were no reports of casualties or serious damage.

SAM PEARLMAN'S STORY

New Care For Stroke Victims

By PAT PERRY

Sam Pearlman felt fine when he awoke in his Terra Linda home at 5 o'clock on a January morning last year. At 63, he hadn't had a physical examination for three years, simply because he felt so fine. And then he had a stroke.

"I was just sitting up, three quarters of the way up, and I couldn't go forward or fall back . . . I told my wife I thought something was wrong . . . then I had like a tremor, then another jolt . . . I heard my wife saying on the phone that she thought I'd had a stroke."

"All the way to hospital I was moving my fingers in the ambulance and hoping it wasn't true. But the next day my whole left side was paralyzed. I was seeing double. I couldn't swallow.

"I'd had a stroke alright. I'd also had heart failure."

Then Sam Pearlman's round face broke into wreaths of humor, a grin so infectious it was hard to notice the slight laziness of the left side of his face.

"But I wasn't frightened, said Pearlman, manager of the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco. "I figured someone wanted me to have a double feature."

And he chuckled and proudly lifted his left hand up to his face — a feat he's only recently accomplished after a year of intensive treatment and work and willpower.

Stroke is the third-ranking cause of death in the United States. It's exceeded only by heart disease and cancer.

On the other hand, stroke responds best of the three to treatment and prevention.

Sam Pearlman stayed in Marin General Hospital for only three weeks, he was back at work within three months and he commutes by bus to San Francisco.

Although his will to get better is obvious, much of the credit must go to the stroke care given by nurses and staff of Marin General Hospital. (Indeed, Pearlman jokes that he's half in love with chief physiotherapidst Joan Jamison because she helped him so much.)

Stroke care at the hospital is now combined in a special unit on the fourth floor, with six beds to give stroke patients specialized, round-the-clock treatment from the moment they are admitted.

Recent research has shown that immediate treatment greatly improves stroke victims' chances of recovery. In clinical terms, this is referred to as "aggressive rehabilitation." In lay terms, it means a stroke patient isn't left to lie still. Everyone's on him right away.

Sydney Edwards, chief nurse of the unit, explained: "Stroke doesn't always lead to some form of paralysis, sometimes there's partial return of movement, sometimes total return, sometimes death. Sometimes paralysis is transient, sometimes delayed. But patients used to lie in bed for weeks on end, and muscles lose strength . . . there is tremendous deterioration in a matter of a few days."

Specially trained staff members man the unit.

Faith Bartlett, continuity of care coordinator, said the minute a stroke victim is admitted to the unit "we automatically call in physiotheraphy and speech and hearing." The director of the unit, Dr. Howard Seidler, is a neurologist, and the nurses, including registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and aides, all have gone through extensive training.

Mrs. Bartlett and her staff advise the family of the patient and assist in mitigating the "disaster." And a stroke can indeed be a disaster to any family. It's classified as a "catastrophic disease" since it often curtails a man or woman's working life, and imposes severe financial burdens.

"And it's a tremendously overwhelming thing," said Mrs. Edwards. "Depression is very common. They see themselves as a burden on their families for the rest of their lives. Frequently there's a speech problem."

Ilona Bellack, the hospital's associate director of nursing, said the morale factor is an important facet of the unit's operation. Nurses go out of their way to be reassuring, and have found that bringing in successfully rehabilitated patients is one of the best medicines.

"Some of the statistics beginning to emerge from the unit show that there is a changing picture in the rehabilitation of stroke patients," said Mrs. Bellack. The length of a hospital stay has been cut drastically, now down to about 10 days to two weeks for patients going directly home, less for those transferring to convalescent hospitals.

While other specialized units at Marin General, such asoronary care, make extensive use of sophisticated technological devices, the stroke unit depends primarily on nursing, pure and simple.

Patients levels of consciousness and awareness are checked continually and their legs and arms are moved twice on each nurse's shift. In fact, a nurse's check sheet for a shift covers four full pages.

As they get better, patients are instructed and encouraged to move more, doing exercises like scooting up and down in the bed.

Then, too, there are tricks of the trade. Like popsicles. Mrs. Edwards said it is frequently difficult for stroke patients to swallow fluids . . . "and a lot of times something cold helps them swallow with less difficulty."

Recalling his hospitalization, Pearlman said he was most frustrated by an inability to make people understand him. "The funny part is I always thought I was talking clear as a bell. I thought they were deaf, but you can't enunciate with half a mouth."

An eminently cheerful man, Pearlman said one of the best times was when he saw his left foot move a little. "You're hoping every second movement will return, it's like getting out of prison."

"The biggest thing is they teach you to do for yourself. And the more you do for yourself the more you can do." He used a wheelchair for only a month, quitting when he figured it was too easy.

Despite his doctor's objections, he returned to work in May, and in his spare time he keeps up his hobby of tuning and rebuilding pianos.

Pearlman said he has learned that there aren't enough facilities for handicapped people in Marin County, and he's also learned that everyone wants to help.

"They pester the hell out of you," he commented wryly. "When you're walking you have to think carefully which foot goes first, and you're planning on a move, and then someone's got you by the arm and you're falling. I told a kid in my theater if he doesn't stop helping me I'll have to fire him."

(Which is why readers are advised not to assist the jovial commuter with a crutch as he scrambles on the 9:15 a.m. Terra Linda bus.)

In retrospect, Pearlman has learned that he might have avoided his stroke by taking better care of his health. His blood pressure was 240 when he was admitted to hospital, and has now dropped to 146.

Mrs. Bellack said that research and statistics being made available through the stroke care unit are potentially valuable. "The impression is that there are a great many more cases of stroke than may have been recognized. If we can get some kind of context to predict when stroke is likely, there would be a lower incidence and more rapid recovery."

The hospital authorities were reluctant to interpret the statistics acrued in the unit's short history, but nationally it is known that the likelihood of stroke does increase with age, and that most of the attacks will occur in people over the age of 55.

"And the most exciting part of this unit," enthused Mrs. Bellack, "is that it has shown there is a lot more that can be done in prevention and treatment."

HOME THERAPY — Sam Pearlman of 598 Tarragon Drive, Terra Linda, tugs energetically on a pail-and-pulley device he rigged up in his garage to assist in the recovery of his stroke-affected limbs. Manager of the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco, Pearlman was back at work three months after a devastating stroke, and believes that encouragement from the Marin General Hospital stroke unit staff helped his recovery.

HOSPITAL CARE — Physiotherapy and morale-building go hand in hand at Marin General Hospital's stroke unit, where therapist Joan Jamison works with patient Merlin Cruz. Stroke care at Marin General is handled in a special fourth-floor unit.

Two Receive Gift Warrants

Two San Anselmo youngsters, winners in a San Anselmo parks and recreation Christmas card contest, received $5 gift certificates from Swensen's and Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlors, the parks department reported yesterday.

The Independent-Journal had earlier reported that Swensen's Ice Cream parlor had provided both prizes.

Winners in the contest were Paul Petri, 8, and Mary Samuelson, 12.

Holdout Inmate Strikers Are Placed In Segregation

About a dozen hardcore strikers at San Quentin, who refused again yesterday to report for job assignments, have been placed in segregation in the south block, a prison spokesman said today.

The dozen, not identified with any known group, included whites, blacks and Chicanos, according to Lee De Bord, San Quentin information officer.

The segregated convicts face possible prison disciplinary action, he said.

They were the remaining holdouts of a work strike which began Tuesday at the prison when most of the work force of 1,400 inmates refused to go to their jobs. (There are about 1,800 men at the prison.)

Two sets of typewritten demands by the strikers were found by prison officials. The first asked the ouster of Warden Louis S. Nelson and a second list included 35 demands for such privileges as conjugal visits, public telephones, privately owned television sets, minimum wages and the right to grow long hair.

The demands were never formally presented to prison officials and have been ignored by authorities.

Two minor fires were discovered yesterday afternoon, apparently set by disgruntled inmates. The blazes caused only scorches in the education department and furniture factory, according to officials.

Otherwise, the big prison was quiet, De Bord said, with normal feeding and work conditions resumed.

Development Center Board Picks Slate

The Marin Child Development Center, a school in Tiburon for emotionally and neurologically handicapped children, has elected officers for 1973.

New officers are Robert Dermott of San Rafael, president; John Kelly of Ross, vice president; Jerry Walters of San Rafael, corresponding secretary, and Bruce Shaw of Mill Valley, recording secretary.

New Care For Stroke Victims

By PAT PERRY

Sam Pearlman felt fine when he awoke in his Terra Linda home at 5 o'clock on a January morning last year. At 63, he hadn't had a physical examination for three years, simply because he felt so fine. And then he had a stroke.

"I was just sitting up, three quarters of the way up, and I couldn't go forward or fall back . . . I told my wife I thought something was wrong . . . then I had like a tremor, then another jolt . . . I heard my wife saying on the phone that she thought I'd had a stroke."

"All the way to hospital I was moving my fingers in the ambulance and hoping it wasn't true. But the next day my whole left side was paralyzed. I was seeing double. I couldn't swallow.

"I'd had a stroke alright. I'd also had heart failure."

Then Sam Pearlman's round face broke into wreaths of humor, a grin so infectious it was hard to notice the slight laziness of the left side of his face.

"But I wasn't frightened, said Pearlman, manager of the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco. "I figured someone wanted me to have a double feature."

And he chuckled and proudly lifted his left hand up to his face — a feat he's only recently accomplished after a year of intensive treatment and work and willpower.

Stroke is the third-ranking cause of death in the United States. It's exceeded only by heart disease and cancer.

On the other hand, stroke responds best of the three to treatment and prevention.

Sam Pearlman stayed in Marin General Hospital for only three weeks, he was back at work within three months and he commutes by bus to San Francisco.

Although his will to get better is obvious, much of the credit must go to the stroke care given by nurses and staff of Marin General Hospital. (Indeed, Pearlman jokes that he's half in love with chief physiotherapidst Joan Jamison because she helped him so much.)

Stroke care at the hospital is now combined in a special unit on the fourth floor, with six beds to give stroke patients specialized, round-the-clock treatment from the moment they are admitted.

Recent research has shown that immediate treatment greatly improves stroke victims' chances of recovery. In clinical terms, this is referred to as "aggressive rehabilitation." In lay terms, it means a stroke patient isn't left to lie still. Everyone's on him right away.

Sydney Edwards, chief nurse of the unit, explained: "Stroke doesn't always lead to some form of paralysis, sometimes there's partial return of movement, sometimes total return, sometimes death. Sometimes paralysis is transient, sometimes delayed. But patients used to lie in bed for weeks on end, and muscles lose strength . . . there is tremendous deterioration in a matter of a few days."

HOME THERAPY — Sam Pearlman of 598 Tarragon Drive, Terra Linda, tugs energetically on a pail-and-pulley device he rigged up in his garage to assist in the recovery of his stroke-affected limbs. Manager of the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco, Pearlman was back at work three months after a devastating stroke, and believes that encouragement from the Marin General Hospital stroke unit staff helped his recovery.

Specially trained staff members man the unit.

Faith Bartlett, continuity of care coordinator, said the minute a stroke victim is admitted to the unit "we automatically call in physiotheraphy and speech and hearing." The director of the unit, Dr. Howard Seidler, is a neurologist, and the nurses, including registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and aides, all have gone through extensive training.

Mrs. Bartlett and her staff advise the family of the patient and assist in mitigating the "disaster." And a stroke can indeed be a disaster to any family. It's classified as a "catastrophic disease" since it often curtails a man or woman's working life, and imposes severe financial burdens.

"And it's a tremendously overwhelming thing," said Mrs. Edwards. "Depression is very common. They see themselves as a burden on their families for the rest of their lives. Frequently there's a speech problem."

Ilona Bellack, the hospital's associate director of nursing, said the morale factor is an important facet of the unit's operation. Nurses go out of their way to be reassuring, and have found that bringing in successfully rehabilitated patients is one of the best medicines.

"Some of the statistics beginning to emerge from the unit show that there is a changing picture in the rehabilitation of stroke patients," said Mrs. Bellack. The length of a hospital stay has been cut drastically, now down to about 10 days to two weeks for patients going directly home, less for those transferring to convalescent hospitals.

While other specialized units at Marin General, such asoronary care, make extensive use of sophisticated technological devices, the stroke unit depends primarily on nursing, pure and simple.

Patients levels of consciousness and awareness are checked continually and their legs and arms are moved twice on each nurse's shift. In fact, a nurse's check sheet for a shift covers four full pages.

As they get better, patients are instructed and encouraged to move more, doing exercises like scooting up and down in the bed.

Then, too, there are tricks of the trade. Like popsicles. Mrs. Edwards said it is frequently difficult for stroke patients to swallow fluids . . . "and a lot of times something cold helps them swallow with less difficulty."

Recalling his hospitalization, Pearlman said he was most frustrated by an inability to make people understand him. "The funny part is I always thought I was talking clear as a bell. I thought they were deaf, but you can't enunciate with half a mouth."

An eminently cheerful man, Pearlman said one of the best times was when he saw his left foot move a little. "You're hoping every second movement will return, it's like getting out of prison."

"The biggest thing is they teach you to do for yourself. And the more you do for yourself the more you can do." He used a wheelchair for only a month, quitting when he figured it was too easy.

Despite his doctor's objections, he returned to work in May, and in his spare time he keeps up his hobby of tuning and rebuilding pianos.

Pearlman said he has learned that there aren't enough facilities for handicapped people in Marin County, and he's also learned that everyone wants to help.

"They pester the hell out of you," he commented wryly. "When you're walking you have to think carefully which foot goes first, and you're planning on a move, and then someone's got you by the arm and you're falling. I told a kid in my theater if he doesn't stop helping me I'll have to fire him."

(Which is why readers are advised not to assist the jovial commuter with a crutch as he scrambles on the 9:15 a.m. Terra Linda bus.)

In retrospect, Pearlman has learned that he might have avoided his stroke by taking better care of his health. His blood pressure was 240 when he was admitted to hospital, and has now dropped to 146.

Mrs. Bellack said that research and statistics being made available through the stroke care unit are potentially valuable. "The impression is that there are a great many more cases of stroke than may have been recognized. If we can get some kind of context to predict when stroke is likely, there would be a lower incidence and more rapid recovery."

The hospital authorities were reluctant to interpret the statistics acrued in the unit's short history, but nationally it is known that the likelihood of stroke does increase with age, and that most of the attacks will occur in people over the age of 55.

"And the most exciting part of this unit," enthused Mrs. Bellack, "is that it has shown there is a lot more that can be done in prevention and treatment."

HOSPITAL CARE — Physiotherapy and morale-building go hand in hand at Marin General Hospital's stroke unit, where therapist Joan Jamison works with patient Merlin Cruz. Stroke care at Marin General is handled in a special fourth-floor unit.

Two Receive Gift Warrants

Two San Anselmo youngsters, winners in a San Anselmo parks and recreation Christmas card contest, received $5 gift certificates from Swensen's and Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlors, the parks department reported yesterday.

The Independent-Journal had earlier reported that Swensen's Ice Cream parlor had provided both prizes.

Winners in the contest were Paul Petri, 8, and Mary Samuelson, 12.

Holdout Inmate Strikers Are Placed In Segregation

About a dozen hardcore strikers at San Quentin, who refused again yesterday to report for job assignments, have been placed in segregation in the south block, a prison spokesman said today.

The dozen, not identified with any known group, included whites, blacks and Chicanos, according to Lee De Bord, San Quentin information officer.

The segregated convicts face possible prison disciplinary action, he said.

They were the remaining holdouts of a work strike which began Tuesday at the prison when most of the work force of 1,400 inmates refused to go to their jobs. (There are about 1,800 men at the prison.)

Two sets of typewritten demands by the strikers were found by prison officials. The first asked the ouster of Warden Louis S. Nelson and a second list included 35 demands for such privileges as conjugal visits, public telephones, privately owned television sets, minimum wages and the right to grow long hair.

The demands were never formally presented to prison officials and have been ignored by authorities.

Two minor fires were discovered yesterday afternoon, apparently set by disgruntled inmates. The blazes caused only scorches in the education department and furniture factory, according to officials.

Otherwise, the big prison was quiet, De Bord said, with normal feeding and work conditions resumed.

Development Center Board Picks Slate

The Marin Child Development Center, a school in Tiburon for emotionally and neurologically handicapped children, has elected officers for 1973.

New officers are Robert Dermott of San Rafael, president; John Kelly of Ross, vice president; Jerry Walters of San Rafael, corresponding secretary, and Bruce Shaw of Mill Valley, recording secretary.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. SW P-8861

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Los Angeles

In the Matter of the Estate of JOHN DAVID HADLEY, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on or after January 30, 1973, the undersigned Patricia I. Hadley, as administratrix with the will annexed of the estate of John David Hadley, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled Superior Court, all the right, title, interest and estate of the decedent at the time of his death and all the right, title, and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, to wit, undivided one-half (½) interest, in and to that certain real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

Lot 79, as shown upon that certain Map entitled Map No. 4 of San Geronimo, a subdivision of a portion of San Geronimo Ranch, Marin County, California, filed for record June 8, 1915, in Liber 4 of Maps, at page 87, in the office of the County Recorder of Marin County, California.

Excepting from said Lot 79, a strip of land described in Deed from Leo B. Mihan and Amelia Schudson Mihan, his wife, to County of Marin, dated June 9, 1937, and recorded September 18, 1937, in Liber 348 of official records, at page 59, Records of Marin County. Tax Assessor's No. 169-182-06 (consisting of approximately 1.7 acres).

Commonly referred to as 20 Fir Avenue, San Geronimo, California 94963. Subject to: current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, easements of record, and approximately $2500.00 first trust deed encumbrance of Fidelity Savings of Oakland, California.

The remaining undivided one-half interest owner, Katherine E. Acoff, has agreed in writing to join in this sale.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing and may be delivered to the said administratrix's attorney, Toshiro Hiraide, 1515 West Redondo Beach Boulevard, Gardena, California 90247 (P.O. Box 2043), or may be filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of the sale.

Terms and conditions of sale: Cash in lawful money of the United States of America; 10% of the amount bid to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid upon confirmation of sale by the Superior Court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance. The examination of title, recording of conveyance, and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated: December 23, 1972

Notice Of Request for State Certification of Clamshell Dredging of The Bolinas Lagoon Channel by Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation Civic Center San Rafael, California 94903

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 401 Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 for certification to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers that the dredging and dredge spoil disposal by Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation as described below will not violate the California Water Quality Control Plan or any applicable Federal Standards.

The Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation intends to dredge by clamshell dredge approximately 800 cubic yards of sand from Bolinas Lagoon Channel. The location of the dredging is across from the Marine Station approximately 150 feet into the Lagoon from Wharf Road. The dredged spoil from this project is to be disposed of on land in an area where there will be no runoff. A previous spoil disposal area on Seadrift near Dipsea Road is an optional disposal area. The project will be completed within one year.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364 - 14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by February 10, 1973.

Notice Of Request for State Certification of Clamshell Dredging of The Bolinas Lagoon Channel by Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation Civic Center San Rafael, California 94903

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 401 Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 for certification to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers that the dredging and dredge spoil disposal by Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation as described below will not violate the California Water Quality Control Plan or any applicable Federal Standards.

The Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation intends to dredge by clamshell dredge approximately 800 cubic yards of sand from Bolinas Lagoon Channel. The location of the dredging is across from the Marine Station approximately 150 feet into the Lagoon from Wharf Road. The dredged spoil from this project is to be disposed of on land in an area where there will be no run-off. A previous spoil disposal area on Seadrift near Dipsea Road is an optional disposal area. The project will be completed within one year.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364 - 14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by February 10, 1973.

Olympian DeMont Back In The Swim

Rick DeMont, 16-year-old swimmer from San Rafael who is the best distance freestyler in the world no matter how many gold medals the International Olympic Committee take away from him, will be back in the swim this weekend.

DeMont will be competing in the first meet of the Amateur Athletic Union, Pacific Association's 1973 senior indoor season, Saturday and Sunday at San Francisco State University.

It will be his first competitive meet since he swam in the 400-meter freestyle at the Munich Olympics. In that race he won a gold medal and later had it stripped from him because a drug, ephedrine, was found in his system. A medicine he was taking for asthma contained the drug.

Rick's asthma situation hasn't changed, but his medicine has. No longer is he taking Marax, a medication that includes ephedrine. At the request of Rick's coach, Don Swartz of the Marin Aquatic Club, DeMont's physician, Dr. Patricia M. Clark of Mill Valley, released this statement:

"RICK DEMONT is under my care for asthma. His present medication is Quibrom (Mead-Johnson). Each capsule contains theophylline, 150 mgs., and glyceryl guaiacolate, 90 mgs. This is a combination brocho-dilator and expectorant medication. Dosage is one capsule, two or three times daily as necessary."

According to Dr. Clark, theophylline is related to caffeine which is found in coffee and cocoa. She is sending a letter to Dr. Daniel F. Hanley, a member of the International Olympic Committee's medical commission who recently tried to shift blame for the disqualification to DeMont. She is sending the letter to Hanley to clear the medicine with him. But by the time the next Olympics roll around, caffeine might even be on the banned drug list. Don't laugh. There was some talk at one point to include caffeine on the banned drug list but the idea was abandoned for obvious reasons.

"My intent in obtaining the statement from Dr. Clark," said Swartz, "is to let everyone know the ephedrine medicine is no longer used by Rick in his treatment of asthma. The 1973 AAU senior indoor season begins Saturday with a meet at San Fancisco State and I feel it is important that these gray areas on medication he is using are cleared up. We want no doubt on anybody's mind."

THE MEET WILL be the first also for Marin Aquatic Club teammate Robin Backhaus, Olympic bronze medal winner in the 200-meter butterfly who moved from Redlands to San Rafael since that time. A total of 20 members of the Marin team will be entered in the Saturday-Sunday meet.

"I'll be swimming the 200, 500 and 1,650 yard freestyle and some breast and I.M. (individual medley) events," DeMont said between a morning practice session and start of classes at Terra Linda High School. Backhaus will be entered in breaststroke and distance freestyle events.

DEMONT WAS the subject of a feature story in the November-December issue of Letterman, a magazine of high school sports. A cover title said, "Rick DeMont Talks," and the story on page 19, titled, "I'll Try Again in 1976," was done in the first person. I was totally surprised because I know Rick is a young man of few words.

"I didn't write it," said DeMont. "Someone from that magazine telephoned me just after I returned from the Olympics and asked me some questions." He said he was surprised and unhappy on the way the story was done. I don't blame him. Nobody likes to have somebody else doing the talking for him, and it was the only story in the magazine in which the first person method was used.

But for now, Rick DeMont is back in the swim. Losing his gold medal on the IOC's foul play did not stop him. For that I am glad.

Finley May Be Willing To Sell Seals

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI) — Did Charlie Finley bite off more than he can chew with the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League?

Finley, who needed 14 years to win a world championship with his A's baseball club, frankly is disenchanted with the Seals after only 2 ½ seasons, so much so that he says he will listen to an offer to sell.

"I lost almost half a million dollars on the club in the first year, $700,000 last year and I stand to lose a million this season," Finley said Thursday when he turned a World Series victory film showing of his A's into an apology on why the Seals haven't done better than they have since he bought them three years ago."

"When you continue to lose money, owning a hockey club ceases to be fun," Finley said. "Yes, I'd listen to an offer to sell but unfortunately no one has made me one."

Finley said it was hard enough for his Seals to keep pace with the other clubs in the NHL the past two seasons and when the World Hockey Association came into being before the start of the current season, he was hard pressed to keep his head above water.

"We made a lot of progress last season and in fact were the most improved team in the league," said Finley. "Then came the WHA and as things turned out my big mistake was in giving Garry Young full charge of the operation."

Young was picked by Finley to serve as club general manager and according to Charlie given authority to sign the players.

"I had never done that in baseball," said Finley. "Everyone knows I've always been my own general manager, at least it's been that way in recent years."

Finley once signed Frank Lane to a five year contract as GM of his baseball club and then fired him after the first year.

"I picked Young because I respected his ability," said Finley, forgetting for the moment that he once hired Young as coach of he Seals and fired him after less than one season.

Finley's big complaint against Young, who resigned last Nov. 6 as GM, was that he signed players to contracts without consulting with him.

"That was the beginning of the end for us," said Finley, referring to the downhill slide by the Seals, who have won seven games, lost 22 and tied eight others this season and are dead last in the NHL West.

Finley said that it was bad enough Young didn't consult him on the contracts but worst than that was the fact he misled him about the salaries.

"For instance," and then Finley ticked off a list of contracts, "he told me he signed a player for $20,000 when actually it was for $37,500. Another player — Rick Redmond —was given a twoyear contract calling for

Salt Lake City Olympics Site

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S Olympic Committee has made its decision, unanimously selecting Salt Lake City, Utah, to replace Denver as site of the 1976 Winter Olympics. Now it's up to the International Olympic Committee to approve the shift or give the Olympics to a European city.

The 51-member U.S. Olympic Committee Thursday listened to presentations by four cities for three hours and then needed only 15 minutes to decide unanimously on Salt Lake City.

The IOC will meet Jan. 15 at Lausanne, Switzerland, to render a decision on Salt Lake City. A number of European cities, the most prominent being Innsbruck, Austria, site of the 1964 Games, are interested in playing host to the 1976 Olympics.

E.J. "Jake" Garn, Salt Lake City's mayor, left for Washington immediately after the decision in an effort to raise the estimated $30 million necessary to fund the Games. Garn said he was hopeful of receiving the $15.5 million Congress had set aside for Denver, which had to cancel when Colorado residents overwhelmingly voted down a referendum to host the Games.

"Many facilities were planned when we made our presentation for the 1972 Games," Garn said. "And we have spent $100 million in their construction. Now we must work on a national funding for the Games and are hopeful of receiving the $15,5 million Congress had earmarked for Denver."

Salt Lake City was chosen over Lake Placid, N.Y.; the Reno-North Lake Tahoe area; and the South Lake Tahoe complex. Garn must now make his next presentation before the IOC.

The decision to award the Games to Salt Lake City met with considerable opposition.

Lake Placid supporters claimed Salt Lake was chosen because the USOC "wants the Games to go by default to Europe"

Roy Kennedy, spokesman for the Lake Placid group, said retiring USOC President Clifford Buck was irked at Colorado's rejection of the Games. "He lives in Denver and he's the one who pushed for the Games there and got his face slapped," Kennedy said. "We think they want the Games to go by default to Europe.

"Also, their facilities will be at 11,000 feet and that's more than the Olympic people will tolerate," Kennedy said, explaining there was an Olympic rule against Games at that altitude.

Frank Cassas, an attorney promoting a regional Lake Tahoe concept, said Squaw Valley's decision to submit its own bid cost the area the Games.

"I feel Salt Lake was awarded the Games only because, at the last minute, Squaw Valley decided to submit its own bid," Cassas said. "As a consequence, South Lake Tahoe submitted its bid because it was cut out of the Squaw Valley plan. Both groups went back to New York. The U.S Olympic Committee didn't want any part of the hassle."

An even more imporatant group said to be opposing the Games is the population of Utah. A recent poll of Utah residents showed them 7-1 against hosting the Games and one paper estimated a 12-1 ratio against the Olympics in Utah. Much of the opposition was based on ecological grounds, the same basis on which Colorado residents rejected the Games.

Tar Cagers Host Canada Tomorrow

College of Marin has played 14 basketball games already, and won 12 of them, but coach John Panagakis and his Tars agree "the season begins tomorrow."

That's when Canada College of Redwood City visits Kentfield for the Camino Norte Conference opener, at 8 p.m., and Marin tries to begin another run at the Championship it has barely missed two years in a row.

Radio station KTIM-AM (1510) and FM (100.9) will offer a delayed-tape broadcast of the game Sunday at 8 a.m. All Tar home league games will be aired on a like manner.

"It's going to be a tough league this year," said Panagakis unhappily. "A team can lose three games (of 14) and still have a chance to win it.

"Contra Costa (of San Pablo) won it last year, West Valley (of Campbell) is 12-1, Santa Rosa is 10-4, De Anza (of Cupertino) will be in there. Every team we play will be rough — honest.

"Canada is 10-4, and they had a real big win over City College of San Francisco in the San Joaquin Delta tournament. They've got four starters back from last year, and they always play us tough."

Quite. Last season, the Tars struggled to a 70-67 victory in Redwood City and a 69-60 triumph in Kentfield en route to an 11-3 league record, good for second place after a third-place finish in 1971.

Marin will enter tomorrow's game shredded of much of its depth. Center Neil Traub missed Wednesday's 70-62 loss to the University of San Francisco junior varsity after injuring his left knee in practice, and Panagakis calls him "very doubtful" for tomorrow. Center

LOS ANGELES OPEN

'Names' In Lead Of Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Often in the first round of a pro golf tournament, an unknown from Keokuk or Grand Rapids pops up as the leader and then returns to oblivion with a string of bogeys in later rounds.

Not so in the first round of the 72-hole $135,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open Thursday, first event on the 1973 Professional Golfers Association tour.

Johnny Miller, Dave Stockton, and aing Julius Boros tied for the first round lead at 67, four under par for the Riviera Country Club course.

The absence of unknowns among the leaders is probably because this is a tough, hilly, and long golf course—7,028 yards—dotted with ravines, creeks and towering eucalyptus trees which seem to reach out and grab a wayward golf ball. Par is 35-36--71.

Jack Nicklaus, everybody's favorite to win after his record $320,542 year in 1972, shot 32-37-69 and said "This is one of the great golf courses in the country."

Miller, 25, Stockton, 31 and Boros, 52, all big money winners on the tour, did not have a bogey among them.

Miller and Boros shot 33-34 and Stockton 34-33.

A stroke back going into today's second round was veteran Bob Rosburg, 46, with 34-34--68.

There were four other more or less prominent pros tied with Nicklaus at 69—Don Bies, Seattle, 33-36; Bert Yancey, Pompano Beach, Fla., David Graham of Australia, and Art Wall Jr., 48, from Honesdale, Pa., with 34-35. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 37-36—73.

There were 23 golfers under par—all pros—and 14 at par in the starting field of 143. Two amateurs, Bud Bradley of Los Angeles and Mark Pfeil of Palos Verdes, Calif., shot identical 35-36--71 scores.

The first round weather was cold—in the low 50s—with cloudy skies and a trace of moisture in the air.

It didn't bother Sam Snead, a well-preserved 60, who had 3733--70, one under. Arnold Palmer, 43, had some trouble with his putter and had a card of 38-37--75, four over. Lee Trevino, No. 2 money man behind Nicklaus last year, could do no better than 38-38-76.

Stockton, whose wife has been ill with pneumonia and whose mother underwent surgery Thursday, got "great satisfaction" from his 67. He had perhaps the most spectacular shot of the first round. He holed a wedge from 120 yards out for an eagle two on the 465yard 12th hole.

Miller almost sank his approach on the 10th hole. It stopped an inch from the cup and he got a birdie three there. The blond San Franciscan said he is not trying to hole his iron shots but just trying to get on the green.

"Get on the green and let your putter do the talking," he said.

Boros who said he plays only three or four holes a day when he's home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., found the weather "raw" but he was steady enough to sink a 25-foot putt on the fourth hole for one of his three birdies.

"That was a great round for me," he said. "I've been busy on my course at home and I really came out here just for a vacation."

Former champion Billy Casper withdrew because of a bad back. Doug Sanders failed to start because of a sore hand. Subs filled the field to the regular 144 but one of them, Odell Massey, did not show.

Attles Is Beaming About Warrior Play

SEATTLE (UPI) — Rick Barry hit 30 and Jim Barnett 10 Thursday night, but that's not what had Golden State Warriors Coach Al Attles beaming today.

It was the defensive jobs they turned in on Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie, the two guys who make the Portland Trail Blazer offense click.

The Warriors took Portland 108-83 and move into Seattle tonight at 8 o'clock to battle the SuperSonics.

Golden State beat the Blazers without the help of Clyde Lee, who normally would have been on Wicks.

Barry instead had to do most of the defensive work on the erstwhile UCLA great and outscored him 30-22 in a battle of what might be the league's two top frontliners.

If Lee, who has reinjured his arch, can't go tonight, Barry will have to guard Spencer Haywood, another top forward.

Portland entered Thursday's game with a 4-8 record against the Warriors. Since Portland has trouble playing at .250, this is a better mark than might be expected. In each Blazer win, Petrie had the hot hand that decided things.

Barnett held him to just seven Thursday in a real key to the outcome.

Golden State moved out to a 19-point lead but Wicks led Portland back to within five before Golden State went on a 10-2 spree to ice it.

Nate Thurmond had 20 points and 22 rebounds in the pivot and Cazzie Rusell added 18 for Golden State, now at 25-12 and, but 4 ½ games back of Los Angeles.

A Promising Outlook Seen For The Giants

Jack Schwarz operates behind the scenes at Candlestick Park for the Giants. Some say he is the finest administrative secretary in baseball's farm systems. He also directs two score of scouts for the Giants.

Schwarz seldom personally signs a raw rookie but he personally signed Chris Speier in January, 1970, and after Speier had played only one year of pro ball, Schwarz predicted a great major league career for the young shortstop.

Speier was just a non-roster invitee to the 1971 spring training camp of the Giants when Schwarz said: "This young man has played only one season of pro ball at Amarillo but he's ready right now for the big time."

There was no hemming or hawing by Schwarz in his prediction, no qualifications, no ifs, ands or buts.

"SPEIER," SAID SCHWARZ, "is a breed of baseball player not common anymore. He's a throwback. He reminds me of old timers like Frankie Frisch and Bill Jurges."

During the past two seasons Speier justified Schwarz' reputation as a peerless picker.

Now a new spring training encampment is only two months away. Schwarz was asked if he anticipated any popup surprise among the Giants this spring.

"Pitching is the story this time," said Schwarz. "I like the deal we made for Tom Bradley. In addition to his talent as a pitcher, Bradley is a leader, a high class fellow who will fill the leadership role that Gaylord Perry used to hold.

"The reports on Juan Marichal's progress since his back operation are most encouraging. If Marichal's back doesn't bother him, there's no reason why he shouldn't make a strong comeback because of his pitching savvy and control."

SCHWARZ LEFT a question mark behind the name of Sam McDowell, the big southpaw for whom the Giants traded Perry a year ago. But he talked enthusiastically about the younger members of the pitching staff and admitted he was "high" on Elias Sosa, the 22-year-old righthander who joined the Giants late last season.

Schwarz also predicted promising future careers for John D'Acquisto and Frank Riccelli but not this season.

"D'Acquisto and Riccelli have been in pro ball only a couple of years," said Schwarz. "They shouldn't be pushed too fast. When they're called up they should come as regular starters."

Schwarz believes the 1973 season should be a successful one for the Giants "if here's any justice in the law of averages."

"WE MADE IT to the playoffs in 1971 because we had more luck than we had a right to epect," said Schwarz. "We had luck last season but it was all the wrong kind.

"This year, as I said, the story will be pitching. We got everything else."

Carpenters Win In Rec Cage

When your opposition on the court includes the guy who runs the program and one of the league's scorekeepers, you're in trouble, as Hub City learned last night in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league play.

Scorekeeper Jerry Molinari tossed in 16 points and recreation director Ralph Dannenberg added 15 as George and Charles Carpentry defeated the Hub men, 58-51, in overtime.

In other games, Manzanita crushed the Seasons, 57-40; MacArthur's topped BGV&C, 43-33; the All-Catholic All-Stars downed the Washouts, 52-43; and Marin Supply whipped Jolly Roger, 31-17.

Wrestling Results

Terra Linda High School defeated Drake, 70-6, and San Rafael topped Novato, 36-24, in season-opening Marin County Athletic League wrestling matches yesterday at Drake and San Rafael, respectively.

Ohio State Won't Pay Hayes' Fees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State University said Thursday it would not pay the legal costs of football coach Woody Hayes, who is charged with injuring a Rose Bowl photographer.

OSU President Harold L. Enarson said the university's legal counsel did not believe it would be "an authorized or proper expenditure of public funds for the university to employ legal counsel to represent Coach Hayes ...."

Enarson said Hayes could, if he wished, petition the state Sundry Claims Board for reimbursement later.

The university president also said he had asked the Big Ten school's athletic director to undertake an inquiry into the incident at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day. he said the report is to include "recommendations concerning what action, if any, the university should take."

Hayes had a tussle with Los Angeles Times photographer Art Rogers, but the coach denied he brushed Rogers' camera into his eye. Rogers filed a complaint, which led to a charge of criminal misdemeanor or battery against Hayes.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, who got involved in the controversy when asked his reaction at a news conference Thursday, said he believed Hayes and Rogers should mutually apologize and forget the incident. Enarson also has proposed this.

William F. Thomas, editor of the Los Angeles Times, however, said there was no reason for Rogers to apologize.

"It's time he (Hayes) is told he must behave as an adult, and that's what the police action is aimed at doing," Thomas said. "We have absolutely no intention of apologizing."

Gilligan also had said at his news conference he believed the incident had been "much overplayed."

Novato Group Sets Ski Trip

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department will conduct a three-day ski trip to Squaw Valley for children from 12 through 17 years old Jan. 26-28, recreation director Edward W. Adams reported today.

The group will leave the Novato Community House at 5 p.m. on Jan. 26 and return Jan. 28. the cost will be $28.50 per person for transportation, lodging, food and admission to a Saturday night dance.

Applications for the trip are available at the parks and recreation office, 917 Sherman Avenue.

A's World Series Film Is Available

OAKLAND (UPI) — The full color 1972 World Series Highlights film featuring the Oakland A's' seven game victory over the Cincinnati Reds is available to groups in Northern California, the A's announced today.

The 38-minute, 16-millimeter film, narrated by Curt Gowdy includes all the action of the Series, rated by some as the most exciting ever. Reservations for the films should be obtained by contacting the A's at their Oakland Coliseum office.

A's Finley Seeks Blue For 1st Pact

OAKLAND (UPI) — According to baseball rules player contracts for the new year must be in the mail by Jan. 15 and Charlie Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland A's, hopes to make Vida Blue, his disappointed star of 1972, the first man signed for 1973.

"Vida called me the other day," Finley said Thursday, "and asked me to have dinner with him in two weeks in Chicago. He wants me to be his guest and he said he would like to sign his 1973 contract at that time.

"A happy Vida Blue affects the whole club," Finley said. "He had problems last year but he was a big help in the Playoffs and World Series."

Does that mean Vida, who won only six games in 1972, will get a raise for 1973?

"I don't anticipate any trouble signing him or any of my other players," Finley said.

Finley also said he has high hopes his A's will repeat as world champions in 1973.

"Winning two in a row is difficult," he said, "but we have the team that can do it. They have always aimed high and that's what you have to."

While in town for the A's world Series film released yesterday, Finley had a chance to talk to a number of his players and said "they understand me and I understand them."

Clemente Rites In Puerto Rico

CAROLINA, P.R. (AP) — Friends remember Roberto Clemente as a man of quiet strength in both public and private life.

That's the way he was remembered Thursday by a priest at memorial services for the baseball superstar.

More than 70 friends of Clemente, including members of the Pittsburgh Pirate organization for which he played, attended the 45-minute service at the San Fernando Roman Catholic Church.

Speaking in the small, stone church not far from Clemente's Carolina home, the priest described the star outfielder as a man who showed the same strength in private life as he did on the field.

This strength eventually led to his untimely death, the priest added. Clemente was aboard a cargo plane carrying food to earthquake victims in Nicaragua when the craft went down in the Atlantic Ocean New Year's Eve not far from the Puerto Rican coast.

Four others were killed in the mercy mission, but only the body of the pilot has been found so far by searchers.

The mourners, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, had arrived at the nearby San Juan airport by chartered jet from Pittsburgh. They boarded buses and rode five miles to the church.

There, they were met by Clemente's widow, Vera.

After the mass ended, Clemente's friends left the church and poured into a plaza bulging with hundreds of people. The Pirate team then visited the Clemente home to pay their respects.

Along with Kuhn, the mourners included Pirate President Dan Galbreath, Manager Bill Virdon, former Manager Danny Murtaugh and many current and former players and some wives.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Olympian DeMont Back In The Swim

Rick DeMont, 16-year-old swimmer from San Rafael who is the best distance freestyler in the world no matter how many gold medals the International Olympic Committee take away from him, will be back in the swim this weekend.

DeMont will be competing in the first meet of the Amateur Athletic Union, Pacific Association's 1973 senior indoor season, Saturday and Sunday at San Francisco State University.

It will be his first competitive meet since he swam in the 400-meter freestyle at the Munich Olympics. In that race he won a gold medal and later had it stripped from him because a drug, ephedrine, was found in his system. A medicine he was taking for asthma contained the drug.

Rick's asthma situation hasn't changed, but his medicine has. No longer is he taking Marax, a medication that includes ephedrine. At the request of Rick's coach, Don Swartz of the Marin Aquatic Club, DeMont's physician, Dr. Patricia M. Clark of Mill Valley, released this statement:

"RICK DEMONT is under my care for asthma. His present medication is Quibrom (Mead-Johnson). Each capsule contains theophylline, 150 mgs., and glyceryl guaiacolate, 90 mgs. This is a combination brocho-dilator and expectorant medication. Dosage is one capsule, two or three times daily as necessary."

According to Dr. Clark, theophylline is related to caffeine which is found in coffee and cocoa. She is sending a letter to Dr. Daniel F. Hanley, a member of the International Olympic Committee's medical commission who recently tried to shift blame for the disqualification to DeMont. She is sending the letter to Hanley to clear the medicine with him. But by the time the next Olympics roll around, caffeine might even be on the banned drug list. Don't laugh. There was some talk at one point to include caffeine on the banned drug list but the idea was abandoned for obvious reasons.

"My intent in obtaining the statement from Dr. Clark," said Swartz, "is to let everyone know the ephedrine medicine is no longer used by Rick in his treatment of asthma. The 1973 AAU senior indoor season begins Saturday with a meet at San Fancisco State and I feel it is important that these gray areas on medication he is using are cleared up. We want no doubt on anybody's mind."

THE MEET WILL be the first also for Marin Aquatic Club teammate Robin Backhaus, Olympic bronze medal winner in the 200-meter butterfly who moved from Redlands to San Rafael since that time. A total of 20 members of the Marin team will be entered in the Saturday-Sunday meet.

"I'll be swimming the 200, 500 and 1,650 yard freestyle and some breast and I.M. (individual medley) events," DeMont said between a morning practice session and start of classes at Terra Linda High School. Backhaus will be entered in breaststroke and distance freestyle events.

DEMONT WAS the subject of a feature story in the November-December issue of Letterman, a magazine of high school sports. A cover title said, "Rick DeMont Talks," and the story on page 19, titled, "I'll Try Again in 1976," was done in the first person. I was totally surprised because I know Rick is a young man of few words.

"I didn't write it," said DeMont. "Someone from that magazine telephoned me just after I returned from the Olympics and asked me some questions." He said he was surprised and unhappy on the way the story was done. I don't blame him. Nobody likes to have somebody else doing the talking for him, and it was the only story in the magazine in which the first person method was used.

But for now, Rick DeMont is back in the swim. Losing his gold medal on the IOC's foul play did not stop him. For that I am glad.

Finley May Be Willing To Sell Seals

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI) — Did Charlie Finley bite off more than he can chew with the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League?

Finley, who needed 14 years to win a world championship with his A's baseball club, frankly is disenchanted with the Seals after only 2 ½ seasons, so much so that he says he will listen to an offer to sell.

"I lost almost half a million dollars on the club in the first year, $700,000 last year and I stand to lose a million this season," Finley said Thursday when he turned a World Series victory film showing of his A's into an apology on why the Seals haven't done better than they have since he bought them three years ago."

"When you continue to lose money, owning a hockey club ceases to be fun," Finley said. "Yes, I'd listen to an offer to sell but unfortunately no one has made me one."

Finley said it was hard enough for his Seals to keep pace with the other clubs in the NHL the past two seasons and when the World Hockey Association came into being before the start of the current season, he was hard pressed to keep his head above water.

"We made a lot of progress last season and in fact were the most improved team in the league," said Finley. "Then came the WHA and as things turned out my big mistake was in giving Garry Young full charge of the operation."

Young was picked by Finley to serve as club general manager and according to Charlie given authority to sign the players.

"I had never done that in baseball," said Finley. "Everyone knows I've always been my own general manager, at least it's been that way in recent years."

Finley once signed Frank Lane to a five year contract as GM of his baseball club and then fired him after the first year.

"I picked Young because I respected his ability," said Finley, forgetting for the moment that he once hired Young as coach of he Seals and fired him after less than one season.

Finley's big complaint against Young, who resigned last Nov. 6 as GM, was that he signed players to contracts without consulting with him.

"That was the beginning of the end for us," said Finley, referring to the downhill slide by the Seals, who have won seven games, lost 22 and tied eight others this season and are dead last in the NHL West.

Finley said that it was bad enough Young didn't consult him on the contracts but worst than that was the fact he misled him about the salaries.

"For instance," and then Finley ticked off a list of contracts, "he told me he signed a player for $20,000 when actually it was for $37,500. Another player — Rick Redmond —was given a twoyear contract calling for

IN 1976

Salt Lake City Olympics Site

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S Olympic Committee has made its decision, unanimously selecting Salt Lake City, Utah, to replace Denver as site of the 1976 Winter Olympics. Now it's up to the International Olympic Committee to approve the shift or give the Olympics to a European city.

The 51-member U.S. Olympic Committee Thursday listened to presentations by four cities for three hours and then needed only 15 minutes to decide unanimously on Salt Lake City.

The IOC will meet Jan. 15 at Lausanne, Switzerland, to render a decision on Salt Lake City. A number of European cities, the most prominent being Innsbruck, Austria, site of the 1964 Games, are interested in playing host to the 1976 Olympics.

E.J. "Jake" Garn, Salt Lake City's mayor, left for Washington immediately after the decision in an effort to raise the estimated $30 million necessary to fund the Games. Garn said he was hopeful of receiving the $15.5 million Congress had set aside for Denver, which had to cancel when Colorado residents overwhelmingly voted down a referendum to host the Games.

"Many facilities were planned when we made our presentation for the 1972 Games," Garn said. "And we have spent $100 million in their construction. Now we must work on a national funding for the Games and are hopeful of receiving the $15,5 million Congress had earmarked for Denver."

Salt Lake City was chosen over Lake Placid, N.Y.; the Reno-North Lake Tahoe area; and the South Lake Tahoe complex. Garn must now make his next presentation before the IOC.

The decision to award the Games to Salt Lake City met with considerable opposition.

Lake Placid supporters claimed Salt Lake was chosen because the USOC "wants the Games to go by default to Europe"

Roy Kennedy, spokesman for the Lake Placid group, said retiring USOC President Clifford Buck was irked at Colorado's rejection of the Games. "He lives in Denver and he's the one who pushed for the Games there and got his face slapped," Kennedy said. "We think they want the Games to go by default to Europe.

"Also, their facilities will be at 11,000 feet and that's more than the Olympic people will tolerate," Kennedy said, explaining there was an Olympic rule against Games at that altitude.

Frank Cassas, an attorney promoting a regional Lake Tahoe concept, said Squaw Valley's decision to submit its own bid cost the area the Games.

"I feel Salt Lake was awarded the Games only because, at the last minute, Squaw Valley decided to submit its own bid," Cassas said. "As a consequence, South Lake Tahoe submitted its bid because it was cut out of the Squaw Valley plan. Both groups went back to New York. The U.S Olympic Committee didn't want any part of the hassle."

An even more imporatant group said to be opposing the Games is the population of Utah. A recent poll of Utah residents showed them 7-1 against hosting the Games and one paper estimated a 12-1 ratio against the Olympics in Utah. Much of the opposition was based on ecological grounds, the same basis on which Colorado residents rejected the Games.

Tar Cagers Host Canada Tomorrow

College of Marin has played 14 basketball games already, and won 12 of them, but coach John Panagakis and his Tars agree "the season begins tomorrow."

That's when Canada College of Redwood City visits Kentfield for the Camino Norte Conference opener, at 8 p.m., and Marin tries to begin another run at the Championship it has barely missed two years in a row.

Radio station KTIM-AM (1510) and FM (100.9) will offer a delayed-tape broadcast of the game Sunday at 8 a.m. All Tar home league games will be aired on a like manner.

"It's going to be a tough league this year," said Panagakis unhappily. "A team can lose three games (of 14) and still have a chance to win it.

"Contra Costa (of San Pablo) won it last year, West Valley (of Campbell) is 12-1, Santa Rosa is 10-4, De Anza (of Cupertino) will be in there. Every team we play will be rough — honest.

"Canada is 10-4, and they had a real big win over City College of San Francisco in the San Joaquin Delta tournament. They've got four starters back from last year, and they always play us tough."

Quite. Last season, the Tars struggled to a 70-67 victory in Redwood City and a 69-60 triumph in Kentfield en route to an 11-3 league record, good for second place after a third-place finish in 1971.

Marin will enter tomorrow's game shredded of much of its depth. Center Neil Traub missed Wednesday's 70-62 loss to the University of San Francisco junior varsity after injuring his left knee in practice, and Panagakis calls him "very doubtful" for tomorrow. Center

LOS ANGELES OPEN

'Names' In Lead Of Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Often in the first round of a pro golf tournament, an unknown from Keokuk or Grand Rapids pops up as the leader and then returns to oblivion with a string of bogeys in later rounds.

Not so in the first round of the 72-hole $135,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open Thursday, first event on the 1973 Professional Golfers Association tour.

Johnny Miller, Dave Stockton, and aing Julius Boros tied for the first round lead at 67, four under par for the Riviera Country Club course.

The absence of unknowns among the leaders is probably because this is a tough, hilly, and long golf course—7,028 yards—dotted with ravines, creeks and towering eucalyptus trees which seem to reach out and grab a wayward golf ball. Par is 35-36--71.

Jack Nicklaus, everybody's favorite to win after his record $320,542 year in 1972, shot 32-37-69 and said "This is one of the great golf courses in the country."

Miller, 25, Stockton, 31 and Boros, 52, all big money winners on the tour, did not have a bogey among them.

Miller and Boros shot 33-34 and Stockton 34-33.

A stroke back going into today's second round was veteran Bob Rosburg, 46, with 34-34--68.

There were four other more or less prominent pros tied with Nicklaus at 69—Don Bies, Seattle, 33-36; Bert Yancey, Pompano Beach, Fla., David Graham of Australia, and Art Wall Jr., 48, from Honesdale, Pa., with 34-35. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 37-36—73.

There were 23 golfers under par—all pros—and 14 at par in the starting field of 143. Two amateurs, Bud Bradley of Los Angeles and Mark Pfeil of Palos Verdes, Calif., shot identical 35-36--71 scores.

The first round weather was cold—in the low 50s—with cloudy skies and a trace of moisture in the air.

It didn't bother Sam Snead, a well-preserved 60, who had 3733--70, one under. Arnold Palmer, 43, had some trouble with his putter and had a card of 38-37--75, four over. Lee Trevino, No. 2 money man behind Nicklaus last year, could do no better than 38-38-76.

Stockton, whose wife has been ill with pneumonia and whose mother underwent surgery Thursday, got "great satisfaction" from his 67. He had perhaps the most spectacular shot of the first round. He holed a wedge from 120 yards out for an eagle two on the 465yard 12th hole.

Miller almost sank his approach on the 10th hole. It stopped an inch from the cup and he got a birdie three there. The blond San Franciscan said he is not trying to hole his iron shots but just trying to get on the green.

"Get on the green and let your putter do the talking," he said.

Boros who said he plays only three or four holes a day when he's home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., found the weather "raw" but he was steady enough to sink a 25-foot putt on the fourth hole for one of his three birdies.

"That was a great round for me," he said. "I've been busy on my course at home and I really came out here just for a vacation."

Former champion Billy Casper withdrew because of a bad back. Doug Sanders failed to start because of a sore hand. Subs filled the field to the regular 144 but one of them, Odell Massey, did not show.

Attles Is Beaming About Warrior Play

SEATTLE (UPI) — Rick Barry hit 30 and Jim Barnett 10 Thursday night, but that's not what had Golden State Warriors Coach Al Attles beaming today.

It was the defensive jobs they turned in on Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie, the two guys who make the Portland Trail Blazer offense click.

The Warriors took Portland 108-83 and move into Seattle tonight at 8 o'clock to battle the SuperSonics.

Golden State beat the Blazers without the help of Clyde Lee, who normally would have been on Wicks.

Barry instead had to do most of the defensive work on the erstwhile UCLA great and outscored him 30-22 in a battle of what might be the league's two top frontliners.

If Lee, who has reinjured his arch, can't go tonight, Barry will have to guard Spencer Haywood, another top forward.

Portland entered Thursday's game with a 4-8 record against the Warriors. Since Portland has trouble playing at .250, this is a better mark than might be expected. In each Blazer win, Petrie had the hot hand that decided things.

Barnett held him to just seven Thursday in a real key to the outcome.

Golden State moved out to a 19-point lead but Wicks led Portland back to within five before Golden State went on a 10-2 spree to ice it.

Nate Thurmond had 20 points and 22 rebounds in the pivot and Cazzie Rusell added 18 for Golden State, now at 25-12 and, but 4 ½ games back of Los Angeles.

FISH AND GAME

Limited Income Fishing Licenses

By AL GIDDINGS

While checking the steelhead fishermen at Papermill Creek this week, I ran into Leo Clausen generally known as the "Mayor of Papermill Creek."

He was fishing with all of his buddies. I was immediately cornered by the group — (everyone of them is over 62 years of age). They were wondering about the new legislative bill regarding fishing licenses. The new legislation lowering the age at which men with limited incomes may obtain free California fishing licenses will not become effective until 61 days after the end of the veto session.

The bill, AB 2169, reduces from 65 to 62 the minimum age at which men meeting income requirements may obtain free licenses for ocean fishing and frogging. The minimum age for women remains 62.

Income limits are $140 monthly for single persons and $280 monthly combined for married persons.

Applications for free licenses are available from Department of Fish and Games offices and license agents throughout the state. Completed applications must be returned to the Sacramento department headquarters.

DFG license chief James Christopher said he will be unable, until the effective date of the legislation, to process applications for free licenses from men now under 65.

I ASKED LEO how Big Ed was. (That's the name of the steelhead Leo took home alive last year.) According to Leo, Big Ed is just fine, living in the big fish pond there at the house. Then I questioned the group on the fishing, all said it has been slow. Frank Mononi of San Rafael has added three salmon to the 10 he had which I wrote about two weeks ago. Americo Terribilini, the fisherman who caught the 18-pounder then hasn't connected since. They blamed the slow fishing this day on a big buck who jumped into the creek and swam around the area tangling their lines up. Then, Leo came up with his theory to the slow fishing.

He said, "The fish won't begin to really hit until the pussy willows along this creek are in bloom!" Now, I've heard them all; but be sure and check the trees if you do catch a fish. He might have something!

ARDIE HOWELL of Corte Madera has been determined to catch a sturgeon off the beach. I think I've sent him to every hot spot that I know of but with no success. Last Sunday he got a call from his brother, Ray, who was fishing off the rock wall at Sausalito near the Ondine Restaurant. Ray had just caught a 50-pounder there. Well, Ardie immediately headed down there and landed a 100-pounder. From what I hear, he really caused a traffic jam landing that fish in full view of the highway. Later, his wife, Toni, hooked one that she couldn't stop. It finally broke off going around the pilings under the Ondine Restaurant. They used both grass shrimp and anchovies for bait with equal success. The hundred pound fish was loaded with an estimated 30 pounds of caviar.

Ted Yatho, fishing at the Richmond Bridge, took a party of three out; all came in with a sturgeon. The next day, he took the Miller kids out from the Loch Lomond Bait Barge to the same spot. Again all three caught a sturgeon. One of the Miller boys took his flyrod along — the rod was an old split bamboo relic, but he landed a 37-pound sturgeon on it!

Jim Davenport and Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants organization have been out fishing. Jim is hitting two fish for three trips and Bobby is nothing for two. Yep, these two baseball men have been giving the sturgeon a real go.

THE STRIPERS have slowed some what, but Harry Weatherman of San Rafael was just sworn into the ranks of the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Naturally, he took his rod and his wife — down to the Rod and Gun Club pier to try the fishing. He didn't catch a thing, but his wife Mary landed a 12½-pound tagged striper.

The ocean salmon season opens the Saturday nearest Feb. 15, which makes the legal opening date this year Feb. 17th. Stafford Lake, west of Novato, has been getting trout plants — and the season is open. More plants are scheduled for this month. Don't forget your trout stamps on your new license.

Some 22,487 hunters took 2,331 pheasants during the 1972 season on the state and federal hunting areas managed by the Dept. of Fish and Game.

The duck take average at the same state and federal areas is about 2.0 birds per hunter for the season to date.

Don't forget your new 1973 fishing licenses.

GOLF NOTES

Fakundiny New Marin Club Aide

Marin Country Club in Novato has a new assistant pro. Novato's Paul Fakundiny, 25, left a similar position at San Geronimo National Golf Club to start work at his new job Tuesday.

Fakundiny served a year and one-half at San Geronimo before accepting what he terms "a better opportunity." He adds that his pro tour ambitions also influenced the move.

"I'll have a chance to play more here . . . I'll play in more pro-ams, and, if things go the way I hope, I'll try the PGA (Professional Golfers Association) Players School tourney this fall."

The Riverside City College product points out that he has been considering the job switch "for about a month." Fakundiny believes that it is "best to have a reference from a private club," but he did enjoy his tour at San Geronimo.

San Geronimo head pro Wayne Wallick says: "I hated to lose him. He's been a lot of help to me, and he is very well liked."

49ers, Raiders Each Place 5 On All-NFL Aggregation

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The San Francisco 49ers and the Oakland Raiders placed five men each on the Associated Press National Football League All-Pro football selections announced Thursday.

Niners receiving first team berths were: wide receiver Gene Washington, tight end Ted Kwalick, center Forrest Blue, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jim Johnson.

Raiders earning first team recognition were wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff and cornerback Willie Brown. Tackle Bob Brown, guard Gene Upshaw, and center Jim Otto gained second team places for the Raiders.

Miami coach Don Shula was selected American Football Conference coach of the year.

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati Bengals linebacker Al Beauchamp, 28, was granted a postponement Thursday until Feb. 2 of his municipal court trial on charges of assaulting a tow truck driver.

Beauchamp, who is 6-foot-2 and 237 pounds, allegedly picked up 5-7, 125-pound David Harris on Dec. 11 and threw him to the ground. Harris said he was attempting to tow Beauchamp's car away from a loading dock at the rear of a department store when accosted by the football player.

TORRANCE — Denver Bronco linebacker Don Parish will go on trial in Superior Court Feb. 21 on a charge of possessing a vial of cocaine.

The 24-year-old former Stanford football star pleaded innocent to the charge Thursday when he appeared in court.

Parish was arrested by U.S. Marshals at the Los Angeles International Airport Nov. 13 after a search disclosed the vial containing a substance which later was identified as 13 grams of cocaine worth $1,170.

Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO — Northern California is the first stop of the new year for the women's professional tennis tour and the field for the British Motors open, which kicks off the tour on Jan. 15, will have a starting field of 38 players.

A total of 12 girls headed by super-rated players such as Billie Jean King, Margaret Court, Rosie Casals of Sausalito and Kerry Melville are firmed for the first six nights of action with the remaining 26 women battling for the remaining spots at Lodi, Jan. 12-13-14.

Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The first two entires for the 1973 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race were received Thursday, and both cars were designated for driver John Mahler.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway put the entry forms in the mail Tuesday and it was expected about 75 cars would be entered for the May 28 classic. Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa, was named driver for the two cars submitted by Harbor Fuel Racing Inc., Nantucket, Mass. Both are updated versions of the turbocharged Offenhauser McLaren in which Mahler qualified at 179.497 miles an hour on the last day of time trials last year.

Piston trouble forced him out of his first Indianapolis test halfway through the race after he moved up from his 29th starting spot to 15th in the race.

Bowling

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Gus Lampo of Endicott, N.Y., trying to capture the San Jose Open bowling tournament for the second year in a row, won six of his eight match games Thursday night and took an 85-pin lead with 1,840 pins in the $65.000 event.

The starting field of 128 was cut to 24 after Thursday afternoon's third six-game qualifying bloc. After 16 more head-to-had match games today, the high-scoring five will go into Saturday afternoon's nationally televised finals for the $7,500 first prize.

Baseball

CLEVELAND — George M. Steinbrenner III, one of the new owners of the New York Yankees, has sold his 50 per cent interest in Northfieldark, a harness racing track in Northern Ohio.

Steinbrenner bought the track last July along with two other investors. "I regret having to bow out of Northfield without ever really getting started," Steinbrenner, owner of American Ship Building Co., said Thursday. "However, the decision was dictated by the demands on my time."

Steinbrenner sold his interest in the track to his partners, Carl Milstein and Robert Stakich, for $3.75 million. The three had bought it for $7.5 million.

Dolphins' Tight End Fleming Is Hospitalized With The Flu

Combined AP & UPI

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins tight end Marv Fleming was in the hospital with flu and heavy chest congestion today, but Coach Don Shula said he would be able to make the trip to Los Angeles Sunday and will play in Super Bowl VII.

The Dolphins will wind up Miami preparations Saturday for the showdown with the Washington Redskins Jan. 14 and fly to Los Angeles Sunday.

After Thursday's workout, wide receiver Paul Warfield said he believes Bob Griese's timing with him "is at the same place it was before the regular season."

Griese, who will start against Washington, played his first full half of football in last Sunday's AFC championship game with Pittsburgh since he broke his leg Oct. 15 against San Diego.

Shula, voted American Football Conference Coach by the Associated Press yesterday, said Fleming's illness is the only physical problem the Dolphins face aside from cornerback Tim Foley, who will not play because of a shoulder separation.

Foley will be replaced by four-year veteran Lloyd Mumphord, who said Thursday he was confident Redskin quarterback Billy Kilmer will not be able to pick on his area with any success.

Kilmer and the Redskins have demonstrated a liking for concentrating on new men, but Mumphord has played against Kilmer before and says he liked it.

"I like the way he throws the ball," says Mumphord. "He doesn't have that much zip."

Meanwhile, the Redskins buckled down to intensive homework Friday on grounds that next week may be too late to bring themselves to a peak for the Jan. 14 Super Bowl championship meeting.

"The big thing is to get as much done as possible here in Washington before we fly to the West Coast Sunday where there are going to be obvious distractions," coach George Allen said Thursday after putting the squad through a two hour and 15 minute drill.

Under NFL rules, the contending teams must be at the Super Bowl site at least by the Monday before the pro football championship contest.

The only member of the National Football Conference champion Redskin squad absent from practice was tackle Terry Hermeling who sustained a severe leg injury when Washington defeated Dallas 26-3 to qualify for Super Bowl VII last Sunday.

$80,000 in the first year and $100,000 in the second.

"Obviously, those figures were way out of line and far from what I could afford," said Finley, who added that in addition to low attendance he didn't receive any television revenue as do most NHL clubs.

Finley said that he was unaware of what was going on until he received a notice from NHL headquarters asking him for copies of player contracts.

"Young told me he had sent them in," said Finley when I asked him about them," and finally, I guess he did. Then Clarence Campbell (NHL president) called me and asked me if I knew what my players were getting. That's when I learned of Young's lies. So I called him in and we talked for more than five hours, and when it was all over I still didn't know why he did what he did, but I do know it will cost me $1 million this season, and that's cold cash, not paper money."

Finley also blamed Young for the defection of 11 Seals to the WHA.

"I know I could have signed all of them," said the Seals owner.

John Crozier also missed USF with the flu and hasn't been to practice since. Reserve guard Ken Gommeringer has quit the team.

"We had a good, hard practice yesterday," said Panagakis. "I think they (the players) will be able to shake off the loss to USF. It was a lesson for them."

USF Survives 1st Test Vs. Seattle

Combined AP & UPI

SEATTLE — The University of San Francisco survived its first West Coast Athletic Conference basketball test last night, and the Dons can attribute the win to free throw prowess.

The Dons limited host Seattle University to four free throw attempts in their 66-60 victory. Meanwhile, the visitors used charity tosses to stave off a Seattle comeback in the second half.

Seattle dropped behind by 15 points at one time in the second half but pulled to within two at 62-60 before the Chieftain's high scorer, Bob Gross, fouled out at 2:19. Gross had 16 points on the night and grabbed 10 rebounds.

After Gross fouled out, substitute guard John Boro, a Redwood High School product, scored twice from the free-throw line and doubled again seconds later to cap off the scoring. He finished the night with 10 points.

Other Thursday scores: U.S. International 73, Pacific Christian 55, Willamette 84, St. Martin's 70, Grand Canyon 73, Cal Lutheran 65, Oklahoma City 76, Puget Sound 75, Portland State 102, Alaska 94, Pasadena 85, Newburg 77, Azusa 80, MacAlester 52, Biola 82, Upland 76, Drury 85, Southern California College 77.

Golfer Jane Blalock Has Case In Court

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys representing golfer Jane Blalock argued Thursday that her suspension from tournament play for alleged cheating was a violation of federal antitrust laws.

The charge came in a pretrial hearing for Miss Blalock's $2 million federal court suit against the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

Eugene Partain, representing the 27-year-old golfer, said five fellow competitors on the tour composed the LPGA executive committee which handed down the year's suspension. He said the five lady golfers stood to gain in personal income if Miss Blalock were forced off the tour.

The LPGA said the suspension was invoked May 30 last year after several assigned spotters reported they had seen Miss Blalock mark her ball on the putting surface and replace it closer to the hole.

U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moye Jr., took a motion for summary judgment in favor of Miss Blalock under consideration and gave attorneys for both sides 10 days to file supplementary briefs.

A jury trial is scheduled for the Portsmouth, N. H., star on Jan. 22.

A Promising Outlook Seen For The Giants

Jack Schwarz operates behind the scenes at Candlestick Park for the Giants. Some say he is the finest administrative secretary in baseball's farm systems. He also directs two score of scouts for the Giants.

Schwarz seldom personally signs a raw rookie but he personally signed Chris Speier in January, 1970, and after Speier had played only one year of pro ball, Schwarz predicted a great major league career for the young shortstop.

Speier was just a non-roster invitee to the 1971 spring training camp of the Giants when Schwarz said: "This young man has played only one season of pro ball at Amarillo but he's ready right now for the big time."

There was no hemming or hawing by Schwarz in his prediction, no qualifications, no ifs, ands or buts.

"SPEIER," SAID SCHWARZ, "is a breed of baseball player not common anymore. He's a throwback. He reminds me of old timers like Frankie Frisch and Bill Jurges."

During the past two seasons Speier justified Schwarz' reputation as a peerless picker.

Now a new spring training encampment is only two months away. Schwarz was asked if he anticipated any popup surprise among the Giants this spring.

"Pitching is the story this time," said Schwarz. "I like the deal we made for Tom Bradley. In addition to his talent as a pitcher, Bradley is a leader, a high class fellow who will fill the leadership role that Gaylord Perry used to hold.

"The reports on Juan Marichal's progress since his back operation are most encouraging. If Marichal's back doesn't bother him, there's no reason why he shouldn't make a strong comeback because of his pitching savvy and control."

SCHWARZ LEFT a question mark behind the name of Sam McDowell, the big southpaw for whom the Giants traded Perry a year ago. But he talked enthusiastically about the younger members of the pitching staff and admitted he was "high" on Elias Sosa, the 22-year-old righthander who joined the Giants late last season.

Schwarz also predicted promising future careers for John D'Acquisto and Frank Riccelli but not this season.

"D'Acquisto and Riccelli have been in pro ball only a couple of years," said Schwarz. "They shouldn't be pushed too fast. When they're called up they should come as regular starters."

Schwarz believes the 1973 season should be a successful one for the Giants "if here's any justice in the law of averages."

"WE MADE IT to the playoffs in 1971 because we had more luck than we had a right to epect," said Schwarz. "We had luck last season but it was all the wrong kind.

"This year, as I said, the story will be pitching. We got everything else."

Carpenters Win In Rec Cage

When your opposition on the court includes the guy who runs the program and one of the league's scorekeepers, you're in trouble, as Hub City learned last night in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league play.

Scorekeeper Jerry Molinari tossed in 16 points and recreation director Ralph Dannenberg added 15 as George and Charles Carpentry defeated the Hub men, 58-51, in overtime.

In other games, Manzanita crushed the Seasons, 57-40; MacArthur's topped BGV&C, 43-33; the All-Catholic All-Stars downed the Washouts, 52-43; and Marin Supply whipped Jolly Roger, 31-17.

Wrestling Results

Terra Linda High School defeated Drake, 70-6, and San Rafael topped Novato, 36-24, in season-opening Marin County Athletic League wrestling matches yesterday at Drake and San Rafael, respectively.

Ohio State Won't Pay Hayes' Fees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State University said Thursday it would not pay the legal costs of football coach Woody Hayes, who is charged with injuring a Rose Bowl photographer.

OSU President Harold L. Enarson said the university's legal counsel did not believe it would be "an authorized or proper expenditure of public funds for the university to employ legal counsel to represent Coach Hayes ...."

Enarson said Hayes could, if he wished, petition the state Sundry Claims Board for reimbursement later.

The university president also said he had asked the Big Ten school's athletic director to undertake an inquiry into the incident at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day. he said the report is to include "recommendations concerning what action, if any, the university should take."

Hayes had a tussle with Los Angeles Times photographer Art Rogers, but the coach denied he brushed Rogers' camera into his eye. Rogers filed a complaint, which led to a charge of criminal misdemeanor or battery against Hayes.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, who got involved in the controversy when asked his reaction at a news conference Thursday, said he believed Hayes and Rogers should mutually apologize and forget the incident. Enarson also has proposed this.

William F. Thomas, editor of the Los Angeles Times, however, said there was no reason for Rogers to apologize.

"It's time he (Hayes) is told he must behave as an adult, and that's what the police action is aimed at doing," Thomas said. "We have absolutely no intention of apologizing."

Gilligan also had said at his news conference he believed the incident had been "much overplayed."

Novato Group Sets Ski Trip

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department will conduct a three-day ski trip to Squaw Valley for children from 12 through 17 years old Jan. 26-28, recreation director Edward W. Adams reported today.

The group will leave the Novato Community House at 5 p.m. on Jan. 26 and return Jan. 28. the cost will be $28.50 per person for transportation, lodging, food and admission to a Saturday night dance.

Applications for the trip are available at the parks and recreation office, 917 Sherman Avenue.

A's World Series Film Is Available

OAKLAND (UPI) — The full color 1972 World Series Highlights film featuring the Oakland A's' seven game victory over the Cincinnati Reds is available to groups in Northern California, the A's announced today.

The 38-minute, 16-millimeter film, narrated by Curt Gowdy includes all the action of the Series, rated by some as the most exciting ever. Reservations for the films should be obtained by contacting the A's at their Oakland Coliseum office.

A's Finley Seeks Blue For 1st Pact

OAKLAND (UPI) — According to baseball rules player contracts for the new year must be in the mail by Jan. 15 and Charlie Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland A's, hopes to make Vida Blue, his disappointed star of 1972, the first man signed for 1973.

"Vida called me the other day," Finley said Thursday, "and asked me to have dinner with him in two weeks in Chicago. He wants me to be his guest and he said he would like to sign his 1973 contract at that time.

"A happy Vida Blue affects the whole club," Finley said. "He had problems last year but he was a big help in the Playoffs and World Series."

Does that mean Vida, who won only six games in 1972, will get a raise for 1973?

"I don't anticipate any trouble signing him or any of my other players," Finley said.

Finley also said he has high hopes his A's will repeat as world champions in 1973.

"Winning two in a row is difficult," he said, "but we have the team that can do it. They have always aimed high and that's what you have to."

While in town for the A's world Series film released yesterday, Finley had a chance to talk to a number of his players and said "they understand me and I understand them."

Clemente Rites In Puerto Rico

CAROLINA, P.R. (AP) — Friends remember Roberto Clemente as a man of quiet strength in both public and private life.

That's the way he was remembered Thursday by a priest at memorial services for the baseball superstar.

More than 70 friends of Clemente, including members of the Pittsburgh Pirate organization for which he played, attended the 45-minute service at the San Fernando Roman Catholic Church.

Speaking in the small, stone church not far from Clemente's Carolina home, the priest described the star outfielder as a man who showed the same strength in private life as he did on the field.

This strength eventually led to his untimely death, the priest added. Clemente was aboard a cargo plane carrying food to earthquake victims in Nicaragua when the craft went down in the Atlantic Ocean New Year's Eve not far from the Puerto Rican coast.

Four others were killed in the mercy mission, but only the body of the pilot has been found so far by searchers.

The mourners, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, had arrived at the nearby San Juan airport by chartered jet from Pittsburgh. They boarded buses and rode five miles to the church.

There, they were met by Clemente's widow, Vera.

After the mass ended, Clemente's friends left the church and poured into a plaza bulging with hundreds of people. The Pirate team then visited the Clemente home to pay their respects.

Along with Kuhn, the mourners included Pirate President Dan Galbreath, Manager Bill Virdon, former Manager Danny Murtaugh and many current and former players and some wives.

Flexible House Of Future

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The house of the future will be a flexible, do-it-yourself dwelling that can grow, shrink, or even swap rooms at its owner's whim, an engineering researcher says.

The house would consist of a central steel frame with standardized components fastened to it, such as walls, floors, roofs, wiring and plumbing. Starting with the same basic frame, builders could devise homes of almost any size, architectural style and price they wanted to by varying the components.

The new type of home — potentially far more individualized than today's factory housing — could be in common use within 20 years, says Richard L. Martin, senior housing economist at the Stanford Research Institute here.

Martin, who with other SRI engineers developed and is studying the concept of component housing, is reluctant to put a pricetag on the technique. But he said he is confident the method eventually could be used to mass produce homes at prices competitive with standard housing.

"When somebody wants to build a house, he might go to a factory to select his components — just like a housewife today goes to the supermarket to buy food when she wants to cook a meal," Martin said in an interview.

"All the ingredients are there, and depending on your budget and your tastes you could put together any kind of home you wanted," he said. "One person might choose hardwood floors and another linoleum; one might like a sunken bathtub and another a simple shower stall."

Because everything but the central frame is a detachable component, Martin said the new style home would offer its occupants and urban planners some striking advantages over present housing.

"Nowadays if a wife tires of the furniture arrangement in her living room, she can switch it around. With our housing, she could do the same with whole rooms — switch the living room with the bedroom, or put the bathroom where the kitchen was," Martin said.

He estimated a man and wife could move an entire room — walls, floor and all — in half a day.

A family could even add a second story to their home, with the aid of a contractor, in a few days by "taking off the roof like a hat from your head" and stacking a new steel frame on the old one.

Perhaps most important, Martin said, the new building concept would revolutionize urban renewal. Buildings that now deteriorate until they have to be condemned and torn down could be quickly and inexpensively remodeled and reburbished, or even moved to a new location.

Martin said the construction principle could be used for other buildings besides homes — even highrise apartments and offices — and the structures would be at least as safe as conventional buildings from earthquakes or other disasters.

"Far from a house of cards, the structure, once it was assembled, would be like a rigid box," he said. "The wall panels would tighten up around the frame and stabilize it. The ground could move up and down and it still wouldn't collapse."

Martin said SRA researchers initially began looking for new housing concepts because they felt conventional methods were fast becoming outmoded.

Lewis Head Of Marin Realtors

William A. Lewis, owner of Lewis Realty in Mill Valley, will be installed as 1973 president of the Marin County Board of Realtors at an installation dinner next Tuesday night (Jan. 9) at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael.

Lewis will take over the gavel from outgoing president Donald A. Beacock of Beacock & Maxson Inc. Realtors, Corte Madera.

Other new officers to be installed with Lewis are Bruce Wrisley of Mill Valley, vice president; Virginia Russell of Novato, secretary; and Frank Hanses of Strawberry, treasurer.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

IRS Using New Computers To Catch The Income Tax Cheats

The Internal Revenue Service is making every effort to catch people who cheat on their tax returns and the new computers are now being used even more effectively than in the past.

IRS states, "DIF is the commonly used abbreviation for Discriminant Function. It is a mathematical technique used to classify income tax returns as to audit potential. Classification is the means by which returns having error potential are identified and selected for examination. Currently, the DIF system is used for all individual returns filed."

"Under the DIF concept, TCMP, or Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program, audits provide the statistical date that is the basis for derivation of the DIF formulas. These formulas are programmed into the computer to classify returns by assigning weights to certain return characteristics. These weights are then added together to obtain a composite score for each return processed. The higher the score, the higher the probability of a significant tax change."

Of course, the IRS will not tell us what these formulas are.

It's a safe bet, however, that if you make a claim for a large contribution deduction or claim a state income tax payment out of proportion to your income or claim a sales tax deduction out of proportion to your income without some explanation such as car purchase, that you are going to be audited.

Likewise, a very heavy medical expense deduction would occasion an audit as would interest expense out of all proportion to your income.

I have an idea that a large casualty or theft loss would trigger an audit as well as any large miscellaneous item.

Page 2 of Form 1040, at line 34, says enter the number of persons listed on lines 8 and 9 (dependents) who are:

1. Filing a return of their own, or

2. did not live at your principal place of residence at the end of the year.

If you answer this question other than none, or if you fail to answer the question, I believe that you are going to get an inquiry.

The IRS, has found that some people claim children for whom they are paying child support and that the other divorced parent is also claiming the children, which makes a double deduction. Also, they are looking for people who are claiming dependents who earn over half of their own support.

There are other items on your tax return which I believe would trigger an audit and I'm sure that the computer makes it easy to pick these out.

Now, more than ever, it is vitally important to fill in your tax return fully and completely and where there is a doubtful item, you should attach a separate schedule to your tax return explaining this fully. Then, hopefully, when the return is pulled for audit, one of the reviewers will read the explanation and decide that there is no point in further auditing.

Market On The Rebound Following Drop Yesterday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traders pushed stocks higher during the first two hours today onqthe New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was active.

The market's action reflected recovery from the dip Thursday, which followed a sizeable three-day advance. Analysts said the decline was not unexpected in view of the list's quick spiral upward.

Most active issue was Alcan Aluminum, up ½ to 24 ¾ on 128,500 shares traded.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also moved higher in active trading. Topping the active list was Loews warrants, off ⅜ to 18 ½ on 56,000 shares.

On the Big Board, the electronics group helped the blue chips spur the market, with several issues recording pickups of a point or more. Among them were IBM up 3¾, Motorola 1⅞, Westinghouse 1⅜ andGeneral Electric 1½.

Airlines Report November Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) —Two major airlines Monday reported poorer results for November than a year ago. Trans World Airlines said it had a $3.2 million loss in November against a loss of $361,000 last year when it benefitted from a non-recurring after tax adjustment of $9 million.

Eastern Air Lines had earnings of only $222,000 in November compared with $2.7 million a year ago.

FISH AND GAME

Limited Income Fishing Licenses

By AL GIDDINGS

While checking the steelhead fishermen at Papermill Creek this week, I ran into Leo Clausen generally known as the "Mayor of Papermill Creek."

He was fishing with all of his buddies. I was immediately cornered by the group — (everyone of them is over 62 years of age). They were wondering about the new legislative bill regarding fishing licenses. The new legislation lowering the age at which men with limited incomes may obtain free California fishing licenses will not become effective until 61 days after the end of the veto session.

The bill, AB 2169, reduces from 65 to 62 the minimum age at which men meeting income requirements may obtain free licenses for ocean fishing and frogging. The minimum age for women remains 62.

Income limits are $140 monthly for single persons and $280 monthly combined for married persons.

Applications for free licenses are available from Department of Fish and Games offices and license agents throughout the state. Completed applications must be returned to the Sacramento department headquarters.

DFG license chief James Christopher said he will be unable, until the effective date of the legislation, to process applications for free licenses from men now under 65.

I ASKED LEO how Big Ed was. (That's the name of the steelhead Leo took home alive last year.) According to Leo, Big Ed is just fine, living in the big fish pond there at the house. Then I questioned the group on the fishing, all said it has been slow. Frank Mononi of San Rafael has added three salmon to the 10 he had which I wrote about two weeks ago. Americo Terribilini, the fisherman who caught the 18-pounder then hasn't connected since. They blamed the slow fishing this day on a big buck who jumped into the creek and swam around the area tangling their lines up. Then, Leo came up with his theory to the slow fishing.

He said, "The fish won't begin to really hit until the pussy willows along this creek are in bloom!" Now, I've heard them all; but be sure and check the trees if you do catch a fish. He might have something!

ARDIE HOWELL of Corte Madera has been determined to catch a sturgeon off the beach. I think I've sent him to every hot spot that I know of but with no success. Last Sunday he got a call from his brother, Ray, who was fishing off the rock wall at Sausalito near the Ondine Restaurant. Ray had just caught a 50-pounder there. Well, Ardie immediately headed down there and landed a 100-pounder. From what I hear, he really caused a traffic jam landing that fish in full view of the highway. Later, his wife, Toni, hooked one that she couldn't stop. It finally broke off going around the pilings under the Ondine Restaurant. They used both grass shrimp and anchovies for bait with equal success. The hundred pound fish was loaded with an estimated 30 pounds of caviar.

Ted Yatho, fishing at the Richmond Bridge, took a party of three out; all came in with a sturgeon. The next day, he took the Miller kids out from the Loch Lomond Bait Barge to the same spot. Again all three caught a sturgeon. One of the Miller boys took his flyrod along — the rod was an old split bamboo relic, but he landed a 37-pound sturgeon on it!

Jim Davenport and Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants organization have been out fishing. Jim is hitting two fish for three trips and Bobby is nothing for two. Yep, these two baseball men have been giving the sturgeon a real go.

THE STRIPERS have slowed some what, but Harry Weatherman of San Rafael was just sworn into the ranks of the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Naturally, he took his rod and his wife — down to the Rod and Gun Club pier to try the fishing. He didn't catch a thing, but his wife Mary landed a 12½-pound tagged striper.

The ocean salmon season opens the Saturday nearest Feb. 15, which makes the legal opening date this year Feb. 17th. Stafford Lake, west of Novato, has been getting trout plants — and the season is open. More plants are scheduled for this month. Don't forget your trout stamps on your new license.

Some 22,487 hunters took 2,331 pheasants during the 1972 season on the state and federal hunting areas managed by the Dept. of Fish and Game.

The duck take average at the same state and federal areas is about 2.0 birds per hunter for the season to date.

Don't forget your new 1973 fishing licenses.

USF Survives 1st Test Vs. Seattle

Combined AP & UPI

SEATTLE — The University of San Francisco survived its first West Coast Athletic Conference basketball test last night, and the Dons can attribute the win to free throw prowess.

The Dons limited host Seattle University to four free throw attempts in their 66-60 victory. Meanwhile, the visitors used charity tosses to stave off a Seattle comeback in the second half.

Seattle dropped behind by 15 points at one time in the second half but pulled to within two at 62-60 before the Chieftain's high scorer, Bob Gross, fouled out at 2:19. Gross had 16 points on the night and grabbed 10 rebounds.

After Gross fouled out, substitute guard John Boro, a Redwood High School product, scored twice from the free-throw line and doubled again seconds later to cap off the scoring. He finished the night with 10 points.

Other Thursday scores: U.S. International 73, Pacific Christian 55, Willamette 84, St. Martin's 70, Grand Canyon 73, Cal Lutheran 65, Oklahoma City 76, Puget Sound 75, Portland State 102, Alaska 94, Pasadena 85, Newburg 77, Azusa 80, MacAlester 52, Biola 82, Upland 76, Drury 85, Southern California College 77.

Golfer Jane Blalock Has Case In Court

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys representing golfer Jane Blalock argued Thursday that her suspension from tournament play for alleged cheating was a violation of federal antitrust laws.

The charge came in a pretrial hearing for Miss Blalock's $2 million federal court suit against the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

Eugene Partain, representing the 27-year-old golfer, said five fellow competitors on the tour composed the LPGA executive committee which handed down the year's suspension. He said the five lady golfers stood to gain in personal income if Miss Blalock were forced off the tour.

The LPGA said the suspension was invoked May 30 last year after several assigned spotters reported they had seen Miss Blalock mark her ball on the putting surface and replace it closer to the hole.

U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moye Jr., took a motion for summary judgment in favor of Miss Blalock under consideration and gave attorneys for both sides 10 days to file supplementary briefs.

A jury trial is scheduled for the Portsmouth, N. H., star on Jan. 22.

GOLF NOTES

Fakundiny New Marin Club Aide

Marin Country Club in Novato has a new assistant pro. Novato's Paul Fakundiny, 25, left a similar position at San Geronimo National Golf Club to start work at his new job Tuesday.

Fakundiny served a year and one-half at San Geronimo before accepting what he terms "a better opportunity." He adds that his pro tour ambitions also influenced the move.

"I'll have a chance to play more here . . . I'll play in more pro-ams, and, if things go the way I hope, I'll try the PGA (Professional Golfers Association) Players School tourney this fall."

The Riverside City College product points out that he has been considering the job switch "for about a month." Fakundiny believes that it is "best to have a reference from a private club," but he did enjoy his tour at San Geronimo.

San Geronimo head pro Wayne Wallick says: "I hated to lose him. He's been a lot of help to me, and he is very well liked."

49ers, Raiders Each Place 5 On All-NFL Aggregation

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The San Francisco 49ers and the Oakland Raiders placed five men each on the Associated Press National Football League All-Pro football selections announced Thursday.

Niners receiving first team berths were: wide receiver Gene Washington, tight end Ted Kwalick, center Forrest Blue, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jim Johnson.

Raiders earning first team recognition were wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff and cornerback Willie Brown. Tackle Bob Brown, guard Gene Upshaw, and center Jim Otto gained second team places for the Raiders.

Miami coach Don Shula was selected American Football Conference coach of the year.

More Football

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati Bengals linebacker Al Beauchamp, 28, was granted a postponement Thursday until Feb. 2 of his municipal court trial on charges of assaulting a tow truck driver.

Beauchamp, who is 6-foot-2 and 237 pounds, allegedly picked up 5-7, 125-pound David Harris on Dec. 11 and threw him to the ground. Harris said he was attempting to tow Beauchamp's car away from a loading dock at the rear of a department store when accosted by the football player.

TORRANCE — Denver Bronco linebacker Don Parish will go on trial in Superior Court Feb. 21 on a charge of possessing a vial of cocaine.

The 24-year-old former Stanford football star pleaded innocent to the charge Thursday when he appeared in court.

SPORT SHORTS

Parish was arrested by U.S. Marshals at the Los Angeles International Airport Nov. 13 after a search disclosed the vial containing a substance which later was identified as 13 grams of cocaine worth $1,170.

Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO — Northern California is the first stop of the new year for the women's professional tennis tour and the field for the British Motors open, which kicks off the tour on Jan. 15, will have a starting field of 38 players.

A total of 12 girls headed by super-rated players such as Billie Jean King, Margaret Court, Rosie Casals of Sausalito and Kerry Melville are firmed for the first six nights of action with the remaining 26 women battling for the remaining spots at Lodi, Jan. 12-13-14.

Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The first two entires for the 1973 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race were received Thursday, and both cars were designated for driver John Mahler.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway put the entry forms in the mail Tuesday and it was expected about 75 cars would be entered for the May 28 classic. Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa, was named driver for the two cars submitted by Harbor Fuel Racing Inc., Nantucket, Mass. Both are updated versions of the turbocharged Offenhauser McLaren in which Mahler qualified at 179.497 miles an hour on the last day of time trials last year.

Piston trouble forced him out of his first Indianapolis test halfway through the race after he moved up from his 29th starting spot to 15th in the race.

Bowling

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Gus Lampo of Endicott, N.Y., trying to capture the San Jose Open bowling tournament for the second year in a row, won six of his eight match games Thursday night and took an 85-pin lead with 1,840 pins in the $65,000 event.

The starting field of 128 was cut to 24 after Thursday afternoon's third six-game qualifying bloc. After 16 more head-to-had match games today, the high-scoring five will go into Saturday afternoon's nationally televised finals for the $7,500 first prize.

Baseball

CLEVELAND — George M. Steinbrenner III, one of the new owners of the New York Yankees, has sold his 50 per cent interest in Northfieldark, a harness racing track in Northern Ohio.

Steinbrenner bought the track last July along with two other investors. "I regret having to bow out of Northfield without ever really getting started," Steinbrenner, owner of American Ship Building Co., said Thursday. "However, the decision was dictated by the demands on my time."

Steinbrenner sold his interest in the track to his partners, Carl Milstein and Robert Stakich, for $3.75 million. The three had bought it for $7.5 million.

SUPER BOWL ROUNDUP

Dolphins' Tight End Fleming Is Hospitalized With The Flu

Combined AP & UPI

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins tight end Marv Fleming was in the hospital with flu and heavy chest congestion today, but Coach Don Shula said he would be able to make the trip to Los Angeles Sunday and will play in Super Bowl VII.

The Dolphins will wind up Miami preparations Saturday for the showdown with the Washington Redskins Jan. 14 and fly to Los Angeles Sunday.

After Thursday's workout, wide receiver Paul Warfield said he believes Bob Griese's timing with him "is at the same place it was before the regular season."

Griese, who will start against Washington, played his first full half of football in last Sunday's AFC championship game with Pittsburgh since he broke his leg Oct. 15 against San Diego.

Shula, voted American Football Conference Coach by the Associated Press yesterday, said Fleming's illness is the only physical problem the Dolphins face aside from cornerback Tim Foley, who will not play because of a shoulder separation.

Foley will be replaced by four-year veteran Lloyd Mumphord, who said Thursday he was confident Redskin quarterback Billy Kilmer will not be able to pick on his area with any success.

Kilmer and the Redskins have demonstrated a liking for concentrating on new men, but Mumphord has played against Kilmer before and says he liked it.

"I like the way he throws the ball," says Mumphord. "He doesn't have that much zip."

Meanwhile, the Redskins buckled down to intensive homework Friday on grounds that next week may be too late to bring themselves to a peak for the Jan. 14 Super Bowl championship meeting.

"The big thing is to get as much done as possible here in Washington before we fly to the West Coast Sunday where there are going to be obvious distractions," coach George Allen said Thursday after putting the squad through a two hour and 15 minute drill.

Under NFL rules, the contending teams must be at the Super Bowl site at least by the Monday before the pro football championship contest.

The only member of the National Football Conference champion Redskin squad absent from practice was tackle Terry Hermeling who sustained a severe leg injury when Washington defeated Dallas 26-3 to qualify for Super Bowl VII last Sunday.

$80,000 in the first year and $100,000 in the second.

"Obviously, those figures were way out of line and far from what I could afford," said Finley, who added that in addition to low attendance he didn't receive any television revenue as do most NHL clubs.

Finley said that he was unaware of what was going on until he received a notice from NHL headquarters asking him for copies of player contracts.

"Young told me he had sent them in," said Finley when I asked him about them," and finally, I guess he did. Then Clarence Campbell (NHL president) called me and asked me if I knew what my players were getting. That's when I learned of Young's lies. So I called him in and we talked for more than five hours, and when it was all over I still didn't know why he did what he did, but I do know it will cost me $1 million this season, and that's cold cash, not paper money."

Finley also blamed Young for the defection of 11 Seals to the WHA.

"I know I could have signed all of them," said the Seals owner.

John Crozier also missed USF with the flu and hasn't been to practice since. Reserve guard Ken Gommeringer has quit the team.

"We had a good, hard practice yesterday," said Panagakis. "I think they (the players) will be able to shake off the loss to USF. It was a lesson for them."

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KVTU (2), KTXL (40), 8 p.m. — The Golden State Warriors battle the Seattle Supersonics in a National Basketball Association game.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 9 p.m. — "The CBS Friday Night Movies" presents Part II of "The Sand Pebbles," starring Steve McQueen.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 10 p.m. — "In Search of Ancient Astronauts" is a one-hour special depicting the theory that various phenomena of the past are the work of visitors from other planets. The program is based on the best-seller "Chariots of the Gods?" by Erich von Vaniken. Rod Serling narrates.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 10 p.m. — A mysterious change in personality, shyness, an unhappy marriage and the desire for an heir are the ingredients on "Love, American Style." Joanna Barnes, Dick Gautier and Jack Carter are among the performers.

KQED (9), 10 p.m. — Premiering is "Ready or Not," a 10-part series for women and minority groups produced by Television Experiments in Alternatives in Cultural Harmony (TEACH).

KGO (7), 11:30 p.m. — Jack Burns and Avery Schreiber co-host "This Is the Year That Will Be," a 90-minute special presenting a satiricial preview of the year 1973.

Bel Marin Contract Awarded

Directors of the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District have awarded contracts to build a tidal lock at Bel Marin Keys Lagoon and for lagoon dredging.

Duncanson-Harrelson Co. of Oakland won a contract Wednesday to construct the lock at a cost of $651,000 and Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco will perform the dredging at a cost of $242,350, according to Betty L. Soeller, district secretary.

Both firms were low bidders when bids were opened in November. Dredging is scheduled to start Jan. 18 and lock construction, Jan. 23.

Voters passed a $700,000 bond issue last January to finance the projects and the district has been accumulating dredging funds through taxes during the past several years.

Directors adjourned until their regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday at the community center.

Francisco Boulevard Master Plan Due

A group of Francisco Boulevard property owners yesterday declared they will form a Francisco Boulevard Association and prepare a master plan for the area.

The mater plan could include proposals for undergrounding, a new sign ordinance tougher than current city standards, widening of the boulevard to four lanes and massive landscaping, according to county Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, a group spokesman.

Roumiguiere said about 12 property owners decided yesterday to approach neighbors with the association idea. Funds from an initiation fee of $100 would be used to retain San Rafael architect Robert W. F. Severin to draw the master plan.

Severin already has located 50 locations on Francisco Boulevard where large trees may be planted to make an immediate impact on the congested and sign-crowded thoroughfare, he said.

Nixon Plans Quiet 60th Birthday Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will be 60 years old Tuesday and is expected to mark the occasion with a family dinner party at Camp David, Md.

Both of the President's daughters will be back from European trips in time for the dinner. Aides said the celebration would be "a quiet family affair."

Four Named To Grand Juries

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three Marinites and a Cotati resident have been named to two 23-member federal grand juries.

Members of one panel, which will concern itself with what was described as "regular-type" federal crimes, are Iris Giacotto of Corte Madera, hospital housekeeper; Louis G. Page Jr. of Cotati, a pipefitter, and James Roat of Novato, an offset pressman.

Named to the other jury, which will deal more with drug offenses, was Marilyn J. Nelder of Fairfax, wife of Lee Nelder, Fairfax city councilman and a San Francisco police official.

The panels will serve until April.

$40,000 Sought Over Paddling

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — The mother of a 9-year-old girl has filed a $40,000 damage suit against school officials for the paddling of her daughter while she was playing on the school grounds.

Mrs. Ruby McDowell charged in the Superior Court suit that her girl, Debra Lynn, was playing last June 12 when she was "dragged" down the corridor to an office by teachers and spanked wit a board.

She accused teachers R. Bessard and R. Cantrell of assault and battery and sought $15,000 general damages and $25,000 punitive damages from them, Superintendent Cecil E. Harris and the Fresno Colony School District.

Life For Heroin Pushers Is Asked

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has proposed mandatory life prison sentences for convicted heroin pushers and giving informants $1,000 rewards turning them in.

"We have tried every possible approach to stop addiction...we have allocated over $1 billion...we have achieved very little permanent rehabilitation and found no cure.

"This has got to stop. This is going to stop," Rockefeller told the opening session of the 1973 state legislature.

Newsman Is Seeking Review Of Contempt

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — newsman Peter Bridge has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review his contempt sentence for refusing to reveal confidential sources before a grand jury.

The appeal announced Wednesday asked the high court to review a New Jersey appeals court decision holding Bridges in contempt for refusing to answer questions put to him by an Essex County grand jury investigating alleged corruption in the Newark Housing Authority.

Ohio Considers Newsman Shield

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — An Amendment has been proposed to the Ohio Constitution which would forbid all courts to require newsmen to disclose confidential news sources.

The resolution offered by state Rep. William G. Batchelder would shield any "person engaged in the work of, connected with, or employed by any newspaper, press association, or radio or television station for the purpose of gathering, procuring, compiling, editing, disseminating or publishing news" who obtain the information uring the course of their employment.

Flexible House Of Future

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The house of the future will be a flexible, do-it-yourself dwelling that can grow, shrink, or even swap rooms at its owner's whim, an engineering researcher says.

The house would consist of a central steel frame with standardized components fastened to it, such as walls, floors, roofs, wiring and plumbing. Starting with the same basic frame, builders could devise homes of almost any size, architectural style and price they wanted to by varying the components.

The new type of home — potentially far more individualized than today's factory housing — could be in common use within 20 years, says Richard L. Martin, senior housing economist at the Stanford Research Institute here.

Martin, who with other SRI engineers developed and is studying the concept of component housing, is reluctant to put a pricetag on the technique. But he said he is confident the method eventually could be used to mass produce homes at prices competitive with standard housing.

"When somebody wants to build a house, he might go to a factory to select his components — just like a housewife today goes to the supermarket to buy food when she wants to cook a meal," Martin said in an interview.

"All the ingredients are there, and depending on your budget and your tastes you could put together any kind of home you wanted," he said. "One person might choose hardwood floors and another linoleum; one might like a sunken bathtub and another a simple shower stall."

Because everything but the central frame is a detachable component, Martin said the new style home would offer its occupants and urban planners some striking advantages over present housing.

"Nowadays if a wife tires of the furniture arrangement in her living room, she can switch it around. With our housing, she could do the same with whole rooms — switch the living room with the bedroom, or put the bathroom where the kitchen was," Martin said.

He estimated a man and wife could move an entire room — walls, floor and all — in half a day.

A family could even add a second story to their home, with the aid of a contractor, in a few days by "taking off the roof like a hat from your head" and stacking a new steel frame on the old one.

Perhaps most important, Martin said, the new building concept would revolutionize urban renewal. Buildings that now deteriorate until they have to be condemned and torn down could be quickly and inexpensively remodeled and reburbished, or even moved to a new location.

Martin said the construction principle could be used for other buildings besides homes — even highrise apartments and offices — and the structures would be at least as safe as conventional buildings from earthquakes or other disasters.

"Far from a house of cards, the structure, once it was assembled, would be like a rigid box," he said. "The wall panels would tighten up around the frame and stabilize it. The ground could move up and down and it still wouldn't collapse."

Martin said SRA researchers initially began looking for new housing concepts because they felt conventional methods were fast becoming outmoded.

INCOME TAX FACTS

IRS Using New Computers To Catch The Income Tax Cheats

The Internal Revenue Service is making every effort to catch people who cheat on their tax returns and the new computers are now being used even more effectively than in the past.

IRS states, "DIF is the commonly used abbreviation for Discriminant Function. It is a mathematical technique used to classify income tax returns as to audit potential. Classification is the means by which returns having error potential are identified and selected for examination. Currently, the DIF system is used for all individual returns filed."

"Under the DIF concept, TCMP, or Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program, audits provide the statistical date that is the basis for derivation of the DIF formulas. These formulas are programmed into the computer to classify returns by assigning weights to certain return characteristics. These weights are then added together to obtain a composite score for each return processed. The higher the score, the higher the probability of a significant tax change."

Of course, the IRS will not tell us what these formulas are.

It's a safe bet, however, that if you make a claim for a large contribution deduction or claim a state income tax payment out of proportion to your income or claim a sales tax deduction out of proportion to your income without some explanation such as car purchase, that you are going to be audited.

Likewise, a very heavy medical expense deduction would occasion an audit as would interest expense out of all proportion to your income.

I have an idea that a large casualty or theft loss would trigger an audit as well as any large miscellaneous item.

34, says enter the number of persons listed on lines 8 and 9 (dependents) who are:

1. Filing a return of their own, or

2. did not live at your principal place of residence at the end of the year.

If you answer this question other than none, or if you fail to answer the question, I believe that you are going to get an inquiry.

The IRS, has found that some people claim children for whom they are paying child support and that the other divorced parent is also claiming the children, which makes a double deduction. Also, they are looking for people who are claiming dependents who earn over half of their own support.

There are other items on your tax return which I believe would trigger an audit and I'm sure that the computer makes it easy to pick these out.

Now, more than ever, it is vitally important to fill in your tax return fully and completely and where there is a doubtful item, you should attach a separate schedule to your tax return explaining this fully. Then, hopefully, when the return is pulled for audit, one of the reviewers will read the explanation and decide that there is no point in further auditing.

Market On The Rebound Following Drop Yesterday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traders pushed stocks higher during the first two hours today onqthe New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was active.

Airlines Report November Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) —Two major airlines Monday reported poorer results for November than a year ago. Trans World Airlines said it had a $3.2 million loss in November against a loss of $361,000 last year when it benefitted from a non-recurring after tax adjustment of $9 million.

Eastern Air Lines had earnings of only $222,000 in November compared with $2.7 million a year ago.

The market's action reflected recovery from the dip Thursday, which followed a sizeable three-day advance. Analysts said the decline was not unexpected in view of the list's quick spiral upward.

Most active issue was Alcan Aluminum, up ½ to 24 ¾ on 128,500 shares traded.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also moved higher in active trading. Topping the active list was Loews warrants, off ⅜ to 18 ½ on 56,000 shares.

On the Big Board, the electronics group helped the blue chips spur the market, with several issues recording pickups of a point or more. Among them were IBM up 3¾, Motorola 1⅞, Westinghouse 1⅜ andGeneral Electric 1½.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Seven-Eleven Food Chain Eyes Paradise Shopping Center Site

The Seven-Eleven Food Store chain is applying for a new store at Paradise Shopping Center in Corte Madera, but the plans are still under review by Corte Madera town officials.

The Southland Corporation, which operates the chain, is buying property at 3 El Camino Drive (next to the service station at the corner of El Camino and Paradise Drive), subject to approval of plans by the town.

The company wants to build a new Seven-Eleven store with 2,200 square feet of space. Charles Murphy of Belmont, the company's real estate manager for the North and East Bay, said he hopes to build the new store by this fall, if the plans are approved.

Seven-Eleven now has 11 stores in Marin, and the one in Paradise Shopping Center would be the 12th.

SWEDEN HOUSE Conditori Bakery at 35 Main Street in Tiburon has been purchased by Bo Brink of Mill Valley and his sister-in-law, Elisabeth Stromberg of Tiburon.

The new owners will drop the word "Conditori" and re-open as the Sweden House Bakery.

Brink has eight years of experience operating bakeries and coffee shops in Sweden, plus training at pastry schools in Sweden, Switzerland and in London.

The new owners plan to increase the variety of pastries, specializing in Swedish and European pastries and cakes. They will have fresh baked bread and decorated cakes for parties and weddings. Brink and Miss Stromberg will also have a coffee shop serving Scandinavian-type open face sandwiches. In the future, they hope to expand their lunch menu with salads and other foods.

Brink and his family came from Sweden to Mill Valley more than two years ago. While in Sweden, he catered for the Swedish Royal House and won recognition for quality work from the Swedish bakers' organization.

The new owners bought the bakery this month from Inga Lill Larsson of Belvedere and Nellie and Maryland Ostgren of San Francisco.

JACK D. HARRISON of Corte Madera has been promoted to assistant vice president of the Bank of California's information services division in San Francisco.

Harrison joined the information services division of the bank in September of 1971 as manager of technical services. He is currently attending the University of San Francisco, where he is majoring in business administration.

RON MARINOFF of Upper Lucas Valley has been elected to the boar of directors of the Home Furnishings Representatives Association of Northern California.

He is a representative for Bassett Furniture Industries, furniture manufacturer with plants in 11 states and headquarters in Bassett, Va. Bassett has a 13,000 square foot showroom in the Western Merchandise Mart in San Francisco.

Marinoff is also president of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association and battalion chief of the Marinwood Volunteer Fire Department.

FLORA L. SCOTT of Mill Valley has developed a new invention which is now being introduced to manufacturers.

The invention is a dual function electrical wall switch plate with material such as cork or suede covering its outer surface so that it can be used as a miniature bulletin board where notes can be pinned. Decorativein appearance, it can be installed at home, in offices, factories or anywhere else.

"You can pin notes on the electrical switch plate on the wall just as you enter the door where it cannot be missed," said Mrs. Scott. "It's very attractive and practical. If you leave a note on the table, it can be missed or might blow away."

Mrs. Scott is now negotiating for its sale or licensing to interested manufacturers with the aid of the Raymond Lee Organization of New York, which specializes in the development and introduction of inventions to industry.

A resident of Mill Valley since 1927, Mrs. Scott is aretired home economics teacher who taught at Tamalpais High School for 24 years and at Drake High School for two years.

RETAIL SALES this year should be better than in 1972, according to a survey by the Bureau of Advertising in New York.

The survey revealed that more than nine out of ten respondents expect sales to increase this year, and that more than seven out of ten expect to expand their advertising budgets also, and newspapers will be the No. 1 ad medium again this year.

INVESTING

Stop Order Application Explained

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Last winter I purchased 100 shares of General Mills (NYSE), now worth about 20 points more than I paid. How can I protect my investment against a price decline? — G.B.

A. There are two trading tools which professionals use to protect profits, neither entirely satisfactory. Your broker can place a stop order or a stop limit order at a price several points below the current trading level. In the case of the stop order, if the security drops to the pre-set price, the stop order becomes a market order and is executed. However, if an influx of sell orders prevents the specialist from being able to sell at the desired level, the transaction will be made at a lower price. A stop limit order is similar but the limit prevents the sale from being executed at a price lower than the pre-set one. In a sharp downturn, your order would be executed either at the agreed price or not at all. Both methods involve risk and are of limited value for the average investor.

I have 200 shares of Banister Continental (ASE) for which I paid $11 and $14. I am retired and can manage without getting any dividends. However, should I have the money invested in a dividend paying stock? — L.M.

A. Since 1971 your investment has appreciated 164 per cent. For this type of performance investors are generally willing to forego dividends. Until the need for extra income arises, I would suggest continued retention of these speculative shares. In the first half of Banister's fiscal year, which will end March 31, earnings jumped 93 per cent on a 65 per cent gain in sales. Per share results were $1.02 versus $0.53 in the year-earlier period.

Some 88 per cent of revenues and 96 per cent of income is derived from oil and gas pipeline construction; computer leasing provides the balance. A recent contract award from Trans Canada Pipeline is thought to be worth in the area of $40 million. If and when the Alyeska Pipeline gets a favorable Supreme Court ruling, Banister will be an aggressive bidder on that $2 billion project.

Actions Of Courts Curb Public Right

As the first week of a new year draws to its close, Los Angeles reporter William Farr remains in jail for refusal to tell a judge the source of information he published during the Manson murder trial.

Farr was jailed for an indeterminate sentence by Judge Charles H. Older of Los Angeles Superior Court — a sentence that could be longer than Charles Manson's. Farr has not been charged with any crime, only with refusal to betray a confidence.

UP AND DOWN California, and in other states, other courts within the past month have struck at the public's right to inquire into and be informed about criminal matters — a right based on the guarantee of public trial embodied 758 years ago in the Magna Charta.

ITEM: John F. Lawernce, Los Angeles Times bureau chief in Washington, was jailed last month for refusing to turn over to a federal court the tapes of an interview with a figure in the Watergate bugging case. He was released next day to await a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court. He may be returned to jail if the Supreme Court decides the jailing was legal.

ITEM: in Oakland last month, Judge Robert L. Bostick barred spectators, including the press, from portions of the Hell's Angeles murder trial, claiming "it is within the discretion of the trial judge to exclude the public whenever circumstances warrant it."

ITEM: In Los Angelss last month, KFWB reporter Jim Mitchell was subpoenaed by a grand jury and ordered to produce tapes of interviews he conducted in preparing a series on corrupt bail bond practices. The district attorney subsequently told Mitchell he need not appear on the date specified, but the subpoena has not been withdrawn.

ITEM: In Chattanooga, Tenn., last month, television broadcaster Harry Thornton was jailed without bond by Judge Tillman Grant of Criminal Court for refusing to disclose the name of a talk show telephone caller who criticized performance of the county grand jury. Higher courts in Tennessee proved more cognizant of constitutional rights than has the California Supreme Court in the Farr case, for they ordered bail set and Thornton was released on bail after three days.

ALL THESE ACTIONS strike at a very fundamental right: the right of the public to know what's going on.

"Public trial" is meaningless if a judge can bar the public whenever he wishes. The ends of justice are not served by gag orders. And as Justice Tom C. Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court observed in the Sheppard case decision.

"The press does not simply publish information about trails, but guards against the miscarriage of justice, subjecting police, prosecutors and judical processes to extensive scrutiny and criticism."

When courts attempt to throttle such scrutiny, they open the way toward the secret arrests, secret trials and secret punishments that distinguish tyranny and abolish freedom.

That is why it is a crime that William Farr remains in jail. It was no crime that he refused to betray a confidence.

Wilted Landscape

Marin looks a bit sad now. Many plants, vines and shrubs badly nipped by recent frosts are drooping, brown and wilted. Do not despair, however, for the fragile thing called life probably survives in the roots of all but the most delicate. Come warm weather and longer days, they should sprout forth green and lovely once again.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

'Evaluation Guidelines' Lead To Lower Education Quality

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, California State University, San Jose)

Much is being said these days about the quality of instruction in public education. To achieve higher standards, it is believed that much deadwood, the unproductive, hangers-on, and those who can do nothing else but take up space on a public payroll via a teaching position must be eliminated.

But that simply is not the way it works.

IN CALIFORNIA virtually every public school system is engaged in working out procedures to implement the so-called Stull and Rodda bills. The Stull bill was designed to upgrade instruction in grades kindergarten through 12, while the Rodda bill extends the same kind of intent through the two-year community colleges.

This educator does not question the good intentions of either Assemblyman John Stull, a Republican, or Sen. Albert S. Rodda, a Democrat, in their efforts to improve the quality of California education. But to one who is in daily contact with public school teachers and school board members, it is clear that not only is it being recognized that the Stull and Rodda acts are unworkable, but that the legislation is so permeated with escape hatches that it may have the effect of lowering the quality of education in California.

Generally, here is how the legislation functions: A teacher formulates the objectives she hopes to achieve in working with students assigned to her. The objectives are stated in terms of student performance. Thus, a teacher who spends one semester, trimester, or other stated period of time reports that after working for 30 minutes per day on a given subject that a stipulated percentage of the students will be able to master 40, 50, 60 or any other per cent of the subject matter studies.

HOW COULD SUCH a plan have the effect of lowering the quality of instruction or reducing educational standards?

Teachers, in conference with the principal or other designated administrator, decide together what the measurable level of performance should be within stipulations agreed upon. What if a teacher believes that 90 per cent of her charges will master 95 per cent of the subject matter after one semester of teaching? It would be professional suicide for her to agree to such a commitment. Because of the many variables in teaching it might turn out that only 45 per cent of her students achieve 80 per cent proficiency. The teacher might be subjected to any one of a variety of punitive measures.

So, teachers are playing it safely. They are setting their expectations for student performance very low — Much lower than may be justified when considering the ability of children and youth. The performance or behavioral objectives are being set at levels that students will be sure to exceed. Consequently, teachers are not going to place themselves in vulnerable positions to become focal points for punitive actions.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Emergency Room Care Wins Plaudits

On Dec. 28, my wife developed an unquenchable nosebleed, and our family doctor directed us to the emergency room at Marin General to meet with an ENT physician. This we did with much apprehension, as we had heard reports of indifferent treatment and long waits at the E.R.

I would like to state publicly that these reports are not true, as my wife received very courteous and expeditious treatment in spite of the lateness of the hour, and the fact that it was during a holidy period. Kudos are definitely in order. . .

Let no one doubt that if you are in need of medical care in an emergency, you will receive the best at Marin General's emergency room.

Some Who Contributed During 1972 Remembered

Before most of us get used to 1973, I feel the public should be reminded of several fine community contributions and persons who served us so well during 1972 and in prior years.

First, Marin has been fortunate in having such fine and honorable civic servants as John McInnis and Harry Barbier serve us for so many years. The untimely death of our supervisor, and of our city councilman, at the prime of their lives, has been a tremendous loss to Marin County, and on a personal note, to all those who knew these fine men and worked with them. . .

Secondly, heartfelt thanks to all of the dedicated directors of the Terra Linda Community Service District, who have served that community so well for so many years. I know that these same people will be great community contributors in so many ways now that they have been incorporated into San Rafael. Special thanks should be given to Chief Wolser and all of the young men who worked with him in the Terra Linda Fire Department. This department has been a "big brother" to the citizens in northwest San Rafael, who were isolated by Terra Linda.

And thirdly, a great thank you to our county. . .for giving us the beautiful Marin Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center. This building is a thing of beauty inside, and has given the citizens a pleasant place in which to enjoy excellent entertainment. . .

Friends Of Arequipa Find Reporting Accurate

On behalf of the volunteers for the Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa, I want to thank the I-J and especially Don Keown for the accurate reporting and excellent pictures that appeared in Marin Magazine Dec. 30. Though the work of the volunteer for the Marin Foundation is most rewarding in itself, we are more than pleased to have this public exposure.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

'74 Campaign Under Way; Government Just Sideline

By RUS WALTON

It seems like only yesterday — or, not more than last week — that the politicians were traipsing through the hinterlands, dragging their tales behind them

But, those were the campaigns of 1972

Now they are already cranking up for 1974.

I thought we paid those fellas to work, down there in Babylon by the Sacramento. I'm beginning to think the whole thing is one big advertising agency running year 'round campaigns, with a little government thrown in on the side.

IT MUST BE NICE to run for office while you're on the public payroll.

Just once it would be refreshing to have some fella run for something because the people wanted him — and needed him. But that is out of style these days. Now it's "I want to be this" and "I want to be that." Holding office these days is not so much a public service as it is a way to make a living.

There's a dearth of ability but no shortage of candidates. Look at the list for 1974 — so far.

At least seven Democrats want to be the next governor.

THERE'S JUMPING Joe Alioto, mayor of San Francisco. He almost got a look at the race in 1970. He'll probably make a go for it this next time.

And there's Sec. of State Edmund G. (Gerry) Brown Jr. He wants to follow in his daddy's footsteps. If you think Pat was a disaster, Patsy would be a debacle!

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti has already built himself a pot full of campaign gold, plus blood-oaths from legislators who savored his monetary favors in last year's campaigns.

Governor Reagan gave Moretti's candidacy a boost recently when he helped push through the so-called Moretti-Reagan tax shift bill. Moretti is already taking credit for doing what others could not do over the past six years.

State Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco wants to be guv. He is driving his Cadillac convertible all over left field trying to pick up support.

And then there's Congressman (former Assemblyman) Jerome Waldie of Antioch. He recently took on the Blue Shield and Blue Cross in an effort to build some name recognition south of Oakland.

THERE ARE ALMOST as many cats in the Republican bag.

Bob Finch, former lieutenant governor and former presidential advisor who bowed out as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is setting up shop in Los Angeles, trying to rebuild his old gang.

State Controller Houston Flournoy says he's leaning toward the gubernatorial race. But he might just run for re-election as controller. It depends on whether Finch runs for governor, or goes against U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, former congressman, has been running for governor ever since Governor Reagan crowned him heir-apparent in 1969. Reinecke is putting together an organization to be managed by Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's former communications director.

Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger hankers to be governor, some day. But he's smart enough to think that 1974 might just be a Democratic year. Younger will probably run for re-election to his present ost.

A BUNCH OF OTHER Republicans are waiting to play musical chairs.

Bob Monagan, Assembly minority leaders, and John Veneman, former assemblyman and deputy secretary of HEW, have their eyes on the lieutenant governor's race.

So does Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield of Downey. He was the author of Proposition 21, the anti-busing initiative.

Assemblyman Bill Bagley, San Rafael, talks about running for state controller, if Flournoy does go for governor.

Like I said, politics is some business.

What Sort Of Year Was It? Repressive, For Russian Citizens

WASHINGTON — Soviet leaders are showing themselves increasingly fearful of the modest demands of the Russian people for just a little more freedom — to speak, to be heard, and to have something to say about their own government.

We are witnessing a revealing facet of Soviet policy. The Kremlin is reaching out to liberalize its contacts with the West and is accompanying this move by suppressing more strongly the voices of those who want more freedom within the Soviet Union.

Liberalization abroad, more repression at home — they appear to be going hand in hand. There is a current Moscow joke which tells the tale of what is happening to Soviet democratic dissidents:

"What sort of a year was 1972, comrade?"

"An average year, comrade."

"What do you mean, an average year?"

"Well, it's worse than last year, but better than next."

HERE ARE THE ACTIONS which make this story sad but true:

The Soviet favored the idea of a European Security Conference to further detente between Eastern and Western Europe. But when the parties gathered at Helsinki, the Soviet spokesmen totally opposed anything approaching a free exchange of ideas between East and West. They tried to shut off the Romanians who rather liked the idea.

The Kremlin launched a pervasive harassment of the democratic movement, recently arrested one of its leaders, Pyotr Yakir, and has tried, only in part successfully, to erase the underground press.

Russian scientists, writers and scholars can no longer safely accept invitations to travel abroad. What happened to Valery Chalidze in the United States a few days ago can happen to others. He was granted a Soviet passport but when in the United States was informed he couldn't return to his homeland.

Russian dissidents, who make the mistake of assuming that the civil rights grandly set out in the Soviet constitution are for them, find freedom is not for them. And if they are too aggressive, they are committed to government insane asylums on the ground they must be insane to believe in freedom.

The too-outspoken poet, Yuri Galanskov, died of physical mistreatment.

AND THERE IS STILL another desperate action to keep the Russian people from knowing what is going on in their own country. There is now a ban on internal telephone conversations "held to be contrary to the interests of the state." Thus the Krelin seeks to make sure that;when some natural disaster, some accident, some riot or protest takes place in one city, the news can't easily be passed along by telephone.

Life for the average Russian citizen is easier today and more secure than at any time since the 1920s. But with the one important exception — ending massive, indiscriminate political terror — all the post-Stalin changes affect only economic life.

The political structure of the system, its methods of governing, the relationships between party and people — all these have remained practically unchanged. Today they are just as Stalin molded them. Undoubtedly the political and economic stagnation of recent years stems in large part from the total resistance to political change inside the system.

ROBERT CONQUEST, editor of Soviet Analyst and one of the best Sovietologists, advances this conclusion:

"The country has probably reached the limit of the reforms that could be instituted within the rigid framework of the unchanging Stalinist political system.

"To move any further, the party would have to relax the absolute tutelage that it has exercised over the people for so many decades and to allow some rudimentary degree of popular participation."

To that possibility the Kremlin is today saying more doggedly than ever: Nyet!

Save Tear (Crocodile Variety) For Poor, Mis-used Developer

WASHINGTON — While you are weeping for resolutions unkept, checking accounts suddenly unbalanced, Christmas trees burnt and inches added, save a tear for a class of gentlemen across America who are self-described as "hardship" cases.

A crocodile tear.

For the citizens appealing for your sympathy are not really qualified for relief among the 400 or even four million neediest. Their cries sound that way, may tug at the heart like those of a penniless widow thrown into the street in midwinter. But they are not cold and hungry. They are merely facing the prospect that at long last the people are going to limit the recklessness with which speculators can abuse the land to run up their profit margins.

I SPEAK, for example, of the developers who want to build money-minting hotels, homes and condominiums nearly overhanging the surf along the Atlantic shore in and near Ocean City, Md. They are not satisfied to build up to a line following the protective sand dunes along the beach, beyond which the state insists that public access to the ocean must be preserved. They know that the more beach they cover with building, the more square feet they can rent or sell, ergo: The state, acting for the overwhelming majority of the people, is a villain.

I speak also of the public-spirited landowner who has 26 wooded acres along a county line over in Virginia, described as the only remaining potential park land in that section of the Washington metropolitan area. This philanthropist is trying to squeeze $2.7 million out of the park authority for the tract, and that is $1 million more than the authority has been able to offer.

Nobody denies his right to quibble over price, though they might call his exorbitant. But he is tired of quibbling, and during the holidays he called in a crew to start cutting down the groves of hardwoods, many more than a century old, apparently just to give the negotiations a little nudge. If the authority does not meet his price promptly, he is going to complete the cutting and build a 108-unit luxury subdivision, which is just what this part of the world needs more of.

That may be just what it gets, too, in this case, for the park authority could not produce the money by this writing. In the Maryland situation, court cases are pending and the legislature is going to take up the matter of statewide land-use laws at the session forthcoming. The developers may win, as they have been in the habit of doing in the past, and they may not. But they are not going to keep up that habit indefinitely.

THAT, I BELIEVE, is the clear meaning of what has happened around the country during this past year. The people who care about the land continue to win a few and lose a lot, but the pendulum is swinging. A decade ago cases like the two I just described were as plentiful as now, but resistance to the developers was isolated. The developers' prevalence was taken for granted, as if ordained by God "Property rights" rode supreme and seldom challenged. You read only an occasional word about such controversies, and then usually when it was all over.

Now the people are aroused, and organized, and the papers are full of it.

The federal government, even in this business-oriented administration, is playing a leading role through its Environmental Protection Agency. State governments, one by one, are realizing that uniform and consistent policy putting the at-large good above the private privilege is mandatory now, not later. Out in California, a landmark court decision has brought private developers as well as public projects under the requirement to file environmental impact statements before proceeding. To hear the builders wail, you would think the world had been ordered to a stop.

But it is not the world that is affected, only the builders. And they have not been ordered to stop, only to slow down, and to show some respect for the land when they are allowed to proceed. Under those circumstances, the world will go along quite nicely, thank you

Life For Heroin Pushers Is Asked

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has proposed mandatory life prison sentences for convicted heroin pushers and giving informants $1,000 rewards turning them in.

"We have tried every possible approach to stop addiction...we have allocated over $1 billion...we have achieved very little permanent rehabilitation and found no cure.

"This has got to stop. This is going to stop," Rockefeller told the opening session of the 1973 state legislature.

Newsman Is Seeking Review Of Contempt

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — newsman Peter Bridge has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review his contempt sentence for refusing to reveal confidential sources before a grand jury.

The appeal announced Wednesday asked the high court to review a New Jersey appeals court decision holding Bridges in contempt for refusing to answer questions put to him by an Essex County grand jury investigating alleged corruption in the Newark Housing Authority.

$40,000 Sought Over Paddling

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — The mother of a 9-year-old girl has filed a $40,000 damage suit against school officials for the paddling of her daughter while she was playing on the school grounds.

Mrs. Ruby McDowell charged in the Superior Court suit that her girl, Debra Lynn, was playing last June 12 when she was "dragged" down the corridor to an office by teachers and spanked wit a board.

She accused teachers R. Bessard and R. Cantrell of assault and battery and sought $15,000 general damages and $25,000 punitive damages from them, Superintendent Cecil E. Harris and the Fresno Colony School District.

Ohio Considers Newsman Shield

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — An Amendment has been proposed to the Ohio Constitution which would forbid all courts to require newsmen to disclose confidential news sources.

The resolution offered by state Rep. William G. Batchelder would shield any "person engaged in the work of, connected with, or employed by any newspaper, press association, or radio or television station for the purpose of gathering, procuring, compiling, editing, disseminating or publishing news" who obtain the information uring the course of their employment.

Four Named To Grand Juries

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three Marinites and a Cotati resident have been named to two 23-member federal grand juries.

Members of one panel, which will concern itself with what was described as "regular-type" federal crimes, are Iris Giacotto of Corte Madera, hospital housekeeper; Louis G. Page Jr. of Cotati, a pipefitter, and James Roat of Novato, an offset pressman.

Named to the other jury, which will deal more with drug offenses, was Marilyn J. Nelder of Fairfax, wife of Lee Nelder, Fairfax city councilman and a San Francisco police official.

The panels will serve until April.

Bel Marin Contract Awarded

Directors of the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District have awarded contracts to build a tidal lock at Bel Marin Keys Lagoon and for lagoon dredging.

Duncanson-Harrelson Co. of Oakland won a contract Wednesday to construct the lock at a cost of $651,000 and Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco will perform the dredging at a cost of $242,350, according to Betty L. Soeller, district secretary.

Both firms were low bidders when bids were opened in November. Dredging is scheduled to start Jan. 18 and lock construction, Jan. 23.

Voters passed a $700,000 bond issue last January to finance the projects and the district has been accumulating dredging funds through taxes during the past several years.

Directors adjourned until their regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday at the community center.

Francisco Boulevard Master Plan Due

A group of Francisco Boulevard property owners yesterday declared they will form a Francisco Boulevard Association and prepare a master plan for the area.

The mater plan could include proposals for undergrounding, a new sign ordinance tougher than current city standards, widening of the boulevard to four lanes and massive landscaping, according to county Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, a group spokesman.

Roumiguiere said about 12 property owners decided yesterday to approach neighbors with the association idea. Funds from an initiation fee of $100 would be used to retain San Rafael architect Robert W. F. Severin to draw the master plan.

Severin already has located 50 locations on Francisco Boulevard where large trees may be planted to make an immediate impact on the congested and sign-crowded thoroughfare, he said.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

General Plan Population Goals Recall Border Patrol Of '30s

Blizzard: (1) A heavy and prolonged snowstorm covering a wide area. (2) A violent windstorm with a dry, driving snow and intense cold. That's what they are having, as I write this, in Kansas and the other prairie states.

I was born in a small town in the southwest corner of Kansas. My mother once told me of such a storm. My dad and two other young men owned a hardware and house furnishing store about two blocks from the cottage, complete with cyclone cellar alongside. The storm broke just before closing time and dad, whose turn it was to close up, started for home. It should have taken him about 15 minutes, but in the blinding blizzard he lost his sense of direction. He thought he was a goner. Mother had put a lamp in the window and after about an hour of going in circles, he saw it. It was such things as this which decided them to come west. And thousands of others, for similar reasons, have done the same thing.

ARE WE, with this general plan, going to, in essence, carry on in Marin as the Los Angeles police did a couple of decades ago, when they turned back at the state line those who were leaving the dust bowl?

It wonders one when this is read in the Wednesday I-J: "The board also directed Planning Director Werner von Gundell to begin necessary zoning changes to bring land use designations into conformity with those outlined in the plan once adopted."

"Under state law, all city and county zoning must be consistent with an adopted general plan by July 1."

The following paragraph preceded the two just quoted: "Supervisors yesterday directed the county planning commission to hold its hearings during February and March and forward its recommendations to the board for hearings during April and May."

THIS HAS EVERY appearance that the board of supervisors will only do some rubber stamping. Otherwise why,"... direct Planning Director Werner von Gundell to begin necessary zoning changes to bring... into conformity with those outlined in the plan once adopted"?

There are some skull-popping questions flitting around as one contemplates all that's been said regarding the plan. Does the July 1 deadline mean that the plan will be frozen as passed by the supervisors? If so, what did von Gundell mean in his letter to the editor of Dec. 27: "... The financing gaps, which exist between some of the plan's goals and the assumed revenue sources, are a cause for concern... We have to work hard to close these gaps, or if unsuccessful, to revise the goals of the plan in the future"?

Surely the Legislature didn't intend to freeze everything in the state as of July 1. If they didn't, will just a skeleton draft be enough at that date? Is there a penalty involved if the deadline is not met?

This board has not been involved as it should be. As an example, the question can be asked: If the economy cuts they so eagerly jumped to institute are valid now, why weren't they at budget time? What was the administrator doing that he didn't reflect them in the budget he presented?

Plea Of Innocent Is Entered To Hashish Charge

A 38-year-old Muir Beach man, who accepted a package from Nepal containing three-and-a-half pounds of hashish, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony possession of the drug.

Preliminary hearing for Gerald Nathan Pearlman was set for Jan. 23.

A sheriff's lieutenant arrested him at his home Dec. 13 after a package containing the contraband was delivered to him. Inside the box was a blanket, purse and a religious plaque in which customs agents in New York City found the drug, according to Lt. Richard Gaddini.

The marijuana derivative would have sold for more than $3,000, according to Gaddini.

Five Are Nominated As 'Citizen Of Year'

Five Novato residents have been nominated for the 1972 "Citizen of the Year" award to be presented at the city's 13th birthday party at the community house Jan. 20.

The city also will present awards for outstanding design of commercial, public and residential projects and recognize those who have served on city commissions and committees.

The event, sponsored by the city and chamber of commerce, will start with no-host cocktails at 5 p.m., then dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing at 9 p.m.

Nominees for outstanding citizen are:

Leroy Gerner, president of the Novato Civic Foundation, who was instrumental in creating the Novato Creek demonstration project, since named Gerner Park.

Jerry A. Cannon, former member of the Novato Plan Review Committee and city housing committee, who has been a leader in conservation.

Gail Wilhelm, a city planning commissioner, who was a leader in the drive to have Rancho Olompali registered as a state landmark.

Charles Lewis, chairman of the Downtown Implementation and Business Advisory Committee and past president of the chamber of commerce, who has been active in various civic projects.

Reuben W. Kaehler, a builder, who donated the profits of a "dream house" to the Novato Boy's Club.

The chamber reported that limited reservations will close Jan. 15.

Human Origins Theories Campaign Is Started

A San Rafael woman is leading a campaign to get explanations of human origins other than the Darwinian evolution theory included in state science textbooks.

The California State Board of Education at its December meeting instructed a committee to prepare proposals for revising new science texts to eliminate dogmatic statements in regard to evolution. The board's resolution as adopted did not specify, however, that the existence of other theories of the descent of man should be recognized in the textbooks.

Alice Vipiano of 337 Mountain View Avenue, who was among advocates of inclusion of the theory of creation who appeared before the board, announced today she is distributing to political organizations, individuals, and state legislators a call for reintroduction of a resolution that "all theories of origin which can be explained in scientific terms be presented to the science student."

That resolution was offered by board member Eugene Ragle of Auburn but amended when he was unable to get the necessary votes for passage.

The committee's report on revision of the science texts is to be received at the state board's January meeting.

Jail Term Given In Check Case

A 23-year-old San Francisco man, who passed two stolen checks worth $650 at the Redwood Bank in San Rafael, has been ordered to spend six months in jail and repay the bank.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed Michael John Ontiveros on probation for two years and ordered him to submit to drug testing at the discretion of his probation officer.

Ontiveros passed the checks on June 28, 1971, but was not arrested until March 29, 1972, when San Francisco police booked him on another matter and learned a Marin warrant was outstanding.

His sentence was the result of a plea bargaining session involving judge, district attorney and defense attorney..

Lions District Governor To Visit

Jack M. Barnes of Woodacre, district governor of Lions International District 4-C2, will visit the Larkspur Lions Club at its meeting Wednesday at noon at the Blue Rock Inn.

On his official annual visit, Barnes will report on Lions projects throughout the district, which has more than 3,000 members in 73 clubs in Northern California, said Larkspur Lions' president Paul Schaefer.

ECOLOGY

Newsword Adventures

In the past few years citizens in all parts of the country have brought ecology problems to the headlines. "Ecology" is a form of a Greek word meaning house or dwelling. The term was applied to this particular branch of biology in the late 1800's. Ecology is concerned with the interrelationships between plants and animals and the environment in which they all exist. This discipline assumes that nothing can live in isolation. All organisms, including humans, are dependent on other organisms.

Actions Of Courts Curb Public Right

As the first week of a new year draws to its close, Los Angeles reporter William Farr remains in jail for refusal to tell a judge the source of information he published during the Manson murder trial.

Farr was jailed for an indeterminate sentence by Judge Charles H. Older of Los Angeles Superior Court — a sentence that could be longer than Charles Manson's. Farr has not been charged with any crime, only with refusal to betray a confidence.

UP AND DOWN California, and in other states, other courts within the past month have struck at the public's right to inquire into and be informed about criminal matters — a right based on the guarantee of public trial embodied 758 years ago in the Magna Charta.

ITEM: John F. Lawernce, Los Angeles Times bureau chief in Washington, was jailed last month for refusing to turn over to a federal court the tapes of an interview with a figure in the Watergate bugging case. He was released next day to await a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court. He may be returned to jail if the Supreme Court decides the jailing was legal.

ITEM: in Oakland last month, Judge Robert L. Bostick barred spectators, including the press, from portions of the Hell's Angeles murder trial, claiming "it is within the discretion of the trial judge to exclude the public whenever circumstances warrant it."

ITEM: In Los Angelss last month, KFWB reporter Jim Mitchell was subpoenaed by a grand jury and ordered to produce tapes of interviews he conducted in preparing a series on corrupt bail bond practices. The district attorney subsequently told Mitchell he need not appear on the date specified, but the subpoena has not been withdrawn.

ITEM: In Chattanooga, Tenn., last month, television broadcaster Harry Thornton was jailed without bond by Judge Tillman Grant of Criminal Court for refusing to disclose the name of a talk show telephone caller who criticized performance of the county grand jury. Higher courts in Tennessee proved more cognizant of constitutional rights than has the California Supreme Court in the Farr case, for they ordered bail set and Thornton was released on bail after three days.

ALL THESE ACTIONS strike at a very fundamental right: the right of the public to know what's going on.

"Public trial" is meaningless if a judge can bar the public whenever he wishes. The ends of justice are not served by gag orders. And as Justice Tom C. Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court observed in the Sheppard case decision.

"The press does not simply publish information about trails, but guards against the miscarriage of justice, subjecting police, prosecutors and judical processes to extensive scrutiny and criticism."

When courts attempt to throttle such scrutiny, they open the way toward the secret arrests, secret trials and secret punishments that distinguish tyranny and abolish freedom.

That is why it is a crime that William Farr remains in jail. It was no crime that he refused to betray a confidence.

Wilted Landscape

Marin looks a bit sad now. Many plants, vines and shrubs badly nipped by recent frosts are drooping, brown and wilted. Do not despair, however, for the fragile thing called life probably survives in the roots of all but the most delicate. Come warm weather and longer days, they should sprout forth green and lovely once again.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

'Evaluation Guidelines' Lead To Lower Education Quality

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, California State University, San Jose)

Much is being said these days about the quality of instruction in public education. To achieve higher standards, it is believed that much deadwood, the unproductive, hangers-on, and those who can do nothing else but take up space on a public payroll via a teaching position must be eliminated.

But that simply is not the way it works.

IN CALIFORNIA virtually every public school system is engaged in working out procedures to implement the so-called Stull and Rodda bills. The Stull bill was designed to upgrade instruction in grades kindergarten through 12, while the Rodda bill extends the same kind of intent through the two-year community colleges.

This educator does not question the good intentions of either Assemblyman John Stull, a Republican, or Sen. Albert S. Rodda, a Democrat, in their efforts to improve the quality of California education. But to one who is in daily contact with public school teachers and school board members, it is clear that not only is it being recognized that the Stull and Rodda acts are unworkable, but that the legislation is so permeated with escape hatches that it may have the effect of lowering the quality of education in California.

Generally, here is how the legislation functions: A teacher formulates the objectives she hopes to achieve in working with students assigned to her. The objectives are stated in terms of student performance. Thus, a teacher who spends one semester, trimester, or other stated period of time reports that after working for 30 minutes per day on a given subject that a stipulated percentage of the students will be able to master 40, 50, 60 or any other per cent of the subject matter studies.

HOW COULD SUCH a plan have the effect of lowering the quality of instruction or reducing educational standards?

Teachers, in conference with the principal or other designated administrator, decide together what the measurable level of performance should be within stipulations agreed upon. What if a teacher believes that 90 per cent of her charges will master 95 per cent of the subject matter after one semester of teaching? It would be professional suicide for her to agree to such a commitment. Because of the many variables in teaching it might turn out that only 45 per cent of her students achieve 80 per cent proficiency. The teacher might be subjected to any one of a variety of punitive measures.

So, teachers are playing it safely. They are setting their expectations for student performance very low — Much lower than may be justified when considering the ability of children and youth. The performance or behavioral objectives are being set at levels that students will be sure to exceed. Consequently, teachers are not going to place themselves in vulnerable positions to become focal points for punitive actions.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Emergency Room Care Wins Plaudits

On Dec. 28, my wife developed an unquenchable nosebleed, and our family doctor directed us to the emergency room at Marin General to meet with an ENT physician. This we did with much apprehension, as we had heard reports of indifferent treatment and long waits at the E.R.

I would like to state publicly that these reports are not true, as my wife received very courteous and expeditious treatment in spite of the lateness of the hour, and the fact that it was during a holidy period. Kudos are definitely in order. . .

Let no one doubt that if you are in need of medical care in an emergency, you will receive the best at Marin General's emergency room.

Some Who Contributed During 1972 Remembered

Before most of us get used to 1973, I feel the public should be reminded of several fine community contributions and persons who served us so well during 1972 and in prior years.

First, Marin has been fortunate in having such fine and honorable civic servants as John McInnis and Harry Barbier serve us for so many years. The untimely death of our supervisor, and of our city councilman, at the prime of their lives, has been a tremendous loss to Marin County, and on a personal note, to all those who knew these fine men and worked with them. . .

Secondly, heartfelt thanks to all of the dedicated directors of the Terra Linda Community Service District, who have served that community so well for so many years. I know that these same people will be great community contributors in so many ways now that they have been incorporated into San Rafael. Special thanks should be given to Chief Wolser and all of the young men who worked with him in the Terra Linda Fire Department. This department has been a "big brother" to the citizens in northwest San Rafael, who were isolated by Terra Linda.

And thirdly, a great thank you to our county. . .for giving us the beautiful Marin Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center. This building is a thing of beauty inside, and has given the citizens a pleasant place in which to enjoy excellent entertainment. . .

SACRAMENTO SCENE

'74 Campaign Under Way; Government Just Sideline

By RUS WALTON

It seems like only yesterday — or, not more than last week — that the politicians were traipsing through the hinterlands, dragging their tales behind them

But, those were the campaigns of 1972

Now they are already cranking up for 1974.

I thought we paid those fellas to work, down there in Babylon by the Sacramento. I'm beginning to think the whole thing is one big advertising agency running year 'round campaigns, with a little government thrown in on the side.

IT MUST BE NICE to run for office while you're on the public payroll.

Just once it would be refreshing to have some fella run for something because the people wanted him — and needed him. But that is out of style these days. Now it's "I want to be this" and "I want to be that." Holding office these days is not so much a public service as it is a way to make a living.

There's a dearth of ability but no shortage of candidates. Look at the list for 1974 — so far.

At least seven Democrats want to be the next governor.

THERE'S JUMPING Joe Alioto, mayor of San Francisco. He almost got a look at the race in 1970. He'll probably make a go for it this next time.

And there's Sec. of State Edmund G. 'Gerry' Brown Jr. He wants to follow in his daddy's footsteps. If you think Pat was a disaster, Patsy would be a debacle!

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti has already built himself a pot full of campaign gold, plus blood-oaths from legislators who savored his monetary favors in last year's campaigns.

Governor Reagan gave Moretti's candidacy a boost recently when he helped push through the so-called Moretti-Reagan tax shift bill. Moretti is already taking credit for doing what others could not do over the past six years.

State Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco wants to be guv. He is driving his Cadillac convertible all over left field trying to pick up support.

And then there's Congressman (former Assemblyman) Jerome Waldie of Antioch. He recently took on the Blue Shield and Blue Cross in an effort to build some name recognition south of Oakland.

THERE ARE ALMOST as many cats in the Republican bag.

Bob Finch, former lieutenant governor and former presidential advisor who bowed out as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is setting up shop in Los Angeles, trying to rebuild his old gang.

State Controller Houston Flournoy says he's leaning toward the gubernatorial race. But he might just run for re-election as controller. It depends on whether Finch runs for governor, or goes against U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, former congressman, has been running for governor ever since Governor Reagan crowned him heir-apparent in 1969. Reinecke is putting together an organization to be managed by Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's former communications director.

Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger hankers to be governor, some day. But he's smart enough to think that 1974 might just be a Democratic year. Younger will probably run for re-election to his present ost.

A BUNCH OF OTHER Republicans are waiting to play musical chairs.

Bob Monagan, Assembly minority leaders, and John Veneman, former assemblyman and deputy secretary of HEW, have their eyes on the lieutenant governor's race.

So does Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield of Downey. He was the author of Proposition 21, the anti-busing initiative.

Assemblyman Bill Bagley, San Rafael, talks about running for state controller, if Flournoy does go for governor.

Like I said, politics is some business.

What Sort Of Year Was It? Repressive, For Russian Citizens

WASHINGTON — Soviet leaders are showing themselves increasingly fearful of the modest demands of the Russian people for just a little more freedom — to speak, to be heard, and to have something to say about their own government.

We are witnessing a revealing facet of Soviet policy. The Kremlin is reaching out to liberalize its contacts with the West and is accompanying this move by suppressing more strongly the voices of those who want more freedom within the Soviet Union.

Liberalization abroad, more repression at home — they appear to be going hand in hand. There is a current Moscow joke which tells the tale of what is happening to Soviet democratic dissidents:

"What sort of a year was 1972, comrade?"

"An average year, comrade."

"What do you mean, an average year?"

"Well, it's worse than last year, but better than next."

HERE ARE THE ACTIONS which make this story sad but true:

The Soviet favored the idea of a European Security Conference to further detente between Eastern and Western Europe. But when the parties gathered at Helsinki, the Soviet spokesmen totally opposed anything approaching a free exchange of ideas between East and West. They tried to shut off the Romanians who rather liked the idea.

The Kremlin launched a pervasive harassment of the democratic movement, recently arrested one of its leaders, Pyotr Yakir, and has tried, only in part successfully, to erase the underground press.

Russian scientists, writers and scholars can no longer safely accept invitations to travel abroad. What happened to Valery Chalidze in the United States a few days ago can happen to others. He was granted a Soviet passport but when in the United States was informed he couldn't return to his homeland.

Russian dissidents, who make the mistake of assuming that the civil rights grandly set out in the Soviet constitution are for them, find freedom is not for them. And if they are too aggressive, they are committed to government insane asylums on the ground they must be insane to believe in freedom.

The too-outspoken poet, Yuri Galanskov, died of physical mistreatment.

AND THERE IS STILL another desperate action to keep the Russian people from knowing what is going on in their own country. There is now a ban on internal telephone conversations "held to be contrary to the interests of the state." Thus the Krelin seeks to make sure that;when some natural disaster, some accident, some riot or protest takes place in one city, the news can't easily be passed along by telephone.

Life for the average Russian citizen is easier today and more secure than at any time since the 1920s. But with the one important exception — ending massive, indiscriminate political terror — all the post-Stalin changes affect only economic life.

The political structure of the system, its methods of governing, the relationships between party and people — all these have remained practically unchanged. Today they are just as Stalin molded them. Undoubtedly the political and economic stagnation of recent years stems in large part from the total resistance to political change inside the system.

ROBERT CONQUEST, editor of Soviet Analyst and one of the best Sovietologists, advances this conclusion:

"The country has probably reached the limit of the reforms that could be instituted within the rigid framework of the unchanging Stalinist political system.

"To move any further, the party would have to relax the absolute tutelage that it has exercised over the people for so many decades and to allow some rudimentary degree of popular participation."

To that possibility the Kremlin is today saying more doggedly than ever: Nyet!

Save Tear (Crocodile Variety) For Poor, Mis-used Developer

WASHINGTON — While you are weeping for resolutions unkept, checking accounts suddenly unbalanced, Christmas trees burnt and inches added, save a tear for a class of gentlemen across America who are self-described as "hardship" cases.

A crocodile tear.

For the citizens appealing for your sympathy are not really qualified for relief among the 400 or even four million neediest. Their cries sound that way, may tug at the heart like those of a penniless widow thrown into the street in midwinter. But they are not cold and hungry. They are merely facing the prospect that at long last the people are going to limit the recklessness with which speculators can abuse the land to run up their profit margins.

I SPEAK, for example, of the developers who want to build money-minting hotels, homes and condominiums nearly overhanging the surf along the Atlantic shore in and near Ocean City, Md. They are not satisfied to build up to a line following the protective sand dunes along the beach, beyond which the state insists that public access to the ocean must be preserved. They know that the more beach they cover with building, the more square feet they can rent or sell, ergo: The state, acting for the overwhelming majority of the people, is a villain.

I speak also of the public-spirited landowner who has 26 wooded acres along a county line over in Virginia, described as the only remaining potential park land in that section of the Washington metropolitan area. This philanthropist is trying to squeeze $2.7 million out of the park authority for the tract, and that is $1 million more than the authority has been able to offer.

Nobody denies his right to quibble over price, though they might call his exorbitant. But he is tired of quibbling, and during the holidays he called in a crew to start cutting down the groves of hardwoods, many more than a century old, apparently just to give the negotiations a little nudge. If the authority does not meet his price promptly, he is going to complete the cutting and build a 108-unit luxury subdivision, which is just what this part of the world needs more of.

That may be just what it gets, too, in this case, for the park authority could not produce the money by this writing. In the Maryland situation, court cases are pending and the legislature is going to take up the matter of statewide land-use laws at the session forthcoming. The developers may win, as they have been in the habit of doing in the past, and they may not. But they are not going to keep up that habit indefinitely.

THAT, I BELIEVE, is the clear meaning of what has happened around the country during this past year. The people who care about the land continue to win a few and lose a lot, but the pendulum is swinging. A decade ago cases like the two I just described were as plentiful as now, but resistance to the developers was isolated. The developers' prevalence was taken for granted, as if ordained by God "Property rights" rode supreme and seldom challenged. You read only an occasional word about such controversies, and then usually when it was all over.

Now the people are aroused, and organized, and the papers are full of it.

The federal government, even in this business-oriented administration, is playing a leading role through its Environmental Protection Agency. State governments, one by one, are realizing that uniform and consistent policy putting the at-large good above the private privilege is mandatory now, not later. Out in California, a landmark court decision has brought private developers as well as public projects under the requirement to file environmental impact statements before proceeding. To hear the builders wail, you would think the world had been ordered to a stop.

But it is not the world that is affected, only the builders. And they have not been ordered to stop, only to slow down, and to show some respect for the land when they are allowed to proceed. Under those circumstances, the world will go along quite nicely, thank you

Nixon's Cousin Will Miss Inauguration

GRASS VALLEY (UPI) — A cousin of President Nixon says he won't be able to attend the President's second-term inauguration because "it's too costly" but eight other local relatives are planning to make the trip.

Phillip Milhous, a first cousin of the President, said he was invited to the Jan. 20 ceremonies in Washington but "I can't go because it's too costly. We (he and his wife) just don't have good enough health or the money to go."

Both Milhous and his wife, Anna, are disabled and receive disability payments. His wife also receives welfare benefits.

However, eight other Nixon relatives from nearby North San Juan in Nevada County plan to attend the inauguration. Richard Milhous, who along with his father, Oliver, operates a boys' ranch, said the group will fly to Washington on a chartered jet but will pay its own fare.

Oliver and his brother, Calvin, are first cousins of the President. They plan to attend the inauguration with their wives. Richard Milhous, his wife and two of their three children also will make the trip.

Phillip recalled how Nixon in his youth in Southern California "was just like the rest of us—a first cousin.

"I took his place in the grocery store in Whittier when he went back to college at the end of the summer. I haven't seen him lately, but he has written us several letters.

"He's one of the family but he's got a lot on his shoulders right now," Milhous said.

Reason Behind Soviet Visit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The national commander of the American Legion says his recent 10-day visit to the Soviet Union was taken as a means to insure peace.

"We're living in a new period," said Joe Matthews. "The '70s are going to be a time in which we will have to make a decision to learn to live together."

Matthews also reaffirmed his group's support of President Nixon's bombing policies in Vietnam but he said the organization does not agree with all of the President's views, including the proposed ending of the draft.

Sabin Will Leave Israeli Institute

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Dr. Albert Sabin, developer of the oral polio vaccine, will retire later this year as president of Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel, it was announced Wednesday.

Sabin has headed the institute since Jan. 1, 1970. For 30 years prior to that he had directed the Cincinnati Children's Hospital Research Foundation. The oral polio vaccine was developed there in 1955.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

General Plan Population Goals Recall Border Patrol Of '30s

Blizzard: (1) A heavy and prolonged snowstorm covering a wide area. (2) A violent windstorm with a dry, driving snow and intense cold. That's what they are having, as I write this, in Kansas and the other prairie states.

I was born in a small town in the southwest corner of Kansas. My mother once told me of such a storm. My dad and two other young men owned a hardware and house furnishing store about two blocks from the cottage, complete with cyclone cellar alongside. The storm broke just before closing time and dad, whose turn it was to close up, started for home. It should have taken him about 15 minutes, but in the blinding blizzard he lost his sense of direction. He thought he was a goner. Mother had put a lamp in the window and after about an hour of going in circles, he saw it. It was such things as this which decided them to come west. And thousands of others, for similar reasons, have done the same thing.

ARE WE, with this general plan, going to, in essence, carry on in Marin as the Los Angeles police did a couple of decades ago, when they turned back at the state line those who were leaving the dust bowl?

It wonders one when this is read in the Wednesday I-J: "The board also directed Planning Director Werner von Gundell to begin necessary zoning changes to bring land use designations into conformity with those outlined in the plan once adopted."

"Under state law, all city and county zoning must be consistent with an adopted general plan by July 1."

The following paragraph preceded the two just quoted: "Supervisors yesterday directed the county planning commission to hold its hearings during February and March and forward its recommendations to the board for hearings during April and May."

THIS HAS EVERY appearance that the board of supervisors will only do some rubber stamping. Otherwise why,"... direct Planning Director Werner von Gundell to begin necessary zoning changes to bring... into conformity with those outlined in the plan once adopted"?

There are some skull-popping questions flitting around as one contemplates all that's been said regarding the plan. Does the July 1 deadline mean that the plan will be frozen as passed by the supervisors? If so, what did von Gundell mean in his letter to the editor of Dec. 27: "... The financing gaps, which exist between some of the plan's goals and the assumed revenue sources, are a cause for concern... We have to work hard to close these gaps, or if unsuccessful, to revise the goals of the plan in the future"?

Surely the Legislature didn't intend to freeze everything in the state as of July 1. If they didn't, will just a skeleton draft be enough at that date? Is there a penalty involved if the deadline is not met?

This board has not been involved as it should be. As an example, the question can be asked: If the economy cuts they so eagerly jumped to institute are valid now, why weren't they at budget time? What was the administrator doing that he didn't reflect them in the budget he presented?

Plea Of Innocent Is Entered To Hashish Charge

A 38-year-old Muir Beach man, who accepted a package from Nepal containing three-and-a-half pounds of hashish, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony possession of the drug.

Preliminary hearing for Gerald Nathan Pearlman was set for Jan. 23.

A sheriff's lieutenant arrested him at his home Dec. 13 after a package containing the contraband was delivered to him. Inside the box was a blanket, purse and a religious plaque in which customs agents in New York City found the drug, according to Lt. Richard Gaddini.

The marijuana derivative would have sold for more than $3,000, according to Gaddini.

Five Are Nominated As 'Citizen Of Year'

Five Novato residents have been nominated for the 1972 "Citizen of the Year" award to be presented at the city's 13th birthday party at the community house Jan. 20.

The city also will present awards for outstanding design of commercial, public and residential projects and recognize those who have served on city commissions and committees.

The event, sponsored by the city and chamber of commerce, will start with no-host cocktails at 5 p.m., then dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing at 9 p.m.

Nominees for outstanding citizen are:

Leroy Gerner, president of the Novato Civic Foundation, who was instrumental in creating the Novato Creek demonstration project, since named Gerner Park.

Jerry A. Cannon, former member of the Novato Plan Review Committee and city housing committee, who has been a leader in conservation.

Gail Wilhelm, a city planning commissioner, who was a leader in the drive to have Rancho Olompali registered as a state landmark.

Charles Lewis, chairman of the Downtown Implementation and Business Advisory Committee and past president of the chamber of commerce, who has been active in various civic projects.

Reuben W. Kaehler, a builder, who donated the profits of a "dream house" to the Novato Boy's Club.

The chamber reported that limited reservations will close Jan. 15.

Human Origins Theories Campaign Is Started

A San Rafael woman is leading a campaign to get explanations of human origins other than the Darwinian evolution theory included in state science textbooks.

The California State Board of Education at its December meeting instructed a committee to prepare proposals for revising new science texts to eliminate dogmatic statements in regard to evolution. The board's resolution as adopted did not specify, however, that the existence of other theories of the descent of man should be recognized in the textbooks.

Alice Vipiano of 337 Mountain View Avenue, who was among advocates of inclusion of the theory of creation who appeared before the board, announced today she is distributing to political organizations, individuals, and state legislators a call for reintroduction of a resolution that "all theories of origin which can be explained in scientific terms be presented to the science student."

That resolution was offered by board member Eugene Ragle of Auburn but amended when he was unable to get the necessary votes for passage.

The committee's report on revision of the science texts is to be received at the state board's January meeting.

Jail Term Given In Check Case

A 23-year-old San Francisco man, who passed two stolen checks worth $650 at the Redwood Bank in San Rafael, has been ordered to spend six months in jail and repay the bank.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed Michael John Ontiveros on probation for two years and ordered him to submit to drug testing at the discretion of his probation officer.

Ontiveros passed the checks on June 28, 1971, but was not arrested until March 29, 1972, when San Francisco police booked him on another matter and learned a Marin warrant was outstanding.

His sentence was the result of a plea bargaining session involving judge, district attorney and defense attorney.

Lions District Governor To Visit

Jack M. Barnes of Woodacre, district governor of Lions International District 4-C2, will visit the Larkspur Lions Club at its meeting Wednesday at noon at the Blue Rock Inn.

On his official annual visit, Barnes will report on Lions projects throughout the district, which has more than 3,000 members in 73 clubs in Northern California, said Larkspur Lions' president Paul Schaefer.

ECOLOGY

Newsword Adventures

In the past few years citizens in all parts of the country have brought ecology problems to the headlines. "Ecology" is a form of a Greek word meaning house or dwelling. The term was applied to this particular branch of biology in the late 1800's. Ecology is concerned with the interrelationships between plants and animals and the environment in which they all exist. This discipline assumes that nothing can live in isolation. All organisms, including humans, are dependent on other organisms.

Truman's Truth And Humility Eulogized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign statesmen, government dignitaries, family members and old friends heard Harry S. Truman eulogized today as a leader who wore the mantle of his countrymen's trust "with truth and bore his solitary power with humility."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew represented President Nixon at the memorial services for the former President in the towering gothic Washington Cathedral. Nixon and his wife flew to Independence, Mo., on Dec. 27, the day after Truman died, to pay their last respects.

Eighty-seven-year-old Bess Truman, frail and ailing, was unable to attend. The Trumans' only child, Margaret Daniel, and her husband, Clifton Daniel, Washington Bureau chief of the New York Times, represented the family.

Sitting with the Daniels and the Agnews in a front pew was Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, widow of Truman's successor in the White House.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his sister, Eunice Shriver, were on hand to represent the family of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Some 1,900 persons gathered in the Cathedral to hear the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the Cathedral, describe Truman as a man who was "ready" when the "mantle of destiny" was thrust upon him.

He said that Truman was "earthy, plain" and "there were no wrinkles in his honesty."

"When the time came, he stepped to the anvil, humble but not afraid, relying always in his independent way upon the goodness of the Lord, in whose hand is the hammer of our fate."

Interspersing his eulogy with prayers, Sayre, grandson of Woodrow Wilson, said: "Many of us remember still the dark days that Harry Truman faced —the loneliness of his responsibility and the generous impulse he ever brought to it."

Sayre also asked for prayers to "renew the strength of the people whom Mr. Truman served: giving them singleness of heart, and grace to lay aside the things that divide them; and the vision of peace and a fresh resolve to achieve it."

Also taking part in the service was the Rev. John E. Howell, pastor of the First Baptist Church which Truman attended during the years he was in the White House, and the Right Rev. William F. Creighton, Bishop of Washington.

Sayre described Truman in a prayer as "a fearless son of simple soil ... whom Providence had raised to be our leader in time of peril and of peace."

"He wore the mantle of our trust with truth; and bore his solitary power with humility..."

World leaders representing more than 35 foreign countries came to pay homage to Truman. Among the ranking guests was President Zalman Shazar of Israel, in gratitude for Truman's diplomatic recognition of the new state of Israel. Also on hand was South Korean Prime Minister Kim Chong Pil in tribute to Truman's decision to send troops to fight in the Korean War, under United Nations auspices.

Other foreign dignitaries were Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch; Philippines Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo; and Lord Chancellor Lord Hailsham of the United Kingdom.

Plan For Heerdt Marsh Rejected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A controversial proposal to develop virtually all of the Heerdt Marsh in Corte Madera was rejected unanimously yesterday by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. (See another BCDC story, page 5.)

Attorneys for the development told the Independent-Journal they will challenge the commission's verdict in court on the ground that it deprived property rights.

It was the sixth time since 1966 that a development proposal for the marsh has failed to clear the commission.

The latest version by San Rafael developer Frank M. Burke for the first time failed to earmark any of the marsh for preservation. It also was the first time one of his proposals was opposed by the Corte Madera Town Council.

The commission's staff also opposed the project, saying it would "cause substantial harm to the bay." The commission's 18-0 vote against the project was expected since it never has approved an application opposed by a local government and since it virtually always follows staff recommendations.

Burke's $5.5 million proposal called for dredging 21.3 acres for a 335-berth marina and filling 47 acres for commercial recreation and marine industrial uses. "Smog and weather would be improved," he said, because he would increase the amount of open water. "We're trying to open it up for everybody's use, so it would not be restricted to just one type of person," he said of the marsh.

Burke previously told the commission that he and the owner of the marsh, William J. Heerdt, no longer could wait for proposed public purchase of the marsh.

One of their attorneys, Joseph L. Bortin of San Francisco, told the I-J that he "very probably" will take the legal challenge to federal court because "violating the right to property is a federal question."

The project drew unanimous condemnation from citizen-groups last month when the commission held its public hearing. No one testified for the project other than Burke.

In a separate but related action, the commission recommended state purchase of properties such as the Heerdt Marsh. Such "high-value marshlands" should get first priority in purchases under the Bagley Conservation Fund, the commission said.

The fund, created by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, provided $40 million last year for land acquisition and limited development of beaches, parks and wildlife areas.

U.S. Planes Pound Panhandle Area

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command announced today a near-record number of B52 bombers and jet fighters struck the southern Panhandle of North Vietnam while military spokesmen said government soldiers drove off Communist troops who had seized a hamlet near Saigon.

The intensified air strikes south of the 20th Parallel bombing boundary in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today included 116 fighter-bombers and 15 formations of B52s, the command said. The 15 B52 strikes, averaging three planes each, were one short of the record 16 flown against the Panhandle area last year although many more missions were flown during last month's heavy raids in the Hanoi-Haiphong area farther north.

Command spokesmen said the aerial campaign, now limited to the Panhandle area since Saturday on President Nixon's orders, was aimed at hindering Communist military traffic heading for South Vietnam.

U.S. Navy, Marine and Air Force jets concentrated mostly on bombing North Vietnamese supply trucks, an official communique indicated. The command said "numerous" vehicles were destroyed.

Ten miles north of the Panhandle's major port city of Vinh, 164 miles south of Hanoi, Navy jets bombarded a Communist truck park and pilots reported 15 trucks destroyed, a spokesman for the 7th Fleet said.

Even closer to the mined port at Vinh, pilots saw "numerous secondary explosions" when they dumped their bombs on the Duc Hau vehicle repair facility, officials said.

Command spokesmen said six of the 15 B52 raids were within six miles of the 20th Parallel, where they hit a "supply area, road and waterway complex" five miles east of Bai Thuong Airbase. Results of the raids were unknown.

Farther south, another nine B52 missions aimed at supply storage areas and a road network about 90 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams, spokesmen said.

The Saigon command said about 100 Communist troops walked into Phuoc Long 2 hamlet, 20 miles east of Saigon, at noon Thursday. Government soldiers drove them out and the Communists lost three men killed but just half a mile away, spokesmen said, heavy fighting left 12 South Vietnamese militiamen killed and 10 others wounded. There were no known Communist casualties.

Spokesmen reported 97 "enemy-initiated" attacks in South Vietnam between dawn Thursday and sunup today, well below the 116 reported Wednesday but still twice as many as the daily average during the past several weeks. The Saigon command said the stepped-up attacks marked "a high point of military activity," but refused to label it a new offensive.

Nixon Expresses No Optimism On New Round Of Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told congressional leaders today he is not optimistic about the new round of peace talks in Paris, but is going into them with some hope.

In Paris U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys today ignored the latest controversy between Hanoi and Saigon over Vietnam's future and held their fourth consecutive day of technical talks on provisions for a cease-fire.

U.S. peace delegation spokesman David Lambertson said the diplomatic experts were going about their task in a buinesslike way. "They are not reading protests and walking out," Lambertson said.

His statement was an apparent reference to two technical sessions last month in which the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese showed up just long enough to protest U.S. bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland — which has since been suspended — then stalked from the meetings. The Communists boycotted one such technical session altogether in retaliation for the aerial blitz.

Nixon did not mention the just-ended massive bombing of North Vietnam during the closed breakfast meeting at the White House, according to some of those present.

The meeting had been billed as a session on wage and price controls, but Nixon brought up the subject of Vietnam and the peace talks at the end of the meeting, and talked for more than 10 minutes. He then closed the meeting, and gave no chance for questions.

Sources at the meeting quoted Nixon as saying he was "not optimistic, but neither am I going to be pessimistic."

The President said the new talks were risky, but that there was a chance for success.

The President did not, however, go into any specific details of the peace talks, those present said.

Nixon also did not mention resolutions passed by Democrats in the House and the Senate calling for an end to the war or a cutoff of funds for war activities.

Those in the meeting said the emphasis was on cooperation between the White House and Congress. Nixon promised to hold more meetings with leadership from the House and Senate.

State Law May Halt Buying Of Open Space Land

New Regional Park District Faces A Setback From Property Tax Law

The newly-created Marin County Regional Park District, approved overwhelmingly by voters in November to purchase open space lands, may be blocked from raising so much as a penny by provisions of the state's new property tax limitation law.

SB 90, a controversial tax shift measure approved in the waning hour of 1972 Legislature, sets ceilings on property tax rates based on last year's level.

Sinc the park district is new and no tax rate has been set, the county may be forced to seek voter approval for a tax rate, according to County Administrator John F. Barrows. Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, disagreed with Barrows, however.

(Under a state bill authorizing the Marin park district, a maximum tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation is permitted. That bill was passed before SB 90, however.)

"At this writing," Barrows wrote to supervisors today, "It appears that SB 90 . . . prohibits the new regional park district from levying any property taxes until the voters specifically approve a maximum rate."

He said the county's legal staff "cannot find a legal basis for an alternative decision at this point."

Barrows added that a detailed legal opinion on the effects of SB 90 had been requested from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney but it remains unclear whether that opinion will be ready by Tuesday, when the board of supervisors discusses the new tax law.

Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, said if the matter is to go to voters again a decision must be reached by Jan. 26 in order to get it on an April ballot.

Such an election could be consolidated with school elections already slated for April, he said.

The need for a special election to set a tax rate was brushed aside as unnecessary by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Special legislation could be whipped through both houses and signed into law in only a few days if needed, he said.

First, however, a "very quick" attorney general's opinion will be sought to see if a loophole can be found for the Marin problem, Bagley said.

If no loophole can be found, then the problem will be taken care of either through a special bill or through an omnibus bill cleaning up a host of similar problems created throughout the state by SB 90, he said.

A spokesman for Bagley added that the problem will not be a crisis until the end of the fiscal year in June, when the new tax rate for the district will have to be set. "We'll get it cleared up one way or the other," he said.

The release of Barrows's letter to county supervisors came on orders from chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. after the county administrator, citing county "policy," attempted to withhold the information until after it had been placed in the supervisors' agenda package for Tuesday.

The state's open records act says, however, such documents are public and must be released.

Nation's Work Force Is Now Largest Ever

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment remained unchanged in December at a 28-month low of 5.2 per cent of the work force, the government said today, but the number of persons with jobs rose to an alltime high of 82.8 million.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said joblessness averaged 5.6 per cent in 1972, down from the 5.9 per cent rate in 1971 but still higher than the average rate of 4.9 per cent in 1970 and 3.5 per cent in 1969, President Nixon's first year in office.

After hovering at about 6 per cent for 19 consecutive months, the unemployment rate fell in June to 5.5 per cent and remained at that level for five months before falling in November to 5.2 per cent, the lowest since August of 1970. The administration failed to reach its original target of reducing unemployment to 4.5 per cent by the middle of 1972, but White House economists last month claimed that the 5.2 per cent rate fell within the administration's revised goal of lowering joblessness to "the neighborhood" of 5 per cent by the end of 1972.

The BLS said that although the reduction of unemployment was "modest," the number of persons with jobs continued to expand sharply in 1972. Employment rose by 2.3 million workers last year, far exceeding the increases of 490,000 in 1971 and 730,000 in 1970.

"The 1972 job pick-up represented the largest annual expansion in the post-World War II period," the BLS said, adding that the gains were most pronounced among workers aged 25 and over.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers said in a statement on the

Another Cold Night Recorded

Below-freezing temperatures were recorded again last night in many sections of Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, but the weatherman said tomorrow should be cloudy and slightly windy with highs in the 50s.

Tonight's lows will be in the 30s, he said.

Last night's low temperatures included 24 degrees in Novato and Woodacre and 26 degrees in Petaluma. Temperatures in Southern Marin ranged from 28 degrees in Mill Valley to 34 degrees in Sausalito.

Bright frost greeted early risers today, but by noon clouds covered the skies.

Nixon's Cousin Will Miss Inauguration

GRASS VALLEY (UPI) — A cousin of President Nixon says he won't be able to attend the President's second-term inauguration because "it's too costly" but eight other local relatives are planning to make the trip.

Phillip Milhous, a first cousin of the President, said he was invited to the Jan. 20 ceremonies in Washington but "I can't go because it's too costly. We (he and his wife) just don't have good enough health or the money to go."

Both Milhous and his wife, Anna, are disabled and receive disability payments. His wife also receives welfare benefits.

However, eight other Nixon relatives from nearby North San Juan in Nevada County plan to attend the inauguration. Richard Milhous, who along with his father, Oliver, operates a boys' ranch, said the group will fly to Washington on a chartered jet but will pay its own fare.

Oliver and his brother, Calvin, are first cousins of the President. They plan to attend the inauguration with their wives. Richard Milhous, his wife and two of their three children also will make the trip.

Phillip recalled how Nixon in his youth in Southern California "was just like the rest of us—a first cousin.

"I took his place in the grocery store in Whittier when he went back to college at the end of the summer. I haven't seen him lately, but he has written us several letters.

"He's one of the family but he's got a lot on his shoulders right now," Milhous said.

Reason Behind Soviet Visit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The national commander of the American Legion says his recent 10-day visit to the Soviet Union was taken as a means to insure peace.

"We're living in a new period," said Joe Matthews. "The '70s are going to be a time in which we will have to make a decision to learn to live together."

Matthews also reaffirmed his group's support of President Nixon's bombing policies in Vietnam but he said the organization does not agree with all of the President's views, including the proposed ending of the draft.

Sabin Will Leave Israeli Institute

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Dr. Albert Sabin, developer of the oral polio vaccine, will retire later this year as president of Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel, it was announced Wednesday.

Sabin has headed the institute since Jan. 1, 1970. For 30 years prior to that he had directed the Cincinnati Children's Hospital Research Foundation. The oral polio vaccine was developed there in 1955.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A Warm Winter

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Moscow region is having its warmest winter in 23 years and Western agricultural sources said it could spell more woe for some Soviet farmers still suffering from 1972's bad harvest.

The Tass news agency said yesterday the unusually warm weather was due to the unusual position of polar cyclones bunched close to Greenland.

"Although no substantial change in weather is expected in Moscow in the next five days, specialists think that winter is simply late and will still make up for lost time," Tass said.

New Soviet Jet

LONDON (UPI) — European military sources said today that the Soviet Union apparently has developed a new supersonic fighter plane, an improved version of its MIG21 and 23 fighters.

The new fighter, called the MIG25, reportedly has a longer range than the MIG21 or 23 and carries more powerful armament.

The sources said no precise details of the new fighter were known. Nor, they said, has it gone into full production yet.

The sources said official secrecy surrounds the project.

The MIG21 itself has been improved and its more modern versions were supplied to Egypt and other countries.

Diplomatic Talk

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.S. and East German officials met for the first time at any official level yesterday and a U.S. spokesman said they discussed the possibility of establishing diplomatic relations.

A U.S. spokesman said American officials are prepared to meet East German envoys to discuss establishing diplomatic relations, but they did not set a time for such talks.

The subject came up during a 45-minute meeting between Horst Grunert, the East German observer at the United Nations, and the outgoing U.S. ambassador, George Bush.

Another Death

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen shot and killed a Protestant militia officer early today, raising the toll in Northern Ireland violence to 680. Militant Protestants said they will take revenge unless authorities stop a wave of religious murders.

A British army spokesman said James Hood, 48, died instantly when assassins fired the shotgun at him at pointblank range when he opened the door of his home in Straidarran, 55 miles northwest of Belfast.

Unification Next?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic said Thursday unification of his nation with Northern Ireland was "inevitable" but that objective should be attained by peaceful methods.

Lynch, here to recommend Ireland as a desirable site for American industry, called the Irish Republican Army (IRA) an" enemy" of Ireland, because, he said, it opposes the republic's political and economic aims.

"This unification is not only right, we think it is inevitable, but we want to achieve this by peaceful means," he said.

Graham On Peace

DALLAS (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham says that while he hoped and prayed for an early end to the war in Vietnam, he never spoke his thoughts on the issue to a U.S. president and does not plan to do so.

Graham, in a statement written for the Dallas Morning News, said he had touched on the subject with former President John F. Kennedy and President Nixon.

Graham said he would not divulge any conversations he had had with the five presidents he was associated with. However, in a general way he said he has "attempted to avoid issues that are strictly political, but at the same time I have spoken and continue to speak on issues on which I feel a definite moral issue is involved."

Guilty Verdict

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Airman Cleveland Mallory, the second of 19 black sailors to be tried for rioting aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk, was found guilty yesterday of assault and rioting.

The verdict against the 21-year-old Pittsburgh sailor was returned without deliberation by Judge Bobby D. Bryant, presiding over the special court-martial.

Husband Of Actress Seeking Dissolution

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Glynis Johns was sued for divorce Thursday by her husband of eight years, writer Elliott Arnold.

Arnold's petition, filed in Superior Court, said the couple married Oct. 1, 1964 and separated in 1969. Arnold, 60, who lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., and Miss Johns, of London, each had three previous marriages.

MORE SNOW ON THE WAY

A large limb, broken by the weight of accumulated ice, partially blocked this street in Kansas City, Mo., following a storm which hit the Midwest Wednesday. Little relief was in sight for the battered area as a new storm was lumbering out of the Southwest today, headed for the midlands and carrying more snow and freezing drizzle.

Albert Pays Tribute To Hale Boggs

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert Thursday recalled former House Majority Leader Hale Boggs as a tireless worker who rose to influential positions in congressional leadership but always had compassion for the less fortunate.

Albert's eulogy for Boggs followed a ceremonial Mass of Resurrection for the missing Louisiana Democrat, who disappeared Oct. 16 on a flight from Anchorage to Juneau, Alaska.

Mrs. Richard Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former President Lyndon B. Johnson led the list of dignitaries at the memorial service in historic St. Louis Cathedral. Boggs' brother, the Rev. Robert L. Boggs, was a concelebrant of the mass.

"Drawing his strength from the daily trials and vigors of congressional life, he was a master strategist, a billiant debater and a great compromiser—in the best sense of that word," Albert said of Boggs.

"His gregarious nature, his charm and ready wit complemented his intelligence and persuasive use of power.

"Hale Boggs' compassionate spirit was deeply rooted in his desire to help people. He crusaded to upgrade the lives of the poor, the sick, the downtrodden and the elderly to insure equality for all Americans."

Boggs won re-election Nov. 7 but his seat was declared vacant by the House of Representatives. A special election will be called to choose his successor and there is widespread support for Lindy Boggs, the congressman's widow, to be a candidate.

$4.3 Million For Steam Car Experiment In State Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state has launched a $4.3 million project to produce two experimental steam cars in an attempt to find a way to reduce urban smog.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who proposed the project, unveiled specifics of the plan Thursday and said the cars will be built in about 18 months.

The Van Nuys Democrat also said the vehicles, which will be compacts capable of speeds up to 70 miles per hour, will operate with far less pollution than permitted under the strict 1975 federal emission standards.

The project was approved quietly by the Assembly Rules Committee at a Nov. 14 meeting which drew scant public attention. Contracts have been signed with Aerojet Liquid Rocket Co. of Sacramento and Steam Power (Systems (SPS) of San Diego.

The state will shell out $3 million in taxpayers' money for the project. The appropriation will be tucked into the 1973 state budget under the Assembly's contingency fund. The remaining $1.3 million will be paid by individual manufacturers.

Jim Lane, director of the Assembly Office of Research, said Moretti avoided the usual legislative process for establishing the project because it would have been "much more arduous" than simply getting the Rules Committee approval.

Lane also said the Reagan administration "was not really very enthusiastic" about the steam car plan and that the governor might have vetoed it if proposed in a bill.

The project was an outgrowth of a recently completed $16 million steam bus program sponsored by the Assembly and financed by the federal government.

Three buses were built and tested with mixed results. They proved excellent in reducing pollution but poor on fuel consumption and reliability.

The steam cars will go from zero to 60 mph in 30 seconds, a much slower rate of acceleration than many internal combustion engines.

After they are built, the steam cars will be tested for three months by the state Air Resources Board, the California Highway Patrol and technical consultants to the Assembly.

"California enacted its first pollution control law nearly 25 nears ago and for the past decade we've led the nation in research and in imposing controls to clean up the air we breath," Moretti said in a news release detailing the project.

"But despite all the advances, the fact remains that during 1970 Los Angeles County did not meet state air quality standards on nearly two-thirds of the days," he said.

"Motor vehicles are the worst offenders and so one of the surest ways to halt this health hazard is to give vehicles a new source of propulsion," Moretti said. "That's what we intend to show possible and feasible through this steam car project."

Ten companies from across the nation bid for the project, including Lear Motors Co., of Reno, Nev. Lane said the Lear proposal "was not up to the standards of the others."

Big DMV Blaze Ruled Accidental

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Fire marshal Albert E. Hole has all but ruled out the possibility of arson in a fire that extensively damaged the headquarters of the state Department of Motor Vehicles, saying the blaze "probably was accidental in nature."

Hole's finding was contained in a preliminary report Thursday on his investigation of the Dec. 26 fire that destroyed the state national guard's headquarters on the fifth floor of the $10 million DMV building in Sacramento and caused extensive damage to the sixth floor.

Hole said evidence indicates "a very strong probability" that a battery charger serving 30 small, portable, two-way ratios caused the fire, which started in the guard's offices on the fifth floor.

He said investigation of the blaze should be completed within 10 days to two weeks.

Furniture and other combustibles such as maps and documents in the Military Department were responsible for the intensity of the fire and severity of the damage, Hole said.

He said "considerable damage" occurred to the DMV director's office on the sixth floor "as a result of penetration of the fire through the vacuum tube system of the building."

The six-story building was closed for one week after the fire but now the first three floors have been re-occupied. Temporary offices for displaced DMV and Military Department employes have been set up in other buildings.

A DMV spokesman said the fourth floor of the building should be re-opened by May 1. But because of major renovation work required on the fifth and sixth floors, he said, those floors won't be re-opened until April 1, 1974.

MARRIAGE GROWS IN POPULARITY

Marin County issued the largest number of marriage licenses last year, 1,516, representing nearly a 50 per cent increase over 1971, County Clerk George Gnoss said.

A total of 1,095 licenses were issued in 1971, Gnoss said.

The number of licenses issued has been increasing gradually over the years, but nothing reaching the increase last year, Gnoss said.

Air Freight No Longer Is Exotic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If a skunk isn't descented, it can't fly.

If your dog is the kind that bites, try a tranquilizer to calm him down before putting him on a plane.

It is okay to ship strawberries by the ton, and fresh flowers are always welcome.

Monkeys and snakes should be packaged with extreme care. A snake loose in the cargo compartment makes the pilot nervous, and monkeys can be very unsociable if they manage a mass escape.

And no matter how domesticated he is, a parrot cannot ride in a plane on his master's shoulder. He's got to stay in the cargo hold with the rest of the animals.

Such matters are routine in the air cargo business, a one-time stepchild of the airline industry that is coming into its own economically due mainly to the arrival of widebodied jetliners.

Since the Wright Brothers made their first flight, aviation enthusiasts have been touting the possibilities of air cargo. But for decades, the enthusiasm was not matched by profits.

Much of the public still thinks of air cargo as small or exotic items such as animals or radioactive isotopes. That no longer holds true.

Machinery — including automobiles — is now a major item of air freight. Wearing apparel is one of the most common items. Air freighters land and take off jammed with tools and hardware, fruits, drugs, computers, chemicals — even baked goods.

The U.S. airlines also move 4.5 million pieces of mail every day — which makes the U.S. Postal Service the airline industry's biggest single customer.

The Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade organization representing the mejor airlines, says the argument for air cargo is not based usually on money saved, but time saved by the shipper who then converts this into a profit.

In 1966, air cargo produced $681,572,000 in revenue for the scheduled airlines. By 1971, the total had jumped to $1,104,459,000, according to James F. McCarthy, a spokesman for the ATA.

Profits have varied. All-cargo jet freights turn a profit on international flights because of the length of the haul. On domestic flights jet freighters frequently operate at a loss. But the cargo moving in the underbelly of a jetliner crowded with passengers is profitable.

Experts are predicting that the wide-body jetliner, and the use of containerization innovations, will put profits on the rise.

"Each time an airline buys a widebodied jetliner it is like buying two-thirds of a new jet freighter," an airline cargo expert said. This official said the scheduled airlines already have taken delivery on 121 widebodied jetliners and have about 170 more on order. "The net effect will be a more than doubling of the scheduled cargo airlift capability," he said.

Letters Will Be Included

LONDON (UPI) — Winston S. Churchill wrote a letter "to be sent in the event of my death" to his wife while he served in the trenches during World War I.

"Do not grieve for me too much," the letter said. "I am a spirit confident of my rights. Death is only an incident and not the most important which happens to us in this state of being."

The letter is one of several to his wife, Lady Spencer Churchill, to be published in the third volume of the biography "Winston S. Churchill" by Martin Gilbert later this month.

The letters were written by Churchill while he commanded the 6th Royal Scots Fusiliers in France after being ousted from the admiralty because of the Gallipoli campaign.

Jobs Sought For Youths In Novato

The Youth Employment Service of the Marin Young Men's Christian Association is seeking part-time jobs in the Novato area for high school students.

With expansion of the service into the Novato area, about 70 students from San Marin, Novato and North Marin high schools have been listed as available for work according to John L. Wash, service director.

The program, which started in April 1971, also has nearly 400 students listed for jobs in the area from Marinwood to Sausalito and west to Woodacre, Wash said.

Along with seeking employers, the service is seeking freshmen and sophomores to sign up for work and volunteers to help carry out the program. Interested persons can notify Wash at the YMCA office, 241 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Planners Approve Beverage Permit

A conditional use permit to allow Frank Bisceglia to open a restaurant serving alcoholic beverages at 2009 Bridgeway in Sausalito has been approved by the city's planning commission.

The planners, at their Wednesday meeting, also granted a variance to Gretchen Merklein and Nancy W. Terk to convert the bottom story of a single-family home at 325 Pine Street to a bakery.

Grumman Gets New Navy Loan

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — The financially-strapped Grumman Aircraft Corp.—which had announced it would not fulfill one contract to provide the Navy with swing-wing F14 fighters — says it had accepted an $18 million short-term loan from the Navy.

Company spokesman, J.B. Kettaliata, said Grumman had accepted a total of five loans from the Navy since last September for completing contracts for the firm's entire range of Navy contracts.

The firm intends to honor contracts for 86 F14 planes to be delivered before 1974. But, the firm said it will not produce the additional 48 aircraft that were to be delivered after that date.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, Jan. 5, the fifth day of 1973 with 360 days to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Zebulon Pike, discoverer of Pike's Peak in Colorado, was born Jan. 5, 1779.

On this day in history:

In 1925, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming was sworn in as the first woman governor in U.S. history.

In 1964, Pope Paul VII and Greek orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras met in Jerusalem to discuss Christian unity.

In 1968, Antonin Novotny was ousted as chairman of the Czechoslovakian Communist party and replaced by Alexander Dubcek who subsequently was deposed for leading a reform movement against Moscow control.

In 1972, President Nixon ordered American development of a space shuttle.

A thought for the day: British author William Somerset Maugham said, "There are two good things in life, freedom of thought and freedom of action."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Variance Approved For Belvedere Home

The Belvedere City Council last night approved a variance and a conditional use permit to allow K. O. Collins to construct a two-story house at 260 Bayview Avenue.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the variance was necessary because the lot is substandard size. All new construction and extensive remodeling currently requires a use permit under the city's building moratorium, according to Cavalli.

New Cotati Mayor Is Geoffrey Dunham

Geoffrey Dunham was elected mayor of Cotati last night as Annette Lombardi officially tepped down.

Miss Lombardi announced earlier she would resign as mayor because the politics and socializing required by the job had interfered with her private life.

Dunham, 29, was elected mayor without comment and Herbert Winter, one of the older holdover councilmen, was named to replace Dunham as vice mayor. Miss Lombardi will retain her council seat.

Dunham, a graduate of College of Marin and Sonoma State College, was elected last April, along with Miss Lombardi and Stephen Laughlin, in the upset of three incumbents.

The council, meanwhile, voted after a closed session to dismiss Joseph Perry, who had been city public works superintendent and building inspector less than a year.

No reason for Perry's ouster was given and no replacement was named.

The Cotati City Council also:

MORATORIUM — Decided against calling a three-month building moratorium, but asked that a running account be given on sewer capacity.

ATTORNEY — Adopted a policy that any councilman can seek legal advice from the city attorney and ask him to prepare resolutions and ordinances. Winter and Councilman Frank P. Dolinsek dissented, saying the entire council should be consulted before documents are prepared.

VIETNAM — Took no action on the suggestion of two residents that the city contribute money toward rebuilding of North Vietnam.

PLANNERS — Reappointed Archie Stewart, Allan C. Stansbury and Sharalyn McClendon to two-year terms on the planning commission.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting on Jan. 18.

Area For Sewer Line Suggested

Two Tamalpais Valley organizations have asked that preservation of the marsh east of Shoreline Highway be a primary consideration in any route chosen for a proposed major sewage trunkline through Southern Marin.

At a joint meeting last night, the Tamalpais Improvement Club and the Tamalpais Task Force also recommended that construction of the pipeline be coordinated with undergrounding of utilities along the route and with development of bicycle paths and hiking trails.

The pipeline in question is part of a $28-million consolidated waste disposal system for southeast Marin being proposed by Improvement District A of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The two major trunkline paths now being considered by District A include one which follows the railroad bed in the marsh and another which follows Shoreline Highway between Tam Junction and Highway 101.

The two valley groups met last night with Steven Herrera, a biologist for the Sacramento firm of Jones and Stokes Associates which is preparing an environmental impact statement on the giant waste disposal project, and agreed to send a letter incorporating their views to the firm.

JOBS

latest employment report:

"We had expected a substantial reduction (in unemployment) during 1972 as the economy expanded and the administration forecast at the beginning of the year that the rate would fall to the neighborhood of 5 per cent by year-end. We believe that target has been reached. And we are confident that further progress will be achieved in 1973."

Stein also said the growth in employment during 1972 was "one of the best on record," and that "all indications point to continuing strong economic expansion in 1973 which will mean that we can expect employment to be substantially higher a year from today."

There were more than 4.5 million unemployed workers last month, which was 600,000 less than a year earlier.

The BLS said unemployment rates showed little or no change for most groups of workers in December, but most were down from the previous year.

However, the BLS said the unemployment rate for Negro workers remained close to the 10 per cent mark during all of 1972, virtually the same as in 1971, while the rate for white workers declined from 5.4 per cent in 1971 to an average of 5 per cent last year.

The unemployment rate for Vietnam War-era veterans, aged 20 to 29, for the first time dropped below the rate for the same age group of non-veterans in the work force. The 5.5 per cent jobless rate for these veterans in December —the first time in nearly three years it was below 6 per cent —was a full percentage point below the non-veteran rate of 6.5 per cent.

North Marin Federation Elects Officers

Alfred A. Rivasplata, principal of Pacheco School, Novato, has been elected 1973 president of the North Marin Federation, an affiliation of homeowner and improvement associations.

Rivasplata, a past president of the Black point Improvement Club, is a charter member of the roup that activated the federation. He lives at 302 Olive Avenue.

Evelyn Johnson, former president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association, was elected vice president at the annual federation election Wednesday night. She served as treasurer in 1972.

Marlo Van Der Zweip was elected treasurer.

Officers will be installed at the federation's annual dinner-dance Jan. 27.

Background Of Jailed Man Eyed

A 28-year-old former Marin man, arrested on suspicion of auto theft, having an illegal club and drug paraphernalia, was being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail today while sheriff's investigators looked into more serious allegations.

Arrested yesterday at a gas station at the Lucas Valley interchange of Highway 101 was George Wallace Goss, who gave a Guerneville address when jailed at 1 p.m.

Sheriff's Lt. Guido Battaglia said the sheriff's office received a tip that the car he was driving was stolen and a check showed it was stolen Wednesday from the Russian River area.

Sheriff's investigators today were checking for ties between Goss and armed robberies in Butte County and Oregon in the past month, according to Battaglia.

In the Oregon case, an elderly couple was beaten with a club and robbed, he said. The lieutenant had no further details of the incidents, but said Goss and the car matched descriptions given by the victims.

Goss already is wanted in Portland on a $15,000 warrant charging him with fraudulent use of a credit card stolen in Santa Rosa.

Battaglia said records show Goss lived in San Rafael a year ago.

Man Arrested On Drug Charge

Dann Lester Sill, 20, of Klamath Falls, Ore., was arrested by Novato Police yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Officers said Sill, who had been hitchhiking, was arrested near 1425 Grant Avenue at 7:14 a.m. on an outstanding traffic warrant.

After he was taken to police headquarters, officers said they discovered a plastic bag of what appeared to be marijuana in the patrol car where Sill had been sitting.

Sill, booked at Marin County Jail, was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Disaster Course For Nurses

A course for registered nurses and nursing students on providing service in disasters will be offered free by the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Jan. 16 at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The course will cover Red Cross and government responsibilities in times of disaster, Red Cross disaster policies and disaster preparedness.

More information is available from the Red Cross office in San Rafael.

OBITUARIES

Edward D. Mahood Dies At 91

Edward Dell Mahood, one of Marin County's early residents, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness at the age of 91.

Born in Virginia City, Nev., he spent his childhood there shortly after the great Comstock silver discovery. He learned telegraph operation and moved to San Francisco to work for the Western Union.

Mahood came to Corte Madera in 1901 as a telegrapher for what later became the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He later became paymaster and station agent.

In his years in Corte Madera, he later became postmaster, telephone manager and town treasurer. His brother, Foster, established Mahood Brothers Grocers, running the store until they sold it 23 years ago.

Known to friends as "Dell," Mahood was interested in civic improvements for the infant town of Corte Madera, and was one of the promoters of the first sewer system in 1905.

Mahood reared his family in a home on Tamalpais Drive built by his father-in-law, James Stevens, in 1897. Stevens had been on the town's first council.

In recent years, Mahood had made his home with one of his sons, Edward James Mahood of San Anselmo.

He is survived by his two sons, Edward and Albert Dell Mahood of San Rafael; a daughter, Margaret Rempe of Novato; a brother, Robert Mahood of San Francisco; a sister, Anne Bernardasci of San Jose, and 10 grandchildren.

He was a member of the Mira Monte Lodge, Woodmen of the World.

Mass of the Resurrection will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

ZOYA FREDSON
Dies at 61

ZOYA FREDSON

Zoya Fredson of San Rafael, long active in St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox Church in San Anselmo, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. She was 61.

Mrs. Fredson, wife of Ivan Fredson, was born in Harbin, Manchuria, the daughter of White Russian parents.

She came to this country about 1925. For many years she worked atarman of San Francisco, a sportswear firm. She retired three years ago because of illness.

Mrs. Fredson and her husband moved to Marin in 1951, the year St. Nicholas Church was established here. She had been a member of the congregation since its inception.

In addition to her husband, of the family home at 46 East Crescent Drive; she is survived by three brothers, Victor Nagel of Sacraento, Nicholas Nagel of Redwood City and Paul Nagel of Corte Madera, and a sister, Helen Simon of Redwood City.

A Panahida service will be at 7 p.m. today at Ashley and McMullen Funeral Home, San Francisco. Funeral will be at Christ the Savior Russian Orthodox Church, San Francisco, at 12:30 p.m. Saturday. Burial will be in the Greek Cemetery, Colma.

JOHN FOSTER

Private funeral for John L. Foster of 2023 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, was held today.

Foster, 86, died in a local convalescent hospital Wednesday after a lengthy illness.

Widowed since 1945, Foster was a retired accountant and had worked for the Crown Chemical Co. in San Francisco for 25 years.

He was a native of Rooks County, Kan., and had lived in California for 52 years, the last ten in Marin.

He was a member of the Senior Citizens of San Rafael.

He is survived by a daughter, Carol Painter of San Anselmo; a son, Charles L. Foster of San Francisco; a brother, Raymond Foster of Rohnert Park, and six grandchildren.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the John L. Foster Memorial Fund of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

ERNEST EDDINGS

Ernest (Buck) Eddings, recognized in sports circles as a noted fisherman, died yesterday at his Santa Venetia home after a lengthy illness. He was 64.

Eddings operated Buck's Landing from his home at 665 North San Pedro Road. He was a retired contractor, and for the last five years has spent most of his time fishing for sturgeon in San Pablo Bay.

Born in Mountain Home, Ark., he had lived in Marin County for 30 years.

He was a member of the Marin Rod and Gun Club; Novato Lodge 2041, Loyal Order of Moose; Gallinas Yacht Club; the California Licensed Contractors Association and Bricklayers Union Local 7 of San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Hazel; a daughter, Verna Lee Foulkes of San Jose, and by two sons, Ernest L. Eddings of San Rafael and Pernell D. Eddings of Bonne Terre, Mo.

He also is survived by his father, Rev. Jasper L. Eddings of Corte Madera; two sisters, Grace Davidson of Novato and Ethel Davis of Advance, Mo., and three brothers, Orville Lawhorn of Monette, Ark., Earl Eddings of St. Louis and Glendon B. Eddings of Novato. Also surviving are 10 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Decomposed Body Is Found Off Ft. Baker

The badly decomposed body of an unidentified man was found yesterday floating in San Francisco Bay off Yellow Bluff at Fort Baker.

The man, who had been in the water between three and four weeks, was discovered by two hikers, George Peck of Tiburon and John Venes of Sausalito.

The men tied the body to a rock, then notified the Marin County Coroner's office. But by the time coroner's officials arrived at the scene the tide had risen, making it impossible to reach the corpse from land.

The Coast Guard was called in to retrieve the body. It was taken to Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley, where an autopsy is planned.

The dead man is described as between 6 and 6 feet, 2 inches tall, 170 to 180 pounds. When found, he was wearing brown dungarees and brown shoes.

The United States uses 534 pounds of paper per capita each year.

Special Development Plans Eyed For Bay

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Longstalled plans to improve the nautical mess around Richardson Bay got a boost yesterday from the new chairman of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

The complex pattern of private ownerships of tidelands around the shallow bay has frustrated commission efforts for years to coordinate plans for the area. The usual result has been to stymie developers' plans to upgrade the area, as well as to develop it.

The answer to the problem, said chairman William D. Evers, will be for the commission and local jurisdictions to draw "special area plans" for such problem areas. He also cited the need for one on the San Francisco waterfront.

The detailed plans will require more staff, Evers cautioned, but "will give more predictability to developers so they will know where they stand and where we stand." The special plans are necessary "if we are to fulfill our satutory mandate," he told the commission.

The 45-year-old San Francisco attorney, asking the commission's pardon for mixing metaphors, said the special area plans would "break some of the logjams by untying some of the gordian knots."

Evers was appointed this week to replace Melvin B. Lane, who resigned and was appointed to the new coastal commission.

Lane led a parade of six other departing veterans leaving the commission with a total of 39 years of service. The 27-member commission was formed in 1965.

Others leaving the commission for various reasons were Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, Melville Owen of Kentfield, Santa Clara County Supervisor Victor Calvo, San Francisco Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn, F. J. Horting, executive officer of the State Lands Commission, and Alameda County Supervisor Emanuel P. Razeto.

Topless Poster Ban Is Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police Thursday received the ammunition to shoot down the nude posters outside North Beach topless-bottomless clubs.

Superior Court Judge Ira Brown Jr. refused to issue an injunction against a city police code section banning such posters.

"If an arrest is made under the challenged ordinance, there will be ample opportunity to raise the constitutional issues in the criminal proceedings," Brown said.

The ordinance bans photos or signs showing nude bodies at places of entertainment.

The nighclubs had sought the injunction on grounds the ordinance violated constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech.

Flu Season Spurs Talk Of Viruses

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are there brand-new kinds of kooky viruses running around laying people low?

Many people could well think so, from getting ailments and miseries they never had before. Like a virus that likes to play around just in your chest. Or one specializing in intestinal agonies, or mostly making muscles hurt, or seeing what degree of headache it can produce. And, of course, there's the super all-body influenza virus. Are they new?

Some are or may be, in the sense of being new strains or "cousins" of already known kinds of viruses. Thus the London flue virus is a new strain related to the Hong Kong flu virus. The new strain was first isolated in England in January 1972, hence the name London.

But there's some debate among experts whether an entirely new virus has or will come along that our ancestors had never experienced somewhere along the line.

If a truly new virus did appear, it could escape notice for a long time if it caused only very mild illness. There could be little inclination to run tests to get the identification or license number of a virus involved in very brief hit-run attacks.

A truly new virus might very well kill thousands of people, perhaps millions, because humans had no immunity to it. The situation is analogous to primitive peoples being decimated by viruses, like smallpox, introduced by visitors or hunters who did have immunity.

But there's no question the virus-cold and flu season is here. Flu may have influenced the outcome of last Sunday's pro football championship games by having hit and weakened some players.

The new London flu is one concern. It's an A-type of influenza like Hong Kong flu, which was blamed for killing 27,900 Americans in 1968-69 and making hundreds of thousands memorably sick.

It cannot yet be predicted how widespread London flu will be this year, says a spokesman for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga. Possibly, he adds, a major part of the population already has some immunity from prior flu viruses. The currently available flu vaccine should offer some protection against the new strain, he thinks.

The flu virus presents many mysteries, including puzzlement over exactly how new strains appear. When a very different one comes along, previous vaccines usually don't work against it.

Some new Chinese-American cooperation is exploring some of the problems. Dr. Robert Webster of St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., visited China last fall, and returned with samples of virus that caused flu outbreaks in 1967 and 1971. He now is growing those viruses in his laboratory.

There are two theories as to how a new strain or mutant appears, Webster explains. One is that it is simply a change in an existing form of the virus. The other is that it results from a recombination or genetic interchange between a human type of virus and one that affects animals or birds.

A new strain can be lethal. A worldwide flu epidemic in 1918 is estimated to have killed some 21 million people, including 500,000 Americans. Asian flu in 1957 was wicked and deadly. So was Hong Kong flu some 10 years later.

Both the Asian and Hong Kong strains are known to have originated in China, Webster said in an interview. But neither was entirely new; each had been around in the world before, he adds.

Understanding how the new strains originate might increase the chances of preparing vaccines, in advance, for defense when a deadly new strain did appear. The viruses he obtained from China will be useful in this study, Webster said. He gave Chinese scientists serums that make it possible to type or identify strains of flu virus more accurately than with older methods.

A Fatal Fall

Fire Protection Survey In Works For San Rafael

San Rafael is currently undergoing its first full-scale fire protection survey by outside insurance consultants since 1948, the city's fire commission learned Tuesday night.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said that the Insurance Service Office, a San Francisco firm, is studying all aspects of the city's fire protection service.

Marcucci hopes the study will lead to lower fire insurance ratings.

"We're now at a four rating and are hoping for a three," Marcucci said, adding that "the lower the rating is, the better it is" on a ten-point scale. The rating is reflected in fire insurance payments.

The fire probe will take about three weeks, with the firm issuing a report in about six months, Marcucci said.

The commission next meets at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6.

Xerox Is Sued On Tree Offer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A class action suit was filed in Superior Court Wednesday seeking $1 million damages from the Xerox Corp. for its alleged failure to deliver about 100,000 orange trees to customers.

The suit, filed by the law firm of Gill and Baldwin, said a sales promotion brochure was sent out by Xerox last fall offering a free orange tree for ordering a carton of Xerox chemicals worth about $58. The suit said the firm delivered the products but not the trees.

RIGHTS PROBE — Federal and state authorities are investigating possible civil rights violations in a sign designed to keep black school children out of an Oklahoma City convenience grocery.

Two Connected To Knife Robbery

I-J Special Report

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Two of four men arrested here yesterday after a grocery store holdup are believed by authorities to be the man and "woman" who took a car at knifepoint from a Santa Rosa man Wednesday night in Marin.

They are also believed to be the persons who yesterday invaded Napa State Hospital and freed a convicted murderer.

The pair, Daniel Taylor, 32, and Sandy Wilson, 24, were stopped by police along with the Napa escapee, John Burnside, 27, and a fourth man, Kenneth Nilson, 18.

Officers said they were in a new orange Super Beetle Volkswagen, taken from Dan Austin, 24-year-old car salesman, by two hitchhikers who also robbed him at knifepoint near Sausalito.

The complicated story apparently started Wednesday night when Austin left his job at a San Francisco Volkswagen agency, where he had just been named salesman of the month. He was driving a shiny new 1973 demonstrator, which he had just purchased. The auto still bore dealer plates.

Driving home in cheerful spirits, Austin paused at Van Ness Avenue and California Street, and picked up a man and a blonde that appeared to be a female. They said they were bound for San Rafael, and Austin offered to drop them off on his way to Santa Rosa.

On the other side of the Golden Gate Bridge, however, the "woman," who police believe was actually transvestite Wilson, grabbed Austin by the neck and pulled a knife.

The pair ordered him onto the Rodeo Avenue offramp, took about $15 from his wallet and left him by the side of the road. Austin finally flagged down help, who drove him to Marin City, where he told sheriff's deputies his story.

About an hour and a half later, at 10:30 p.m., a woman technician at Napa State Hospital was accosted in a parking lot by two men bearing knives, one of them dressed in a miniskirt and pantyhose.

The technician was forced by the pair to unlock a security ward, where Burnside, convicted of murder in San Francisco in 1969, was waiting with a packed bag.

While gawking patients looked on, the pair locked the technician and four ward attendants in a room after taking their money and valuables.

The final act occurred yesterday when a Carson City grocery clerk was robbed of $40, then called police and described the bandits' car. The four were arrested in the orange Volkswagen a few blocks from the grocery.

Police did not know 18-year-old Wilson's connection with the trio.

The four were held in Nevada in lieu of $25,000 bail, and Napa authorities also planned to press charges against Wilson and Taylor, a former patient at Napa State.

Hospital Board Picks Officers

Dr. Frederick A. Groverman has been reelected president of the Petaluma Hospital District board at a reorganizational meeting during which two reelected incumbents and a newcomer were sworn in.

Taking a seat on the board for the first time was Brand T. Johnson, elected along with Dr. Hamza I. Munib and Dr. Francis M. Crinella in the November election.

Dr. Munib was named vice president of the board and Dr. Crinella secretary. E. William Schneider was named treasurer.

Cluster Plan Approved In Tiburon

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night approved a request to permit cluster housing on 19 acres on Paradise Drive between Trestle Glen Boulevard and Paradise Cay.

Richard G. Arjo, director of community development, said the commission agreed to rezone the land from single-family to a single-family cluster designation.

David Matthews, who plans to build 19 single-family homes on the site, had asked for the change in order to permit more open space in the development.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

HILARITA — Set a special meeting to consider final plans for the Hilarita housing project for 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall. Preliminary plans for the development were approved by the planners and city council about a year ago, but the new plans will include some revisions, Arjo said.

SIGNS — Approved and recommended to the city council changes in the city's sign code which would limit the number of freestanding signs on a piece of property to one and also would make provisions for signs for second floor businesses and business with two frontages.

BOARDS — Agreed to expand the city's boards of design review and adjustment from three to five members and allow persons other than members of the planning commission to serve on both panels. The suggestion will be forwarded to the city council.

PLAN — Referred to the city's subdivision committee a plan by Marco Radomile to build eight clustered single-family homes on property on Roundhill Road. Arjo said the commission indicated it would like to see more of the heavily wooded area preserved than shown in the subdivision map.

Sign Barring Bused Students Triggers Civil Rights Probe

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Each morning before school opens a bus filled with students unloads in front of Dwight Bullock's grocery.

The children trample his clerks "into the dirt" in search of snacks, Bullock claimed, and on occasion merchandise has been stolen and his clerks have been cursed.

So Bullock has erected a sign which says: "No bused Children between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m." He said the sign will stay up until he is ordered to take it down.

The only students bused in the white neighborhood where Bullock's store is located are black, brought to the neighborhood schools from black communities in the city's desegregation plan.

James Mitchell, an Oklahoma Human Rights Commission spokesman, said the sign is "blatantly racial" since it applies only to black children.

Mitchell said he stopped at the store when told about the sign, bought something and asked a female clerk, "How do you tell that they're bused?"

"By their skin," he quoted the clerk as saying.

"Those were her exact words," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said he got into a problem with the clerk who accused him of "smarting off" and "hassling her." He said she asked him to leave "because he was creating a disturbance."

Mitchell said he had identified himself as a member of the Human Rights Commission and informed the clerk that the sign in the window was "a violation of state and federal law." He said he found out all he needed to know at the store and left.

Bullock said the busloads of children "will walk over you and grind you in the dirt. This is one way to fight back. You have to or they'll run over you."

He said school officials, police, school transportation officials and Board of Education President Foster Estes plead they cannot help.

"It's out of our hands,' they tell you," Bullock said. "One morning they called back and blamed it on a new driver and said it wouldn't happen again. Well, another bus load pulled up the next morning.

"I called police about it and told them they'd better do something, and strapped on y .38 (caliber pistol) and went down there. Apparently they (the students) got the word because they didn't come back."

Redwood City's Workers Strike

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Non-uniformed city employes went on strike in a labor contract dispute Thursday but essential services have not been effected.

Policemen and firemen are not involved in the walkout called by the AFL-CIO Service Employes International Union to back demands for $64-a-month pay increases, better health and dental plans and the use of outside arbitration for employe grievances.

James Smith, assistant city manager, said that 123 persons under the union's jurisdiction failed to show up for work but added that some of those might have been sick.

Study Slated On Teaching Techniques

The Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, launched a study last night that could bring drastic changes in teaching techniques on the primary level.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan told the board that individual study groups involving parents, community, teachers and professional staff would be formed at each school.

"The study could bring drastic changes in procedures in teaching the primary grades, kindergarten through third grade," Magowan said. He said the study was geared toward total revamping of the primary system.

Magowan said general class techniques will be challenged and study given to implementing total individualized instruction.

Magowan said individual recommendations from schools will be submitted in February for a joint meeting to be held sometime in March to formulate a district master plan on the teaching system. The plan must be approved by the state before funding can be assured.

"This is a new and exciting look at the possibilities of changes in the instructional system," Magowan said.

In other business, the board, after a closed session, agreed to release Phyllis Newman from her contract as a second-grade teacher at Bernard Eldredge School. Magowan said Mrs. Newman does outside counseling work and has had less time to prepare for her teaching duties.

A Mobility Push

EXPLOSION KILLS GIRL

Fire hoses lay idle after firemen fled the scene in Harrod, Ohio, yesterday when flames gushed out of derailed cars, filled with pentane, on the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, threatening to explode tanks of anhydrous ammonia at chemical plant in background. Metal from the exploding cars was blamed for the death of 15-year-old Betty Sherard, who was standing with her father in front of their home three blocks away. Her father suffered a fractured leg and was listed in fair condition at a Harrod hospital.

Bail Reduction Won By Robbery Suspects

Three women and one man, charged with the holdup at the Co-op market in Corte Madera, pleaded innocent yesterday and won reduction of their bail in hearings before Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Stephanie Kline, 26, of San Francisco; John Turner, 27, of Marin City and Berkeley; Claudia Grayson, 20, of Oakland, and Candice Yockey, 26, of Berkeley, will stand trial Feb. 13 on the robbery indictment returned Wednesday by the Marin County Grand Jury.

All four originally were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

Judge Gardiner agreed with defense attorneys that the bail was higher than normal in robbery cases. He reduced bail to $20,000 for Mrs. Kline and Miss Grayson and to $30,000 for Turner and Miss Yockey after a lengthy hearing.

Defense attorneys later said they did not know if the four families and friends could raise even the lowered amounts of bail.

Lansky Contempt Trial Delayed

MIAMI (UPI) — U. S. District Judge James Lawrence King has delayed the contempt of court trial set for next Monday for reputed gangland figure Myer Lansky because of Lansky's health.

King said, however, he would try to bring Lansky to trail within two weeks.

Lansky has been charged with failing to respond to a subpoena issued here by a federal grand jury investigating organized crime in 1971.

Christmas Sharing Program Review Set

Novato Human Needs Center directors will review the Christmas sharing program, which brought food to more than 100 families, at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Casa Nova, senior citizen housing, at 35 Carmel Drive, Novato.

Chairman Robert Stockwell said the session is open to the public and directors. Ideas for the center's operation also will be discussed.

Doctor Disputes Coffee Theory Of Heart Attacks

LONDON (UPI) — A doctor suggested today that milk might have been partly responsible for the finding by a research group that heavy coffee drinkers appeared to be more susceptible to heart attacks.

The Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program said recently that there were significantly more people drinking five or more cups of coffee a day among the heart patients it studied.

In this week's medical journal Lancet, Dr. Jeffrey Segall wrote:

"I find that some patients who develop ischemic heart disease admit to an unusually high daily milk intake and I think that the latter may prove to be a more important dietary factor than a particular beverage or the amount of sucrose consumed."

Time Plus A Tongue-Lashing

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — A veteran policeman convicted of burglarizing stores was sentenced to six years in prison and given a tongue-lashing Thursday.

"That badge you wore is a badge of honor and you insulted it," Supreme Court Justice George Beisheim Jr., told former patrolman David A. Birdsall, 45.

Birdsall was convicted last month on three counts of second degree burglary for thefts from stores. He was the first to be sentenced of 16 Newburgh policemen accused of wrong doing in the city.

Three Will Face Trial On Narcotics Charges

Three of five men arrested last July in a Forest Knolls drug raid have been bound over to Marin Superior Court after a prelminary hearing in which Municipal Judge David R. Baty dismissed charges against the other two.

Jesse Arthur Stefas, 26, of no known address, and Dennis Arthur Hecht, 27, of Forest Knolls, were held to answer Jan. 15, on charges of cultivating and possessing marijuana, and Robert Bertram Taylor, 24, of no known address, was bound over on charges of cultivating marijuana and possessing it for sale.

Baty dismissed charges against Greg Dennis Collin, 26, of Corte Madera, and Keith Durwood Perry, 27, of Fairfax, arrested after they allegedly delivered cocaine to Berkeley narcotics agents who arranged a purchase at the Forest Knolls home.

Baty ruled that a search that allegedly uncovered cocaine in their auto was illegal and there was no admissible evidence to hold the two, according to Katherine Mitchell, deputy district attorney.

Break Eyed For Credit Card Users

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under present law, when a person buys something with a credit card he must pay the credit card company for it regardless of any complaints he has with what he bought or with the store that sold it to him.

But under a new Federal Trade Commission (FTC) rule that could become effective later this year the buyer might not have to pay anyone until his complaints are satisfied.

The FTC proposal, unveiled Thursday, would prevent the credit card companies—such as Master Charge and Bankamericard-from making buyers sign away their rights to satisfaction as a requirement for obtaining the credit card. The FTC said most credit card operations, except for oil companies, now require such waivers from the people who use their cards.

"They're being used in the purchase of everything from fountain pens to automobiles," said William Dixon of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, referring to credit cards. But, he added, a buyer often has no recourse when he winds up with a bill in one hand and a faulty product in the other.

The credit card buyer protection idea represents an expansion of a sweeping consumer proposal on which the FGC has been working for two years. The basic proposal would make any third party involved in a credit transaction—such as a bank or loan company to which a buyer's loan has been turned over—just as responsible for the consumer's satisfaction as the original seller was.

Thus, when a customer signs a note borrowing money to buy something he would be given a written notice advising him that even if his note is sold to someone else he still has the right to refuse payment, to sue for payments already paid, and to tell his story in court if sued for non-payment if the product is defective.

"It places the responsibility for the actions of the seller on the financer, rather than the consumer, who (the financer) is much better able to handle himself in these cases," Dixon said.

The FTC invited public comment on its proposal and said hearings would be held in March. It could become effective later this year if the FTC finally adopts it.

Jury Tampering Appeal Rejected

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jimmy Hoffa's fifth attempt to have his jury tampering sentence set aside was rejected Wednesday by the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 decision.

The former Teamsters Union boss, who was convicted March 4, 1964, at Chattanooga, Tenn., served four years in prison before he was paroled in 1971.

Hoffa's latest appeal charged the judge who heard the case, U.S. District Judge Frank W. Wilson, was prejudiced against him, and that one government witness, Edward Partin, should not have been allowed to testify.

Rowboater Picked Up By Coast Guard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Coast Guard today picked up from the Pacific Ocean a man who left here Oct. 8 in an attempt to row a 22-foot dory to Hawaii.

Both Patrick Queenel, 23, of Duvall, Wash., and his boat were reported in good shape when they were taken aboard the Cutter Wachusett 1,080 miles southwest of San Francisco.

BUY NOW FOR USE WHEN TIME IS UP

WHITEFISH, Mont. (UPI) — Rockey Mountain Casket Co. is trying to do something about the high cost of dying.

The Whitefish firm announced that it is now producing old fashioned pine boxes for $125 apiece — and suggests purchase in advance.

"The casket can be used as a wine rack or a linen closet until the buyer's time has come," said a company spokesman.

Four Left Dead In Shooting Spree; The Motive Is Unknown

WESTMINSTER, Calif. (UPI) — Authorities said a man clad in a bullet-proof vest shot two persons to death at a shopping center Thursday, then fled to his home where he opened fire on three sheriff's deputies with a submachine gun at point blank range, killing two of them.

The suspect, Carl Eckstrom, 23, was critically wounded by a shotgun blast fired by an Orange County deputy who was standing in front of the house as a backup man.

Sheriff's officials said the chain of shootings began shortly after noon in the parking lot of Los Cerritos Shopping Center in southeastern Los Angeles County when a man opened fire on two sisters.

Rosemary Vasquez, 20, Bell Gardens, was shot twice in the abdomen and later died at a hospital. Her sister, Cecilia Vasquez, 17, was shot three times and was reported in critical condition.

Michael Jeffries, 27, Downey, rushed to their aid was shot twice in the back. He died at a hospital.

Witnesses told deputies they saw the suspect jump into his car and drive away, but not before the license number was taken and given to authorities.

The two deputies, Carl E. Wilson, 40 and Don W. Schneider, 40, both working for Los Angeles County, tracked the suspect to his house in Midway City, an unincorporated area near this Orange County community seven miles from Cerritos.

Authorities said Wilson and Schneider arrived at the house and the suspect flung open the door and fired point blank at them with a .45-caliber submachine gun. Orange County deputy Andrew Romero, who accompanied as backup, returned fire with a shotgun with two blasts hitting Eckstrom in the back.

Eckstrom was taken to Orange County Medical Center in critiel condition.

No motive was established for the slayings.

A Truman Stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A memorial postage stamp honoring former President Harry S. Truman will be issued May 8, the 89th anniversary of Truman's birth. Postmaster General E. T. Klassen said Thursday the stamp probably will be sold first in Independence, Mo., Truman's hometown.

Development Nod For Petaluma Land

The Petaluma Planning Commission has rezoned a parcel at East Washington Street and Ely Boulevard to planned unit development and set 9.5 units per acre as the maximum density of a development planned on the 18.5-acre site.

Commissioners also said the Sunco Development Corp.'s Sun Terrace Park development, for which 149 units have been allotted this year, will have no substantial impact on the environment, city planning staff reported yesterday.

The action, taken at the commission's Wednesday meeting, must now be reviewed by the city council.

The corporation had proposed that 200 units eventually be constructed on the site, and that density be set at 11.4 units per acre, planning staff said.

Planning Commission chairman Lester Popp opposed setting a density of 9.5-units-per-acre, but gave no explanation for his opposition, staff said.

One resident in the audience opposed the project as proposed, saying it should include a playground for intermediate youngsters. The proposal now includes a tiny tots playground.

Though the site actually stretches over 26 acres, only 18.5 are deemed buildable due to the nearby airport, according to the planning department.

The Petaluma Planning Commission Also:

IMPACT — Declared trivial the environmental impact of a proposal by Architecture Inc. for a 92-unit apartment complex at 150 Magnolia Avenue.

BOULEVARD BOWL — Declared trivial the environmental impact of a proposal by Boulevard Bowl to expand a bowling alley and add shops and offices at 1100 Petaluma Boulevard. Also approved was a variance request reducing the maximum requirement of 226 parking spaces to 221 spaces in connection with the expansion.

MOTEL — Approved site design for a 62-unit motel proposed off Highway 101 north of Sonoma Joe's.

THE WINERY — Put over to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 consideration of a rezoning request by Walter Kiekhefer in connection with a proposed shopping complex called "The Winery" at Washington Street and Lakeville Highway.

ANNEXATION — Put over to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 consideration of a prezoning request for the Casa Grande Annexation I, a parcel bounded by Ely and Casa Grande roads, South McDowell Boulevard and the northern city limits.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16.

Apartment Plan Is Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's Planning Commission refused a developer permission Thursday to construct a 23-story luxury apartment building atop Nob Hill.

Resident of the Comstock Apartments near the site complained the structure would block their views and further crowd the hill.

Developer Marshall Cornblum can now turn to the Board of Permit Appeals.

Three Novato Projects Win Design Awards

The Novato Plan Review Committee has selected three projects and two signs as winners of outstanding design awards for 1972.

The names of the winners were kept secret, but senior planner Gary L. Holloway said they would be announced Jan. 16 in advance of the city birthday party Jan. 20. The awards will be presented at that time.

Nine projects were nominated in cluster single-family, multiple-family, public, commercial and administrative-professional categories.

The committee made its selections Wednesday night, when it also elected Frank Salvisberg as chairman and Donald A. Greenhalgh as vice chairman.

Former Nun Finds A New Career In Commercial Art

By PAT BALMES

Pat Sullivan, who was a teaching nun for 13 years, left the convent to become a commercial artist on her own time schedule.

The soft-spoken San Rafael woman said her decision was not a personality change but more a philosophical change. She had been dissatisfied with the educational situation and sympathized with bored students at the Los Angeles high school where she taught.

"It's becoming accepted in our society to change profession or life style. Most people do it to get away from an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule," said the 31-year-old artist who ow does commercial art on her own schedule.

IN THE EYES of the church it's permissible to leave a religious community. You do have to get permission from Rome; you do not just say, "Sister, I'm leaving," said Miss Sullivan.

So the individual will not make a rash judgment, the church requires sufficient time to make a well thought out decision. Miss Sullivan took a leave of absence two years ago to think over hers, she said.

"It speaks well of the religious community that I have been able to come to this decision. Nuns are individuals who exercise their own free wills, not people who just act like robots," she said.

Wearing fashionable sportswear while we talked at her apartment, Miss Sullivan spoke with reserve about her convent days and smoked.

"I feel that I gave 13 years of service and received much; so it was equally beneficial. I am still a good Christian woman with no argument with the church. It's a shame that people with antipathy have become the spokesmen for the convent," she said.

THE STRICTNESS of convent life did not cause her to leave. Nuns were respected as individuals. Vatican Council II changes were "very fine." Habits were modernized and finally any clothes were permitted, said the former nun who keeps in touch with convent friends.

"My life was full, I loved teaching. All the time I was doing it it was fine until one year September came and it was time to go back to the classroom and I said, No."

Dissatisfied with her own education, Miss Sullivan was sympathetic when some students expressed their dissatisfaction. She wanted to make changes in their education.

"The students knew they were unhappy, but they did not know why," their teacher related. "All children do not profit from a structured classroom. Some seem to be saying, 'Until I am aware that I want to know that, I am not going to learn it'," she said.

Compulsory education is not necessarily for everybody. She wished bored children could study something they were interested in, perhaps go to trade schools, work in a real plant and earn money, she said.

"WE DO NOT have jobs for everybody, so we keep bored children in school longer," said the teacher whose students could not find work over Christmas holidays.

"Education is just not going to stay as it is today," she predicted.

When the nun's ideas for change were rejected by the high school principal she faced the fact that she was in an educational system that she could not control, she said.

"I realized that if I could not be content with the situation at the high school I really did not belong in religious life. The way I was now thinking was no longer in complete agreement with what was being done. I did not want to teach any more," she said.

Other religious teachers at the high school made similar decisions at the same time. Most of them remained in the community at other jobs.

"The work of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet is teaching and nursing; I could not be a boarder. If they found something for me, I would not have been serving the community in the way in which I originally said I would," she said.

When Miss Sullivan decided to join the convent to become a teacher she was 18 and just graduated from Star of the Sea High School in San Francisco where Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet teach.

"I wanted to live my life in a religious community. It appealed to me," she said.

AS A NUN she attended Mount Saint Mary's College in Los Angeles with the regular students and earned her elementary and teaching credentials. She did graduate work in art at University of California at Los Angeles and California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland.

Then she taught elementary school for seven years and high school art, English and religion for the next three years.

She taught religion only one period a day, but believes that her presence on campus gave a Christian message.

"I was not doing it for a salary," she said.

"I do want to continue to be of service to people and not receive remuneration," said Miss Sullivan who volunteers at Marin Suicide Prevention Center one day a week to receive calls from Marin people who are depressed or in crisis.

Miss Sullivan now lives with her mother, Mrs. Virginia Sullivan, who was principal of an elementary school in San Francisco until her recent retirement. Mrs. Sullivan had prepared to open a Montessori preschool but is enjoying retirement too much, said her daughter.

Twice a week Miss Sullivan teaches little children, whom she finds refreshing, at the San Rafael Montessori school. Since she now teaches only part-time, she has more time to devote to art.

The artist finds it exciting to be called for jobs and go out and do them, she said.

DURING HER convent years she had done an educational packet for Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Corporation and received a film grant for an animated teaching film.

In her new career in commercial art she wants to do a variety of art styles and not be categorized for one type of work.

"Somebody might be afraid to ask me to do another style or think that it might look like my last work, but I would find a medium that best suited their needs," she said, surprised that requests for her work have moved nicely.

Drawing in her studio-bedroom, she has produced a telecartridge (a three-minute film for video cassettes), a design for a shoe manufacturer's advertisements and architectural drawings for a greenhouse in one of Jack Kramer's garden books.

Miss Sullivan exercises her flair for interior decoration each month by changing the felt wall decorations at a San Rafael health foods store.

Currently she is researching and producing many drawings of flowers, trees and shrubs for another garden book by Jack Kramer. It has taken longer to find photographs of out-of-season plants than to do the drawings, the artist said. She is eager for more free lance work.

The former nun said two things she would especially like to do are illustrate a children's book and design a United States commemorative stamp.

A TEACHING nun for 13 years, Pat Sullivan left the convent to change her profession. The 31-year-old San Rafael woman now does varied commercial art jobs on her own schedule. To continue to be of service to others, Miss Sullivan volunteers at Marin Suicide Prevention Center.

ON THE AGENDA

Junior League, ACT To Sponsor 'Doll's House" Lecture On Monday

Junior League of San Francisco and the American Conservatory Theater are presenting a free, public preview of the new English version of the Henrik Ibsen play, "A Doll's House." The program will be held Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the Geary Theater in San Francisco.

Ibsen's play, considered controversial when it was first produced in 1879, is a pioneer plea for women's rights. Speakers will be Allen Fletcher, director and translator of the play, and Marsha Mason, who will play the leading role of Nora, a character who shocked 19th Century Western World concepts by rebelling against her husband.

MRS. EDGAR Garland will present the program at the meeting of the antique appreciation section of the Novato Newcomers Club at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the lecture room of the Novato Library.

Mrs. Garland will give a demonstration on gold leafing to restore antiques.

A POST-HOLIDAY tea for the members of the Petaluma Woman's Club will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Ed Hennessy, singer and television performer, will present the program, "Singing America." Tea chairman is Mrs. Sam Smoot.

XI KAPPA PSI chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority members will hostess a preferential tea for three new pledges from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Bill Bayles in Novato.

Mrs. Joe Resor, president, will conduct the pledge ritual for Mmes. Sam Wein, Nathan Noah and Bruce Kates. A member who recently transferred to the chapter, Mrs. Augusto Aguilera, of Puerto Rico, will also be given the ritual of welcome.

A SPAGHETTI dinner for single persons and their children is being sponsored by the singles group, UNISIG (Marin Fellowship of Unitarians Singles Group) tonight at 7 p.m. at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael.

Singing and dancing will follow dinner.

Today's Clothes Buyer Is A Sharp Customer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's clothes buyer is alert, aware, alive and aggressive.

"She's looking for her dollar's worth, her fashion's worth, for things that will fit her way of life in this age of speedy transportation," says Vincent Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Business Council and former clothing manufacturer.

"She's not taken in by flim-flam. She's looking for straight talk about price, fabric and the rest."

Monte Sano's description of the modern customer came during an interview as the council began its series of spring fashion shows for visiting reporters.

The council spokesman said dress production alone in 1972 stood at 296 million units. He said the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) estimates production in '73 at about the same volume.

Prices are expected to change little except as new contracts are negotiated with the various unions.

One thing, however, keeps pulling at the seams; the gain in imports, from three million units 10 years ago to 30 million today.

THESE WERE among fashion changes Monte-Sano foresaw:

—Adjustment to the eyes so that we expect the unexpected.

"I could go to a cocktail party dessed as Dracula or Superman and nobody would blink," he said. "Five years ago something like that, and I would have been sent to the booby hatch."

—Continued technological advances in fabrics and their qualities, such as the now accepted permanent press, antistatics, knits that go right into the washing machine.

—Climate control meaning no more season for clothes.

—No more "uniforms" for events (say cocktail dress for cocktail party) but complete freedom of choice.

—Fashion t swing faster because we live in an age of speed. More fads will be produced, some to stay, some to be discarded.

—Women and young girls shopping in boys' departments because of style and price. "My 25 year old daughter shops the boys' department," said MonteSano. "In shops around college campuses the girls are as numerous as the boys in the boys' shops. The boys' sweaters are sturdier, baggier, and more preferred."

—Revivals? "Nuts to that," he said. "We're going ahead, not back."

Pearl Making Strong Comeback

With the return of dresses to the fashion scene, pearls are again popular. They are teamed with turtle necks, jewel necks, scoop necks, plunging necklines, and inside and outside of open shirt collars.

Pearls are being shown with pants, suits, cocktail dresses, ball gowns and sportswear.

Pearls are also being used with restraint. The exaggerated lengths of pearl ropes used several seasons ago are out. Classic lengths including choker and matinee lengths are in style.

Eleanor Gnecco Wins Artist Of Year Honors

Artist Eleanore Gnecco of San Anselmo has been selected artist of the year by the North Bay Art Association.

She was the association's artist of the month in February, selected on the basis of an oil painting entered in the monthly competition. Artist of year is chosen from one of the 12 monthly winners at the association's annual meeting in December.

Lou Berger of Point Reyes Station received the second place award, and third place winner was Lita Aceves of San Anselmo.

Eleanore Gnecco will have a show at Marin General Hospital next month, and her oil paintings are currently hanging at the San Anselmo Library and the Crocker Bank in the Northgate Shopping Center.

Women's Center Leaders Setting Up Program Plans

The Women's Center Committee has obtained use of a room in the new YWCA office at 1618 Mission Street, San Rafael, and is setting up program plans for its women's center.

Charlotte Krause of the committee said that, while a concrete program is still in the planning stage, the committee plans to offer legal, vocational and psychological counseling to women.

Volunteers are invited to join the committee and those interested may call the Women's Liberation of Marin switchboard. She also said that donations of furniture and rugs as well as children's books and toys for a children's center are needed.

Plans are for the Marin Women's Newsletter to be headquartered in the new center and the committee is beginning to use the full YWCA facilities for its orientation to women's liberation and other meetings.

Novato Nurse Commissioned

Denise A. Truett of Novato has been commissioned an ensign in the Navy Nurse Corps and when she completes her senior year at the University of San Francisco, she will attend a five week summer orientation course at Officer Candidate School in Newport, R.I.

Denise, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Truett II of Novato, will serve on active duty for two years after she completes school and training.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Couple To Observe 75th Anniversary

By MOLLY MARIN

Seventy-five years of marriage will be celebrated Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Dominique Marquis, residents of the Nazareth House in San Rafael.

Following a mass of celebration Monday morning, the couple will be honored at a noon dinner at Nazareth House, followed by champagne and cake.

Married Jan. 8, 1898, in San Francisco, both Anna and Dominique are natives of France. Marquis celebrated his 100th birthday last May.

The Marquis's, who lived most of their married life in Oakland before moving to San Rafael 10 years ago, are the parents of Mrs. Marquerite Lazzeroni of Saratoga, Marcel J. Marquis of Alameda and George Marquis of Redwood City.

MR. AND MRS. Kenneth Hubbell are living in San Francisco following their marriage Nov. 11 in Sidney, Australia.

Parents of the bridegroom, who attended the wedding, are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hubbell of San Anselmo. The bride is the former Bronwyn Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hardy of Dolls Point, Australia.

Kenneth is the grandson of Mrs. Frank Schrader of San Anselmo.

ATTENDING THE Merola Opera Program's benefit Thursday aboard the luxury cruiser, Spirit of London, will be Messrs. and Mmes. Russell Baldocchi of San Rafael and Dewey Donnell of Sonoma.

Cocktails were preceded by a six-course banquet, followed by dancing.

MRS. J. R. BANES of Mill Valley has returned from a trip to Springfield, Mass., where she visited her son, Robert Banes, his wife and family.

Banes, a sportswriter with the Springfield News, often travels with the Boston Patriots. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School.

Dee Dee Foppe To Wed John D. Omundsen Jr.

The engagement of Dee Dee Foppe and John Dale Omundsen Jr. has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Foppe of San Rafael. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Omundsen of Point Reyes Station.

The future bride is the sister of David K. Foppe of Washington, D.C., Michael J. Foppe of Germany and Daniel Foppe of San Rafael. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School.

John is a graduate of Tomales High School. Both are students at Trinity Western College in British Columbia.

A summer wedding is planned.

Groom's Mother

The name of the bridegroom's mother was omitted from the wedding story of Theresa McLean and Frederick T. Dietrich Jr. in the Independent-Journal Wednesday. Frederick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Dietrich of Mill Valley.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Asks Why Men Can Bare Chest On Beach, Not Women

DEAR HELEN:

If men and women are now equal, then why can't I wear a topless swim suit on a public beach as men do? By summer the Equal Rights Amendment will surely be law, and then it will be my constitutional right to go as bare as males. But what do you bet I get arrested as I did last year? — BARE BEACH BUNNY

DEAR BBB:

That depends on where you swim: South Carolina? Probably. Big Sur, California? Probably not.

(My husband adds, "So far, the Constitution only gives you the right to bare arms — it isn't clear about the rest of the anatomy.") — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I may be the youngest grandmother in the country, but I'm not proud of it. Not ashamed anymore, either.

I had my first baby when I was not quite 13. The father was 17 and he ran away. Karen was raised by my mother. When I got married, at 19, to a wonderful guy, we let Karen decide who she wanted to live with and she chose my parents. She knows I'm her mother, but we're more like close sisters.

Well, history repeats itself. Karen isn't wild, but she thought she was madly in love. She ran away, both she and the boy lied about their ages, and they got married when she was 13, he 15. The folks had the marriage annulled, but my grandson was born before Karen was 14, which makes me a grandmother at age 25.

Like me, Karen got over her "love." She wants to finish school — and my husband and I want the baby, as we haven't been able to have one of our own.

But I want him as our son, not my grandson (who could be taken away from us). Karen says she'd rather have it this way too, but she might change her mind later on, and we couldn't bear giving him up.

Can I legally adopt my own grandson? — 25-YEAR-OLD GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER:

Your husband can legally adopt your grandson as his son, which would insure his remaining with you. Since you won't want to close the real mother (your sister-daughter) out of your lives, I think there will be fewer problems if the boy understands his true status. Don't you? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The issue is common courtesy!

I'm a housewife and very often in supermarkets. I wonder why people (usually the middle-aged who should know better) so often leave their "consideration for others" at home, when they go shopping.

When your checker closes, for example, why do so many women push ahead of you to an open stand, even if they were behind you in the first line?

And how about leaving empty carts behind your parked car, or in the middle of a parking space so you have to either get out and move them or drive farther on?

I'm not too fond of people who block the aisles with their carts, and glower when you ask to get through.

Between the lines of this letter is a feeling of nostalgia for the days when drivers "yielded" at "yield" signs, stopped to let a waiting motorist on to the highway. . .helped a young child who was lost. There's a television commercial that capitalizes on the fact that no one would offer help if you had a flat tire ("So buy our tires and be safe.") Have we become a nation of non-carers? — J.D.

DEAR J.:

Not really. But the non-carers seem abundantly present to us —because they make us mad. Next time you're at the supermarket, count the people who wait their turn, stay out of your way, etc. You might be surprised. — H.

Expert In Quilting To Give Demonstrations

Quilting expert Sally Krakow will give informal demonstrations in quilting Jan. 9 and 10 from noon to 4 p.m. at Bell Savings and Loan's San Rafael office.

She will answer questions and offer suggestions on techniques, materials, patterns, costs and other aspects of quilting and will be working at an oval standing frame on which she will be sewing a new quilt design.

New Singles Group Sets Feed Tonight

Ray Piatt of San Rafael is acting president of the newly formed singles group UNISIG (Marin Fellowship of Unitarians Singles Group.)

The group meets every Wednesday at the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael. Purpose of the meetings is to plan activities for single, divorced, separated or widowed adults. Many activities are family oriented such as a spaghetti dinner to be held tonight and a folk concert on Jan. 13. The group also holds discussion and encounter groups and has guest speakers.

Piatt, a salesman, is a native of Flint, Mich. He has lived in Marin for two years. He is the father of Victor, 6; Christina, 11; William, 13; Linda, 16, and Katherine, 17. His hobbies are aviation history, cooking, physical fitness and acting.

Long-Haired Fur Gains Popularity

Long-haired furs are popular now for fur jackets. Fox, sable and lynx are in demand, but raccoon is the best seller of all, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Raccoon is adaptable, looking sporty by day, but fluffy enough to be dressed up for night.

Fashion Mood

For the boys and young men, fashion's quiet mood now taking hold will grow stronger by spring. That is the report from the Boys' and Young Men's Apparel Manufacturers Association.

Susan Louise Bell's Betrothal Revealed

Susan Louise Bell's engagement to Robert William Thomas of Ross has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Juneau G. Bell of San Anselmo.

The sister of Anita Bell, Susan is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the College of Marin secretarial program. She is employed with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael.

Susan is the granddaughter of Mrs. S. B. Koehn of Halstead, Kan., and Capt. W. E. Bell of Syndney, Australia.

Robert, who is the son of Mrs. Mary Thomas of Ross, is the brother of James, Diane and Nancy Thomas.

He is a graduate of Pomona High School, attended the College of Marin and is employed by Soule Steel Co. in San Francisco.

The pair plan to be married May 19.

How To Improve Worker Productivity

Retailers can improve worker productivity with the help of accurate monitoring on a per person basis and employee incentive programs, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Closer supervision and time budgeting plus public acknowledgement of exceptional performances by workers and cash bonuses proved successful. Experiments by a firm in Washington, D.C., and another in St. Louis, Mo., were reported at a Retail Operations Seminar in Washington, D.C.

Clean First

Clean each piece of clothing and, if necessary, repair it before storing. Some items can be folded and stored in trunk or box. Others should be hung on suitable hangers to retain their shape. Heavy items will hold their shape better if hung on wooden hangers.

ON BEING BLACK

Strawberry Is Fine, But Never White Ice Cream

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

"You gotta be kidding," laughed a well-known black politician when asked his ice cream preference at a recent luncheon. "Chocolate, of course. You don't expect me to order vanilla — in this group? Strawberry, just maybe, but I'm not about to alienate myblack constituency. Chocolate, please."

Racial attitudes have been and are so much a part of our lives, sadly, that the black/white "thing" has gained unbelievable height and depth. It has seeped into some rather unexpected and seemingly unimportant areas of our lives.

DURING TODAY'S black blitz, loyalty to the black effort by many cognizant blacks appears humorous, if not almost fanatical. Chocolate ice cream is just one example. (There is, by the way, black ice cream on the market — for those who feel chocolate has too much of an integrated quality.)

The black "thing" goes on. Says one sister, "Under no circumstances will I purchase white shoes or white clothes. I could say it's a personal preference, but the truth of the matter is, it is definitely a racially based and biased preference. It's a small, nonviolent way of supporting what the black revolution is all about."

"A cameo ring?" gasps ar other sister. "Forget it! I'm not about to walk around wearing a picture of a white woman on my finger. You can forget white pearls, too. I prefer colored stones."

Time was when black folks were trading in their black telephones just like everyone else for a white princess telephone. "No more," states a young black poet, "I dig antiquity — and black phones."

FROM A BLACK seamstress: "Material printed with white faces is out. And, so far, I've not seen any material printed with black faces. So we go with designs and floral prints and the like —even animals. It's just a quiet way of negating the 'white is right and good and beautiful' bull that's been institutionalized in this country."

Lou Rawls used to sing about white cars —the preference of the brothers was "white on white, with white in white." Today, a good way to be booed is to drive to a black gathering in a white car.

Greeting cards with white folks depicted are also out. This is one area that flips me out. Black kids have birthdays, too. Admittedly, there are some black cards on the market, but not enough of a selection. So, when in doubt, send a nature scene or an animal depiction to represent the black sender.

Black bread is definitely in — supposedly for its health food value and appeal. But just check out some of the peripheral reasons some blacks have gone back to black bread.

Brown and/or raw sugar is also in. White sugar is out. Admittedly they're both just as sweet.

The "blackisms" go on. Sounds silly? Perhaps, but many will agree it takes extreme measures to eradicate or change extreme conditions. And, unfortunately, the conditions —though under treatment —remain extreme.

Signups Are Open At YWCA

The Marin YWCA is taking registration for winter activities at its new headquarters, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Women and Their Chances, a series of conversations with skilled and professional women, begins Jan. 25. The six Thursday evening meetings will cover women's self perceptions as mothers, women, in the law, politics, art and the feminist movement.

International cooking and cake decorating classes, belly dancing, contemporary dance styles, yoga and trimnastics are also offered for women.

Classes in creative dance, tumbling and gymnastics are being taught for pre-school children. For school children there will be creative drama, design and craft and horseback riding lessons.

All classes begin the week of Jan. 15.

Designer Plugs Lined For Spring

A collection of bright linen knits has been prepared by designer Howard Lawrence. Lawrence says, "Linen is a natural for spring. It tailors well and has a crisp, clean look."

The designer has used the fabric in twin sweater sets, shirts, skirts, pants and dresses.

Saying Thanks

As soon as possible the bride should send a thank you note for each gift received. It is the only way the person who sent it can know that the gift was received.

Nader Attacks New Thrust For Energy Via Nuclear Power Plants

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — In the rush to meet the nation's energy crisis, the United States is overlooking substantial present dangers in nuclear power plants as a solution.

So warns consumer advocate Ralph Nader. In cooperation with the Union of Concerned Scientists, he terms the Atomic Energy Commission's forward thrust in building large nuclear plants in metropolitan areas "impetuous" and cites comments of many of the AEC's own safety experts as backup evidence.

Currently there are close to 30 nuclear power plants in operation. If plans proceed on the present schedule, there are likely to be 900 going by 1990.

Nader argues that the safety and reliability of reactor safety systems and the entire fuel cycle have not been tested to the point where such a rush can be justified.

Particularly controversial are AEC standards for emergency core cooling systems, designed to cool the zirconium alloy surrounding the reactor core to keep the core from melting in the event of a mishap. The AEC has been holding public hearings on the adequacy of present standards and performances in nearby Bethesda, Md., for the past year.

It is the coolant issue, Nader stresses, which has prompted the AEC Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards, the Rand Corporation and the Reactor Safety Committee that advises the West German Government to recommend a slowdown if not a complete halt in nuclear power plant construction pending further reearch on the subject. Some estimates have it that damages from the failure of such cooling systems to operate properly could well extend up to 100 miles from the reactor.

Nader, who has now involved himself in virtually every conceivable consumer issue, cited as partial expert evidence for his reservations6an internal memo written by Milton Shaw, head of the AEC's Civilian Nuclear Power Program, which declares flatly that no assurance is yet available that emergency coolants can be delivered at the rate and time necessary to ward off a reactor meltdown.

The consumer advocate further cited testimony of the head of the AEC's Oak Ridge National Laboratory as evidence that safety researchers often have expressed their doubts as to the adequacy of present safety measures regarding nuclear plant construction.

Sex Education Offered To French Students

PARIS (UPI) — The education ministry announced Thursday that public school students can attend newly-organized courses on sex "information" beginning next school year.

It said schools would offer courses on "questions of procreation" for those students wishing to attend.

The courses will not be mandatory, the ministry said, because parents must determine how their children learn about reproduction.

Insurance Against Death Is Very Low

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Less than 4 per cent Singaporeans and Malaysians have generally insured themselves against death.

The life Insurance Association in a seminar by 40 underwriters and 17 local insurance companies said only 70,000 life insurance policies were sold in both countries in 1971.

Classes At University Halted Again

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Twelve students in the Southern University system Thursday interrupted the resumption of classes at the school's Baton Rouge campus with minor harassment of teachers and administrators.

The school had reopened Wednesday, seven weeks after two students were killed by a single shotgun blast in a confrontation with police at the administration building. The dead students were among a group who had occupied the building.

James L. Hunt, director of administrative services, said the students involved in Thursday's disruption attended Southern's New Orleans campus, located 65 miles southeast of Baton Rouge, the state capital.

The black students entered the administration building asking to talk with university President G. Leon Netterville about grievances which they said caused the earlier demonstrations on campus and had not been answered.

"I asked them to leave and they kept jostling and they said they were going to follow me around wherever I went," Hunt said. "I asked the campus security chief to call the security people we had (available)."

The campus officers arrested two students, including SUNO student body president Earl Picard. Both were freed when all of the students agreed to leave the campus.

Hunt said the students adjourned to the student union building, where the group was expanded by several other persons, presumabl from the Baton Rouge campus. They broke into two classrooms, but stayed only briefly and then left the campus.

Farm Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Agriculture Director C.B. Christensen has reported gross income of California farmers rose 6 per cent in 1972 to reach a record $5.25 billion.

McGovern's Words Have The Same Familiar Ring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate floor was almost deserted and the public galleries were only half filled. It was 1 p.m.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate and the titular head of his party, rose from his seat in the back row of the chamber and began to speak.

The crowds and the clamor of the fall campaign seemed far away. But McGovern's words had a familiar ring.

"In the 12 days from Dec. 18 to Dec. 30, Mr. Nixon undertook the cruelest and most insane act of a long and foolish war. He carried it out without a trace of constitutional authority, and without so much as a glance toward Capitol Hill."

As McGovern began to speak —more rapidly and stoically than during the campaign, it seemed—the only colleague on the floor was Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan.

McGovern went on to explain his "Vietnam Withdrawal Act of 1973," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., wandered in one at a time. And wandered out.

By the time Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., who was presiding, interrupted McGovern about 1:20 p.m. to inform him his time had expred, the South Dakota son of a fundamentalist minister was alone again.

One Senate observer remarked: "It was as if nothing had changed—McGovern was speaking to an empty chamber about the war."

Purple Heart 18 Years Late

CROOKSVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — The U.S. Army told Eldon Riffle Thursday he can expect his Purple Heart soon after waiting for it 18 years.

Riffle was told in 1954 he would be given the medal for wounds suffered two years earlier in the Korean War. He was discharged in 1953.

Riffle, now a custodian at the local post office, said he has received a certificate in the mail saying the medal is on its way.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

What famous persons were born today? We have mixed up the right names with some wrong. Match the correct name in each paragraph to find out who's who:

1. LUDWIG ERHARD or KONRAD ADENAUER became West Germany's first postwar Chancellor. During World War II, Adolph Hitler sent this Cologne mayor to one of his concentration camps, where he barely survived. But after the Allies defeated the Nazi forces, freeing Europe, the German people elected him and his Christian Democrats to head their democratic government. He died in 1967 at the age of 90.

2. BUDDY YOUNG or O. J. SIMPSON was the remarkable American college football player who broke so many records. Small for a back (5-feet, 4-inches; 164 pounds) he could run wild on the field. He tied Red Grange's record at the University of Illinois by making 13 touchdowns in one season and he led his team to a Rose Bowl victory.

3. STEPHEN DECATUR or DAVID FARRAGUT was that Aemrican naval hero who once said, "Our country, right or wrong." From midshipman to commodore, this Maryland youth was the bravest of fighters, winning praise even from his enemy, England's Lord Nelson, who admired his seamanship and courage. He lived to 41.

4. ROBERT MORRISON or DAVID LIVINGSTONE was that dedicated English missionary who took the Christian gospel to the unbelievers of Asia. In 1807 he was sent to China by the London Missionary Society. There his work among the Cantonese equipped him to translate and publish a Chinese dictionary, grammar, and New Testament. He lived 52 years.

ANSWERS: 1 - Adenauer; 2 - Young; 3 - Decatur; 4 - Morrison.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Singletons Can Be Expected When All Players Make Bid

Usually, you need about 26 points to make game. Still, you should not expect to find 52 high-card points in the deck if both sides bid game. Instead, it should be clear that at least one side is relying on short suits instead of high cards.

VERY HARD

Very few players managed to make five hearts with this hand when it was presented by Terence Reese in 1939 as part of a contest.

South usually led out the ace and king of trumps after ruffing the second spade. Now it was impossible to make five hearts. The same people usually played the clubs the same way, and then had to lose a club trick as well.

This method of playing the long suits would be reasonable if the opponents had passed throughout. Since the opponents actually bid up to four spades, South had to expect singletons or voids.

LEAD TRUMPS FIRST

Since there is only one way to play the trumps, South should ruff the second spade and lead a trump to dummy's ace. On returning a trump and finding that East follows suit, South should reflect that only West can have a singleton in trumps. Since singletons are expected, South should finesse with the jack of hearts.

The finesse works, and South draws East's last trump. Now it is time to tackle the clubs. Since West has a singleton in hearts, it is reasonable to expect East to have the singleton in clubs. South cashes the king of clubs and leads a club to try a finesse with dummy's jack.

BEST ACTION

Both finesses work, and South makes five hearts. Careful attention to the bidding indicates the best line of play.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - K J 9 6 4 2
♥ - Q 10 6
♦ - A 9 4
♣ - 7.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is very nearly, but not quite, worth an opening bid of one spade. You have 10 points in high cards and two points for the singleton. Change the jack of spades to the queen or change the queen of hearts to the king and you would open the bidding.

First Editions Go To Library

A collection of first editions has been donated to the Sonoma State College Library by Audley R. Bell of Petaluma.

The collection includes the first edition of "The Innocents" by Sinclair Lewis, the three-volume illustrated catalogue of the U.S. International Exhibition of 1876 and an early volume of poetry by Sarah Orne Jewett.

The collection also includes titles by Marie Corelli, Peter B. Kyne, Donald Grant Mitchell and John Fox Jr.

CLAIRELLEN WALDECK
College recital

Mill Valley Soprano To Give Recital

Clairellen Waldeck of Mill Valley, a music major at the College of Marin, will give a recital Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the choral hall of the college's Fine Arts Building.

A soprano, Miss Waldeck played Mrs. Corney in the college's recent production of "Oliver!"

Miss Waldeck graduated from Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley and has completed the college's two-year music program.

The free recital will include selections from "Rigoletto" by Verdi; "Le Nozze di Figaro" by Mozart; "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti; and coloratura arias from "Carmen," "Lakme" and "Tannhauser."

She will be accompanied by college music students David Iacop, piano, and Robin Willat, flute, in "Shepherd on the Rock" by Schubert.

Carolyn Witt, music instructor, will be the main accompanist.

Rock Concerts To Be Aired

The first in a series of rock concerts taped at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo will be aired on radio station KTIM at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The two-hour concert features Jerry Garcia, Tom Fogerty, Merle Saunders and Bill Vitt.

Rebroadcast concerts will include the best performances of groups and artists who play at the nightspot, according to Clint Weyrauch, program director.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Dumbo" — Classic cartoon feature about the baby circus elephant with gigantic ears who overcomes all obstacles and becomes the hero of the circus.

"Fiddler On The Roof" — A musical set in a small village in Tsarist Russia. The story of a Jewish man and his relationship with his family, the village and his very special relationship with his God and his efforts to hold onto the traditions of his faith.

"Funny Girl" — Barbra Streisand recreates her stage role of Fanny Brice, the Jewish comedian from New York's lower East side who becomes the rage of the Ziegfeld Follies.

"Legend Of Lobo" — Here a wolf tells his story, he is the hero and man the villain. There is adventure, suspense, humor and majestic scenery and education about wild life.

"On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Story of a silly college student who possesses mystical powers and can reveal her past lives is interwoven with lavish sets and excellent music.

"1776" — In a literal translation of the recent stage hit this film brings to ife with a gentle wit, the differences and diversities among the men of the Continental Congress.

"Snowball Express" — A family inherits a dilapidated hotel in the Colorado mountains. They decide to renovate the building and start a ski resort. The fun begins when the local banker tries to stop them out of greed.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Getaway" — Swift moving tale of a bank robbery in Texas netting a half million dollars, then the thieves fall out and double-crosses ensue. Venality and greed are rampant, bloody violence aplenty. Ironic ending proves crime indeed does pay. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Kotch" — A grandfather living with his son's family rather than enter a retirement home takes on the task of looking after the babysitter who is pregnant and abandoned. Realistic birth scene.

"Pete 'n Tillie" — Serio-comic conjugal drama imbued with a pungent blend of perception that looks at the marital ups and downs of an outrageously mismatched couple. Occasional vulgarisms. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Poseidon Adventure" — A luxury line cruiser is struck by a great tidal wave and capsized. A group of survivors make their way through the upturned vessel seeking safety. All star cast adds depth to characterizations. (Motion Picture Daily)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Hell's Angels '69" — Two brothers plan to rob Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas just for kicks, using Hell's Angels as a cover. The gang gets its revenge. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Lady Sings The Blues" — A fictionalized biography of the late blues singer, Billy Holiday. Her early life and later as a prostitute, success as a singer and her addiction to heroin is laced with music throughout the action. Strong language.

"Troubleman" — A black private detective operates out of a pool hall attracts underworld gangs, black and white, who try to use him as a fall guy. Excessive cursing and liberal amounts of murder.

ADULTS ONLY

"Deliverance" — Four middle-aged men go for a canoe cruise along a mountain river in Georgia. They encounter two sadistic hillbillies who rape one of them and murders ensue. Gripping suspense very extreme. Cursing.

"Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex" — A satire, seven vignettes, taken from Dr. Reuben's best seller, are answers to sexual questions. Will appeal to Woody Allen fans of offbeat and frequently bizarre humor.

"King of Marvin Gardens" — Two brothers grow up and live out their fantasies in completely different worlds. One a late night radio personality, the other a front man for a black syndicate who lives with two women. Much symbolism used.

"Prime Cut" — A Chicago syndicate big shot is sent to Kansas City to make a sadistic local operator of a prostitution ring toe the line. Excessive violence, nudity and cursing.

"What Do You Say To A Naked Lady" — Allen Funt, of Candid Camera, records the reaction of unsuspecting passersby to naked woman. Some humorous moments, but mostly boring trash.

Nearly Perfect Bogus Money Seized In Raid

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Squads of federal, state and local agents raided two lake front cottages early today and seized between $7and $10-million in bogus, but nearly perfect, $20 bills.

Five persons were arrested in the raid, which also netted a complete printing press, the engraving plates for the "almost perfect" bills, a supply of paper similar to that on which real money is printed, and two automobiles.

Those taken into custody were identified as Donald Bouton, 49, and his wife Barbara, 37; Paul Joseph Fath, 34, and his wife, Laurel, 26, of Cocoa Beach, Fla., and Lee Edward Prevett, 38, of Kannapolis, N.C.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Ethel Barrie Is Guilding Light At Northgate's Lin Fa Gardens

ETHEL BARRIE
Northgate pioneer

Chinese food has always been popular with Americans, and for that matter, with other nationalities around the world.

Some food experts rate it side by side with French cuisine as the greatest there is to appease the palate. Chinese dishes, like the French, are prepared from traditional recipes, but many of these predate the French by several centuries and it is believed that they gave inspiration to western cooking practices.

When you come to think of it, you seldom get a "bad" Chinese meal anywhere. Almost any established Chinese restaurant has its loyal patrons, some more than others. In Marin County, one of those with a strong following is Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate. It was the first restaurant to open in that complex and has survived several others with more recent origins. A less determined person than Lin Fa owner Ethel Barrie might have been willing to throw in her fortune cookies after the first few years, for Northgate in the early days had its ups and downs, with plenty of the latter.

As is customary with Chinese menus, Lin Fa offers combination dinners for those who don't trust their own judgment sufficiently to compose their own. But after a little experimenting you can surprise yourself and friends with your talents for variety.

Although many diners-out ordinarily order wines with an American or European meal, to many it does not occur to do so with Chinese dishes — and they go well together. Until recently there has been no attempt that I know of to create a (grape) wine especially for Chinese food. Rice wine — yes, but some westerners consider this to heady for their taste.

Now a French wine firm, Sichel et Fils Freres, has done so. Its blend of white wines, called Wan Fu, is light and most agreeable to the tongue. It's not yet a big seller on the local market — in fact, you may have difficulty in finding it. But Ethel tells me she plans on stocking it for her customers soon. Watch for it. Meanwhile she does have other light wines that go well with her dishes.

IT IS OFTEN RECORDED that "behind every successful man there is a woman."

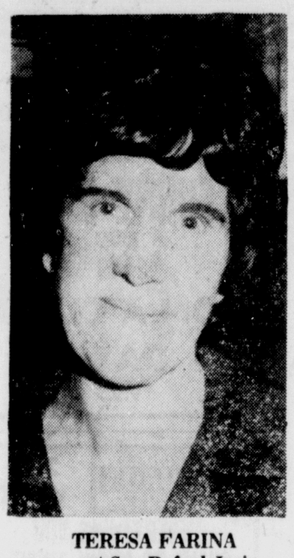
At San Rafael Joe's there are two of them. That's natural enough, considering that there are two principals in this operation — Hector Rubini and his brother-in-law Guido Farina. In a manner of speaking, their wives Nancy and Teresa are behind them in everything they do. Except at Joe's it may seem to be the other way around. The ladies are up front hosting the customers, while most of the time both Hector and Guido are back in the kitchen.

It is a gracious arrangement, but a practical one. The job of preparing food at this popular restaurant is a man's job — a test of endurance to keep up the pace for long lines of hungry people. It may be that Nancy and Teresa are good cooks, too, but it's right that the kitchen be left in the hands of their husbands — and often in those of Hector's nephew Cesar Bornia, who has been taking on increased responsibilities during the past two years. Both Hector and Guido agree that he is a "natural" in every way.

Joe's is a strong family operation and you'll find other members of the younger generation also well represented in the chores of the day there.

This brings to mind the fact there seem to be more and more younger diners at Joe's these days — a good sign, for it assures an uninterrupted flow of business during the coming years. Many of them first came here with their parents and so it is the most natural thing in the world to continue calling with their friends.

NANCY RUBINI
Two major figures . . .



TERESA FARINA
. . . at San Rafael Joe's

Joe's has now been on Fourth Street, San Rafael, for 26 years, which is a fine record in any business. I don't doubt for a minute that it someday will reach the half-century mark. The Rubinis and Farinas like their place and are dedicated to working there.

It makes a difference.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN hanging on to a yellowing, dog-eared Dining and Wining Guide for Marin and Sonoma Counties of last February's vintage, you'll be able to discard it soon for our new 1973 edition, which will be published Feb. 22.

Many changes on the local food front have taken place over the past year. Some restaurants have been sold and reopened under new names. Others have closed without successors. And we are including in this issue several entirely new establishments, along with others which we believe qualify for listings.

Altogether more than 200 restaurants will be listed. This represents an increase of about 10 per cent over a year ago. Look for at least two dozen new names to check off on your new dining itinerary.

McGILLICUDDY CONSTRUCTION CO. is expected to break ground for Stan and Ursula Valan's new Grotto seafood restaurant on the west service road facing Highway 101 in the Northgate area the first of next week.

With any luck in the weather this should be completed by early May. Until then the Valans will continue their present seafood dinery at 909 Lincoln Avenue in downtown San Rafael.

THE HOWARD JOHNSON MOTOR HOTEL AND RESTAURANT at 152 Shoreline Highway in Mill Valley is scheduling a series of luncheon fashion shows twice a month for the early 1973 season.

The first of these, sponsored by a few of the shops in Strawberry Town and Country Village, will be held next Thursday, Jan. 11 at 12:15 p.m. They are being arranged by Laura Moner of San Anselmo, who plans to set up similar shows at other Marin restaurants.

THE LION'S SHARE in San Anselmo is featuring the Herbie Hancock Septet in concert tonight and tomorrow night, playing their vant guarde compositions, several of them from their own recording releases.

Natural Act is scheduled for Sunday.

Besides scheduling established big name groups of the day, the Lion's Share often gives opportunities to many young musical groups just getting started.

The latter may find that they can get additional help here. The club is making arrangements with Lens, a San Francisco communications and media production company, for the use of its Miracle Mile location as a daytime recording studio at nominal rates. Young newcomers may find this a good place to get their demonstration tapes.

Strike Leaders Begin Jail Time

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Two leaders of the nation's longest public housing rent strike began the first full day of 45-day public housing rent strike are serving 45-day jail terms after pleading guilty to contempt of court charges.

Roman Catholic priest, and 26-year old Toby Henry, president of the Stella Wright Tenants Association, began serving the terms Wednesday. Henry and Comerford, the only white resident of the Stella Wright Homes, had pleaded guilty Dec. 18 to contempt charges.

The charges were leveled after the two handed back $94,000 in an escrow fund back to tenants instead of giving it to the Newark Housing Authority (NHA).

Sewer Repairs Halt Cable Cars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cable car service will be halted on the downtown section of Powell Street lines for three weeks while a sewer cave-in is repaired, officials say.

Motor coach service has been added from the carbarn at Washington and Mason Streets to Powell and Ellis Streets to replace the cable cars, the Municipal Railway announced Wednesday.

The cave-in occurred between Pine and California on New Year's Eve.

General Plans Agencies To Meet

The housing and open space subcommittees of the San Anselmo general plan committee will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the Robson House, Robson-Harrington Park, 237 Crescent Road, according to committee secretary Carol Enge.

The entire general plan committee will meet in the Robson House at 8 p.m. Wednesday, she said.

Punctuation May Cancel Pay Raise

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's lawmakers may lose a 10 per cent raise in their retirement plans because of two missing commas in a bill that was whisked through the legislature in the final hours of the 1972 session.

The retirement increase was written into a pay raise bill for the state's 120 lawmakers and was intended to give anyone who leaves the legislature in 1973 or 1974 a 10 per cent increase.

In some cases, that would amount to more than a $1,000 a month —or a $100 a month raise —in the lawmakers' retirement plans.

But the Public Employes Retirement System (PERS) ruled the measure, as written, calls for only about a 50-cent a month increase.

The bill, which did not go through committee hearings, says allowances payable "with respect to service during the years 1973 and 1974 shall be computed on the basis of 5.5 per cent (in 1973) and 3.3 per cent (on the combined total for 1974)."

To get the 10 per cent increase, commas should have been placed after the words "service" and "1974." Since this was not done, the measure makes the increase payable only on those two years of service —not the legislators' total time spent at the Capitol.

"We're not sure it was intended that way, but it appears to us the increase is only for service rendered for those two years," PERS executive officer William E. Payne said Thursday.

"I think since there seems to be some doubt, we need to have the Attorney General review it for us," he said.

Several legislators have appealed the PERS ruling, saying they intended to up the retirement pay by 10 per cent.

Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was asked whether hearings on the bill might have helped catch the error but replied: "I don't think so. Hearings are only to determine policy. Not to find commas."

DEER HUNTER CAN SMILE ONCE AGAIN

DUNKIRK, Ind. — This is a story with teeth in it.

Donald Gray went hunting in Montana and lost his dentures. He and his companions searched the area but could not find the partial plate.

A year later, Gray returned from another hunt with two deer — and his slightly weathered dentures.

"We were in the same area and I jokingly said to my brother-in-law, 'Don't step on my teeth.' He went along with the joke and reached down, pretending to hunt for my plate. 'You mean this?' he said. Darned if he didn't find it.

"I washed off the mud, put it back in and it is just as good as new." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

15 Nations Support U.S. Plan For Prosecution Of Hijackers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 15 nations so far support a U.S. proposal for an international accord to impose sanctions on countries which fail to extradite or prosecute airplane hijackers, State Department officials said today.

The announcement came at the same time the United States was making other moves to thwart airplane hijackings. They included:

—Today is the opening day at U.S. airports for the first phase of a new government antihijacking inspection program, including examination of women's handbags and all other carry-on luggage.

—Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said Thursday that the administration will ask Congress for legislation making the death sentence mandatory for cold-blooded, premeditated" crimes including air piracy and assassination.

—The State Department said Cuba as sent the United States further proposals for a U.S.-Cuban accord to foil American hijackers.

The international accord proposed by the United States would cut off air service and navigation rights to countries which fail to extradite or prosecute hijackers.

It will be discussed by the legal subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) at a meeting beginning Monday in Montrael expected to be attended by about 60 nations.

The State Department hopes that a convention along the lines of the U.S. proposal will be drafted in Montreal and will then be discussed by the 123-member ICAO Aug. 21.

The Soviet Union has so far opposed sanctions to terminate air service and navigation rights unless this is decided within the U.N. Security Council. Egypt and Chile have also criticized the U.S. proposal.

France and West Germany have put forward alternate proposals, which U.S. officials consider not strong enough.

The antihijacking inspection program in the United States was ordered last month by the Department of Transportation. By Feb. 5, when the program is to be fully in effect, armed guards will be stationed at each boarding gate in 531 airports around the country, and passengers will be physically searched if necessary.

Passengers were urged to arrive for flights early, to keep carry-on luggage to a minimum, to unzip carry-on luggage as they approach inspectors and to maintain good humor.

Kleindienst's proposal follows a Supreme Court ruling June 29 which barred capital punishment in general under present laws. The court left Congress and state legislatures free to enact new death penalty laws.

Kleindienst said the death penalty does little to deter crimes of passion but can help deter some premeditated crimes such as air piracy, assassination, kidnaping and bombing a public building.

Barometer Found For TV Profits

MADISON, N.J. (UPI) — A political scientist's study of television news concludes that a station or network's profits are directly linked to the amount of public interest material it broadcasts.

The wealthier the station or network, the more likely it is to broadcast more public affairs programming, said Frank Wolf, an assistant professor of political science at Drew University.

His newly published study is called "Television Programming for News and Public Affairs: A Quantitative Analysis of New Work and Stations."

His study, partly financed by a National Association of Broadcasters grant, also said the Federal Communication Commission's efforts to force stations to increase such programming "has been largely ineffectual from the beginning."

Airlines Posted Profits In 1972

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. airlines lost money in 1971 but broke into the black last year, a report of the Air Transport Association showed today.

The ATA, which represents the major airlines, said earnings for the 12-month period ended last Sept. 30 were $196 million. During the corresponding period the previous year, $147 million in losses were recorded.

Hijack Incidents Led To Jet For Governor

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — When a man armed with two guns and a grenade hijacked a United Airlines jet and collected a $500,000 ransom in San Francisco, Gov. Ronald Reagan's top aide decided it was time his boss stopped taking commercial flights.

He became convinced of it when another jet, a Pacific Southwest Airlines, was hijacked just two days later in Oakland.

The next day, Monday, April 10, 1972, Reagan "agreed reluctantly not to fly in commercial airplanes anymore," executive assistant Edwin Meese III told newsmen Thursday.

And he hasn't. The governor since then has rented airplanes.

"We felt it was foolhardy for the State of California to take a chance on the governor being on a plane that was hijacked," Meese said. "He could be a contributing factor to the danger of other passengers on board.

"The hijacker looks at the governor in the seat and immediately the ransom goes up. He says to himself, 'Whoopie, look what I have here.'"

Last week, the state announced acquisition of its own jet to fly Reagan, other state officers and legislators. It is a twin-engine, six-passenger Cessna Citation leased for two years at a cost of $398,906. The plane is valued at $700,000.

Meese said Reagan and his wife Nancy both will be riding in the jet, abandoning a policy against traveling together on the same plane.

Meese said the couple followed the "fly separately," practice when their children were small because a fatal crash would leave the youngsters parentless. Recently, he said, the Reagans have begun flying together occasionally.

The Reagans' daughter, Patti, is 20, and their son, Skipper, is 14.

Bayh Wants To Lower Minimum Legislative Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., wants to lower the minimum age for U.S. senators from 30 to 27 and for House members from 25 to 22.

Bayh introduced legislation for the change Thursday. He also proposed an amendment that would provide for direct election of the President, abandoning the electoral college system.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., will introduce companion bills in the House next week.

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Two earth tremors shook parts of Quito seven minutes apart late Thursday with the second causing some fright among persons living on upper floors of tall buildings.

There were no reports of casualties or serious damage.

Africa '73' Events To Raise Funds

"Africa '73," a series of fund-raising events to send Sonoma State College students to Africa next summer and to aid needy Africans, will be launched Feb. 10 in Rohnert Park.

The African American Cultural Exchange Committee, an organization of students, professors and community residents, will sponsor a soul food dinner and dance at the Rohnert Park Community Center.

The program also will include African music and a side presentation by students who visited Ghana, Togo, Dahomey and Nigeria last summer.

The fund-raising committee also plans talent shows, dances and dinners.

Twenty Sonoma State students spent six weeks last summer visiting primitive African villages, as well as studying at the University of Ghana at Legon.

Roy Mitchell, committee coordinator, said the first $250 of donations will be earmarked for a water well at the primitive village of Oduro, Nigeria.

Students on the trip last year found that most children in the village of 200 persons die before their sixth birthdays because the small stream dries up in the summer, leaving residents totally without water.

New Care For Stroke Victims

By PAT PERRY

Sam Pearlman felt fine when he awoke in his Terra Linda home at 5 o'clock on a January morning last year. At 63, he hadn't had a physical examination for three years, simply because he felt so fine. And then he had a stroke.

"I was just sitting up, three quarters of the way up, and I couldn't go forward or fall back . . . I told my wife I thought something was wrong . . . then I had like a tremor, then another jolt . . . I heard my wife saying on the phone that she thought I'd had a stroke."

"All the way to hospital I was moving my fingers in the ambulance and hoping it wasn't true. But the next day my whole left side was paralyzed. I was seeing double. I couldn't swallow.

"I'd had a stroke alright. I'd also had heart failure."

Then Sam Pearlman's round face broke into wreaths of humor, a grin so infectious it was hard to notice the slight laziness of the left side of his face.

"But I wasn't frightened, said Pearlman, manager of the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco. "I figured someone wanted me to have a double feature."

And he chuckled and proudly lifted his left hand up to his face — a feat he's only recently accomplished after a year of intensive treatment and work and willpower.

Stroke is the third-ranking cause of death in the United States. It's exceeded only by heart disease and cancer.

On the other hand, stroke responds best of the three to treatment and prevention.

Sam Pearlman stayed in Marin General Hospital for only three weeks, he was back at work within three months and he commutes by bus to San Francisco.

Although his will to get better is obvious, much of the credit must go to the stroke care given by nurses and staff of Marin General Hospital. (Indeed, Pearlman jokes that he's half in love with chief physiotherapidst Joan Jamison because she helped him so much.)

Stroke care at the hospital is now combined in a special unit on the fourth floor, with six beds to give stroke patients specialized, round-the-clock treatment from the moment they are admitted.

Recent research has shown that immediate treatment greatly improves stroke victims' chances of recovery. In clinical terms, this is referred to as "aggressive rehabilitation." In lay terms, it means a stroke patient isn't left to lie still. Everyone's on him right away.

Sydney Edwards, chief nurse of the unit, explained: "Stroke doesn't always lead to some form of paralysis, sometimes there's partial return of movement, sometimes total return, sometimes death. Sometimes paralysis is transient, sometimes delayed. But patients used to lie in bed for weeks on end, and muscles lose strength . . . there is tremendous deterioration in a matter of a few days."

HOME THERAPY — Sam Pearlman of 598 Tarragon Drive, Terra Linda, tugs energetically on a pail-and-pulley device he rigged up in his garage to assist in the recovery of his stroke-affected limbs. Manager of the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco, Pearlman was back at work three months after a devastating stroke, and believes that encouragement from the Marin General Hospital stroke unit staff helped his recovery.

Specially trained staff members man the unit.

Faith Bartlett, continuity of care coordinator, said the minute a stroke victim is admitted to the unit "we automatically call in physiotheraphy and speech and hearing." The director of the unit, Dr. Howard Seidler, is a neurologist, and the nurses, including registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and aides, all have gone through extensive training.

Mrs. Bartlett and her staff advise the family of the patient and assist in mitigating the "disaster." And a stroke can indeed be a disaster to any family. It's classified as a "catastrophic disease" since it often curtails a man or woman's working life, and imposes severe financial burdens.

"And it's a tremendously overwhelming thing," said Mrs. Edwards. "Depression is very common. They see themselves as a burden on their families for the rest of their lives. Frequently there's a speech problem."

Ilona Bellack, the hospital's associate director of nursing, said the morale factor is an important facet of the unit's operation. Nurses go out of their way to be reassuring, and have found that bringing in successfully rehabilitated patients is one of the best medicines.

"Some of the statistics beginning to emerge from the unit show that there is a changing picture in the rehabilitation of stroke patients," said Mrs. Bellack. The length of a hospital stay has been cut drastically, now down to about 10 days to two weeks for patients going directly home, less for those transferring to convalescent hospitals.

While other specialized units at Marin General, such asoronary care, make extensive use of sophisticated technological devices, the stroke unit depends primarily on nursing, pure and simple.

Patients levels of consciousness and awareness are checked continually and their legs and arms are moved twice on each nurse's shift. In fact, a nurse's check sheet for a shift covers four full pages.

As they get better, patients are instructed and encouraged to move more, doing exercises like scooting up and down in the bed.

Then, too, there are tricks of the trade. Like popsicles. Mrs. Edwards said it is frequently difficult for stroke patients to swallow fluids . . . "and a lot of times something cold helps them swallow with less difficulty."

Recalling his hospitalization, Pearlman said he was most frustrated by an inability to make people understand him. "The funny part is I always thought I was talking clear as a bell. I thought they were deaf, but you can't enunciate with half a mouth."

An eminently cheerful man, Pearlman said one of the best times was when he saw his left foot move a little. "You're hoping every second movement will return, it's like getting out of prison."

"The biggest thing is they teach you to do for yourself. And the more you do for yourself the more you can do." He used a wheelchair for only a month, quitting when he figured it was too easy.

Despite his doctor's objections, he returned to work in May, and in his spare time he keeps up his hobby of tuning and rebuilding pianos.

Pearlman said he has learned that there aren't enough facilities for handicapped people in Marin County, and he's also learned that everyone wants to help.

"They pester the hell out of you," he commented wryly. "When you're walking you have to think carefully which foot goes first, and you're planning on a move, and then someone's got you by the arm and you're falling. I told a kid in my theater if he doesn't stop helping me I'll have to fire him."

(Which is why readers are advised not to assist the jovial commuter with a crutch as he scrambles on the 9:15 a.m. Terra Linda bus.)

In retrospect, Pearlman has learned that he might have avoided his stroke by taking better care of his health. His blood pressure was 240 when he was admitted to hospital, and has now dropped to 146.

Mrs. Bellack said that research and statistics being made available through the stroke care unit are potentially valuable. "The impression is that there are a great many more cases of stroke than may have been recognized. If we can get some kind of context to predict when stroke is likely, there would be a lower incidence and more rapid recovery."

The hospital authorities were reluctant to interpret the statistics acrued in the unit's short history, but nationally it is known that the likelihood of stroke does increase with age, and that most of the attacks will occur in people over the age of 55.

"And the most exciting part of this unit," enthused Mrs. Bellack, "is that it has shown there is a lot more that can be done in prevention and treatment."

HOSPITAL CARE — Physiotherapy and morale-building go hand in hand at Marin General Hospital's stroke unit, where therapist Joan Jamison works with patient Merlin Cruz. Stroke care at Marin General is handled in a special fourth-floor unit.

Two Receive Gift Warrants

Two San Anselmo youngsters, winners in a San Anselmo parks and recreation Christmas card contest, received $5 gift certificates from Swensen's and Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlors, the parks department reported yesterday.

The Independent-Journal had earlier reported that Swensen's Ice Cream parlor had provided both prizes.

Winners in the contest were Paul Petri, 8, and Mary Samuelson, 12.

Holdout Inmate Strikers Are Placed In Segregation

About a dozen hardcore strikers at San Quentin, who refused again yesterday to report for job assignments, have been placed in segregation in the south block, a prison spokesman said today.

The dozen, not identified with any known group, included whites, blacks and Chicanos, according to Lee De Bord, San Quentin information officer.

The segregated convicts face possible prison disciplinary action, he said.

They were the remaining holdouts of a work strike which began Tuesday at the prison when most of the work force of 1,400 inmates refused to go to their jobs. (There are about 1,800 men at the prison.)

Two sets of typewritten demands by the strikers were found by prison officials. The first asked the ouster of Warden Louis S. Nelson and a second list included 35 demands for such privileges as conjugal visits, public telephones, privately owned television sets, minimum wages and the right to grow long hair.

The demands were never formally presented to prison officials and have been ignored by authorities.

Two minor fires were discovered yesterday afternoon, apparently set by disgruntled inmates. The blazes caused only scorches in the education department and furniture factory, according to officials.

Otherwise, the big prison was quiet, De Bord said, with normal feeding and work conditions resumed.

Development Center Board Picks Slate

The Marin Child Development Center, a school in Tiburon for emotionally and neurologically handicapped children, has elected officers for 1973.

New officers are Robert Dermott of San Rafael, president; John Kelly of Ross, vice president; Jerry Walters of San Rafael, corresponding secretary, and Bruce Shaw of Mill Valley, recording secretary.

Hadley, as administratrix with the will annexed of the estate of John David Hadley, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled Superior Court, all the right, title, interest and estate of the decedent at the time of his death and all the right, title, and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, to wit, undivided one-half (½) interest, in and to that certain real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

Lot 79, as shown upon that certain Map entitled Map No. 4 of San Geronimo, a subdivision of a portion of San Geronimo Ranch, Marin County, California, filed for record June 8, 1915, in Liber 4 of Maps, at page 87, in the office of the County Recorder of Marin County, California.

Excepting from said Lot 79, a strip of land described in Deed from Leo B. Mihan and Amelia Schudson Mihan, his wife, to County of Marin, dated June 9, 1937, and recorded September 18, 1937, in Liber 348 of official records, at page 59, Records of Marin County. Tax Assessor's No. 169-182-06 (consisting of approximately 1.7 acres).

Commonly referred to as 20 Fir Avenue, San Geronimo, California 94963. Subject to: current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, easements of record, and approximately $2500.00 first trust deed encumbrance of Fidelity Savings of Oakland, California.

The remaining undivided one-half interest owner, Katherine E. Acoff, has agreed in writing to join in this sale.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing and may be delivered to the said administratrix's attorney, Toshiro Hiraide, 1515 West Redondo Beach Boulevard, Gardena, California 90247 (P.O. Box 2043), or may be filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of the sale.

Terms and conditions of sale: Cash in lawful money of the United States of America; 10% of the amount bid to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid upon confirmation of sale by the Superior Court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance. The examination of title, recording of conveyance, and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Notice Of Request for State Certification of Clamshell Dredging of The Bolinas Lagoon Channel by Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation Civic Center San Rafael, California 94903

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 401 Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 for certification to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers that the dredging and dredge spoil disposal by Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation as described below will not violate the California Water Quality Control Plan or any applicable Federal Standards.

The Marin County Department of Parks and Recreation intends to dredge by clamshell dredge approximately 800 cubic yards of sand from Bolinas Lagoon Channel. The location of the dredging is across from the Marine Station approximately 150 feet into the Lagoon from Wharf Road. The dredged spoil from this project is to be disposed of on land in an area where there will be no run-off. A previous spoil disposal area on Seadrift near Dipsea Road is an optional disposal area. The project will be completed within one year.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364 - 14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by February 10, 1973.

Olympian DeMont Back In The Swim

Rick DeMont, 16-year-old swimmer from San Rafael who is the best distance freestyler in the world no matter how many gold medals the International Olympic Committee take away from him, will be back in the swim this weekend.

DeMont will be competing in the first meet of the Amateur Athletic Union, Pacific Association's 1973 senior indoor season, Saturday and Sunday at San Francisco State University.

It will be his first competitive meet since he swam in the 400-meter freestyle at the Munich Olympics. In that race he won a gold medal and later had it stripped from him because a drug, ephedrine, was found in his system. A medicine he was taking for asthma contained the drug.

Rick's asthma situation hasn't changed, but his medicine has. No longer is he taking Marax, a medication that includes ephedrine. At the request of Rick's coach, Don Swartz of the Marin Aquatic Club, DeMont's physician, Dr. Patricia M. Clark of Mill Valley, released this statement:

"RICK DEMONT is under my care for asthma. His present medication is Quibrom (Mead-Johnson). Each capsule contains theophylline, 150 mgs., and glyceryl guaiacolate, 90 mgs. This is a combination brocho-dilator and expectorant medication. Dosage is one capsule, two or three times daily as necessary."

According to Dr. Clark, theophylline is related to caffeine which is found in coffee and cocoa. She is sending a letter to Dr. Daniel F. Hanley, a member of the International Olympic Committee's medical commission who recently tried to shift blame for the disqualification to DeMont. She is sending the letter to Hanley to clear the medicine with him. But by the time the next Olympics roll around, caffeine might even be on the banned drug list. Don't laugh. There was some talk at one point to include caffeine on the banned drug list but the idea was abandoned for obvious reasons.

"My intent in obtaining the statement from Dr. Clark," said Swartz, "is to let everyone know the ephedrine medicine is no longer used by Rick in his treatment of asthma. The 1973 AAU senior indoor season begins Saturday with a meet at San Fancisco State and I feel it is important that these gray areas on medication he is using are cleared up. We want no doubt on anybody's mind."

THE MEET WILL be the first also for Marin Aquatic Club teammate Robin Backhaus, Olympic bronze medal winner in the 200-meter butterfly who moved from Redlands to San Rafael since that time. A total of 20 members of the Marin team will be entered in the Saturday-Sunday meet.

"I'll be swimming the 200, 500 and 1,650 yard freestyle and some breast and I.M. (individual medley) events," DeMont said between a morning practice session and start of classes at Terra Linda High School. Backhaus will be entered in breaststroke and distance freestyle events.

DEMONT WAS the subject of a feature story in the November-December issue of Letterman, a magazine of high school sports. A cover title said, "Rick DeMont Talks," and the story on page 19, titled, "I'll Try Again in 1976," was done in the first person. I was totally surprised because I know Rick is a young man of few words.

"I didn't write it," said DeMont. "Someone from that magazine telephoned me just after I returned from the Olympics and asked me some questions." He said he was surprised and unhappy on the way the story was done. I don't blame him. Nobody likes to have somebody else doing the talking for him, and it was the only story in the magazine in which the first person method was used.

But for now, Rick DeMont is back in the swim. Losing his gold medal on the IOC's foul play did not stop him. For that I am glad.

Finley May Be Willing To Sell Seals

ij Sports

Friday, January 5, 1973 Independent-Journal, 33

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI) — Did Charlie Finley bite off more than he can chew with the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League?

Finley, who needed 14 years to win a world championship with his A's baseball club, frankly is disenchanted with the Seals after only 2 ½ seasons, so much so that he says he will listen to an offer to sell.

"I lost almost half a million dollars on the club in the first year, $700,000 last year and I stand to lose a million this season," Finley said Thursday when he turned a World Series victory film showing of his A's into an apology on why the Seals haven't done better than they have since he bought them three years ago."

"When you continue to lose money, owning a hockey club ceases to be fun," Finley said. "Yes, I'd listen to an offer to sell but unfortunately no one has made me one."

Finley said it was hard enough for his Seals to keep pace with the other clubs in the NHL the past two seasons and when the World Hockey Association came into being before the start of the current season, he was hard pressed to keep his head above water.

"We made a lot of progress last season and in fact were the most improved team in the league," said Finley. "Then came the WHA and as things turned out my big mistake was in giving Garry Young full charge of the operation."

Young was picked by Finley to serve as club general manager and according to Charlie given authority to sign the players.

"I had never done that in baseball," said Finley. "Everyone knows I've always been my own general manager, at least it's been that way in recent years."

Finley once signed Frank Lane to a five year contract as GM of his baseball club and then fired him after the first year.

"I picked Young because I respected his ability," said Finley, forgetting for the moment that he once hired Young as coach of he Seals and fired him after less than one season.

Finley's big complaint against Young, who resigned last Nov. 6 as GM, was that he signed players to contracts without consulting with him.

"That was the beginning of the end for us," said Finley, referring to the downhill slide by the Seals, who have won seven games, lost 22 and tied eight others this season and are dead last in the NHL West.

Finley said that it was bad enough Young didn't consult him on the contracts but worst than that was the fact he misled him about the salaries.

"For instance," and then Finley ticked off a list of contracts, "he told me he signed a player for $20,000 when actually it was for $37,500. Another player — Rick Redmond —was given a twoyear contract calling for

Attles Is Beaming About Warrior Play

SEATTLE (UPI) — Rick Barry hit 30 and Jim Barnett 10 Thursday night, but that's not what had Golden State Warriors Coach Al Attles beaming today.

It was the defensive jobs they turned in on Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie, the two guys who make the Portland Trail Blazer offense click.

The Warriors took Portland 108-83 and move into Seattle tonight at 8 o'clock to battle the SuperSonics.

Golden State beat the Blazers without the help of Clyde Lee, who normally would have been on Wicks.

Barry instead had to do most of the defensive work on the erstwhile UCLA great and outscored him 30-22 in a battle of what might be the league's two top frontliners.

If Lee, who has reinjured his arch, can't go tonight, Barry will have to guard Spencer Haywood, another top forward.

Portland entered Thursday's game with a 4-8 record against the Warriors. Since Portland has trouble playing at .250, this is a better mark than might be expected. In each Blazer win, Petrie had the hot hand that decided things.

Barnett held him to just seven Thursday in a real key to the outcome.

Golden State moved out to a 19-point lead but Wicks led Portland back to within five before Golden State went on a 10-2 spree to ice it.

Nate Thurmond had 20 points and 22 rebounds in the pivot and Cazzie Rusell added 18 for Golden State, now at 25-12 and, but 4 ½ games back of Los Angeles.

Salt Lake City Olympics Site

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S Olympic Committee has made its decision, unanimously selecting Salt Lake City, Utah, to replace Denver as site of the 1976 Winter Olympics. Now it's up to the International Olympic Committee to approve the shift or give the Olympics to a European city.

The 51-member U.S. Olympic Committee Thursday listened to presentations by four cities for three hours and then needed only 15 minutes to decide unanimously on Salt Lake City.

The IOC will meet Jan. 15 at Lausanne, Switzerland, to render a decision on Salt Lake City. A number of European cities, the most prominent being Innsbruck, Austria, site of the 1964 Games, are interested in playing host to the 1976 Olympics.

E.J. "Jake" Garn, Salt Lake City's mayor, left for Washington immediately after the decision in an effort to raise the estimated $30 million necessary to fund the Games. Garn said he was hopeful of receiving the $15.5 million Congress had set aside for Denver, which had to cancel when Colorado residents overwhelmingly voted down a referendum to host the Games.

"Many facilities were planned when we made our presentation for the 1972 Games," Garn said. "And we have spent $100 million in their construction. Now we must work on a national funding for the Games and are hopeful of receiving the $15,5 million Congress had earmarked for Denver."

Salt Lake City was chosen over Lake Placid, N.Y.; the Reno-North Lake Tahoe area; and the South Lake Tahoe complex. Garn must now make his next presentation before the IOC.

The decision to award the Games to Salt Lake City met with considerable opposition.

Lake Placid supporters claimed Salt Lake was chosen because the USOC "wants the Games to go by default to Europe"

Roy Kennedy, spokesman for the Lake Placid group, said retiring USOC President Clifford Buck was irked at Colorado's rejection of the Games. "He lives in Denver and he's the one who pushed for the Games there and got his face slapped," Kennedy said. "We think they want the Games to go by default to Europe.

"Also, their facilities will be at 11,000 feet and that's more than the Olympic people will tolerate," Kennedy said, explaining there was an Olympic rule against Games at that altitude.

Frank Cassas, an attorney promoting a regional Lake Tahoe concept, said Squaw Valley's decision to submit its own bid cost the area the Games.

"I feel Salt Lake was awarded the Games only because, at the last minute, Squaw Valley decided to submit its own bid," Cassas said. "As a consequence, South Lake Tahoe submitted its bid because it was cut out of the Squaw Valley plan. Both groups went back to New York. The U.S Olympic Committee didn't want any part of the hassle."

An even more imporatant group said to be opposing the Games is the population of Utah. A recent poll of Utah residents showed them 7-1 against hosting the Games and one paper estimated a 12-1 ratio against the Olympics in Utah. Much of the opposition was based on ecological grounds, the same basis on which Colorado residents rejected the Games.

Tar Cagers Host Canada Tomorrow

College of Marin has played 14 basketball games already, and won 12 of them, but coach John Panagakis and his Tars agree "the season begins tomorrow."

That's when Canada College of Redwood City visits Kentfield for the Camino Norte Conference opener, at 8 p.m., and Marin tries to begin another run at the Championship it has barely missed two years in a row.

Radio station KTIM-AM (1510) and FM (100.9) will offer a delayed-tape broadcast of the game Sunday at 8 a.m. All Tar home league games will be aired on a like manner.

"It's going to be a tough league this year," said Panagakis unhappily. "A team can lose three games (of 14) and still have a chance to win it.

"Contra Costa (of San Pablo) won it last year, West Valley (of Campbell) is 12-1, Santa Rosa is 10-4, De Anza (of Cupertino) will be in there. Every team we play will be rough — honest.

"Canada is 10-4, and they had a real big win over City College of San Francisco in the San Joaquin Delta tournament. They've got four starters back from last year, and they always play us tough."

Quite. Last season, the Tars struggled to a 70-67 victory in Redwood City and a 69-60 triumph in Kentfield en route to an 11-3 league record, good for second place after a third-place finish in 1971.

Marin will enter tomorrow's game shredded of much of its depth. Center Neil Traub missed Wednesday's 70-62 loss to the University of San Francisco junior varsity after injuring his left knee in practice, and Panagakis calls him "very doubtful" for tomorrow. Center

LOS ANGELES OPEN

'Names' In Lead Of Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Often in the first round of a pro golf tournament, an unknown from Keokuk or Grand Rapids pops up as the leader and then returns to oblivion with a string of bogeys in later rounds.

Not so in the first round of the 72-hole $135,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open Thursday, first event on the 1973 Professional Golfers Association tour.

Johnny Miller, Dave Stockton, and aing Julius Boros tied for the first round lead at 67, four under par for the Riviera Country Club course.

The absence of unknowns among the leaders is probably because this is a tough, hilly, and long golf course—7,028 yards—dotted with ravines, creeks and towering eucalyptus trees which seem to reach out and grab a wayward golf ball. Par is 35-36--71.

Jack Nicklaus, everybody's favorite to win after his record $320,542 year in 1972, shot 32-37-69 and said "This is one of the great golf courses in the country."

Miller, 25, Stockton, 31 and Boros, 52, all big money winners on the tour, did not have a bogey among them.

Miller and Boros shot 33-34 and Stockton 34-33.

A stroke back going into today's second round was veteran Bob Rosburg, 46, with 34-34--68.

There were four other more or less prominent pros tied with Nicklaus at 69—Don Bies, Seattle, 33-36; Bert Yancey, Pompano Beach, Fla., David Graham of Australia, and Art Wall Jr., 48, from Honesdale, Pa., with 34-35. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 37-36—73.

There were 23 golfers under par—all pros—and 14 at par in the starting field of 143. Two amateurs, Bud Bradley of Los Angeles and Mark Pfeil of Palos Verdes, Calif., shot identical 35-36--71 scores.

The first round weather was cold—in the low 50s—with cloudy skies and a trace of moisture in the air.

It didn't bother Sam Snead, a well-preserved 60, who had 3733--70, one under. Arnold Palmer, 43, had some trouble with his putter and had a card of 38-37--75, four over. Lee Trevino, No. 2 money man behind Nicklaus last year, could do no better than 38-38-76.

Stockton, whose wife has been ill with pneumonia and whose mother underwent surgery Thursday, got "great satisfaction" from his 67. He had perhaps the most spectacular shot of the first round. He holed a wedge from 120 yards out for an eagle two on the 465yard 12th hole.

Miller almost sank his approach on the 10th hole. It stopped an inch from the cup and he got a birdie three there. The blond San Franciscan said he is not trying to hole his iron shots but just trying to get on the green.

"Get on the green and let your putter do the talking," he said.

Boros who said he plays only three or four holes a day when he's home in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., found the weather "raw" but he was steady enough to sink a 25-foot putt on the fourth hole for one of his three birdies.

"That was a great round for me," he said. "I've been busy on my course at home and I really came out here just for a vacation."

Former champion Billy Casper withdrew because of a bad back. Doug Sanders failed to start because of a sore hand. Subs filled the field to the regular 144 but one of them, Odell Massey, did not show.

A Promising Outlook Seen For The Giants

Jack Schwarz operates behind the scenes at Candlestick Park for the Giants. Some say he is the finest administrative secretary in baseball's farm systems. He also directs two score of scouts for the Giants.

Schwarz seldom personally signs a raw rookie but he personally signed Chris Speier in January, 1970, and after Speier had played only one year of pro ball, Schwarz predicted a great major league career for the young shortstop.

Speier was just a non-roster invitee to the 1971 spring training camp of the Giants when Schwarz said: "This young man has played only one season of pro ball at Amarillo but he's ready right now for the big time."

There was no hemming or hawing by Schwarz in his prediction, no qualifications, no ifs, ands or buts.

"SPEIER," SAID SCHWARZ, "is a breed of baseball player not common anymore. He's a throwback. He reminds me of old timers like Frankie Frisch and Bill Jurges."

During the past two seasons Speier justified Schwarz' reputation as a peerless picker.

Now a new spring training encampment is only two months away. Schwarz was asked if he anticipated any popup surprise among the Giants this spring.

"Pitching is the story this time," said Schwarz. "I like the deal we made for Tom Bradley. In addition to his talent as a pitcher, Bradley is a leader, a high class fellow who will fill the leadership role that Gaylord Perry used to hold.

"The reports on Juan Marichal's progress since his back operation are most encouraging. If Marichal's back doesn't bother him, there's no reason why he shouldn't make a strong comeback because of his pitching savvy and control."

SCHWARZ LEFT a question mark behind the name of Sam McDowell, the big southpaw for whom the Giants traded Perry a year ago. But he talked enthusiastically about the younger members of the pitching staff and admitted he was "high" on Elias Sosa, the 22-year-old righthander who joined the Giants late last season.

Schwarz also predicted promising future careers for John D'Acquisto and Frank Riccelli but not this season.

"D'Acquisto and Riccelli have been in pro ball only a couple of years," said Schwarz. "They shouldn't be pushed too fast. When they're called up they should come as regular starters."

Schwarz believes the 1973 season should be a successful one for the Giants "if here's any justice in the law of averages."

"WE MADE IT to the playoffs in 1971 because we had more luck than we had a right to epect," said Schwarz. "We had luck last season but it was all the wrong kind.

"This year, as I said, the story will be pitching. We got everything else."

Carpenters Win In Rec Cage

When your opposition on the court includes the guy who runs the program and one of the league's scorekeepers, you're in trouble, as Hub City learned last night in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league play.

Scorekeeper Jerry Molinari tossed in 16 points and recreation director Ralph Dannenberg added 15 as George and Charles Carpentry defeated the Hub men, 58-51, in overtime.

In other games, Manzanita crushed the Seasons, 57-40; MacArthur's topped BGV&C, 43-33; the All-Catholic All-Stars downed the Washouts, 52-43; and Marin Supply whipped Jolly Roger, 31-17.

Wrestling Results

Terra Linda High School defeated Drake, 70-6, and San Rafael topped Novato, 36-24, in season-opening Marin County Athletic League wrestling matches yesterday at Drake and San Rafael, respectively.

Ohio State Won't Pay Hayes' Fees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State University said Thursday it would not pay the legal costs of football coach Woody Hayes, who is charged with injuring a Rose Bowl photographer.

OSU President Harold L. Enarson said the university's legal counsel did not believe it would be "an authorized or proper expenditure of public funds for the university to employ legal counsel to represent Coach Hayes ...."

Enarson said Hayes could, if he wished, petition the state Sundry Claims Board for reimbursement later.

The university president also said he had asked the Big Ten school's athletic director to undertake an inquiry into the incident at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day. he said the report is to include "recommendations concerning what action, if any, the university should take."

Hayes had a tussle with Los Angeles Times photographer Art Rogers, but the coach denied he brushed Rogers' camera into his eye. Rogers filed a complaint, which led to a charge of criminal misdemeanor battery against Hayes.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, who got involved in the controversy when asked his reaction at a news conference Thursday, said he believed Hayes and Rogers should mutually apologize and forget the incident. Enarson also has proposed this.

William F. Thomas, editor of the Los Angeles Times, however, said there was no reason for Rogers to apologize.

"It's time he (Hayes) is told he must behave as an adult, and that's what the police action is aimed at doing," Thomas said. "We have absolutely no intention of apologizing."

Gilligan also had said at his news conference he believed the incident had been "much overplayed."

Novato Group Sets Ski Trip

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department will conduct a three-day ski trip to Squaw Valley for children from 12 through 17 years old Jan. 26-28, recreation director Edward W. Adams reported today.

The group will leave the Novato Community House at 5 p.m. on Jan. 26 and return Jan. 28. the cost will be $28.50 per person for transportation, lodging, food and admission to a Saturday night dance.

Applications for the trip are available at the parks and recreation office, 917 Sherman Avenue.

A's World Series Film Is Available

OAKLAND (UPI) — The full color 1972 World Series Highlights film featuring the Oakland A's' seven game victory over the Cincinnati Reds is available to groups in Northern California, the A's announced today.

The 38-minute, 16-millimeter film, narrated by Curt Gowdy includes all the action of the Series, rated by some as the most exciting ever. Reservations for the films should be obtained by contacting the A's at their Oakland Coliseum office.

A's Finley Seeks Blue For 1st Pact

OAKLAND (UPI) — According to baseball rules player contracts for the new year must be in the mail by Jan. 15 and Charlie Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland A's, hopes to make Vida Blue, his disappointed star of 1972, the first man signed for 1973.

"Vida called me the other day," Finley said Thursday, "and asked me to have dinner with him in two weeks in Chicago. He wants me to be his guest and he said he would like to sign his 1973 contract at that time.

"A happy Vida Blue affects the whole club," Finley said. "He had problems last year but he was a big help in the Playoffs and World Series."

Does that mean Vida, who won only six games in 1972, will get a raise for 1973?

"I don't anticipate any trouble signing him or any of my other players," Finley said.

Finley also said he has high hopes his A's will repeat as world champions in 1973.

"Winning two in a row is difficult," he said, "but we have the team that can do it. They have always aimed high and that's what you have to."

While in town for the A's world Series film released yesterday, Finley had a chance to talk to a number of his players and said "they understand me and I understand them."

Clemente Rites In Puerto Rico

CAROLINA, P.R. (AP) — Friends remember Roberto Clemente as a man of quiet strength in both public and private life.

That's the way he was remembered Thursday by a priest at memorial services for the baseball superstar.

More than 70 friends of Clemente, including members of the Pittsburgh Pirate organization for which he played, attended the 45-minute service at the San Fernando Roman Catholic Church.

Speaking in the small, stone church not far from Clemente's Carolina home, the priest described the star outfielder as a man who showed the same strength in private life as he did on the field.

This strength eventually led to his untimely death, the priest added. Clemente was aboard a cargo plane carrying food to earthquake victims in Nicaragua when the craft went down in the Atlantic Ocean New Year's Eve not far from the Puerto Rican coast.

Four others were killed in the mercy mission, but only the body of the pilot has been found so far by searchers.

The mourners, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, had arrived at the nearby San Juan airport by chartered jet from Pittsburgh. They boarded buses and rode five miles to the church.

There, they were met by Clemente's widow, Vera.

After the mass ended, Clemente's friends left the church and poured into a plaza bulging with hundreds of people. The Pirate team then visited the Clemente home to pay their respects.

Along with Kuhn, the mourners included Pirate President Dan Galbreath, Manager Bill Virdon, former Manager Danny Murtaugh and many current and former players and some wives.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

FISH AND GAME

Limited Income Fishing Licenses

By AL GIDDINGS

While checking the steelhead fishermen at Papermill Creek this week, I ran into Leo Clausen generally known as the "Mayor of Papermill Creek."

He was fishing with all of his buddies. I was immediately cornered by the group — (everyone of them is over 62 years of age). They were wondering about the new legislative bill regarding fishing licenses. The new legislation lowering the age at which men with limited incomes may obtain free California fishing licenses will not become effective until 61 days after the end of the veto session.

The bill, AB 2169, reduces from 65 to 62 the minimum age at which men meeting income requirements may obtain free licenses for ocean fishing and frogging. The minimum age for women remains 62.

Income limits are $140 monthly for single persons and $280 monthly combined for married persons.

Applications for free licenses are available from Department of Fish and Games offices and license agents throughout the state. Completed applications must be returned to the Sacramento department headquarters.

DFG license chief James Christopher said he will be unable, until the effective date of the legislation, to process applications for free licenses from men now under 65.

I ASKED LEO how Big Ed was. (That's the name of the steelhead Leo took home alive last year.) According to Leo, Big Ed is just fine, living in the big fish pond there at the house. Then I questioned the group on the fishing, all said it has been slow. Frank Mononi of San Rafael has added three salmon to the 10 he had which I wrote about two weeks ago. Americo Terribilini, the fisherman who caught the 18-pounder then hasn't connected since. They blamed the slow fishing this day on a big buck who jumped into the creek and swam around the area tangling their lines up. Then, Leo came up with his theory to the slow fishing.

He said, "The fish won't begin to really hit until the pussy willows along this creek are in bloom!" Now, I've heard them all; but be sure and check the trees if you do catch a fish. He might have something!

ARDIE HOWELL of Corte Madera has been determined to catch a sturgeon off the beach. I think I've sent him to every hot spot that I know of but with no success. Last Sunday he got a call from his brother, Ray, who was fishing off the rock wall at Sausalito near the Ondine Restaurant. Ray had just caught a 50-pounder there. Well, Ardie immediately headed down there and landed a 100-pounder. From what I hear, he really caused a traffic jam landing that fish in full view of the highway. Later, his wife, Toni, hooked one that she couldn't stop. It finally broke off going around the pilings under the Ondine Restaurant. They used both grass shrimp and anchovies for bait with equal success. The hundred pound fish was loaded with an estimated 30 pounds of caviar.

Ted Yatho, fishing at the Richmond Bridge, took a party of three out; all came in with a sturgeon. The next day, he took the Miller kids out from the Loch Lomond Bait Barge to the same spot. Again all three caught a sturgeon. One of the Miller boys took his flyrod along — the rod was an old split bamboo relic, but he landed a 37-pound sturgeon on it!

Jim Davenport and Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants organization have been out fishing. Jim is hitting two fish for three trips and Bobby is nothing for two. Yep, these two baseball men have been giving the sturgeon a real go.

THE STRIPERS have slowed some what, but Harry Weatherman of San Rafael was just sworn into the ranks of the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Naturally, he took his rod and his wife — down to the Rod and Gun Club pier to try the fishing. He didn't catch a thing, but his wife Mary landed a 12½-pound tagged striper.

The ocean salmon season opens the Saturday nearest Feb. 15, which makes the legal opening date this year Feb. 17th. Stafford Lake, west of Novato, has been getting trout plants — and the season is open. More plants are scheduled for this month. Don't forget your trout stamps on your new license.

Some 22,487 hunters took 2,331 pheasants during the 1972 season on the state and federal hunting areas managed by the Dept. of Fish and Game.

The duck take average at the same state and federal areas is about 2.0 birds per hunter for the season to date.

Don't forget your new 1973 fishing licenses.

COLLEGE CAGE

USF Survives 1st Test Vs. Seattle

Combined AP & UPI

SEATTLE — The University of San Francisco survived its first West Coast Athletic Conference basketball test last night, and the Dons can attribute the win to free throw prowess.

The Dons limited host Seattle University to four free throw attempts in their 66-60 victory. Meanwhile, the visitors used charity tosses to stave off a Seattle comeback in the second half.

Seattle dropped behind by 15 points at one time in the second half but pulled to within two at 62-60 before the Chieftain's high scorer, Bob Gross, fouled out at 2:19. Gross had 16 points on the night and grabbed 10 rebounds.

After Gross fouled out, substitute guard John Boro, a Redwood High School product, scored twice from the free-throw line and doubled again seconds later to cap off the scoring. He finished the night with 10 points.

Other Thursday scores: U.S. International 73, Pacific Christian 55, Willamette 84, St. Martin's 70, Grand Canyon 73, Cal Lutheran 65, Oklahoma City 76, Puget Sound 75, Portland State 102, Alaska 94, Pasadena 85, Newburg 77, Azusa 80, MacAlester 52, Biola 82, Upland 76, Drury 85, Southern California College 77.

Golfer Jane Blalock Has Case In Court

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys representing golfer Jane Blalock argued Thursday that her suspension from tournament play for alleged cheating was a violation of federal antitrust laws.

The charge came in a pretrial hearing for Miss Blalock's $2 million federal court suit against the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

Eugene Partain, representing the 27-year-old golfer, said five fellow competitors on the tour composed the LPGA executive committee which handed down the year's suspension. He said the five lady golfers stood to gain in personal income if Miss Blalock were forced off the tour.

The LPGA said the suspension was invoked May 30 last year after several assigned spotters reported they had seen Miss Blalock mark her ball on the putting surface and replace it closer to the hole.

U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moye Jr., took a motion for summary judgment in favor of Miss Blalock under consideration and gave attorneys for both sides 10 days to file supplementary briefs.

A jury trial is scheduled for the Portsmouth, N. H., star on Jan. 22.

GOLF NOTES

Fakundiny New Marin Club Aide

Marin Country Club in Novato has a new assistant pro. Novato's Paul Fakundiny, 25, left a similar position at San Geronimo National Golf Club to start work at his new job Tuesday.

Fakundiny served a year and one-half at San Geronimo before accepting what he terms "a better opportunity." He adds that his pro tour ambitions also influenced the move.

"I'll have a chance to play more here . . . I'll play in more pro-ams, and, if things go the way I hope, I'll try the PGA (Professional Golfers Association) Players School tourney this fall."

The Riverside City College product points out that he has been considering the job switch "for about a month." Fakundiny believes that it is "best to have a reference from a private club," but he did enjoy his tour at San Geronimo.

San Geronimo head pro Wayne Wallick says: "I hated to lose him. He's been a lot of help to me, and he is very well liked."

49ers, Raiders Each Place 5 On All-NFL Aggregation

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The San Francisco 49ers and the Oakland Raiders placed five men each on the Associated Press National Football League All-Pro football selections announced Thursday.

Niners receiving first team berths were: wide receiver Gene Washington, tight end Ted Kwalick, center Forrest Blue, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jim Johnson.

Raiders earning first team recognition were wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff and cornerback Willie Brown. Tackle Bob Brown, guard Gene Upshaw, and center Jim Otto gained second team places for the Raiders.

Miami coach Don Shula was selected American Football Conference coach of the year.

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati Bengals linebacker Al Beauchamp, 28, was granted a postponement Thursday until Feb. 2 of his municipal court trial on charges of assaulting a tow truck driver.

Beauchamp, who is 6-foot-2 and 237 pounds, allegedly picked up 5-7, 125-pound David Harris on Dec. 11 and threw him to the ground. Harris said he was attempting to tow Beauchamp's car away from a loading dock at the rear of a department store when accosted by the football player.

TORRANCE — Denver Bronco linebacker Don Parish will go on trial in Superior Court Feb. 21 on a charge of possessing a vial of cocaine.

The 24-year-old former Stanford football star pleaded innocent to the charge Thursday when he appeared in court.

SPORT SHORTS

Parish was arrested by U.S. Marshals at the Los Angeles International Airport Nov. 13 after a search disclosed the vial containing a substance which later was identified as 13 grams of cocaine worth $1,170.

Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO — Northern California is the first stop of the new year for the women's professional tennis tour and the field for the British Motors open, which kicks off the tour on Jan. 15, will have a starting field of 38 players.

A total of 12 girls headed by super-rated players such as Billie Jean King, Margaret Court, Rosie Casals of Sausalito and Kerry Melville are firmed for the first six nights of action with the remaining 26 women battling for the remaining spots at Lodi, Jan. 12-13-14.

Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The first two entires for the 1973 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race were received Thursday, and both cars were designated for driver John Mahler.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway put the entry forms in the mail Tuesday and it was expected about 75 cars would be entered for the May 28 classic. Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa, was named driver for the two cars submitted by Harbor Fuel Racing Inc., Nantucket, Mass. Both are updated versions of the turbocharged Offenhauser McLaren in which Mahler qualified at 179.497 miles an hour on the last day of time trials last year.

Piston trouble forced him out of his first Indianapolis test halfway through the race after he moved up from his 29th starting spot to 15th in the race.

Bowling

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Gus Lampo of Endicott, N.Y., trying to capture the San Jose Open bowling tournament for the second year in a row, won six of his eight match games Thursday night and took an 85-pin lead with 1,840 pins in the $65,000 event.

The starting field of 128 was cut to 24 after Thursday afternoon's third six-game qualifying bloc. After 16 more head-to-had match games today, the high-scoring five will go into Saturday afternoon's nationally televised finals for the $7,500 first prize.

Baseball

CLEVELAND — George M. Steinbrenner III, one of the new owners of the New York Yankees, has sold his 50 per cent interest in Northfieldark, a harness racing track in Northern Ohio.

Steinbrenner bought the track last July along with two other investors. "I regret having to bow out of Northfield without ever really getting started," Steinbrenner, owner of American Ship Building Co., said Thursday. "However, the decision was dictated by the demands on my time."

Steinbrenner sold his interest in the track to his partners, Carl Milstein and Robert Stakich, for $3.75 million. The three had bought it for $7.5 million.

Dolphins' Tight End Fleming Is Hospitalized With The Flu

Combined AP & UPI

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins tight end Marv Fleming was in the hospital with flu and heavy chest congestion today, but Coach Don Shula said he would be able to make the trip to Los Angeles Sunday and will play in Super Bowl VII.

The Dolphins will wind up Miami preparations Saturday for the showdown with the Washington Redskins Jan. 14 and fly to Los Angeles Sunday.

After Thursday's workout, wide receiver Paul Warfield said he believes Bob Griese's timing with him "is at the same place it was before the regular season."

Griese, who will start against Washington, played his first full half of football in last Sunday's AFC championship game with Pittsburgh since he broke his leg Oct. 15 against San Diego.

Shula, voted American Football Conference Coach by the Associated Press yesterday, said Fleming's illness is the only physical problem the Dolphins face aside from cornerback Tim Foley, who will not play because of a shoulder separation.

Foley will be replaced by four-year veteran Lloyd Mumphord, who said Thursday he was confident Redskin quarterback Billy Kilmer will not be able to pick on his area with any success.

Kilmer and the Redskins have demonstrated a liking for concentrating on new men, but Mumphord has played against Kilmer before and says he liked it.

"I like the way he throws the ball," says Mumphord. "He doesn't have that much zip."

Meanwhile, the Redskins buckled down to intensive homework Friday on grounds that next week may be too late to bring themselves to a peak for the Jan. 14 Super Bowl championship meeting.

"The big thing is to get as much done as possible here in Washington before we fly to the West Coast Sunday where there are going to be obvious distractions," coach George Allen said Thursday after putting the squad through a two hour and 15 minute drill.

Under NFL rules, the contending teams must be at the Super Bowl site at least by the Monday before the pro football championship contest.

The only member of the National Football Conference champion Redskin squad absent from practice was tackle Terry Hermeling who sustained a severe leg injury when Washington defeated Dallas 26-3 to qualify for Super Bowl VII last Sunday.

$80,000 in the first year and $100,000 in the second.

"Obviously, those figures were way out of line and far from what I could afford," said Finley, who added that in addition to low attendance he didn't receive any television revenue as do most NHL clubs.

Finley said that he was unaware of what was going on until he received a notice from NHL headquarters asking him for copies of player contracts.

"Young told me he had sent them in," said Finley when I asked him about them," and finally, I guess he did. Then Clarence Campbell (NHL president) called me and asked me if I knew what my players were getting. That's when I learned of Young's lies. So I called him in and we talked for more than five hours, and when it was all over I still didn't know why he did what he did, but I do know it will cost me $1 million this season, and that's cold cash, not paper money."

Finley also blamed Young for the defection of 11 Seals to the WHA.

"I know I could have signed all of them," said the Seals owner.

John Crozier also missed USF with the flu and hasn't been to practice since. Reserve guard Ken Gommeringer has quit the team.

"We had a good, hard practice yesterday," said Panagakis. "I think they (the players) will be able to shake off the loss to USF. It was a lesson for them."

Flexible House Of Future

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The house of the future will be a flexible, do-it-yourself dwelling that can grow, shrink, or even swap rooms at its owner's whim, an engineering researcher says.

The house would consist of a central steel frame with standardized components fastened to it, such as walls, floors, roofs, wiring and plumbing. Starting with the same basic frame, builders could devise homes of almost any size, architectural style and price they wanted to by varying the components.

The new type of home — potentially far more individualized than today's factory housing — could be in common use within 20 years, says Richard L. Martin, senior housing economist at the Stanford Research Institute here.

Martin, who with other SRI engineers developed and is studying the concept of component housing, is reluctant to put a pricetag on the technique. But he said he is confident the method eventually could be used to mass produce homes at prices competitive with standard housing.

"When somebody wants to build a house, he might go to a factory to select his components — just like a housewife today goes to the supermarket to buy food when she wants to cook a meal," Martin said in an interview.

"All the ingredients are there, and depending on your budget and your tastes you could put together any kind of home you wanted," he said. "One person might choose hardwood floors and another linoleum; one might like a sunken bathtub and another a simple shower stall."

Because everything but the central frame is a detachable component, Martin said the new style home would offer its occupants and urban planners some striking advantages over present housing.

"Nowadays if a wife tires of the furniture arrangement in her living room, she can switch it around. With our housing, she could do the same with whole rooms — switch the living room with the bedroom, or put the bathroom where the kitchen was," Martin said.

He estimated a man and wife could move an entire room — walls, floor and all — in half a day.

A family could even add a second story to their home, with the aid of a contractor, in a few days by "taking off the roof like a hat from your head" and stacking a new steel frame on the old one.

Perhaps most important, Martin said, the new building concept would revolutionize urban renewal. Buildings that now deteriorate until they have to be condemned and torn down could be quickly and inexpensively remodeled and reburbished, or even moved to a new location.

Martin said the construction principle could be used for other buildings besides homes — even highrise apartments and offices — and the structures would be at least as safe as conventional buildings from earthquakes or other disasters.

"Far from a house of cards, the structure, once it was assembled, would be like a rigid box," he said. "The wall panels would tighten up around the frame and stabilize it. The ground could move up and down and it still wouldn't collapse."

Martin said SRA researchers initially began looking for new housing concepts because they felt conventional methods were fast becoming outmoded.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

IRS Using New Computers To Catch The Income Tax Cheats

The Internal Revenue Service is making every effort to catch people who cheat on their tax returns and the new computers are now being used even more effectively than in the past.

IRS states, "DIF is the commonly used abbreviation for Discriminant Function. It is a mathematical technique used to classify income tax returns as to audit potential. Classification is the means by which returns having error potential are identified and selected for examination. Currently, the DIF system is used for all individual returns filed."

"Under the DIF concept, TCMP, or Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program, audits provide the statistical date that is the basis for derivation of the DIF formulas. These formulas are programmed into the computer to classify returns by assigning weights to certain return characteristics. These weights are then added together to obtain a composite score for each return processed. The higher the score, the higher the probability of a significant tax change."

Of course, the IRS will not tell us what these formulas are.

It's a safe bet, however, that if you make a claim for a large contribution deduction or claim a state income tax payment out of proportion to your income or claim a sales tax deduction out of proportion to your income without some explanation such as car purchase, that you are going to be audited.

Likewise, a very heavy medical expense deduction would occasion an audit as would interest expense out of all proportion to your income.

I have an idea that a large casualty or theft loss would trigger an audit as well as any large miscellaneous item.

Page 2 of Form 1040, at line 34, says enter the number of persons listed on lines 8 and 9 (dependents) who are:

1. Filing a return of their own, or

2. did not live at your principal place of residence at the end of the year.

If you answer this question other than none, or if you fail to answer the question, I believe that you are going to get an inquiry.

The IRS, has found that some people claim children for whom they are paying child support and that the other divorced parent is also claiming the children, which makes a double deduction. Also, they are looking for people who are claiming dependents who earn over half of their own support.

There are other items on your tax return which I believe would trigger an audit and I'm sure that the computer makes it easy to pick these out.

Now, more than ever, it is vitally important to fill in your tax return fully and completely and where there is a doubtful item, you should attach a separate schedule to your tax return explaining this fully. Then, hopefully, when the return is pulled for audit, one of the reviewers will read the explanation and decide that there is no point in further auditing.

Market On The Rebound Following Drop Yesterday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traders pushed stocks higher during the first two hours today onqthe New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was active.

Airlines Report November Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) —Two major airlines Monday reported poorer results for November than a year ago. Trans World Airlines said it had a $3.2 million loss in November against a loss of $361,000 last year when it benefitted from a non-recurring after tax adjustment of $9 million.

Eastern Air Lines had earnings of only $222,000 in November compared with $2.7 million a year ago.

The market's action reflected recovery from the dip Thursday, which followed a sizeable three-day advance. Analysts said the decline was not unexpected in view of the list's quick spiral upward.

Most active issue was Alcan Aluminum, up ½ to 24 ¾ on 128,500 shares traded.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also moved higher in active trading. Topping the active list was Loews warrants, off ⅜ to 18 ½ on 56,000 shares.

On the Big Board, the electronics group helped the blue chips spur the market, with several issues recording pickups of a point or more. Among them were IBM up 3¾, Motorola 1⅞, Westinghouse 1⅜ andGeneral Electric 1½.

Seven-Eleven Food Chain Eyes Paradise Shopping Center Site

The Seven-Eleven Food Store chain is applying for a new store at Paradise Shopping Center in Corte Madera, but the plans are still under review by Corte Madera town officials.

The Southland Corporation, which operates the chain, is buying property at 3 El Camino Drive (next to the service station at the corner of El Camino and Paradise Drive), subject to approval of plans by the town.

The company wants to build a new Seven-Eleven store with 2,200 square feet of space. Charles Murphy of Belmont, the company's real estate manager for the North and East Bay, said he hopes to build the new store by this fall, if the plans are approved.

Seven-Eleven now has 11 stores in Marin, and the one in Paradise Shopping Center would be the 12th.

SWEDEN HOUSE Conditori Bakery at 35 Main Street in Tiburon has been purchased by Bo Brink of Mill Valley and his sister-in-law, Elisabeth Stromberg of Tiburon.

The new owners will drop the word "Conditori" and re-open as the Sweden House Bakery.

Brink has eight years of experience operating bakeries and coffee shops in Sweden, plus training at pastry schools in Sweden, Switzerland and in London.

The new owners plan to increase the variety of pastries, specializing in Swedish and European pastries and cakes. They will have fresh baked bread and decorated cakes for parties and weddings. Brink and Miss Stromberg will also have a coffee shop serving Scandinavian-type open face sandwiches. In the future, they hope to expand their lunch menu with salads and other foods.

Brink and his family came from Sweden to Mill Valley more than two years ago. While in Sweden, he catered for the Swedish Royal House and won recognition for quality work from the Swedish bakers' organization.

The new owners bought the bakery this month from Inga Lill Larsson of Belvedere and Nellie and Maryland Ostgren of San Francisco.

JACK D. HARRISON of Corte Madera has been promoted to assistant vice president of the Bank of California's information services division in San Francisco.

Harrison joined the information services division of the bank in September of 1971 as manager of technical services. He is currently attending the University of San Francisco, where he is majoring in business administration.

RON MARINOFF of Upper Lucas Valley has been elected to the boar of directors of the Home Furnishings Representatives Association of Northern California.

He is a representative for Bassett Furniture Industries, furniture manufacturer with plants in 11 states and headquarters in Bassett, Va. Bassett has a 13,000 square foot showroom in the Western Merchandise Mart in San Francisco.

Marinoff is also president of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association and battalion chief of the Marinwood Volunteer Fire Department.

FLORA L. SCOTT of Mill Valley has developed a new invention which is now being introduced to manufacturers.

The invention is a dual function electrical wall switch plate with material such as cork or suede covering its outer surface so that it can be used as a miniature bulletin board where notes can be pinned. Decorativein appearance, it can be installed at home, in offices, factories or anywhere else.

"You can pin notes on the electrical switch plate on the wall just as you enter the door where it cannot be missed," said Mrs. Scott. "It's very attractive and practical. If you leave a note on the table, it can be missed or might blow away."

Mrs. Scott is now negotiating for its sale or licensing to interested manufacturers with the aid of the Raymond Lee Organization of New York, which specializes in the development and introduction of inventions to industry.

A resident of Mill Valley since 1927, Mrs. Scott is aretired home economics teacher who taught at Tamalpais High School for 24 years and at Drake High School for two years.

RETAIL SALES this year should be better than in 1972, according to a survey by the Bureau of Advertising in New York.

The survey revealed that more than nine out of ten respondents expect sales to increase this year, and that more than seven out of ten expect to expand their advertising budgets also, and newspapers will be the No. 1 ad medium again this year.

INVESTING

Stop Order Application Explained

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Last winter I purchased 100 shares of General Mills (NYSE), now worth about 20 points more than I paid. How can I protect my investment against a price decline? — G.B.

A. There are two trading tools which professionals use to protect profits, neither entirely satisfactory. Your broker can place a stop order or a stop limit order at a price several points below the current trading level. In the case of the stop order, if the security drops to the pre-set price, the stop order becomes a market order and is executed. However, if an influx of sell orders prevents the specialist from being able to sell at the desired level, the transaction will be made at a lower price. A stop limit order is similar but the limit prevents the sale from being executed at a price lower than the pre-set one. In a sharp downturn, your order would be executed either at the agreed price or not at all. Both methods involve risk and are of limited value for the average investor.

I have 200 shares of Banister Continental (ASE) for which I paid $11 and $14. I am retired and can manage without getting any dividends. However, should I have the money invested in a dividend paying stock? — L.M.

A. Since 1971 your investment has appreciated 164 per cent. For this type of performance investors are generally willing to forego dividends. Until the need for extra income arises, I would suggest continued retention of these speculative shares. In the first half of Banister's fiscal year, which will end March 31, earnings jumped 93 per cent on a 65 per cent gain in sales. Per share results were $1.02 versus $0.53 in the year-earlier period.

Some 88 per cent of revenues and 96 per cent of income is derived from oil and gas pipeline construction; computer leasing provides the balance. A recent contract award from Trans Canada Pipeline is thought to be worth in the area of $40 million. If and when the Alyeska Pipeline gets a favorable Supreme Court ruling, Banister will be an aggressive bidder on that $2 billion project.

Bel Marin Contract Awarded

Directors of the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District have awarded contracts to build a tidal lock at Bel Marin Keys Lagoon and for lagoon dredging.

Duncanson-Harrelson Co. of Oakland won a contract Wednesday to construct the lock at a cost of $651,000 and Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco will perform the dredging at a cost of $242,350, according to Betty L. Soeller, district secretary.

Both firms were low bidders when bids were opened in November. Dredging is scheduled to start Jan. 18 and lock construction, Jan. 23.

Voters passed a $700,000 bond issue last January to finance the projects and the district has been accumulating dredging funds through taxes during the past several years.

Directors adjourned until their regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday at the community center.

Francisco Boulevard Master Plan Due

A group of Francisco Boulevard property owners yesterday declared they will form a Francisco Boulevard Association and prepare a master plan for the area.

The mater plan could include proposals for undergrounding, a new sign ordinance tougher than current city standards, widening of the boulevard to four lanes and massive landscaping, according to county Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, a group spokesman.

Roumiguiere said about 12 property owners decided yesterday to approach neighbors with the association idea. Funds from an initiation fee of $100 would be used to retain San Rafael architect Robert W. F. Severin to draw the master plan.

Severin already has located 50 locations on Francisco Boulevard where large trees may be planted to make an immediate impact on the congested and sign-crowded thoroughfare, he said.

Nixon Plans Quiet 60th Birthday Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will be 60 years old Tuesday and is expected to mark the occasion with a family dinner party at Camp David, Md.

Both of the President's daughters will be back from European trips in time for the dinner. Aides said the celebration would be "a quiet family affair."

Four Named To Grand Juries

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three Marinites and a Cotati resident have been named to two 23-member federal grand juries.

Members of one panel, which will concern itself with what was described as "regular-type" federal crimes, are Iris Giacotto of Corte Madera, hospital housekeeper; Louis G. Page Jr. of Cotati, a pipefitter, and James Roat of Novato, an offset pressman.

Named to the other jury, which will deal more with drug offenses, was Marilyn J. Nelder of Fairfax, wife of Lee Nelder, Fairfax city councilman and a San Francisco police official.

The panels will serve until April.

$40,000 Sought Over Paddling

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — The mother of a 9-year-old girl has filed a $40,000 damage suit against school officials for the paddling of her daughter while she was playing on the school grounds.

Mrs. Ruby McDowell charged in the Superior Court suit that her girl, Debra Lynn, was playing last June 12 when she was "dragged" down the corridor to an office by teachers and spanked wit a board.

She accused teachers R. Bessard and R. Cantrell of assault and battery and sought $15,000 general damages and $25,000 punitive damages from them, Superintendent Cecil E. Harris and the Fresno Colony School District.

Life For Heroin Pushers Is Asked

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has proposed mandatory life prison sentences for convicted heroin pushers and giving informants $1.000 rewards turning them in.

"We have tried every possible approach to stop addiction...we have allocated over $1 billion...we have achieved very little permanent rehabilitation and found no cure.

"This has got to stop. This is going to stop," Rockefeller told the opening session of the 1973 state legislature.

Ohio Considers Newsman Shield

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — An Amendment has been proposed to the Ohio Constitution which would forbid all courts to require newsmen to disclose confidential news sources.

The resolution offered by state Rep. William G. Batchelder would shield any "person engaged in the work of, connected with, or employed by any newspaper, press association, or radio or television station for the purpose of gathering, procuring, compiling, editing, disseminating or publishing news" who obtain the information uring the course of their employment.

Newsman Is Seeking Review Of Contempt

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — newsman Peter Bridge has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review his contempt sentence for refusing to reveal confidential sources before a grand jury.

The appeal announced Wednesday asked the high court to review a New Jersey appeals court decision holding Bridges in contempt for refusing to answer questions put to him by an Essex County grand jury investigating alleged corruption in the Newark Housing Authority.

Actions Of Courts Curb Public Right

As the first week of a new year draws to its close, Los Angeles reporter William Farr remains in jail for refusal to tell a judge the source of information he published during the Manson murder trial.

Farr was jailed for an indeterminate sentence by Judge Charles H. Older of Los Angeles Superior Court — a sentence that could be longer than Charles Manson's. Farr has not been charged with any crime, only with refusal to betray a confidence.

UP AND DOWN California, and in other states, other courts within the past month have struck at the public's right to inquire into and be informed about criminal matters — a right based on the guarantee of public trial embodied 758 years ago in the Magna Charta.

ITEM: John F. Lawernce, Los Angeles Times bureau chief in Washington, was jailed last month for refusing to turn over to a federal court the tapes of an interview with a figure in the Watergate bugging case. He was released next day to await a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court. He may be returned to jail if the Supreme Court decides the jailing was legal.

ITEM: in Oakland last month, Judge Robert L. Bostick barred spectators, including the press, from portions of the Hell's Angeles murder trial, claiming "it is within the discretion of the trial judge to exclude the public whenever circumstances warrant it."

ITEM: In Los Angelss last month, KFWB reporter Jim Mitchell was subpoenaed by a grand jury and ordered to produce tapes of interviews he conducted in preparing a series on corrupt bail bond practices. The district attorney subsequently told Mitchell he need not appear on the date specified, but the subpoena has not been withdrawn.

ITEM: In Chattanooga, Tenn., last month, television broadcaster Harry Thornton was jailed without bond by Judge Tillman Grant of Criminal Court for refusing to disclose the name of a talk show telephone caller who criticized performance of the county grand jury. Higher courts in Tennessee proved more cognizant of constitutional rights than has the California Supreme Court in the Farr case, for they ordered bail set and Thornton was released on bail after three days.

ALL THESE ACTIONS strike at a very fundamental right: the right of the public to know what's going on.

"Public trial" is meaningless if a judge can bar the public whenever he wishes. The ends of justice are not served by gag orders. And as Justice Tom C. Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court observed in the Sheppard case decision.

"The press does not simply publish information about trails, but guards against the miscarriage of justice, subjecting police, prosecutors and judical processes to extensive scrutiny and criticism."

When courts attempt to throttle such scrutiny, they open the way toward the secret arrests, secret trials and secret punishments that distinguish tyranny and abolish freedom.

That is why it is a crime that William Farr remains in jail. It was no crime that he refused to betray a confidence.

Wilted Landscape

Marin looks a bit sad now. Many plants, vines and shrubs badly nipped by recent frosts are drooping, brown and wilted. Do not despair, however, for the fragile thing called life probably survives in the roots of all but the most delicate. Come warm weather and longer days, they should sprout forth green and lovely once again.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

'Evaluation Guidelines' Lead To Lower Education Quality

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, California State University, San Jose)

Much is being said these days about the quality of instruction in public education. To achieve higher standards, it is believed that much deadwood, the unproductive, hangers-on, and those who can do nothing else but take up space on a public payroll via a teaching position must be eliminated.

But that simply is not the way it works.

IN CALIFORNIA virtually every public school system is engaged in working out procedures to implement the so-called Stull and Rodda bills. The Stull bill was designed to upgrade instruction in grades kindergarten through 12, while the Rodda bill extends the same kind of intent through the two-year community colleges.

This educator does not question the good intentions of either Assemblyman John Stull, a Republican, or Sen. Albert S. Rodda, a Democrat, in their efforts to improve the quality of California education. But to one who is in daily contact with public school teachers and school board members, it is clear that not only is it being recognized that the Stull and Rodda acts are unworkable, but that the legislation is so permeated with escape hatches that it may have the effect of lowering the quality of education in California.

Generally, here is how the legislation functions: A teacher formulates the objectives she hopes to achieve in working with students assigned to her. The objectives are stated in terms of student performance. Thus, a teacher who spends one semester, trimester, or other stated period of time reports that after working for 30 minutes per day on a given subject that a stipulated percentage of the students will be able to master 40, 50, 60 or any other per cent of the subject matter studies.

HOW COULD SUCH a plan have the effect of lowering the quality of instruction or reducing educational standards?

Teachers, in conference with the principal or other designated administrator, decide together what the measurable level of performance should be within stipulations agreed upon. What if a teacher believes that 90 per cent of her charges will master 95 per cent of the subject matter after one semester of teaching? It would be professional suicide for her to agree to such a commitment. Because of the many variables in teaching it might turn out that only 45 per cent of her students achieve 80 per cent proficiency. The teacher might be subjected to any one of a variety of punitive measures.

So, teachers are playing it safely. They are setting their expectations for student performance very low — Much lower than may be justified when considering the ability of children and youth. The performance or behavioral objectives are being set at levels that students will be sure to exceed. Consequently, teachers are not going to place themselves in vulnerable positions to become focal points for punitive actions.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Emergency Room Care Wins Plaudits

On Dec. 28, my wife developed an unquenchable nosebleed, and our family doctor directed us to the emergency room at Marin General to meet with an ENT physician. This we did with much apprehension, as we had heard reports of indifferent treatment and long waits at the E.R.

I would like to state publicly that these reports are not true, as my wife received very courteous and expeditious treatment in spite of the lateness of the hour, and the fact that it was during a holidy period. Kudos are definitely in order. . .

Let no one doubt that if you are in need of medical care in an emergency, you will receive the best at Marin General's emergency room.

Some Who Contributed During 1972 Remembered

Before most of us get used to 1973, I feel the public should be reminded of several fine community contributions and persons who served us so well during 1972 and in prior years.

First, Marin has been fortunate in having such fine and honorable civic servants as John McInnis and Harry Barbier serve us for so many years. The untimely death of our supervisor, and of our city councilman, at the prime of their lives, has been a tremendous loss to Marin County, and on a personal note, to all those who knew these fine men and worked with them. . .

Secondly, heartfelt thanks to all of the dedicated directors of the Terra Linda Community Service District, who have served that community so well for so many years. I know that these same people will be great community contributors in so many ways now that they have been incorporated into San Rafael. Special thanks should be given to Chief Wolser and all of the young men who worked with him in the Terra Linda Fire Department. This department has been a "big brother" to the citizens in northwest San Rafael, who were isolated by Terra Linda.

And thirdly, a great thank you to our county. . .for giving us the beautiful Marin Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center. This building is a thing of beauty inside, and has given the citizens a pleasant place in which to enjoy excellent entertainment. . .

Friends Of Arequipa Find Reporting Accurate

On behalf of the volunteers for the Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa, I want to thank the I-J and especially Don Keown for the accurate reporting and excellent pictures that appeared in Marin Magazine Dec. 30. Though the work of the volunteer for the Marin Foundation is most rewarding in itself, we are more than pleased to have this public exposure.

'74 Campaign Under Way; Government Just Sideline

By RUS WALTON

It seems like only yesterday — or, not more than last week — that the politicians were traipsing through the hinterlands, dragging their tales behind them

But, those were the campaigns of 1972

Now they are already cranking up for 1974.

I thought we paid those fellas to work, down there in Babylon by the Sacramento. I'm beginning to think the whole thing is one big advertising agency running year 'round campaigns, with a little government thrown in on the side.

IT MUST BE NICE to run for office while you're on the public payroll.

Just once it would be refreshing to have some fella run for something because the people wanted him — and needed him. But that is out of style these days. Now it's "I want to be this" and "I want to be that." Holding office these days is not so much a public service as it is a way to make a living.

There's a dearth of ability but no shortage of candidates. Look at the list for 1974 — so far.

At least seven Democrats want to be the next governor.

THERE'S JUMPING Joe Alioto, mayor of San Francisco. He almost got a look at the race in 1970. He'll probably make a go for it this next time.

And there's Sec. of State Edmund G. 'Gerry' Brown Jr. He wants to follow in his daddy's footsteps. If you think Pat was a disaster, Patsy would be a debacle'

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti has already built himself a pot full of campaign gold, plus blood-oaths from legislators who savored his monetary favors in last year's campaigns.

Governor Reagan gave Moretti's candidacy a boost recently when he helped push through the so-called Moretti-Reagan tax shift bill. Moretti is already taking credit for doing what others could not do over the past six years.

State Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco wants to be guv. He is driving his Cadillac convertible all over left field trying to pick up support.

And then there's Congressman (former Assemblyman) Jerome Waldie of Antioch. He recently took on the Blue Shield and Blue Cross in an effort to build some name recognition south of Oakland.

THERE ARE ALMOST as many cats in the Republican bag.

Bob Finch, former lieutenant governor and former presidential advisor who bowed out as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is setting up shop in Los Angeles, trying to rebuild his old gang.

State Controller Houston Flournoy says he's leaning toward the gubernatorial race. But he might just run for re-election as controller. It depends on whether Finch runs for governor, or goes against U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, former congressman, has been running for governor ever since Governor Reagan crowned him heir-apparent in 1969. Reinecke is putting together an organization to be managed by Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's former communications director.

Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger hankers to be governor, some day. But he's smart enough to think that 1974 might just be a Democratic year. Younger will probably run for re-election to his present ost.

A BUNCH OF OTHER Republicans are waiting to play musical chairs.

Bob Monagan, Assembly minority leaders, and John Veneman, former assemblyman and deputy secretary of HEW, have their eyes on the lieutenant governor's race.

So does Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield of Downey. He was the author of Proposition 21, the anti-busing initiative.

Assemblyman Bill Bagley, San Rafael, talks about running for state controller, if Flournoy does go for governor.

Like I said, politics is some business.

What Sort Of Year Was It? Repressive, For Russian Citizens

WASHINGTON — Soviet leaders are showing themselves increasingly fearful of the modest demands of the Russian people for just a little more freedom — to speak, to be heard, and to have something to say about their own government.

We are witnessing a revealing facet of Soviet policy. The Kremlin is reaching out to liberalize its contacts with the West and is accompanying this move by suppressing more strongly the voices of those who want more freedom within the Soviet Union.

Liberalization abroad, more repression at home — they appear to be going hand in hand. There is a current Moscow joke which tells the tale of what is happening to Soviet democratic dissidents:

"What sort of a year was 1972, comrade?"

"An average year, comrade."

"What do you mean, an average year?"

"Well, it's worse than last year, but better than next."

HERE ARE THE ACTIONS which make this story sad but true:

The Soviet favored the idea of a European Security Conference to further detente between Eastern and Western Europe. But when the parties gathered at Helsinki, the Soviet spokesmen totally opposed anything approaching a free exchange of ideas between East and West. They tried to shut off the Romanians who rather liked the idea.

The Kremlin launched a pervasive harassment of the democratic movement, recently arrested one of its leaders, Pyotr Yakir, and has tried, only in part successfully, to erase the underground press.

Russian scientists, writers and scholars can no longer safely accept invitations to travel abroad. What happened to Valery Chalidze in the United States a few days ago can happen to others. He was granted a Soviet passport but when in the United States was informed he couldn't return to his homeland.

Russian dissidents, who make the mistake of assuming that the civil rights grandly set out in the Soviet constitution are for them, find freedom is not for them. And if they are too aggressive, they are committed to government insane asylums on the ground they must be insane to believe in freedom.

The too-outspoken poet, Yuri Galanskov, died of physical mistreatment.

AND THERE IS STILL another desperate action to keep the Russian people from knowing what is going on in their own country. There is now a ban on internal telephone conversations "held to be contrary to the interests of the state." Thus the Krelin seeks to make sure that;when some natural disaster, some accident, some riot or protest takes place in one city, the news can't easily be passed along by telephone.

Life for the average Russian citizen is easier today and more secure than at any time since the 1920s. But with the one important exception — ending massive, indiscriminate political terror — all the post-Stalin changes affect only economic life.

The political structure of the system, its methods of governing, the relationships between party and people — all these have remained practically unchanged. Today they are just as Stalin molded them. Undoubtedly the political and economic stagnation of recent years stems in large part from the total resistance to political change inside the system.

ROBERT CONQUEST, editor of Soviet Analyst and one of the best Sovietologists, advances this conclusion:

"The country has probably reached the limit of the reforms that could be instituted within the rigid framework of the unchanging Stalinist political system.

"To move any further, the party would have to relax the absolute tutelage that it has exercised over the people for so many decades and to allow some rudimentary degree of popular participation."

To that possibility the Kremlin is today saying more doggedly than ever: Nyet!

Save Tear (Crocodile Variety) For Poor, Mis-used Developer

WASHINGTON — While you are weeping for resolutions unkept, checking accounts suddenly unbalanced, Christmas trees burnt and inches added, save a tear for a class of gentlemen across America who are self-described as "hardship" cases.

A crocodile tear.

For the citizens appealing for your sympathy are not really qualified for relief among the 400 or even four million neediest. Their cries sound that way, may tug at the heart like those of a penniless widow thrown into the street in midwinter. But they are not cold and hungry. They are merely facing the prospect that at long last the people are going to limit the recklessness with which speculators can abuse the land to run up their profit margins.

I SPEAK, for example, of the developers who want to build money-minting hotels, homes and condominiums nearly overhanging the surf along the Atlantic shore in and near Ocean City, Md. They are not satisfied to build up to a line following the protective sand dunes along the beach, beyond which the state insists that public access to the ocean must be preserved. They know that the more beach they cover with building, the more square feet they can rent or sell, ergo: The state, acting for the overwhelming majority of the people, is a villain.

I speak also of the public-spirited landowner who has 26 wooded acres along a county line over in Virginia, described as the only remaining potential park land in that section of the Washington metropolitan area. This philanthropist is trying to squeeze $2.7 million out of the park authority for the tract, and that is $1 million more than the authority has been able to offer.

Nobody denies his right to quibble over price, though they might call his exorbitant. But he is tired of quibbling, and during the holidays he called in a crew to start cutting down the groves of hardwoods, many more than a century old, apparently just to give the negotiations a little nudge. If the authority does not meet his price promptly, he is going to complete the cutting and build a 108-unit luxury subdivision, which is just what this part of the world needs more of.

That may be just what it gets, too, in this case, for the park authority could not produce the money by this writing. In the Maryland situation, court cases are pending and the legislature is going to take up the matter of statewide land-use laws at the session forthcoming. The developers may win, as they have been in the habit of doing in the past, and they may not. But they are not going to keep up that habit indefinitely.

THAT, I BELIEVE, is the clear meaning of what has happened around the country during this past year. The people who care about the land continue to win a few and lose a lot, but the pendulum is swinging. A decade ago cases like the two I just described were as plentiful as now, but resistance to the developers was isolated. The developers' prevalence was taken for granted, as if ordained by God "Property rights" rode supreme and seldom challenged. You read only an occasional word about such controversies, and then usually when it was all over.

Now the people are aroused, and organized, and the papers are full of it.

The federal government, even in this business-oriented administration, is playing a leading role through its Environmental Protection Agency. State governments, one by one, are realizing that uniform and consistent policy putting the at-large good above the private privilege is mandatory now, not later. Out in California, a landmark court decision has brought private developers as well as public projects under the requirement to file environmental impact statements before proceeding. To hear the builders wail, you would think the world had been ordered to a stop.

But it is not the world that is affected, only the builders. And they have not been ordered to stop, only to slow down, and to show some respect for the land when they are allowed to proceed. Under those circumstances, the world will go along quite nicely, thank you

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 5, 1963

The Redwood National Bank opened for business at Fourth and E streets, San Rafael.

A Katangese army of 1,000 marched on Elisabethville from the border of Northern Rhodesia, threatening new fullscale war in the Congo.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 5, 1953

Gov. Earl Warren asked the California Legislature to study the Reber Plan for an earth barrier across the northern arm of San Francisco Bay.

William D. Fusselman replaced T. Fred Bagshaw as chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, ending 12 years of Bagshaw's chairmanship.

General Plan Population Goals Recall Border Patrol Of '30s

Blizzard: (1) A heavy and prolonged snowstorm covering a wide area. (2) A violent windstorm with a dry, driving snow and intense cold. That's what they are having, as I write this, in Kansas and the other prairie states.

I was born in a small town in the southwest corner of Kansas. My mother once told me of such a storm. My dad and two other young men owned a hardware and house furnishing store about two blocks from the cottage, complete with cyclone cellar alongside. The storm broke just before closing time and dad, whose turn it was to close up, started for home. It should have taken him about 15 minutes, but in the blinding blizzard he lost his sense of direction. He thought he was a goner. Mother had put a lamp in the window and after about an hour of going in circles, he saw it. It was such things as this which decided them to come west. And thousands of others, for similar reasons, have done the same thing.

ARE WE, with this general plan, going to, in essence, carry on in Marin as the Los Angeles police did a couple of decades ago, when they turned back at the state line those who were leaving the dust bowl?

It wonders one when this is read in the Wednesday I-J: "The board also directed Planning Director Werner von Gundell to begin necessary zoning changes to bring land use designations into conformity with those outlined in the plan once adopted."

"Under state law, all city and county zoning must be consistent with an adopted general plan by July 1."

The following paragraph preceded the two just quoted: "Supervisors yesterday directed the county planning commission to hold its hearings during February and March and forward its recommendations to the board for hearings during April and May."

THIS HAS EVERY appearance that the board of supervisors will only do some rubber stamping. Otherwise why,"... direct Planning Director Werner von Gundell to begin necessary zoning changes to bring... into conformity with those outlined in the plan once adopted"?

There are some skull-popping questions flitting around as one contemplates all that's been said regarding the plan. Does the July 1 deadline mean that the plan will be frozen as passed by the supervisors? If so, what did von Gundell mean in his letter to the editor of Dec. 27: "... The financing gaps, which exist between some of the plan's goals and the assumed revenue sources, are a cause for concern... We have to work hard to close these gaps, or if unsuccessful, to revise the goals of the plan in the future"?

Surely the Legislature didn't intend to freeze everything in the state as of July 1. If they didn't, will just a skeleton draft be enough at that date? Is there a penalty involved if the deadline is not met?

This board has not been involved as it should be. As an example, the question can be asked: If the economy cuts they so eagerly jumped to institute are valid now, why weren't they at budget time? What was the administrator doing that he didn't reflect them in the budget he presented?

Plea Of Innocent Is Entered To Hashish Charge

A 38-year-old Muir Beach man, who accepted a package from Nepal containing three-and-a-half pounds of hashish, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony possession of the drug.

Preliminary hearing for Gerald Nathan Pearlman was set for Jan. 23.

A sheriff's lieutenant arrested him at his home Dec. 13 after a package containing the contraband was delivered to him. Inside the box was a blanket, purse and a religious plaque in which customs agents in New York City found the drug, according to Lt. Richard Gaddini.

The marijuana derivative would have sold for more than $3,000, according to Gaddini.

Five Are Nominated As 'Citizen Of Year'

Five Novato residents have been nominated for the 1972 "Citizen of the Year" award to be presented at the city's 13th birthday party at the community house Jan. 20.

The city also will present awards for outstanding design of commercial, public and residential projects and recognize those who have served on city commissions and committees.

The event, sponsored by the city and chamber of commerce, will start with no-host cocktails at 5 p.m., then dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing at 9 p.m.

Nominees for outstanding citizen are:

Leroy Gerner, president of the Novato Civic Foundation, who was instrumental in creating the Novato Creek demonstration project, since named Gerner Park.

Jerry A. Cannon, former member of the Novato Plan Review Committee and city housing committee, who has been a leader in conservation.

Gail Wilhelm, a city planning commissioner, who was a leader in the drive to have Rancho Olompali registered as a state landmark.

Charles Lewis, chairman of the Downtown Implementation and Business Advisory Committee and past president of the chamber of commerce, who has been active in various civic projects.

Reuben W. Kaehler, a builder, who donated the profits of a "dream house" to the Novato Boy's Club.

The chamber reported that limited reservations will close Jan. 15.

Human Origins Theories Campaign Is Started

A San Rafael woman is leading a campaign to get explanations of human origins other than the Darwinian evolution theory included in state science textbooks.

The California State Board of Education at its December meeting instructed a committee to prepare proposals for revising new science texts to eliminate dogmatic statements in regard to evolution. The board's resolution as adopted did not specify, however, that the existence of other theories of the descent of man should be recognized in the textbooks.

Alice Vipiano of 337 Mountain View Avenue, who was among advocates of inclusion of the theory of creation who appeared before the board, announced today she is distributing to political organizations, individuals, and state legislators a call for reintroduction of a resolution that "all theories of origin which can be explained in scientific terms be presented to the science student."

That resolution was offered by board member Eugene Ragle of Auburn but amended when he was unable to get the necessary votes for passage.

The committee's report on revision of the science texts is to be received at the state board's January meeting.

Lions District Governor To Visit

Jack M. Barnes of Woodacre, district governor of Lions International District 4-C2, will visit the Larkspur Lions Club at its meeting Wednesday at noon at the Blue Rock Inn.

On his official annual visit, Barnes will report on Lions projects throughout the district, which has more than 3,000 members in 73 clubs in Northern California, said Larkspur Lions' president Paul Schaefer.

Jail Term Given In Check Case

A 23-year-old San Francisco man, who passed two stolen checks worth $650 at the Redwood Bank in San Rafael, has been ordered to spend six months in jail and repay the bank.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed Michael John Ontiveros on probation for two years and ordered him to submit to drug testing at the discretion of his probation officer.

Ontiveros passed the checks on June 28, 1971, but was not arrested until March 29, 1972, when San Francisco police booked him on another matter and learned a Marin warrant was outstanding.

His sentence was the result of a plea bargaining session involving judge, district attorney and defense attorney.

Newsword Adventures

In the past few years citizens in all parts of the country have brought ecology problems to the headlines. "Ecology" is a form of a Greek word meaning house or dwelling. The term was applied to this particular branch of biology in the late 1800's. Ecology is concerned with the interrelationships between plants and animals and the environment in which they all exist. This discipline assumes that nothing can live in isolation. All organisms, including humans, are dependent on other organisms.

Nixon's Cousin Will Miss Inauguration

GRASS VALLEY (UPI) — A cousin of President Nixon says he won't be able to attend the President's second-term inauguration because "it's too costly" but eight other local relatives are planning to make the trip.

Phillip Milhous, a first cousin of the President, said he was invited to the Jan. 20 ceremonies in Washington but "I can't go because it's too costly. We (he and his wife) just don't have good enough health or the money to go."

Both Milhous and his wife, Anna, are disabled and receive disability payments. His wife also receives welfare benefits.

However, eight other Nixon relatives from nearby North San Juan in Nevada County plan to attend the inauguration. Richard Milhous, who along with his father, Oliver, operates a boys' ranch, said the group will fly to Washington on a chartered jet but will pay its own fare.

Oliver and his brother, Calvin, are first cousins of the President. They plan to attend the inauguration with their wives. Richard Milhous, his wife and two of their three children also will make the trip.

Phillip recalled how Nixon in his youth in Southern California "was just like the rest of us—a first cousin.

"I took his place in the grocery store in Whittier when he went back to college at the end of the summer. I haven't seen him lately, but he has written us several letters.

"He's one of the family but he's got a lot on his shoulders right now," Milhous said.

Reason Behind Soviet Visit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The national commander of the American Legion says his recent 10-day visit to the Soviet Union was taken as a means to insure peace.

"We're living in a new period," said Joe Matthews. "The '70s are going to be a time in which we will have to make a decision to learn to live together."

Matthews also reaffirmed his group's support of President Nixon's bombing policies in Vietnam but he said the organization does not agree with all of the President's views, including the proposed ending of the draft.

Sabin Will Leave Israeli Institute

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Dr. Albert Sabin, developer of the oral polio vaccine, will retire later this year as president of Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel, it was announced Wednesday.

Sabin has headed the institute since Jan. 1, 1970. For 30 years prior to that he had directed the Cincinnati Children's Hospital Research Foundation. The oral polio vaccine was developed there in 1955.
